A GREAT REUNION.

The Grand Closing Parade--Some Unique Features.

"The most perfect of years!" So said Lieut. Gen. Stephen D. Lee, C. S. A., Commander in Chief of the United Confederate Veterans, giving his voice on the great parade which, the New Orleans reunion of 1906 was brought to a close. To Major General Albert Elbert, U. S. C. V., commander of the Louisiana Division and grand marshal of the parade, Gen. Lee tendered his special thanks for the system and order with which the arrangements were planned and carried into execution.

With Gen. Lee agreed the other officers of the great association, men whose ideas have been tempered to wisdom through years of marching, whose names and faces are the symbols of the final triumph with hopes of which the soldiers of the Confederacy marched away near fifty years ago, and to which they never came.

By each old man in line, to his mind, to the mild even of the breeze blowing, marched his younger self. To each old heart the loving tribute of the confederate marching away near fifty years ago, and to which they never came.

Each old man in line, to his mind, to the mild even of the breeze blowing, marched his younger self. To each old heart the loving tribute of the confederate marching away near fifty years ago, and to which they never came.

Each old man in line, to his mind, to the mild even of the breeze blowing, marched his younger self. To each old heart the loving tribute of the confederate marching away near fifty years ago, and to which they never came.

Long before the hour indicated the various camps and organizations were in line. Long before the parade began the streets, the banquets, the parties, the windows, and all the things that were thronged. Street cars were cleared from Camp street and St. Charles as far up as Lee Circle. No cars went on Canal as far out as Rampart. The streets of the town as were the hearts of its people, were given to the veterans.

They marched with steps that bricked with impulses that could never die. On horseback, in carriages, on foot among the men of the ranks, old forms straightened, old faces brightened, long sleeping memories awakened, and for the time at least the shouts and cheers of New Orleans watching thousands were the symbols of the final triumph with hopes of which the soldiers of the Confederacy marched away near fifty years ago, and to which they never came.

All I could never be--
Who wheel the picket line--
And this he was worth forever to the soul of the south--New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Fortunate Missourians.
When I was a druggist, at Livonia, Mo., I was told by a friend of Grayville, Mo., "three of my customers were suffering with the disease known as Dr. King's New Discovery, and are well and strong to-day. Street cough and cold cure sold by the Chester Drug Co. and Johnson's Kidney Pills. Sold by Dr. King's New Discovery Co. 111, Trial bottle free. U. S. Patent Office, Wash., D. C."

Lady Jane Gray.
Lady Jane Gray was the most learned child of which history has any record. Before she was nine years old she wrote a beautiful hand and was able to play on many different instruments. She could speak several languages, both ancient and modern, besides being well grounded in philosophy. When other children were playing she would amuse herself by reading writings of the philosopher Plato in the original Greek. Perhaps it was because she had led a very lonely life when she was a child, as her mother and father were often away on business, leaving her to the care of her governess and her schoolmasters at the stony family place called Swadlow. The big square house was built on the edge of a great forest surrounded by acres of uninhabited land. There were very few books and not any newspapers at the castle, and her governess would not allow her to play with the servants' children, and there were no others suitable for her companionship within walls.

Postmaster Robbed.
G. W. Fouts, Postmaster at River-ton, Ia., nearly lost his life and his money last night. For 30 years he had been a successful business man, but last night he was robbed of his money and his life. He was on his way to the bank when he was stopped by a man who had a gun. The man told him to get down and he did so. The man then took his money and his life and disappeared into the night.

Mexican Women at Work.

As the Moors practically controlled the commerce and education of Spain for over one hundred years, the Spaniards acquired to a great extent the same ideas and by them of the education and treatment of women. And they in their turn carried these ideas to Mexico. In fact, the Mexican women of the upper classes were much freer under the Aztecs than they were afterwards under Spanish rule. And until quite lately this condition of affairs has prevailed in Mexico since its freedom from the Spanish yoke.

Not so many years ago when a Mexican woman went shopping she remained in her carriage in the street and sent her servant into the store to call one of the clerks to wait upon her. He came out and received her orders and brought the goods to her for examination. This peculiar method of shopping was due to the old Mexican idea that a lady of good family should be exclusive and should shield herself from the gaze of the public and in fact from everybody except her own immediate relatives and most intimate friends. This idea has been dying hard for over a century and it is still far from being completely buried in some parts of the republic.

The Mexican woman is naturally a free lover. She has quite a right to take her way from her home, and she has few outside interests. Even when she is philanthropically inclined, which she very often is, her chief interest is to make her place her charitable contributions in the hands of aldermen or superiors of convents, or directors of charitable institutions, or for use in the cause she has at heart.

The Mexican women of the middle and upper classes have never been athletic, at least since the Spanish conquest. This, of course, was due to the secluded life they led. But the women of the lower classes have never been stout and muscular, for much work of a heavy kind has always been their lot. On account of her quiet disposition, it is not probable that, for years at least, the Mexican woman will take the interest in athletics that is now being shown by her American sister. Another reason is that the sympathy of the Mexican people is all against her doing so.

In the home, and in their own way, the Mexican women are delightful entertainers and their knowledge of music adds not a little to their entertainment. The piano always forms a very important factor in the entertainment of a Mexican home. No matter how small the gathering of friends, there is always some one who can play piano, and his or her services are requested and always cheerfully given, for a Mexican not only likes to help entertain his friends and his friends' friends, but he looks upon it as his duty to do so. With the piano also goes singing of the popular songs of the day--a Mexican trait.

Life Letter.

Everybody is just as busy as can be. We had a nice shower of rain Friday evening which was very much needed, and the farmers seem like they want to do all at once. Gardens are looking fairly well, and chickens in abundance. Don't think the fruit is so badly hurt as was once thought. Mrs. J. B. Simpson made a visit to relatives in Chester last week. Miss Mrs. J. B. Simpson made a visit to relatives in Chester last week. Miss Mrs. J. B. Simpson made a visit to relatives in Chester last week.

The meeting closed at Edgemore last night which was very much enjoyed. The meeting was conducted by Rev. J. P. Sipes. His sermons were most effective. While there were only three accessions to the church, two by profession of faith and one by letter, we feel that great good was done throughout the congregation.

Rev. R. A. Lohman, pastor at Edgemore, will conduct a meeting at Newby Creek, beginning next Friday and continuing through Sabbath. Messrs. D. L. Barnwell and Willie Robinson, of Chester, visited relatives and friends at Edgemore yesterday and worshipped at Edgemore church. We always welcome friends, and even strangers in our midst. Mr. Inabnit, principal of Harmony school, is preparing for an entertainment at the close of school about the middle of May. Best wishes to The Lantern.

Morrison Case in Supreme Court.

An interesting case argued in the supreme court today was that of W. T. Castles as administrator of the estate of John T. Morrison against the county of Lancaster, a suit for $20,000 damages for the lynching of Morrison, a white man, who shot another white man down on the street in par-ticularly brutal circumstances. The appeal argued today was from the order of Judge Sage granting a change of venue in the case to York county. Prominent men of Lancaster were implicated in the case. It will be remembered, but Solicitor Henry got into a tangle in the case on account of some wild work of ex-Constable Howie, who was run out of the county, and the prosecution ended in a fiasco. The attorneys in the case are W. H. Newbold and J. C. Witham, the one an ex-constable and the other an ex-railroad commissioner, for the plaintiff, and W. C. Hough and Ernest Moore for the county. There is still an epidemic of measles in town, there have been no deaths from it among the whites people. Whooping cough is also prevalent.

Mrs. J. S. Moffatt and two little daughters arrived home yesterday afternoon from a two-weeks' visit to Mr. Moffatt's mother at DeWitt. Master Gaston Moffatt, who has been with his grandmother for several months, came home with them.

By the giving in of a plank in the floor, Mrs. B. G. Tonnant received a fall Saturday. In falling she knocked the frying pan and was righted before she could get up. She has been very ill and she received several painful bruises.—Winnsboro News and Herald.

Chloro College Under Preschylrics.

Greenville, May 1.—Some days ago Dr. R. S. Preston, president of Chloro college, indicated to the presbyteries of South, Green and South Carolina, his purpose to retire from the presidency at the close of the present session. He suggested a plan and made a proposition by which Chloro could become a presbyterial or synodical college. The proposition was accepted and the plan adopted by the three presbyteries within the past week. This proposition submitted is considered feasible and by far the most practical and promising yet formulated. Last night and all today the following members of the presbyteries have been in session here: Rev. Dr. McPherson of Columbia, Rev. Dr. Foy of Winnsboro, Rev. Mr. Kirkledge of Free Will, W. T. Kestler, of Fork Shoals, J. E. Hargood, of Eastley, J. M. Hardin, of Abbeville, Dr. Adams of Laurens, Dr. E. P. Davis, C. E. Graman and M. F. Ansel, of Greenville.

The board was organized with the election of Mr. Ansel as president. They were in frequent conference with Dr. Preston, the president, and tonight announced that by a hearty and unanimous vote the plan was finally consummated by which Chloro becomes the only presbyterial college for girls in South Carolina.

Great enthusiasm has already been awakened and the retiring president and all in attendance, including the presbyteries of Greenville sincerely believe that a brighter day is dawning for the college which has already attained success in its striving for higher education.

The exact business details cannot be learned, but it is understood that the college is secured to the presbyteries of Free Will, the president, and tonight announced that by a hearty and unanimous vote the plan was finally consummated by which Chloro becomes the only presbyterial college for girls in South Carolina.

EVER WATCHFUL.

A Little Care Will Save Many Chester Readers Future Trouble.

Watch the kidney secretions. If they have the amber hue (health), the discharges not excessive or frequent. Do not use "back-draw" sediments. Contains no "back-draw" sediments.

Doan's Kidney Pills will do this for you.

They watch the kidneys and cure them when they're sick of Southern Bell Telephone Co. residing on Frantz street, Union, S. C., says: "Backache and kidney trouble has annoyed me for two years. A dull aching pain across the middle of my back was relieved after sitting that I was unable to get up without assisting and sometimes a sharp shooting pain would strike me as if a knife were going through me. The kidney secretions were very dark and full of sediments, and I had great difficulty to retain them, particularly at night, and my rest was disturbed half a dozen times during the night. In spite of using different remedies my condition remained the same until I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box and tried them according to directions. The kidney secretions cleared up, became regular, I could rest well at night, the backache disappeared and my trouble has entirely gone away after I finished using the pills."

Lowville, April 28.—Most of the farmers have finished planting corn and the larger portion of their corn-rows they will be completed until "General Green" shall have made his appearance with the coming up of cotton and corn. The farmers were very much pleased to see a satisfactory season, refreshing and seasonable shower yesterday afternoon. The recent rain will be especially helpful, as it will add to the timely planted crops to germinate and baffle the ground. Fortunately the rain was not heavy and laid enough to cause the ground to crack. Rev. Mr. Jones will officiate, and Mrs. Catherine Wyman, arrived at Lowville this morning from Chester, where she had been visiting the past week. They will visit relatives and friends at this place the coming week. Rev. Mr. Jones will occupy the pulpit at the Presbyterian church Sunday night.

Below is given the honor roll of the Lowville High School for eighth scholars and over, including individuals, as follows:

Following are those who are highly distinguished:
