“GET THE HABIT”

When you want a suit to make you look good, without damaging your pocket book but little, it will pay you to “Get the Habit” some of your neighbors have of buying Suits of Collins. You have the satisfaction of knowing you have the correct color, cut, and swing. Some of our competitors call them “freaks” simply because they cannot show these up-to-the-hour garments.

IMMIGRANTS FOR THE SOUTH.

Sturdy People from Central Europe Land at Galveston.

What the south may expect through immigration from abroad as a source of relief from its labor problem was suggested in the landing one day last week of more than a thousand Poles, Rumanians, Jews, Germans, Bohemians and other Europeans at Galveston, most of them destined for Texas ports and described as a healthy, strong-looking lot of men, women and children, ready and willing to hustle for their homes. They came by one of the vessels of the North German Lloyd Steamship company, and the experiment of establishing a line direct from Bremen to Galveston has been so successful that Mr. Friedrich Von Filla, a director of the company, who has been studying conditions in the south, announces that on his return to Germany he will recommend the establishment of another line to New Orleans, which he regards as the gateway to the great agricultural states of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia. In an interview with the New York Herald Mr. Von Filla says that European immigrants are beginning to learn that there is something more in America than New York, and he suggests that southern states in need of good farmers, of whom hundreds of thousands will arrive in this country within the next few years, cooperate with this company in bringing the south to their attention. He expresses the belief that while Italy will continue to send immigrants here and Russia will continue to pour Jews into the cities, the next flood of immigration will come from the German districts of northern Russia, Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary, and that they will be of the type of the man that the south needs. He says: “The people who are now turning their backs to America are agriculturists, and I fully expect to see a great exodus of them to your shores. Some will go to South America, some will go to the West, and some will go to the South. America will be glad to have them, and their destination will not be the center of population. They will want to bring to their own country a part of the soil. The German residents of the countries I have named are powerful men, of exemplary habits, and their ideas of success in life is to have homes of their own and to rear healthy families. “These people would be a boon to the south. They are accustomed to competitors and will work the same, and would bring about an almost magical development of the great areas which now lay waste and uncultivated. They are natural farmers and hard workers. They will start a new race in the south—will be the real pioneers. “Tens of thousands of such men, if consistently produced, America will be glad she left her doors open and pointed the way to the land of the cotton king. “There need be no fear in America now. Europe is unloading upon her miserable population. It is quite sure that many of the great nations, notably from Italy—are not the best men of nations, but those who come from central Europe are the kind of people that Europe needs and that America needs. Many of those who come from Italy spend part of the year here and return to their homes with their pockets full of American earnings. This is a custom which should be discouraged. But in the case of the people from Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, and Poland, they are not here for good. They never sell the land and start out with the ‘free’ ones who in their turn are sent to the same fate as a service and to seek for their homes in 1906.”

Who is Hoopling the Stream.

The moral of the famous fable of the Wolf and the Lamb is not far out of its bearing upon the whiskey situation in South Carolina. The ad vocates of whiskey, both in dispensary circles and in high licensed circles are constantly crying out that prohibition is a farce. It is a farce, they help most to make it such. It is not the prohibitionists. They are striving to make it effective. The whiskey man points his finger at the prohibitionists and says: “Did I not tell you it would fail? To be sure you did, and you are doing all in your power to make it fail. You muddy the water and then lay the sin at the door of the prohibitionist. That is the situation. If some of our citizens were as anxious to see the cause of prohibition succeed as they are now anxious to see it fail, we would soon have a vast improvement in our situation. If more of our church members would stop drinking wine and themselves they could more consistently strive for the suppression of the liquor traffic. Moreover, let us face this fact squarely: Nobody is attempting to prove that prohibition prohibits. A prohibitory law against anything whatsoever is an admission of the impossibility of fulfillment. If it were possible to have absolute prohibition there would then be no necessity for any law upon the prohibition subject. Were it possible to enforce absolutely the law against murder—that is, to put an end to all murder—there would be no need for such a law. The law is a school master to bring us to better things. It is a task for the wayward lamb. It has no place in a system of perfection. It is to do with imperfection. No, the trouble is not with prohibition. Let us cease dodging the issue, and let us put the blame where it belongs—upon the shoulders of our lawless and depraved.—Union Times.

Farmers' Institutes This Season.

Prof. J. N. Harper, of Clemson College, director of farmers' institutes, writes: “The time has come when these institutes can be made of great value to the farmers of this state and we are going to put forth every effort to make the institutes this season a perfect success. The Southern Railway has again kindly granted Clemson College the use of a vestibule car to be used in this institute work and the college is going to have this car fitted up with material to demonstrate in a practical way the work that is being done at Clemson College. We will have specimens of minerals from our geological department, showing the mineral wealth of this state. We will have from the entomological department, specimens of all of the insects which are found in this state, and will distribute literature and make lectures on methods of combating these insect pests. We will have an exhibition in the car room of forty varieties of cotton, thirty varieties of corn, sixty varieties of cowpeas, fifteen varieties of wheat. And we will have experts with us to lecture on these various plants, pointing out the good features of these different varieties. We will have experts to describe lectures upon horticultural subjects and will have exhibited in the car material showing the different methods of pruning grapes, fruit trees, etc. We will also have a number of varieties of pecans on exhibition. Besides this we will have the latest and most improved apparatus for handling milk. We will have cream separators, and milk testers, and if the farmers desire, we will put these upon lectures upon the care of the lettings the farmers see how these different machines work. We will have diagrams and charts showing the conformation of dairy and beef cattle and our experts will deliver lectures upon the breeding, feeding and care of all kinds of live stock. We will also have sections upon soil improvement, veterinary science and the diseases of our common agricultural plants. We will have with us in this car a magic lantern and we will give illustrated lectures upon a number of agricultural subjects. These lectures will give the results of the experience of a great number of practical farmers and the results of experiments being performed at this college and other agricultural colleges over the country. We will have views showing the effect of different fertilizers when applied to cotton, corn, wheat, oats and other farm products. We will also have sections upon the compounds that go into the manufacture of fertilizers and will have experts to deliver lectures upon the value of these compounds when put into fertilizers. We will have material to show the proper way of making grafts, the best method of pruning grape vines—all of this with the view of obtaining the greatest quantity and best quality of fruit. In this car will also be on exhibition the uniform success of the students in other departments of the college aside from that of agriculture. For example, medicines, dissected organs, prepared by the students, in anatomy and fabrics of all kinds made by the textile students. We will have with us gentlemen to lecture upon educational subjects at the evening meetings.

decrease in the same ratio that the case of Dr. King's New Life Pills in this city. They are a free remedy and bring quick and reliable relief from constipation and the ill growing pains about the stomach and bowels. They are sold by the Chester Drug Co. and Johnson & Co. in all the South.

Stomach Troubles.

Mrs. Joe Martin, an old and highly respected resident of Florence, Miss., was sick with stomach trouble for more than six months. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets cured her. She writes: “I feel now as if anything I want and see the prospect of going to the world for that time will not make me sick.”

The Old Barroom Element.

Sanctified dispensaryists, laboring valiantly for the redemption of South Carolina's moral state, are desperately afraid that “the old barroom element” will get a foothold if the dispensary is eliminated. They are apprehensive that that pernicious “element” is lacking the local option movement. And many well-meaning prohibitionists are still following the dispensary with that wool pulled over their eyes. Where is the “old barroom element” against which Senator Tillman and the lesser dispensary leaders inveigh? Wherever that element is found in parties it will be found in the dispensary ranks. Those who wish confirmation of this statement need go no farther than the capital of South Carolina, the headquarters of the dispensary. The “old barroom element” so denounced by the dispensary's big chief is readily traced. Its influence can be followed from the great meetings to the conventions. If there is a single blind tiger or one unit of “the old barroom element” in the city of Columbia that is aiding with the State in its fight against the dispensary we are in blissful ignorance of the fact. Whoever a representative of either of those elements, as found in politics, can afford assurance of where he stands in regard to this newspaper. First, last and all the time he is fighting. The State and advocating the dispensary. This is quite natural, but it is difficult to understand how sensible people can take stock in Tillman's ignorance that the dispensary people are antagonistic to “the old barroom element.” The latter is supporting the former. They are hand in glove.

Why We Haven't Changed Our Advertisement

We have not had time, but in spite of the rush we must take time to thank the enormous crowds that have heeded the words of wisdom uttered, that money saved is better than money made. We are trying to keep a stock of Bone Dry Corn, White Clipped Oats and Water Ground Meal which we offer at all times for less money than any retail dealer can afford to sell. We also keep a stock of the Best Patent Flour which we sell off at $2.35 per hundred we defy competition on this grade, also offer you the best second patent for less money than any one will sell it for.

THIS IS OUR PROPOSITION:

To sell anything in the Heavy Grocery Line for Less than any Retail Dealer.

Our way of doing business is everything exactly as represented or money refunded, so if anything we write about strikes you, come and see about it.

We will offer one car Liberty Mills Meal, guaranteed fresh and to keep fresh, for 30 days, at $1.35; one car a little off for $1.15. We are headquarters for Tobacco, Molasses, Bacon and Lard.

Come and see us and we will make good. Yours for Business

San Francisco

Will rise again. Yes, the six, eight and ten stories will crumble and tumble before the iron and glass builders of stupendous towers, piercing the very azure above. An amazed world will whisper under its breath, "What Next?" Beneath the unfathomable depths of old blue ocean, pneumatic tubes will carry mail and matter, swifter than the winds can fly, faster than time itself can speed. There will be more Germans and Italians there than in their own native lands, and America, stretching from the Arctic to the Antarctic, will Americanize every square foot of the earth. Ah! It is hard to say, but when we go back two years and see what impossibilities have been melted down into such vast and stupendous realities, how steadily upward and onward the majestic march of progress, how undaunted the children of genius, and the scholars of invention and progression. It is hard to say, peering through the century ahead, if there is really any limit to the ability and ambition of men. In the meantime the Red Racket Store, loaded to the sidewalk with Genuine Bargains, purchased from the square, the queer, the wavering and the fallen, will crowd on all sail and go for all records with the very best values for the Least Money.

W. R. NAIL'S Red Racket Store, 101-103-105 Main St., Chester, S. C.

That Serge Suit of Ours at $15 is well worth looking at. IT'S a wonder for the money. Built "Summer-way" with cummer coolness, and with all the shapeliness of a heavy-weight garment. The coats are large and roomy, with broad graceful shoulders and light-fitting collars. The trousers are liberally cut, slightly pegged, and made with or without turn-ups. There are a lot of little touches that give nobleness and individuality to the whole garment. The fabric, fashion and finish is better than the price deserves—$15.
