MACADAM ROADS.

Farmers of Rockingham Opposed to Building Roads, After a Year's Experience.

The following "clippings" from an exchange of letters to and from a Charlotte paper:

"No enterprise has advertised Rockingham county and Charlotte better than the macadam roads that started from the city far into the country. The lanes of these thoroughfares have been recorded in history, and have been mentioned in many stories and epistles. Hardly a month passes that some one or some party does not come here to study the roads, the wisdom of building them and the advantage that they have on land value and the people generally.

One of the most interesting campaigns of recent years has been the program in Rockingham county where the question of a $300,000 bond issue in that state. Individuals and delegations have come here to see the macadam roads and to get their own points for and against the roads they could. The following resolutions adopted by a delegation that spent one day of last week here and published in the Beidville Review of May 4, will be read with interest throughout the country:

The delegation of farmers, who went to Mecklenburg county Thursday to examine into the conditions there with reference to the macadam roads, returned here and were very enthusiastic over the trip. There were seventeen in the party, every farmer except one having invited here against Rockingham's bond issue. The delegation was headed by Samuel J. Meador, who is supporting the measure. He stopped over in Guilford, which has recently voted bonds in order to satisfy himself if the bond issue is best.

The delegation brought back a great many affidavits and statements signed by officers and farmers of Mecklenburg. The Review is asked to print the following:

We, the undersigned, members of the delegation of voters and taxpayers of Rockingham county, have visited Mecklenburg county for the purpose of inspecting the macadam roads. Within the voters of Rockingham county who have had a long experience of inspecting macadam roads. To know what we have ascertained on the subject, we submit the following statements of facts:

Thursday morning we were met and accompanied on a tour of inspection of the roads by a number of prominent citizens. We were shown a number of roads, stopping at farm houses and talking with the farmers who lived both on and off the macadam roads. Many of us visited the road-working camps, and met Mr. Little, supervisor, and the gentlemen who have charge of the road making in that county. We have the testimony of farmers as follows:

First, That the assessed value of farms lands for taxation is $8 to $10 per acre.

Second, That said lands, lying six to eight miles from Charlotte, can be sold at $300 or $600 per acre.

Third, That the poll tax is now $2 and that two or three years ago it is $1.50.

Fourth, Certain farmers, living six to seven miles from Charlotte stated that in nine or ten years, an average pair of mules, would haul two tons of fertilizer from Charlotte to their farms at a load and make two trips per year.

Fifth, It was stated that this road building has been going on in Mecklenburg county for 22 years and that they have 140 miles of road built. Numerous farmers and business men stated that if they had to begin anew they would prefer to vote a bond issue than to follow the methods that have been pursued, for reasons as follows:

First, That the roads they now have could be built in four or five years, and they would have a better permanent benefit many years ahead.

Second, That people who are paying for roads now, are the ones who are to reap the comparative benefits of the roads and that coming generations will enjoy the benefits without having shared the burden.

Next, A number of the delegation found any man who was opposed to the system. It is believed by us that we have sought information on this point—that the roads of Rockingham county can be built, as proposed by the bill, $2,000 per mile, or less. We find, also, that the average cost of repairing our proposed roads would be only $1,500 per annum. At the same time, we find that we cannot refrain and do not want to say that the roads we favor are better than the roads of Rockingham county, and support the measure and advise every one to make themselves comfortable.

A Harmless Celebration.

The 20th of May falls this year on Sunday, and for this reason the celebration of the Mecklenburg revolt by the Charlotte citizens on the 20th of the first Monday after the third Sunday of the present month, the same being the 20th of the month. Our patriotic neighbors have made great preparations for the event, and we have no doubt that it will be one of the most brilliant of the many celebrations which have been held in honor of an incident which never occurred, but that does not make it least difference in this case.

The fact that the celebration really honors the historic fact is in no sense detracted from the pleasure of the occasion, but, on the contrary, will rather contribute something to the pleasure of the affair. We have attended these Mecklenburg demonstrations more than once and always with a great deal of pleasure, because our patriotic neighbors have made very hospitable and patriotic people. What they have been able to do with their "Declaration" has only argued the fact that the said party was a Declaration or any other event of real historic significance. The "Declaration" only serves as a sort of peg upon which to hang the most important occasion in the life of the people of Charlotte, and to this extent its celebration ought to be encouraged by every proper means.

We do not object to the celebration, we have only sought to point out the fact that it has no serious historic significance. If the people of Charlotte are so anxious to have a series of attracting folks to their delightful town once a year at least, it would be well to deprive them of the only one that every citizen has the right to neglect, and that is a political campaign. It is true that the people of Charlotte, and to this extent its celebration ought to be encouraged by every proper means.

Fortunate Missourians.

Fashions in New York.

"There is an overwhelming demand for hand-made dresses, notably in embroidery and in the manipulation of lace," writes Mrs. Helen Berkeley Lloyd, in The Delineator for June. "The demand for these dresses is, wherever possible and the richest embroidery is lavished upon every textile from leather to lace. It is worthy of remark that only light-colored fabrics are accepted by smart dressers, and that the designs must show a certain degree of originality. So important is the demand for embroidery that it is seen even on gowns and coats made wholly of lace. Used in the form of bands and motifs the embroidery is inserted in lace all-over, just as in the case of the other materials. Edges of border the skirt and coat, and other places are introduced in the form of revers and bands. The embroidery may be done in plain or St. Gall, or it is hand-worked in the form of bands and motifs. ## This Is Sensible.

Recently there appeared in your paper a communication from Orange, Va., on the rules governing the primary election as conducted by the democratic party in this state. The gentleman referred to is very eloquent in his criticism of the present rules, and he would like to see the present rules one must either have very little confidence in the voters, or have little respect for the rights of the citizen. Postmaster Robbed.

G. W. Foster, Postmaster at Riverdale, N. Y., writes that he was robbed of all his money, including his salary, by a man who had been appointed to the office of postmaster. He has ever since been a candidate in every election for some position, with nine years' poll tax due and a penalty paid on the first. It really seems to him that the man who had been appointed to the office of postmaster, with nine years' poll tax due and a penalty paid on the first. Reminding Last Year's Gown.

"It will be gratifying to learn," we read in the June Delineator, "that there never has been a season more propitious than the present to women who are desirous of renewing their wardrobe. It is a common mistake to think a smart wardrobe necessarily a costly one. Of tenor its smartness is due to good judgment in purchasing materials and to frequent remodeling. The wardrobe of the fashionable woman is a model for half-worn garments with great success, either with or without the aid of a seamstress. Stupendous Disaster to be Shown in Miniature—Destruction of San Francisco.

Time Limit on Freight.

Charleston, May 12.—The Manufacturers' Jobbers and Bankers' association is arranging for a fight on the railroads for them to observe the act of the legislature of 1905, regarding the prompt handling of freight. A meeting has been called for next week when a definite plan will be determined upon and the machinery of operation of the act put into effect. The act gives the scale of time allowed to the transportation companies to haul the freight, and it appears that the railroads have been paying no attention to the law and the association has now decided to force compliance with the act to the end of improving Charleston's trade.

Will rise again. Yes, the six, eight and ten stories will crumble and tumble before the iron and glass girders of stupendous towers, piercing the very azure above. An amazed world will whisper under its breath, "What Next?" Beneath the unfathomable depths of old blue ocean, pneumatic tubes will carry mail and matter, swifter than the winds can fly, faster than time itself can speed. There will be more Germans and Italians there than in their own native lands, and America, stretching from the Arctic to the Antarctic, will Americanize every square foot of the earth. Ah! It is hard to say, but when we go back 100 years and see what impossibilities have been melted down into such vast and stupendous realities, how steadily upward and onward the majestic march of progress, how unaided the children of genius, and the scholars of invention and progression. It is hard to say, peering through the century ahead, if there is really any limit to the ability and ambition of men. In the meantime the Red Racket Store, loaded to the sidewalk with Genuine Bargains, purchased from the square, the queer, the wavering and the illen, will crowd on all and go for all records with the very best values for the Least Money.

Concrete Examples.

If the Columbia Record's "concrete illustrations" was a little less at hand, it would oblige some of its readers...

And now it is up to the brethren to become faithful. Let us first and foremost tell us why we did not find out about this "revision of sentiment" before...

We have not called upon the brethren Gardner and Freeman, to look in to the "revision" matter, as the farmers of their counties have not yet known the blessings of the dispensary...

Reports from Columbia and observations on outgoing trains this week indicate that there were not enough dispensaries in the city to keep the visitors sober.

The state convention was entirely harmonious and did little more than routine business. The state and congressional campaigns are to be run together and will begin June 19th.

There is a case of anti-race-attitude and measles at 215 Columbia street, to which we invite the attention of President Roosevelt...

We commend to those whom it may concern the invitation to Room No. 18 of the Agers Building. We know nothing of the behavior complained of except from the report of the committee.

It is necessary to be sure a pressing invitation to the wood shed, that would be better than to walk for six weeks to the wood shed of the city hall.

The tetanus who attended the reunion in Columbia expressed high appreciation of the treatment accorded them. This is a compliment to the medical city, which has little less at hand.

Death at Hospital.

Mrs. G. W. Proffit, of Cross Hill, S. C., aged about 48 years, who came to Columbia for a week ago for an operation, died yesterday and her remains were shipped on the ten o'clock S. A. L. train last night to her place home for burial.

Past Mexican Veteran.

There is no longer a surviving soldier of the Mexican war, in Chester county. Being J. A. Thomas, of Hartwood, died Tuesday and was buried Wednesday. He was probably 90 years old. He was a member of the famous Palmetto regiment and had an arm at the gates of Mexico. He engaged in farming after returning from Mexico and was very successful, accumulating a good estate.

The Rev. Elias Mitchell.

Looking May 15.—I have made some inquiry relative to the life of the Rev. Elias Mitchell, which has been brought up in the columns of The Lantern by Aunt Betty, but without much success. All I can gather is that he had been engaged to preach the funeral of one of Pleasant Pendergrass's daughters.

The names of persons who had been invited to the funeral, which took place at that morning place, like that of Moses of old, is still enveloped in mystery. He is said to have been a man of great force of character, with an individuality of his own that greatly impressed men. His education was limited, but his explanation of the scriptures was full of logic and common sense. He filled the earth for a support and studied his sermons as he followed his plow, preaching during his spare time to congregations gathered in the woods and under brush arched. Most of the graveyards had stands, as they were called, surrounding the graves at the purpose of preaching funerals, which was very common at that day.

Some early crops have been shipped lots of from 50 to 80 barrels and have realized as high as $5 to a barrel. The yield promises to be about 200 barrels to the acre, from 50 to 500 barrels to the acre, and on some farms the product will reach 80 barrels to the acre.

To Encourage Cotton Growing.

The following resolution was passed at the last meeting of the Orangeburg Cotton Growers' Association: Whereas, the effort to curtail the production of cotton by decreasing the acreage is meeting with only partial success, and it being absolutely necessary to curtail production or increase consumption, if the farmer is to realize a remunerative price for his cotton; and

Whereas, the Trust has raised the price of jute products nearly 50 per cent this year, which the farmer will be called upon to pay; and Whereas, the Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association, at their last annual meeting, unanimously passed a resolution endorsing the use of cotton covering for all products raised by the farmer, such as sugar, salt, grain, etc. It is resolved, That this association of Orangeburg county hereby pledge itself and every individual member to strenuously advocate the use of cotton covering for every article for which it can possibly be used, and further pledge ourselves to give preference in buying to all articles covered, even should the price be higher on that account. Also, that, if the price of jute products is raised, the resolution passed by the county papers, and to send a copy to the state president of the Cotton Association with the request, that this matter be taken up with each county association in the state and pressed to a definite determination without delay.

Why Bystanders in the Row.

During the famous deadlock fight in the County Court House at Charleston, S. C., Benjamin Butler favored a Sunday session. "But as I am, I have some respect for God's day," replied Sam Randall, of Pennsylvania.

"Don't the Bible say that it is lawful to pull your ox or ass out of a pit on the Sabbath?" asked Butler, on having thirty-seven assess on your side of the house and I want to get them out of the ditch tomorrow. I think I am engaged in holy work.

"I expect some day to see you in a laborer's world." "You'll be there, as you are here, a member of the lower world," snarled back the general, with telling effect.

"During the bitter fight against 'Good Roads' the House was thrown into confusion by a member of the opposition pointing to the painting of the 'Slave of Yorktown' hanging in the hall, gravely accused Speaker Reed of meddling with the picture. Reed, who had already seen the picture in order to make up a quorum. The general always wore a tremendously high collar, so he was in fact that Representative Wm. Campbell took it out from under the ferrule of his cane and inquired, to the amusement of the House, 'Is Gen. Spotswood within?'"

One of the most famous of Reed's retorts was made at the expense of Springer, of Illinois. The "Matine Glind" had just read one of Springer's own special letters to the editor of the latter's argument, just concluded. The Illinoisan launched into philology upon the privilege of progressive taxation. The Illinoisian replied: "I honor them for it," he continued. "An honest man is the noblest work of God. As for me, Mr. Chairman, in the words of an eminent American statesman, 'I would rather be right than be president.'"

"The gentleman from Illinois needs't worry, Mr. Chairman," drawled Reed. "I would rather be right than be president." "The gentleman from Illinois needs't worry, Mr. Chairman," drawled Reed. "I would rather be right than be president."

Madstone for Sale.

A man in Oklahoma has a madstone for sale. He says he will trade it for improved city property. He doesn't give any reason for selling, however, but it is a little suspicious. If he had said that the owner has no further use for same, or owner is about to leave town, it would put a good deal of water into the matter. A man doesn't fly off to trade a genuine Illinois madstone for a three-story brick apartment house or a stone terrace with stationery and bath.

No man, not even an Oklahoma man is going to give away a choice corner lot, improved or otherwise, for a few alleged madstones. A madstone that's worth any commercial consideration whatever must have a pedigree, and a chronological table, and a list of cases that is certified by the county clerk.

There are too many geological specimens in Oklahoma and else where that are not madstones.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Invited to Room No. 16. (Communicated.) If the rude youngsters who were so boisterous, unruly and disrespectful all along the march to the cemetery the 16th inst. will go to room No. 16 in the Agura building, they will be given a few lines to read that will teach them something about the cause that was being commemorated, so that on future occasions, if they contain a spark of gentlemanly manhood, they will know how to conduct themselves on Memorial Day.

The children of the present generation should be taught to respect the noble history of their great ancestors at the earliest possible age, so that they will at least approach the city of the dead in a decent and orderly manner. The marshals on the recent parade had no control over them, except to keep them off the lines of march and inquire them to be quiet. Some obeyed, but fully two dozen loud-mouthed, impudent kids kept up a regular rattle of pistol shots.

Come To The Fair. Subscription lists to the Chester County Fair fund have been mailed to each member of the county committee, and it is hoped that work will be at once proceeded, so that by June 1st, the funds sufficient for the buildings of the fair grounds will be in hand. There are 1800 voters in Chester county. It is reasonable to suppose that fully one of those could subscribe $10 each. Some 15 or 20 others of the town have already put down $100 each. There is a guarantee of $1000 from another source. The old fair left a sum of some $100 to $200. It should not be difficult to raise $1000 for this most worthy enterprise.

A certificate of stock amounting to $10 will represent 1 share. If you have 20 shares you will be entitled to 20 votes in the stock holders' meeting. Every subscriber will have a voice in the proceedings. A board of directors, or an executive committee will be elected, and you will have a part to the naming of officers. Take as much stock as you can. Help swell the proceeds, so that the enterprise will be started with enough capital to keep it on a prosperous and a dividend paying basis. Let it be understood that this is a Chester county institution. The larger the number of stockholders the greater interest will be manifested. Don't kick, or criticize. Don't talk about this paying. If you are absolutely unable to pay the money, give it a kind word anyway and help with your influence to make it a success. Remember that a well managed county fair will do more to keep the people together, to benefit the farms to enrich the county and to advertise everybody than any other one thing. Come across with the cash and look happy.

Dots From Oakridge. Oakridge, May 15. The writer has returned home after a very pleasant visit of a few days with friends near Leeds. During our short stay we were unable to get acquainted with many of the people or see much of the country.

On Sunday we went to the country Baptist church, and the funeral of the little child of Mr. and Mrs. James McCallum. The funeral was conducted by Rev. J. S. Snyder, of Chester, and the little body was laid to rest in the cemetery at Galvry. The little mound was entirely covered with beautiful flowers.

We saw in places where the frost had damaged the cotton considerably. Some will be to plant over. Most of the corn in that section was planted early and was looking fine.

Evis of Eating Alone.

There are some few happily disposed individuals, says the London Leader, who can dine alone, and not mind the empty seats around them. With the majority it is different.

The average man puts his proverbial foot upon his neighbor and he will lengthen out the meal with due deliberation—by reading a little with, and more between the courses.

Mr. J. W. C. Gardner, who is noted to help and too little to interfere with indignation. In fact, he will provide light, quiet, unobtrusive companionship with his neighbor.

Every one knows that violent bodily exertion is bad just after a meal, and mental exertion is equally so. Wise people do not even eat their meals after dinner, and objection of after-dinner speakers under such conditions never excite in their hearers any sense of their own importance.
