The Aiken Journal and Review is calling for "the man." It is not doubted that he may be right there, but it is desired that he "come forward and proclaim himself." The purpose for which he is wanted is to make the people of Aiken build an opera house.

Mr. N. Rogers Baily has become editor and proprietor of the Batesburg Advocate. Mr. John Bell Towill will still be connected with the paper as associate editor. Mr. Towill has made a good live paper, and Mr. Baily promises to make it even better.

To be the victim of pick pockets is not so disreputable as losing one's money gambling, and the losers average better in the scale of society, as they range all the way from preachers and farmers down to editors. Still the good company does not altogether compensate for the loss.

The confetti nuisance has been prohibited at the state fair this week, under a penalty of $40. Now the desecrating, nerve-wrecking horns should be taken up by the city authorities. They might pass a kind of sweepstakes ordinance to cover all the inventions of idiots that are intended to annoy peaceable people.

A Trip to Fair.
As it was my privilege to attend the state fair, I will give a few items which may be of interest to those who did not attend. With a number of others from Chester, and several who came in on the Lancaster train, we boarded the 7:45 morning train, which was several minutes late. Another coach was added here and passengers were taken on at every station. At Adgers, where we met the up passenger, two more coaches were added. At Digits, six miles this side of Columbia, we were side-tracked and had to wait some time on a special vegetable train, making it nearly eleven when we reached Columbia. We were met at the Union depot by our friend, Mr. J. W. Gilliam and taken to his pretty home on Elmwood Ave., near the fair grounds. The afternoon was spent with his family and watching the crowds on the street and in the fair grounds. That night we took a street car ride to the state house. Main street was nicely decorated and beautifully lit up with electric and gas lights. A side-show was stationed at every corner from the state house some distance down on each side of the street and large crowds ended at each place. We were almost deafened by horn-blowing by those who like a noise and we did not stay long on the street.

Wednesday we spent the day until 4 p. m. in the fair grounds. The agricultural department was not very full but there were some of the finest specimens of turnip-potatoes and beets we ever saw. I feel safe in saying that no one has seen of the stock varieties that would measure 18 inches in length and from 18 to 20 inches in circumference at the largest place. Rose Hill green house had a nice display of palms, ferns and other flowers, and the space occupied by these flowers was beautifully decorated with green leaves, long leaf pine and long moss. Upspers there was a nice display of cut flowers, some of the most beautiful dahlias, chrysanthemums and roses I have ever seen, but not a great variety of colors. There was a frame perhaps 2 feet square covered with green leaves except the centre, which was a carrier pigeon made of white chrysanthemums. There was also a cloth monkey covered with white chrysanthemums reaching for an apple in a can in front of it, and a bell made of yellow chrysanthemums over a small tower near the same place, which attracted a good deal of attention. There was a very nice display of quilts and other fancy work on the second floor. The art department was on the third floor and not very full.

We walked around by the streets of Cairo and the side shows near there, and saw some beautiful little ponies, some camel riding, and large snakes which were exhibited on the outside, but passed on to the livestock department, which was very full. There were some fine hogs, cows, hogs and sheep there from this county and some very fine ones from other places. The largest cow we ever saw was from Clemons county and weighed 2600 pounds. There were a few Holstein cattle there and a herd of 400 Jersey 400-50 Hereford cattle from Texas, a variety hereabout almost unknown in this part of the south but which command fancy prices in the north and west. A company from Ohio had some fine Jersey hogs and two or three varieties of fine sheep, some of which had wool to their hoofs and all over their faces, except around their mouth and nose, and their eyes could scarcely be seen. There were few Angora goats but we saw none of the common variety. There were also a few shepherd dogs. In the poultry department there was quite a display of geese, chickens, turkeys, pigeons and a few guinea and one fowl which seemed to be a cross between a guinea and chicken. A few rabbits and a few mice, one white and one a kind of dove color, were seen in the department. Much time was spent in watching the display of fine South Carolina raised horses and the riding and driving in the arena. About as pretty a thing as I saw was a small natural peach tree covered with large luscious looking peaches which were sold at 10c each for pin cushions. I enjoyed very much meeting so many friends whom I had not seen in some time and making new acquaintances. There was a jim and rush at the depot to get to the train and the pickpockets got in some good work. We left Columbia about 6 o'clock and arrived in Chester about 8:15, with many pleasant memories.

WHERE WORK IS A PLEASURE.

Health, Recreation and Profit Sharing for Employees—The Labor Problem as Solved at the Great Shoe Factory of the Thomas G. Plant Company—Improved Conditions Which Guarantee Industrial Peace.

In these days of strikes and lockouts, when it seems sometimes as if the whole country were in the midst of an industrial revolution, it is refreshing to turn to the consideration of another method of solving the labor problem—employer and employee, as successfully exemplified by the Thomas G. Plant Company at its great shoe factory in Boston.

Let it be clearly borne in mind that the chief cause of the present industrial conflicts is the disappearance of that old friendly relationship between master and men, which existed when the owner lived near his factory and went in and out daily among his workpeople.

Today, in great industrial establishments, such a personal relation is, perhaps, no longer possible; but there is another way of "getting together" and of having that friendly consideration which makes for industrial peace—and this the Thomas G. Plant Company has evidently studied the problem and splendidly mastered the solution.

It is only an elaboration of an old precept called the golden rule, but in point of fact it is sound business economics.

The "Queen Quality" shoe factory is not only the largest shoe factory in the world making women's fine shoes, but it is probably the most advanced and progressive in its methods.

Take, as a single feature, its profit sharing, sick and death relief and saving fund department, which is a model of organization. It operates along the lines of encouraging the workman to higher efforts. He receives special consideration in proportion as he is frugal, industrious, neat and constant at work. In the final division of profits, in promotions, in the matter of steady employment, and in all cases of discharge, preference is given to the most deserving members of this department. The "Book Regulations" is a model of what such regulations should be, and is to be heartily commended to every employer of labor.

Take another instance. One of the most successful of the co-operative departments is the recreation department. The gymnasium is very complete; it is in charge of professional instructors in the country. There is also a woman instructor from the Boston Normal School of Gymnastics. The methods of instruction are admirable. Sixty members can be drilled in every method of calisthenics in thirty minutes. Sixty bathers are provided, controlled from a central point, with devices for gradation of temperature of the water. All have separate dressing rooms. Sixty bathers are dried in a large hood by the hot fresh air system. There are four or five different classes of gymnasium. About one-half of the 2000 employees are members of the gymnasium.

The library and reading room is another feature. It is in charge of a regular assistant librarian. It is open at all times, and is a branch of the public library of the city of Boston.

The bowling alleys and billiard room for men, and the music, dance and recreation rooms for women, are especially described. They are very popular with the employes. There is a model lunch room, which supplies the employes with the most palatable and healthful food. The company provides for its operatives two free beds at the Emergency Hospital, and all cases requiring surgical attention are sent there, with no cost to the individual. If any of the factory's men, women or children are sick, they are taken sick on the premises; it is a rule made comfortable.

The Thomas G. Plant Company realized that it was good business policy to help the employe to health; that only working people of healthy mind and body do good work; that mind and body must play as well as work to be really efficient. Health is well of profits, not of strikes. For recreation, lunch and reading rooms (devoting to the above a total floor area of 100,000 square feet) and a system of fresh air ventilation which changes the air throughout the building every 15 minutes, workmen live in health and a marvel of cleanliness.

There are only outlines of some features of the system in force at the "Queen Quality" shoe factory, but they reveal certain industrial possibilities which are worth considering. With improved conditions comes industry, peace, health and profit. Health is well of profits, not of strikes. The employer who is making money prefers to keep things going smoothly. This motto is the motto of the Thomas G. Plant Company. Shoe factories have been notoriously the scenes of labor outbursts in the past, but the Thomas G. Plant Company, with its employees, shows that it is possible to have vastly improved conditions under the same management.

A LITTLE MONEY
TURNS SOME PEOPLE
BIG FOOLS

Now here in these United States today is this fact more in evidence than in any time in our history. Philadelphia, New York and Boston. Occasionally one of those magnificent mercantile war horses, after a high chase, through a whirlwind of slaughter and misrepresentation to the very top of the commercial ladder, falls on sleep, leaving his vast fortune in the hands of the manager. These inexperienced manipulators of other people's money, would know more about it, finding trails than managing the intricate mazes of commerce, and the last of night, they are at the horse races, the theatres and the gambling dens. Almost before they know what has happened they are smashed beyond recognition, then the melancholy song of the auctioneer tells of the final scene.

It is to our regret that these are we gathering our "Hard Hitters," with which we expect to parallel competition in whatever shape. In many instances we are selling goods at prices below the cost of actual production. Is it any wonder then that our store is nearly always crowded with customers. We are selling so cheap that we are regarded with suspicion by every merchant in this city.

Rev. and Mrs. R. M. Stevenson and youngest child came up on the South from Woodward Wednesday morning after having spent several days with Mr. Stevenson's relatives a few miles in the country. Mrs. Stevenson and child went on the C. & N. W. to their home in Clover and Mr. Stevenson stopped over in the city and will go down to Winstboro for the meeting of synod.

As appears in our Winstboro letter, Mr. W. H. Flenniken bought $57,000 worth of cotton in one day last week, and over $200,000 worth within his week. One of our printers had this set $200,000, but we thought better to trim that down a little, as South Carolina, with what little help Texas could give, would hardly be able to furnish so much as that.

Quite a number of both ladies and gentlemen boarded the North bound morning train Wednesday for Charlotte. On account of the wreck three miles above, they were sidetracked a short distance above the waiting room and remained there until four o'clock p. m. awaiting the train. About a dozen gentlemen went on and spent a few hours in Charlotte, but all the ladies except two got off and remained at home.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather there was only a small turnout at prayer meeting at the A. R. P. church Wednesday afternoon. Rev. R. M. Stevenson was present and made an interesting address on the character of Absalom, dividing it into four heads, viz: his vanity, his ambition, his shrewdness, as a politician and his hypocrisy. Rev. W. B. Lindsay, of Memphis, Tenn., was also present and at the request of the pastor, made an earnest prayer for the meeting of synod now in session at Winstboro and for Mrs. B. H. Grier and Mrs. W. H. Millen, wives of two of the A. R. P. ministers, who are both very ill.

Sledge-Woods Wedding.
 Purity Presbyterian church was the scene of a lovely wedding on Wednesday night. The church was elaborately decorated in pink and white Chrysanthemums. The pulpit was banked in lovely palms and ferns with a number of candles shining through the foliage. Then to the inspiring strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march the fair ribbon girls entered. "Two in white and two in pink, Misses Lotie Kluttz and Fannie Spratt, Kate Crawford and Carrie Wood. Then the ushers, Mr. Fred Culver and Dr. W. M. Kennedy, Messrs. Tom Spratt and Cez Spratt. The groom with his best man, Mr. Gus Drennen, entered from the vestry room and met the bride with her sister, Miss Mary Sledge, maid of honor, who was most becomingly attired in pink and carried pink roses. The bride was lovely in her gown of white organza with pearl trimmings. Her flowers were lilies of the valley and maiden hair ferns. They met under a beautiful arch in the shape of a heart, which was beautiful and artistic in pink and white flowers. Rev. D. N. McLaughlin performed the ceremony in his usual impressive style.

A reception was held at the home of the bride on West End, where this popular young couple received the congratulations of their friends.

To Arrive—Second shipment for this week—15 barrels fancy northern apples, 15 crates fancy North Carolina apples, 50 bushels Irish potatoes, and shipment of fancy Florida oranges. J. W. Reed.

Woman's Exchange.
 The Woman's Exchange was formally opened at noon Thursday in the room adjoining the public library.

The board of directors consisting of twenty-five ladies were present to exhibit the articles for sale.

There was a nice collection of home made jelly, pickles, preserves, salt yeast bread and many fancy articles. Hot chocolate and cake was served to all visitors.

The ladies of the town showed their appreciation of the movement by visiting the exchange in goodly numbers, buying freely and quite a number joined as consignees. The exchange is for the benefit of the library.

The consignees and directors were much encouraged at the close of the evening to find so many articles disposed of. One notable housekeeper, famous for her delicious salt yeast bread, got as many orders as she could fill in a day. Orders left with Mrs. Sloan secretary and treasurer will have prompt attention. We cordially invite the ladies to visit the exchange, which will be open every afternoon at 4 o'clock. The board of directors will meet Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Revs. W. B. Lindsay, C. B. Betts, D. D., J. C. Galloway, D. D., R. M. Stevenson, R. L. Robinson, J. R. Millen, E. P. Lindsay, T. P. Pressley, R. L. McDaniel, A. T. Lindvay, J. W. Carson and Messrs. E. W. and R. W. Carson, F. M. Simpson and perhaps other whose names we failed to get, went down to Winstboro yesterday to attend the meeting of the A. R. P. synod. Most of the delegates mentioned spent Wednesday night with friends in the city.

Coming and Going

In Buying Furniture

You Should get the following points settled beyond the Shadow of a doubt:

FIRST—That you are getting New Goods, goods that have not been sold on instalments and taken back. You run a great risk in purchasing any but perfectly new goods. Not a piece of Furniture that goes out of this store ever comes back in it after having been used and we absolutely guarantee every piece of Furniture in our store to be brand new. This is the only Furniture store in the town that can truthfully give you such a guarantee.

SECOND—Be sure you are getting the lowest price obtainable on the grade of goods you are buying. Get other people's prices and then come to us and we will show you the difference.

Our prices are at least 20 per cent lower than all others.

THIRD—That you are getting good bone dry furniture. You have to take the dealer's word for this. There's no way to tell it until you've used it. But if you buy ANYTHING from us that is not as represented we are always ready to make it satisfactory. We will not willfully deceive you. In the three years that we have been here we have never had any one to complain that we have practiced a deception upon them, but that a good record? Will be glad to have you come to see us at any time.
