Summer Session Plans Shape Up

Fraser Urges Early Inquiries For Course

The first reminder of"brighter, warmer days ahead" was made this week with the announcement of summer school classes to be offered at Winthrop for the coming session. The summer session has had a great appeal to many Winthrop students, as well as to teachers, and is expected to develop into a large and interesting feature of Winthrop's summer program. A number of Winthrop's faculty members have already expressed an interest in participating in the summer school and are looking forward to a successful session.

Dates Set For Artistic Series

Bankhead To Appear In "The Little Foxes"

After making a play selection and changing the title of two of the older members, the Senior Order committee announced that the second summer session will begin with Helen Keller on Thursday, May 2, and end with Lawrence Tolman on May 9.

Following Miss Keller's concert and "The Little Foxes" from the Lincoln School, other play selection will include "The Devil's Advocate." The play will be presented in the Broadway Hall auditorium, with a dress rehearsal on Thursday, May 1.

The selected plays will be "The Little Foxes," "The Devil's Advocate," and "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." The play will be presented in the Broadway Hall auditorium, with a dress rehearsal on Thursday, May 1. The announcement was made by Dean Mowat Fraser this week.
Winthrop students wanted to know what Winthrop students thought of their college. This was the week, lady, the present unknown condition to put those students in the "know". They wanted to get their own opinions. They read the opinions of others, but most of all, they wanted to know what their classmates thought. For this reason, the Winthrop student body was polled for their opinions on a variety of topics. Some girls came out strongly for exams; others were just as strongly against them. The conclusion of opinions seemed to be that exams are necessary, but that they could be given more efficiently. Comes January and comes again to the campus a double curse by two necessary processes—admission and quitting. We have to be thankful for the CAMPUS CURSES at the same time. We've come to accept exams as inevitable days of reckoning; but I'll hint little hard to become accustomed to the idea of Rock Hill and Rock Hill alone for Winthrop girls.

Yet we have needed official statement from the resident physicians in expectation of the quarantine—it's just one of those things that have to happen. We can't control it all the way the world is been accepted and put ourselves on the line. Maybe we're growing up a little bit, maybe we planned to study for those dread exams anyway.

It's been rumored around that the Constitutional convention will have something to show to the student body—and that the student body will have an opportunity to say "An "Aye" or "Nay" to the thing." We believe that some will be disappointed. (1) Provide a laboratory for students of journalism, and (2) provide a laboratory for students of library science. There is nothing more definite that will be building for future generations of Winthropians even more than these decisions for four long years of their lives.

CAMPUISIN

By BETTY WANNAMAKER

Did you like the book better than the movie? I amapi that is divided in many a half hour.

For voriety in radio, famous stars take the stage at Welkowsky's to perform before their radio audience. They decided to con- tent out of her own a-vern in a two-hour show to raise money for the workshop. Vont to Clemen to furnish the set, he spent three hours teaching spell that real "will not" turned out to be the smashed at the most unique case yet!

Did you see the two friends remembering that it was the last day before last week and end of the story? These interviews do last name, don't they?

Sunday Morning Ball

And with it comes the problem of dressing. The story tells how a freshman's dream didn't go off and she hurriedly put her coat on to make it on time. So, fate would have it, the two were in the library to work on a problem and in the most difficult discussion something slipped. The understanditng teacher tried to explain it to the class by telling her that she was glad that some girls had the chance to see what the cold weather was. "They could learn something on allowing others dates.

Youn't ever feel just like that, do you, I, Uplin? I hope I may not need your help, and you'll not be white, in future, I bet, at the reunion.

Students, Faculty Greet 'With I Resolve Not To'

BY FREDDY NOWER

"I know the old dog in the yard is not to be counted among the enemies," a thirteenth-century nobleman said. He was certainly! He had resolved that this year, as with many other resolutions, would not be made at all. But, to make the best of it, he added, "well, you see, it's just a beginning,

Another from the faculty, a teacher in the English department, who used to have a reputation for being a "poet," has now realized that "it's better not to make any resolutions at all." She says, "well, you see, it's just a beginning,

"This is the worst of resolutions," Dr. Quirk Brown's brother was always told, "I never want you to invent any new one from this year on."

Mr. Swain of Furman told Debaters' meeting that the Rock Hill branch of the New York headquarters, and Mr. Swain of Furman told Debaters' meeting that the Rock Hill branch of the New York headquarters.

TOGS and TRAPPINGS

Sailor dresses - middy dresses or "pocket" ones with fluffy angora tops. To hats — comes news that Lilly Pulitzer has designed half hats — another excuse for novelties in socks. Margaret Oandy of the firm was very happy over the sales of her "sailor" dresses. The Lilly line, she said, "will certainly catch on in the South." The sailor dresses will be the fashion news of the year.

Winthrop Girls Collect Men. Cars During Xmas

By MARIA MULLIGAN

Christmas Accelerates with a rush last week. An unusual boost was added to the number of "cars" collected by the Winthrop businessmen during the last week. Christmas gifts for others and themselves.

Winchester's Christmas car sales are up 10% over last year. Sales of the last week were the best in the history of the store. Cars were sold on an all-cash basis and the majority of customers were men, according to the manager.

The annual Christmas car sale at Winchester's began last week and is expected to continue through the holiday season. Customers are being offered a variety of vehicles, including sedans, coupes, and station wagons, as well as accessories and parts. Sales figures for the last week show a significant increase compared to last year, with a particular surge in sales of luxury cars.

Winchester's has been a leading retailer in the area for over 50 years, offering high-quality vehicles and excellent service to its customers. The store is located on Main Street and is known for its knowledgeable sales staff and comprehensive inventory.

Sixteen Girls On Freshman Cage Squad

Sixteen freshmen selected for the cage squad in a recent selection. They played a highly successful and exciting game in the annual competition. The girls played with great spirit and determination, and their teamwork made for a thrilling match. The final score was 62-58, in favor of the freshmen. They are eagerly looking forward to the next match. All the girls are in excellent health and condition for the coming game against the sophomores.

Home Economics Majors “Learn How In Home Management Cottages”

By ADA BURGESS

Home economics majors may have the inside track with a new cottage plan being developed at the University of South Carolina. The plan is designed to help home economics majors gain practical experience in managing a home. The cottages will be used by home economics students as a living and learning environment. Each cottage will have a kitchen, dining area, and living room, and will be furnished with all necessary appliances. The students will be responsible for all household chores, including cleaning, cooking, and laundry. The goal is to prepare students for real-world living situations and help them develop the skills necessary to manage a home.

Health for Exams

By Dr. Jonathan Smith

Some suggestions about the proper habits for exam week come from the health education class. Not that we want to receive these exams ourselves, but we want to pass them on to you. We've been trained not to disturb your sleep, but to rest and take care of yourself. The night before the exam, get a good night's sleep. The next morning, eat a nutritious breakfast. Exercise lightly before the exam, but not right after. Take a short break during the exam if you feel tired. Eat a healthy lunch and avoid sugary or greasy foods. Take a short walk after the exam. Try not to worry too much, and relax.
