Robert McEntee, assistant director of the Internationai Student Center, tells us that the service's purpose is to help international students stay in contact with their home countries and to make them feel welcomed in Winthrop. Through this service, students can stay in touch with family and friends, and the center encourages them to share their experiences and cultures with others. The service is available for all international students, and it provides a platform for them to connect with others in similar situations. It is a valuable resource for students who may feel isolated or homesick while away from their families and home countries.
