

The Chester Standard 1854

The Chester Standard

8-17-1854

The Chester Standard - August 17, 1854

C. Davis Melton

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/chesterstandard1854>

Part of the Journalism Studies Commons, and the Social History Commons

Recommended Citation

Melton, C. Davis, "The Chester Standard - August 17, 1854" (1854). The Chester Standard 1854. 32. <https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/chesterstandard1854/32>

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the The Chester Standard at Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Chester Standard 1854 by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@mailbox.winthrop.edu.

Choice Poetry.

Art thou a Christian? Though thy feet are clean, and every eye that sees thee smiles, and every ear that hears thee sings...

Art thou a Christian? Alas! to roam for love, thy friends and native home! For freedom, with a restless eye...

Art thou a Christian? With the wife of years and motherly love! Thy heart-felt prayers shall spread around thee like the dew...

Thrilling Sketch.

THE POSTER BOY.

BY WILLIAM CARLETON.

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

and the first of those who were in it, exposed and defeated. On one of these occasions it was that he seemed to appear a real body of the house...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

added tears. "I give you a pledge that to the end of my life, I will be true to the principles of my fathers, and to the principles of my country."

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

Two Dollars per Annum.

COLUMBIA. The origin of the tale from which this poem was adapted, is sufficiently curious. It was about the year 1793 that a French actor, of every talent and wealth, named Trévouard, was passing through the streets of Paris, observed upon a colporteur's stall the sale of a female, which smelt him by the smell of its odor...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

Select Miscellany.

COULD HE IN THE WIND. "In the Master's House," a tale of Southern life, which is a tale of the heart...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

There is scarcely a trait of human nature in so wide a range of sympathy, or generosity, or endurance, than in the strength of affection which binds the humble postman of Irish line to his foster brother...

