BASEBALL

The Chester boys were not contented with taking two games out of the three in Rock Hill, but decided to do the same tomorrow here.

SECOND GAME. For a while Friday afternoon it looked as if Rock Hill was going to get away with the game, but Chester kept coming and by a superb batting rally that drove Routh from the rifle pit came in winners. In the second inning Routh struck out. Chester pitched the battle seemed lost. McKnight was substituted for Biel in the box, however, and the upward fight commenced, the locals finally turning the contest into a swiftest and winning handily. Routh was relieved by James, the red-headed roller and crack batsman. James pitched good ball, but the locals had done their batting clothes, and James' benders suited them. As well as those that Routh had been serving. Miller's hitting was the feature for Chester, while James, the slugger, put one between center and right for a home run. Score: Chester.....20696040-12 13 R H E Rock Hill.....08000100-9 9 6

THIRD GAME. Saturday's concluding combat was one of the greatest ever pulled off on the local lot. Temple pitched magnificent ball, his team mates backed him up superbly and in addition hit like fiends. Drake's running catch of what seemed a sure hit was about the best ever seen here. The appended box score tells the story more eloquently than words can.

Box score for the third game between Chester and Rock Hill. Includes columns for runs, hits, errors, and individual player stats for both teams.

Here are the averages of the Chester team for the first week of play: BATTING: A. B. H. P.C. McKnight, who relieved Biel in the Friday's game, pitched about as pretty a game as has ever been pitched on the local lot. He went into the box with a six run lead against him, but with good support and heavy hitting beat Rock Hill down and forged ahead. It was a plucky up-hill fight for the Chester crowd.

There have been large crowds at all the games played so far, and at the present rate is no doubt about the Chester supporting a League team.

YESTERDAY'S GAME. The following is from 'The States' report. ORANGEBURG, May 18.—Orangeburg's hard luck has with her yet and she twice lost her game this afternoon, the best the Elliston could bring. The A rank error by Miller in the fourth game Chester hit three runs and again in the third. Prim got a home run, but was called out for fouling third. The game was slow but exciting and called at the end of the ninth on account of darkness.

Cost of Raising Cotton.

An article has been going the rounds of the papers this past week: "What It Cost to Raise a Pound of Cotton," and giving actual figures and items of cost.

Eight acres of land in some part of Georgia raised 1960 pounds of lint, at a cost of $183.00, or 9 25 cents per pound, using 1 ton fertilizers at $25.00 and about $2.00 for seed. The manual labor, sowing, picking, and the horse for that crop cost him $49.50. He made four bales of little less than 500 pounds each, 20 hundred pounds seed. If he got 11 cents for his lint and $1.00 for his seed, he sold his crop for $253.50, deducting cost, $183.00, leaves net $69.50, or $7.20 net per acre.

There are some features of this that we wish to hold up for other farmers' inspection, study, and warning. In the first place, he had just four acres too much land in that cotton patch. By reducing his area one-half he would have saved one-half the cost of labor, sowing, picking. Then instead of paying out $49.75 for labor, he would have paid $24.37, a saving of $25.38 per acre. If he had given the same quantity and manure to four acres that he scattered over eight, he would have made as much lint and seed as he did, and made it easier.

Then again: He "broke stalks" at a cost of $1.00, "cleans off stalks" at a cost of $2.00 and runs out stalks at a cost of $1.00. That middle item is one that is seldom seen, if ever, in this upland county; certainly land that takes two acres to grow one bale is not much troubled with too rapid a growth to "run out" after one breaking. Again he charges "storing guano" $2.00, and "storing manure" $2.00. How come these items on a farm? His total cost should not have exceeded $24.75 for manual and horse labor, and the total cost for raising the crop should have been $12.37.

Selling lint and seed at same figure as given, he would have cleared $12.64 per acre, instead of $9.70, which he actually did; a net gain of 45 per cent. — Farm and Factory.

Mad Dog Bites Ton.

Greenville, May 15. — A small shepherd pup, displaying symptoms of hydrophobia, was killed yesterday morning and sent to the Pasteur Institute in Atlanta for examination. The dog yesterday bit five children of Mr. B. M. Pearce, two children of Mr. Frank Wilson and two children of Mr. B. L. Chandler. In addition to biting a colored nurse who was looking after the children of Mr. Pearce, who lives on Stone avenue. Soon after the children had been bitten by the dog the animal began to show signs of sickness of some sort. A physician, was called and attended the wounds of the nine children and the colored girl, who are showing no signs of hydrophobia. The dog was examined before he was killed, but the doctor was unable to diagnose the trouble as hydrophobia, though he recommended that the animal be killed and sent to Atlanta for expert examination.

Greenville, May 15. — B. H. Pearce of the Peace Printing house received a telegram from the Pasteur Institute to day telling him that the dog which bit his children was suffering with hydrophobia. The children, nine of them, have been sent to Atlanta for treatment. — Special to The State.

Abolition of the Saloon.

The advocates of the liquor traffic say that the abolition of the saloon will injure business. "Whose business?" The Hon. Rufus Jones, M. P. said truly: "I met the salooned part of the liquor traffic. He was lying in the gutter. He had no hat; the hat trade was suffering. His coat was full of holes; the tailoring trade was suffering. He had holes in his boot-the shoe trade was suffering. He had no socks; the hosiery trade was suffering. He had no shirt; the linen trade was suffering. He was dirty; the soap trade was suffering. I could hardly mention a useful industry in this country that was not affected by this man's 'sobriety.' Multiply this by all the cases of habitual drunkenness and you have some idea of the injury to our national business, and only the saloonkeeper is advantaged one whit." — Southern Presbyterian.

An Accommodating Hen.

Mr. John D. Mills, who lives three miles north of Lancaster and owns one of the best farms in the county, has an exceptionally accommodating hen. Every other day this fowl lays an egg weighing four ounces or thereabouts and containing two yolks; on the other days she lays an ordinary sized egg; and during the present season she has kept this up regularly and never tried to sit. Mr. Mills says this hen is just the kind he needs at this place since he has a family of five children.
