TUESDAY, MARCH 27.

It is the usual custom of the News to go to press at three o'clock on publishing days but since an important election is being held today we will make two separate runs of the paper.

The first run will be for our subscribers in the City of Chester who are in a position to learn of the result of the election. The second run will be for those subscribers who live outside of the city and some of whom have no way to learn the result of the election until they receive the paper.

The tabulated result of the election will appear in the second run of the paper this evening.

Well, she is about ready to start work on her spring suit and spring hat. She has everything she needs for the goods for the dress and the trimming for the old frame. She has the ideas. She has tried on suits and places in town where suits are sold, but not once did she kick at the price. And she didn't kick at the price of the hats. It made no difference to her whether the hat she was trying on was worth $2 or $10. She was not hunting a hat—she was hunting ideas. She tried on one suit worth $45 and another worth $60. No doubt the clerks believed her to be a middleman's wife, and they must have thought that she was very hard to please. Occasionally she found a suit that almost filled the bill, but there would be something wrong. At one place she found a hat frame just like her old one, and she immediately took it away to the frame. She asked the woman how she could trim that frame for her, and the woman went into a little room, and another, and perhaps better, customer waited patiently. She has all the ideas she needs, and she will be up and down and to see a few more suits after she gets here.

Letter From Bradford Knapp.

At this time it is a very important question that we stop and consider our position in the welfare of our country. Heretofore our State has been importing from other parts of the United States millions of dollars worth of foodstuffs for both man and beast and of course Chester County has been receiving her share of it. The North and West are already producing approximately their limit in such material as they are capable of farming calls largely these food producing plants.

Does it not seem then that we in the South should at least leave off a few acres of cotton and plant food crops for ourselves? We live here and not for the North and West to feed us. Let us think this matter over before most of our land is planted and let Chester County direct her part toward feeding herself.

Believe it or not, the South has been benighted by Mr. Bradford Knapp, the U. S. Department of Agriculture in which is outlined "The Self-Farming Program."

1. A home garden for every family on the farm. From one-fourth to one-half acre, well located, well tilled and tended as carefully as any other crop on the farm, planted in rotation to time the vegetable crops so as to have a continuous supply for the family table in winter and days in the year as possible. To this should be added one-fourth of an acre of potatoes, either Irish or sweet or both, to be used as food for the family. An acre of sorghum or sugar cane should be planted to supply the family with syrup if the means can be found for grinding the cane and making the syrup.

2. Produce enough corn on each farm to keep the family and the livestock well supplied for one year with a little extra for safety.

3. Produce sufficient oats and other small grain to supplement the corn as food for one year with some extra to reserve for the winter and to provide some grazing for livestock.

4. Produce the hay and forage crops necessary to supply and forage stock on the farm for one year, with a little extra for safety, not forgetting the lucerne which is difficult to get to the soil and produce the best hay.

5. Produce the necessary meat, eggs and milk for the family. The most should be produced and increase of attention to poultry and hogs because of the rapidity with which these can be produced. Every family should have at least two cows so that one can be milked with all of the time. A sufficient number of brood sows should be kept to produce the milk for the family, with some extra for sale. The number of laying hens should be increased and carefully tended to produce eggs and poultry for the table with a sufficient stock for sale. The average number of poultry per acre should be greatly increased to at least fifty. The livestock on the farm should be gradually increased as a whole so as to consume the otherwise waste products of the farm and make the unprofitable and unutilized land productive. This means attention to the breeding, care and feeding of poultry and hogs, beef cattle, milk cows, etc.

6. When the living has been amply provided for grow cotton for the main money crop. Where the boll weevil has recently invaded the farm and cotton plants such crops as soy beans, peanuts and velvet beans, as cash crops or to feed live stock for cash sale.

7. Plan to sell or exchange the surplus products of the garden, the orchard, the poultry, the livestock, the eggs and the feed crops, to cover the necessary running expenses of the farm and save the cotton as the cash crop.

Bradford Knapp, Chief.

MEASURES TAKEN WERE NECESSARY

Everything Destroyed, Says Farmer, as Necessity of Their Fight.

Berlin, via Sayville Wireless. March 24.—Terrible as they may be the measures were taken in the military interest, as well as interest of ourselves, declared an official government press bureau statement today explaining the work of destruction in the German retreat.

"A large strip of the line has been changed into a wall of ironclads, in which remains on the far side, standing; no road and practically no railroad tracks are serviceable.

"In places where forests, there are now only the stumps of trees. The wells are blasted, wire cables are cut, and enemy finds no cellars which they could use for protection; no wood is left for use for construction."

All materials were sent back to sources from which material could be raised were annihilated. Roads were blocked by huge trunks of trees and meadows were turned over by the snow during spring rains.

"Terrible as these measures" may be in themselves, they were taken in the military interest, and in the neutral interest as well. German correspondents acknowledge that a "limit" of military destruction was necessary as the German humanitarian sentiment went so far almost to endanger their own interests.

"The town of Noyon, which was spared, 70 cows were left in order to provide milk for small children. Far from the town was posted announcing that Noyon was unharmed and that there were 8,000 civilian inhabitants."

FURTHER RESTRICTION ON FRENCH IMPORTS

Only Foreign Goods Authorized Upon Application Will Be Allowed to Come In.

Paris, March 24.—By authority of the Cabinet the Minister of Commerce today issued a decree prohibiting all imports whatsoever, except such as may be authorized specifically by the Government upon application. The decree provides that all applications for the importation of foreign goods must be referred to a committee, in which the Minister is interested, Parliament and the Chamber of Commerce of Paris are represented.

All products imported under special permits on the recommendation of the committee will be distributed among manufacturers and merchants pro rata to their individual requirements.

WHY DAIRYING IS DESIRABLE FOR THE SOUTH

Dairying is a desirable business in North Carolina at the present time for the following reasons:

A yearly habit that has become a daily habit

Hot Cross Buns have been necessary to Good Friday for countless years. But, so delicious have they become, that today they are a daily habit in many homes.

The demand for our sweetly delicate buns is bound to be exceedingly heavy during the Easter Season.

For their popularity is in constant yearly growth. So place your order early and insure yourself against disappointment.

Fifteen cents per dozen

farm products are fed to the dairy cow instead of being sold directly from the farm. The farmer gets a profit in growing the crop and another profit in feeding it and saving the manure.

6. Dairying will help South Carolina farmers to meet the boll weevil by making it possible to grow other crops than cotton, and market them through dairy cows at a profit, and by making the farmer independent of the one-crop system.

"Valve Beans One of Our Best Crops."

"No less in importance to growing our food is the question of raising sufficient feed for our livestock and building up our soils," says Director E. R. Lloyd of the Mississippi Experiment Station and Extension Department.

"One of the best feed and fertilizer crops our farmers can grow," he says, "is velvet beans. Crushed velvet beans in the hull and corn in equal proportions make a balanced ration for hogs, cattle or horses, and the vines are worth as much as $17 an acre for fertilizer. The meal from the beans in the hull is worth about one-half as much as high-grade cottonseed meal, testing about 4.12 per cent of fat and 17 to 18 per cent protein.

"The yields of this crop are enormous. Even after severe storms 2900 pounds have been harvested at the McNeill Branch station, and in his bean no trouble to make as much as 3000 pounds of the crop. The harvesting is not exact. A good hand can pick from 500 to 600 pounds a day and the usual rate of pay is about 15 cents a day.

"The beans should be planted after the land warms up or about the middle of April. The Early Seedling, the Oceola and Chinese are early and prolific varieties. They are usually planted and cultivated once or twice with a shallow implement. They make the most seed where they have a support crop like corn. A good way of planting them is in two rows of corn and two rows of velvet beans. They are also planted in the drill with the corn, which is all right on thin land, but where the land is rich the beans planted in this way cover the corn."

FARM WOODLANDS VALUABLE

Since the farm forest, or woodland, supply firewood, fence posts, poles, building and other timber necessary for successful agriculture, and, consequently, a part of farm work. By the sale of choice grade lumber and surplus common products woodlands add directly to farm profits.

The farm forest, if properly handled, is a bank account against which the owner can check each year in the form of timber produced without any investment in capital.

In the value of forest products derived yearly from the farm, according to the last census, North Carolina led all other States. The materials, including firewood, fencing timber, hay, logs, railroad ties, poles, nails, staves, cooperage stock, and some other products, amounted in value to $11,264,184. This was an average of $12.65 per acre of the forested reporting of 872 per farm. Forty per cent of this amount represented the value of materials used on the farm and the balance, or $4,260,674, the value of all cut products sold for sale and standing timber sold.

Two-thirds of the total forest lands in North Carolina are in farms. These 12,450,000 acres of forested farm lands possess great possibilities

For timber production, fire protection is obviously far easier and more effective than the large tracts in thinly settled, undeveloped regions. The location near the homes of the owners and in regions of intensive the best markets is very advantageous. Production can be brought to a high standard, and both cutting and utilization be carried on under the personal supervision of the owner. Farm woodlands should add a substantial amount to the farm income.

China is the most neutral which aligns itself with the United States in its attitude toward Germany. Nearly all of the others have expressed hostility and sympathy for the German. The Prussian military party will see in this defiance by a nation long under Prussian military rule, a severe diplomatic rebuff to the German. Estimated and despised in Berlin the first response to the humiliation which it suffered at the hands of the Germans after the Boxer uprising in 1900 had been suppressed. The fight to this nation was done by American, British, Japanese, French and Russian forces. Some Chinese by a national agreement. Their customary greed for indemnities and their degradations were what they suffered at the hands of the Prussians. Less than seventeen years have passed, and China not only looks back at all Germany but refuses to recognize them diplomatically and abhors their ships and crews under surveillance.—New York World.

Lancaster Man Shot To Death

H. E. Carnes was shot and killed by Paul Hunter in Lancaster Sunday. Carnes is said to have entered Hunter's yard and attempted to enter the house when ordered away by Hunter. His refusal to do so Hunter is said to have fired a load from a shotgun. Carnes lived only eight minutes. Hunter was placed in jail. Both men are well known. Carnes was formerly jailer while Hunter once served as a local policeman. Carnes leaves a wife and large family. Hunter is unmarried.

NEW BARRED ZONE

Berlin, March 25.—A new barred zone in the waters of the Arctic ocean was announced by the admiralty today. The various neutral governments were informed some days ago, says the official announcement, concerning the new zone. It includes all lanes in the Arctic ocean, leading to various northern ports of Russia, with the exception of the Norwegian territorial waters.

About 700 Germans from the ill-fated "steamer" Al. Philadelphia passed through Chester this morning about seven o'clock enroute to Fort McPherson, Ga., where they will undergo their regular training.

READY FOR SERVICE

New York, March 25.—Instructions to hold itself in readiness for active service were received today by the first base hospital, stationed in Brooklyn. All physicians and nurses attached to the unit received word to be ready for immediate service.

ABDICATION OF KAISER FORECAST

Paris, March 24.—The abdications of the German Emperor is forecast by the German Magistrate who wrote the celebrated book, "L'Accusé," in an interesting book published in Oeuvre. He says:

"The Kaiser is obsessed by the thought that he is responsible for the war, a thought which poisons his whole existence. He feels that he is punished by three enemies at home, without counting those abroad: First is the Crown Prince, the real author of the war; second is the Junker party—Germanist—you cannot imagine the smouldering hatred of the Emperor for those whom he believes to be maniacs who are driving him into an abyss; third are the people, not the Socialist Party, but the people who are starving and who he feels are growing in number and rising little by little against those who organized the war.

The other day at the meeting of the Parliamentary Bureau and the ministers of the Federal states at which the submarine war was decided upon, the struggle between the Kaiser's party and that of von Tirpitz was most bitter. The majority of the Emperor's ministers, however, that he was obliged to submit and pretend that he was a conqueror. In reality he was actually opposed to a break with President Wilson; but he was forced to consent. Documents will be forthcoming one day which will prove that secretly he did everything not to bring America down upon him, as he considers that the rupture was an irreparable mistake. The failure of the submarine war will still be a heavy weight, but he will be too late.

"The people he fears most are the anti-socialist, anti-Franco, Liberal Republicans who want the Reichstag to be based on universal suffrage. That is why Wilson is so anxious to convince the nation that he did not want war. All his protestations are made to appease the nation, which is furnished and ruined subjects whose murmurs are growing stronger. He wants to continue popular at any price, and that is why he makes the first word of peace. The people were grateful for it but the submarine war came and spoiled everything.

"It is hard to realize how the Emperor, who is a popular man, has been so exiled in our eyes. He alone, perhaps, in Germany knows the whole truth, since he alone has in his possession the elements for forming a judgment on the situation as a whole. How can he resist morally and physically under such a strain? Certainly he hopes sometimes, but less and less, that he will be able to suppress the submarine war which he undertook. He sees the isolation of Germany become more and more complete.

"Once he tried to initiate peace negotiations but he failed to admit and proclaim the whole world, but above all to the German people, that he fears most. Germany's real situation, if the Allies solemnly declared as they did that they had no intention of making a knockout blow, our German people who still believe in him would abandon the first part at any price. He would be the maniac and hidden thought of tortures. Germany, that has refused to let him but a dramatic abdication in order to remain the sympathies of the German people, the political future of Prussia! He says: 'I sacrifice myself to make peace. Without me those only are responsible who declared the war against us and the complete isolation of Germany, those who took at the beginning my son as their paragon and forced me to make a measure I hesitated to take.'

Says Organization of His Division is Progressing

New York, March 23.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt left here late today for a short vacation, in Florida. He declined to say what part of the State he would visit.

"I am going down with Russell J. Coles, of Danville, Va., to Florida to see him hunt devil fish and sharks," said Col. Roosevelt. "Originally I had intended to spend a month there and, have him teach me how to hunt them, but now I shall only be a looker-on, as I plan to get back by April 10 or 12, when Congress will have convened."

"I am going away because at the moment there is nothing I can do. All the arrangements which without governmental action I can make are regarding my division and the organization are progressing as far and as rapidly as possible."

PERONNE IS STRIVEN WITH WAR'S WRECKAGE

Correspondent Finds City Destroyed, with Not a House Which Had Escaped Damage.

War Correspondent's Headquarters, March 19.—Refusing to give battle the Germans retired well further over the open country east of Bouonne and British cavalry units are in touch with their mounted rear guard on a line west of Cambrai and St. Quentin. The exact location is vague as the movement continued and the British cavalry is in small units, moving cautiously between large numbers of burning villages which are everywhere afloat.

Small parties of Germans were encountered last night in the open Pyra and Berricourt. Some snipers in the open fired upon a cavalry patrol, and were scattered by an air plane, which swooped low, sweeping them with machine-gun bullets.

South of the Somme British cavalry got in touch with German cyclists at Pote. All bridges have been destroyed to cover the German retreat as at Bouay and Breuil, and all have been filled with fire and rubble, besides those more, damnable, poisoned.

It is the most extraordinary experience in life to follow up through this abandoned country from which the Germans have fled, and have found today in tramping through the district of Peronne and into that desolated and destroyed town. A few weeks ago I described the journey to the new lines we had taken over from the French army to the Somme. Then it was under the full blast of artillery, and not a day elapsed without the Germans directing high explosives into the ruined villages of Hennocourt, Estres, Flaours, and Blaches.

From Mont St. Quentin, on the flank of Peronne, he had observation of all the British ground so that it was horrible to see that hill staring down on one, and in daylight in the open country one moves always under the menace of death. Today that menace had been lifted, and we moved freely in sight of Mont St. Quentin untroubled and with a clear view of the safety. The Germans had gone from there yesterday morning. At the same time they had crept south from the trenches at Blaches and across their wooded bridge to Peronne and out of this town to the open country, hurrying through the light to escape from British pursuit.

They went down into the Bache, which was of trenches and ditches, and ruins and passed through the front line held by British troops. When

Most houses are labeled "Keller for 60 Mann."

At the entrance to the dugout between and between, and starting up in the face as we entered the Grande Place was a big board hung up on the wall with the legend, "Nicht argeus nur wandern." (Do not be angry, only be astonished.) That was a house with the legend. The only inhabitants of the Grande Place were a big black cat, looking sick and sorry for itself, and one dummy figure dressed as a French Zouave, sprawling below the entrance of the statue to Catherine de Poix, heroine of the siege of 1870, the statue being taken away, like that of Falderberie in the square of Bouanne.

On top of the pedestal had been laid a dummy figure in French uniform, but the British soldiers had removed it and in many houses all littered with much, with here and there some scraps of broken furniture, and in one a picture of Christ crowned with thorns.

Peronne was a dead town, like Ypres, like Bouanne, like all those villages in the wake of the German retreat. Over its old fortifications built by Vauban and over its marble and brick are flying.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA COUNTY OF CHESTER. By W. W. Esquire, Probate Judge.

Whereas, Mrs. J. G. M. Morrison, late of this county, has died, and her estate is to be administered by the undersigned, as Probate Judge of the County of Chester, S. C., in and to the effect of W. A. Morrison's will.

These are, therefore, to give and admonish all and singular the kindred and creditors of said W. A. Morrison, deceased, that they be and appear before me, in the Court of Probate, to be held at Chester, S. C., on the 7th day of April next, after publication hereof, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any they have, why the said Administration should not be granted.

A STATE OF ANXIETY EXISTS.

The papers everywhere are saying that in consequence of the destruction of three of the United States ships by the Germans that a state of anxiety with which ours has not been sought the war. We have not seen any news from the United States and the American people do not want war even now, but they can see no way out of it. All of this is having a disastrous effect upon our same enterprises. Efforts to raise money for religious and charitable causes and even for the promotion of education will surely have cold water thrown upon them. How will it be with the Thorough Orphanage? We have aided and are aiding Belgian, Syrian, Armenian Orphanas. We must not omit to aid our own. These hundreds of these are at the Thorough Home and School for Orphans, Clinton, S. C. There will be trouble for them unless our people realize the necessity of the case and send their gifts promptly so as to prevent any fear of want.

Contributions may be directed to Thorough Orphanage, Clinton, S. C. The Orphanas at Clinton are maintained from the States of Georgia, Florida, South Carolina and other Southern States, and from all the leading denominations. Ten dollars a month covers the expenses of each one, including board, clothing and education.

TONIC DIGESTIVE. Stimulates the digestive organs to action so that the food that enters the stomach is digested and assimilated. Gives relief, $1.00 per bottle.

MONEY TO LOAN. I am in position to negotiate loans on mortgages upon real estate, at 7 per cent and 8 per cent per annum, depending upon size of loan. No expense to be paid by borrower, except cost of drawing and recording papers.
