TUESDAY AUGUST 3.

GREENWOOD APPRECIATES ITS NEWSPAPERS.

We have long felt that good newspapers were the best asset that any town could have. Indeed we do not see how it would be possible to build up a town and make it live and progressive without wide-awake newspapers. We had this conviction before we were ever interested in the newspapers business. And, yet, it is often the case that city administrations are parsimonious and mean in dealing with their newspapers. They seem to feel that money paid the papers for service is thrown away. We have just heard of a place, not a thousand miles away, that rather than pay its newspapers advertising rates the administration has decided not to advertise at all. We venture a prediction. That town is not going to make much progress until it changes administrations. We are glad to be able to say that in Greenwood the newspapers have always been appreciated by the several councils that we have had, and that they have received fair treatment in every instance. But let it be known that Greenwood is a broad gauge, up-to-date, wide-awake, progressive place. Enough for the present!—Greenwood Daily Journal.

CRUSHED ROCK ON THE HILL.

The Greenwood Daily Journal of recent date has an article regarding the ill-treatment of the square in that city. It appears that some careless and indifferent citizen in hauling rock over the square had left a considerable portion of it drop from the wagon. Our contemporary continues by saying that this rock makes fine material for cutting automobile tires in any machinery of its unsightly appearance. This article reminds us of the fact that Chester must have just such a citizen. Just at the head of Gadsden street, near the top of the hill, is a great quantity of loose rock and it appears that someone must have received about a car-load at this point. As a matter of fact, when a large touring car passes this point it reminds one of the rock babies boys have at country schools. Why the rocks are flying so thick and fast that it is actually dangerous to pass on the sidewalk.

THE NEEDS OF OUR TOWN.

The city is the Gibraltar of civilization. It is a mixture of the best and the worst things in the world. It is the greatest success and the greatest failure. It is a great battle ground between the good and the bad, between right and darkness, between grace and wisdom, cleanliness and dirt, righteousness and crime. About its three great functions of production, distribution and personal service are gathered most of the activities of modern society. About the first gather the farmers, the carpenters, the masons, the painters, the mechanics, the factory men and day-laborers. About the second the merchants, the railway men, street car men, liver men, post men and express men. About the junction of personal service gather the teachers, preachers, doctors, lawyers, dentists, policemen, firemen, undertakers, grocers, diggers and many others. Among all these gather the gamblers, the dockets the harlots, the parasites who suck a living from the blood of the city and return for it nothing but destruction and death. The chief difference between the rich and the poor is not one of size, but of problems and aims, and in the town each fight they are not out of gear. The town is more important than any private enterprise in it. If the town does not succeed the poor who live in it cannot succeed as they ought.

What every town needs is a greater spirit of cooperation, more people who will unite to make their city a success. Every town needs leaders if the people of vision and aggressive spirit could see this and would throw aside their timidity, lead up with patience and go to work to develop the latent powers of leadership within them they would do a great thing for their town and would get a great reward for themselves.

Let us awake, unite and do this very thing and by doing it learn how to do it better in three years than to come.

There is nothing that will pay us so well as getting together and working together for higher and better things.—Exchange.

TWIN CALVES.

Mr. J. R. Alexander is the owner of a cow which is out of the ordinary. Twin calves made an appearance on the premises yesterday.

come in and will proceed to build a new house as called for by the will but our friends must keep in mind the very solid fact that this house will entail an increase of annual cost of three thousand dollars of the orphanage. The additional children that will be brought in will require that much more money annually for their support. So when a person decides to build a house for the orphanage in a way he makes the orphanage poorer rather than richer. Friends must be found to give the additional money with which to support the increased number of children.

GINGER SNAKE.

Some men will protest against giving their wives a quarter for a pair of stockings and then spend a dollar to see a wrestling match.

You can't climb the ladder of success any faster by stepping on the fingers of those you are passing. When a man is self-made he boasts of it; when a woman is self-made she hates to admit it. A man puts in a year 'resting' that it is hard to live without her. Then he puts in about twenty realising that it is hard to live with her. Don't be afraid of the fellow who announces that he is a bad man; look out for the girl who is always trying to advertise the fact that he is a good man.

It is funny that a girl who imagines that it is beneath her dignity to work in a store for a salary will cheerfully marry and work for a living.

You can do what you want to do if you work hard enough, and you can do what you want to be if you wait long enough.

There are all sorts of people in the world, including the kind who think that wearing whiskers like a poodle makes him look dignified.

We are living too fast. Some women have their second husband selected before they learn their first husband's middle name.

A man may forget to kiss his wife for four months, but he always gets very affectionate the night he comes home full of limburger, onions and booze.

STAND ALONE
Don't be afraid to stand alone. The many may be wrong. Bad judgment has been shown by people in a throng. The multitude pleased the crowd. But not the thinking row. If you are right, then be not the crowd. Though none shall stand with you. Don't be afraid to speak your mind. Or write at boots and leers. Be patient, gentle, brave and kind. Don't dwell in fear of sneers. If you've a principle that's right 'Till you hold it as your own. Stand up for it and bravely fight—'Till you are alone and alone.

The easy way is to forsake. A truth to the mob to please. To tread the paths the many make Or fall with every breeze. Majorities do wrongful deeds. As years have plainly shown. And, oh, the contrast that it needs Sometimes to stand alone.—Detroit Free Press.

Drive on Warsaw Costly—Italians Make Gain—Closes Check on Spies.
London, July 28.—Though the Germans now hold a great line from the Gulf of Riga, sweeping southwestward around Warsaw, encircling the city and stretching away to the Baltic, the Russian forces, holding Field Marshal von Hindenburg in check, while to the south the combined Austro-German forces struggling to seize the Lublin (hug) railway have been driven for days on the threshold of success without being able actually to achieve it.

Fighting on this latter front has been renewed with great intensity and the Russian claim to have improved their position on the extreme right, which is resting on the Bug river.

Immediately west of Warsaw compare the Russian and the Lublin-Chelm sector, or in the Narva river region that it is believed a crisis will be reached.

Which one of these fronts is of the greater strategic importance, London critics cannot agree; but a German victory on either doubtless would mean the fall of Warsaw.

The German forces in the Baltic provinces advancing along a front approximately 80 miles wide towards Yllva with a view to seizing the railway from Warsaw to Petrograd, are daily from Warsaw to Petrograd, are daily in the fighting, for, linked up with the forces to the southwest, they give the Germans a front of 250 miles with which to effect a vast turning movement north towards Warsaw.

The troops operating against Riga, from which city they are 20 miles distant, are considered in the nature of an independent column and it is these forces which have come under the fire of the Russian warships.

Italian gains on the Carso plateau and French gains in the Vosges mountains are about the only developments in the other theatres.

A closer check on possible spies is indicated in an official notice published in England today that travelers to Scandinavian countries will be permitted to leave the country on or after August 19 without special permit from the home office. This restriction also applies to British subjects, with the exception of soldiers and sailors.

Variety of Neckwear for Fall.
Along with the manufacturers in other lines, local makers of neckwear for women have turned out a wide variety of styles for Fall season, and in many of which quite a little is or is seen. While eye indications point generally to a successful season for high collars, there is no dearth of the low ones being shown here.

One of the features of the season promises to be the return of the Jabot to favor, it being used to quite some extent in connection with stock effects and other high, close fitting collars. A number of the new collars show the use of such garnitures as side plaits, bows of ribbon, and curls of various kinds. Pleated, stand-up neckwear is popular, and prospects appear good for the party creations that are being offered in the shape of veils, laces, nets and Gorette crests are high up among the season's favored materials.

1916 Ford Prices.

The Ford Automobile Co. has announced their 1916 prices as follows: Roadster $290, Touring car $460. This amounts to the same as the 1915 prices when the rebates are received. So far the company has not promised any rebates on 1916 cars but state that cars purchased in August, September and October this year will not be entitled to any rebate if they decide to grant any.

Parties who bought during the past year wishing to receive the rebate which was granted would do well to remember that it is necessary that the rebate slip be signed and sent to the manufacturer. Some possibly have overlooked this fact and we understand, the slips are not good after September 30th.

There will be three balloon ascensions at the Fair Grounds this week during the Chester-Winnsboro baseball games.

This is the first time in many years that a balloon ascent has been made in Chester. There is a special fascination to a balloon ascent and parachute drop that will attract hundreds and thousands of people to the Fair Ground Park from the City and County.

The baseball games with Winnsboro will start on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoon at five o'clock. The balloon ascent will be about six o'clock.

WANTS ORDINANCE PASSED

The Semi-Weekly News. I wish to commend you on recent articles appearing in your editorials regarding the passage of an ordinance placing the laundries and washers under the jurisdiction of the board of health.

There is no question but that some restriction should be placed around the handling of our clothes. The majority of us have no means to drop the laundries of the homes into which our clothes go and it is possible that contagious diseases have been transmitted already.

Our town, like a great many others has ordinances which do not amount to anything and, as a matter of fact, are not enforced and really should never have been passed. The passage of an ordinance regarding the handling of clothes would not inconvenience the city council and I see no reason why they should hesitate. It seems to me that they are to the health of the community to handle this matter and with two health officers they would not be put to any additional expense in seeing that it was obeyed.

The health is in my opinion the greatest blessing which can be bestowed on any human and every person should certainly be as careful as possible in maintaining good health and our laws should do their part.

CLEVELAND OSBORNE KILLED BY CLARENCE SIMS

Used Shot Gun-No Previous Trouble—Shot Victim While Fleeing.

Mr. J. Henry Gladden, Coroner was called to the Cabot neighborhood to hold an inquest over the body of Clarence Sims, colored, who was shot and fatally wounded by Cleveland Osborne, also colored. Osborne, who fled after the shooting, later returned and surrendered to Mr. W. H. Barnes. Deputy Wagon brought the negro to Chester and placed him in jail.

From the testimony at the inquest it appears that Sims was passing the house of Osborne on his way to Turkey Creek to take a shower when suddenly Osborne rushed out of his house and seized a shot gun which he had hidden behind a tree, exclaiming to Sims, "I am going to kill you. Sims got behind Mr. J. H. Gault in order to keep the negro from shooting him, in some way or other it appears that Mr. Gault fell and just at this time the negro shot, the shot striking Osborne in the abdomen with this Osborne fled, however, Sims shot another time striking him behind the right shoulder.

It appears that the negroes had not had any previous trouble and the motive of the shooting is unknown.

UNIVERSAL PEACE

This nation is now in the midst of a controversy as to how best to promote universal peace. That question will leave for diplomats to discuss, but peace within nations is no less important than peace between nations and is heavily laden with prosperity for every citizen within our commonwealth.

Most leading politicians and oftentimes political platforms have declared war upon business and no cabinet crisis ever resulted. Many men have stood in high places and hurled "gas bombs" at industry thrust bayonets into business activities and humiliated agriculture. Party leaders have many times broken diplomatic relations with industry, sent political axiators spiking through the affairs of business, and political submarines have sent torpedoes crashing into the destiny of commerce. During the past quarter of a century we have fought man's a duel with progress, permitted many politicians to carry on a guerrilla warfare against civilization and point a pistol at the heart of the republic.

Man should be permitted to cry out for universal peace until his record has been searched for explosives, for no vessel armed or laden with munitions of war should be given a clearance to sail for the port of Universal Peace, let us by all means have peace, but peace, like charity, should begin at home.

GRASPING AT THE SHADOW

No man—especially if he is married—would deny woman any right she demands. Take the earth and give to peace, but why does woman long for the ballot?

When all is said and done, it is not the selection of the butcher more important to the home than the election of a mayor. Is not the employment of the day-laborer a far more important event in the life of the children than the appointment of a postmaster; is not the selection of books for the family library more important than voting bonds for jail and court house? Why does woman lay aside the important things in life to grasp at the substance and grasp at the shadow?

It is said to the credit of womanhood that it is as a rule, the woman who rocks the cradle thinks the woman to cast the ballot; it is not the mother who teaches her children to say "No, I lay me down to sleep for the uniform of the suffragette. It is as a rule, the woman who despises her husband, neglects her children and scores motherhood that leads parade and smashes windows.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, 1 Kings xlii:6-16. Memory Verse, 18—Golden Text, Prov. xiv:—Germanary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

In this record of the division of the kingdom and its cause we still see God over all controlling and in all working; for He has foreseen everything and the beginning and provided for every so called emergency and always tells the final outcome. This division of the kingdom has never been healed till this day, but it will be healed according to Ezek. xxxvii, 21, 22. "I will make them one nation in the land upon the mountains of Israel, and they shall be no more two nations, neither shall they be divided into two kingdoms by the river Jordan. The judgment cause of this division is found in chapter xi, 9, 10. "The Lord was angry with Solomon because he had not kept the commandment of the Lord his God, which had appeared unto him twice and had commanded him concerning this thing that he should not go after other gods." Therefore was the king dom rent in twain. Departure from God and disobedience to His law, work of all trouble, as a rule, and the devil is back of that, but the time will come when on this earth there shall be no more trouble, and from this earth and this atmosphere the devil shall have gone forever (Rev. xix, 10, 21). "I will give unto him a kingdom as he desired. He shall be a king for Israel, as we have seen in the case of Saul, and David, and Solomon, or dividing the kingdom, as we have seen in the case of the Lord generally works by ordinary human instrumentality.

In our lesson story today we see Hadad Beera and Jeroboam and He boboam and old men and young men all doing seemingly as they saw fit, but behind the scenes it is an unseen hand controlling. "The Lord stirred up an adversary unto Solomon, Hadad, the Edomite," "He stirred him up another adversary, Bezon, the son of Ethubai." "Thus saith the Lord, the God of Israel, Behold I will rend the kingdom out of the hand of Solomon, and will give ten tribes to thee." "The cause was from the Lord, But He might perform His saying, which the Lord spake by Ahijah, the Shilonite, unto Jeroboam, the son of Nebat." "Thus saith the Lord, Ye shall not go up nor fight against your brethren, the children of Israel, return every man to his house, for this thing is from Me." "I Kings xii, 14, 23, 24, 15, 24. Even the devil cannot touch a child of God without God's permission, as we see in the case of Job and of Simon Peter.

The believer who aims to walk with God in humility and obedience may live in continual peace and quietness, assured that all things are God's best for him and that no real evil can befall him. But if there is disobedience or willfulness God will in love and wisdom chasten for our good. Solomon being dead Jeroboam, his son, reigned in his stead, all Israel having made him king at Shechem xlii, 1; 1 Chron. x, 1. "Thus Jeroboam reigned in Egypt that Solomon was dead he returned and, with a deputation, went upon Rehoboam with a request that he would lighten his burden, which his father's magnificent reign had caused to be placed upon them. He asked for three days for the consideration of his request, and meantime he consulted first with the old men and then with his young men. The former advised him to lighten the burden and that he speak kindly to the people, but the latter advised increased severity. So when the third day came Jeroboam and the people came again for his reply he spoke to them as the young men had advised for the Lord was by their ear counsel working out His purpose (verse 15), and He also wrought by the counsel of Hothiel, which was evil toward man, but he would follow Him." "The counsel of the Lord standeth forever, the thoughts of his heart, to all generations," but all other counsel deceiveth. He brought to nought (Ps. lxxiii, 10, 11). "Whoever the Lord pleased shall sit in the throne of David in the sea and all deep places" (Ps. cxxxv, 6).

However people may associate themselves against Him or take counsel together against His people, all shall be broken to pieces and come to nought. (Isa. viii, 9, 10). For "the Lord of hosts hath sworn, saying, Surely as I have thought, so shall it come to pass; and as I have purposed, so shall it stand." (Isa. xiv, 24). He maketh the wrath of man to praise Him, and the remainder He restrains. He saith to the rich, "Hitherto shalt thou come, no further; and here shall thy proud ways be stayed." (Ps. lxxv, 40; Job xxxvii, 13). "He will hold strongly with us and cause others to see and stand with us. He has a purpose for the individual life of His redeemed, as well as for the church, which is His body, and for His people Israel and for all nations; and He will accomplish His purpose through His will upon people individually and collectively. We never heard of anything so great as the love of God.

THE VITAL PROBLEM OF AGRICULTURE

By Peter Radford.

There is no escaping the market problem and the highest development of agriculture will not be attained until it is solved, for a market is as necessary for the producer as land on which to grow his crop. Governmental and educational institutions have spent $100,000,000 in the United States during the past ten years for improving soil production and improving seeds and plants, but very little attention and less money has been given to the marketing side of agriculture.

The problem is a monumental one and one which will never be solved until it gets within the grasp of a gigantic organization where master minds can concentrate the combined experience and wisdom of the age upon it. It is a problem which the farmers, merchants, bankers, editors and statesmen must unite in solving.

The Farmers' Union stands for all there is in farming from the most scientific methods of seed selection to the most systematic and profitable plans of marketing, but does not believe in promoting one to the neglect of the other. We consider the work of farm demonstrators valuable and we ask that governmental and commercial agencies seeking to help us, continue to give us their assistance and advice, but we believe that their assistance should be extended to the marketing side of our farm problems also.

We cannot hope to develop manufacturing by over-production of the factory; we cannot build up mercantile enterprises by the merchants loading their shelves with surplus goods and no more can we develop agriculture by glutting the market with a surplus of products.

DARIUS

The method of a horse made Darius King of Persia the six contending powers for the throne agreeing among themselves that the one whose horse should reach first should possess the kingdom. This ancient method of settling disputes among politicians could only settle their disputes by the neck of a horse. The horse of wisdom or the bray of a donkey it would be a great blessing and would give our citizens a better opportunity to pursue the recreation of industry free from political strife.

Let those who pick political plums by raising rows and who flash swords dripping in the blood of industry understand that they cannot turn the public form into a political arena and by a club of personal aspirations still the hammer and stop the plow and that their quarrels must be settled in the back alleys of civilization.
