LOCAL NEWS.

Miss Rena DeVega has returned to New York. Miss Fannie Withers is home from Darlington. Miss Elizabeth Brandt has been in Rock Hill a few days visiting Miss Hattie Stevens. Messrs. W. H. McNairy and J. B. Atkinson attended commencement at Winthrop. Misses Edna McClure and Kate Rosborough are home from Converse college. Mr. J. B. Atkinson will go over to Greenville tomorrow to attend commencement at Furman. They say the children's part in the opera next week will be one of the most interesting features. A colored baseball team of Yorkville came down here yesterday and beat our buggies 22 to 11. Miss Bessie Lowry, of Lowryville, went to Due West Wednesday to visit friends and attend commencement. Misses Ethel Cross, Margie Leckie, Janie Carroll and Lucie Withers returned yesterday morning from Winthrop college. Mrs. Nannie Roddey, widow of the late M. C. Roddey, has moved to Lancaster to live with her mother, Mrs. Edwards. Persons interested will take notice that the county superintendent of education publishes two notices in this issue. Mrs. S. C. Brown, of Newton, N. C., is visiting her brother, Mr. E. F. Robinson. They had not seen each other before for 26 years. In the opera "The National Flower," to be played one night next week, a chorus of eighty-six voices will sing beautiful, catchy airs. Mr. Henry B. Refo, of Wainboro, spent a day or two here with his brothers and his sister, Mrs. Thompson, returning home yesterday. Miss Olive Gaines, of Greenwood, and Miss Estelle Campbell, of Newton, N. C., stopped over with Miss Ethel Cross, returning from Winthrop college. Miss Estelle McCarty, one of the Converse college graduates, after receiving her diploma, was married to Mr. W. T. Harris, of Spartanburg. The ceremony was at the residence of Mr. P. W. Harris. A fire in Columbia yesterday morning destroyed three six-room dwellings and a two-story farm store belonging to Mr. W. D. Melton. The property was valued at $6,000. Insured, but amount unknown. President Hartzog has announced that farmers' institutes will be held in a limited number of counties this summer. Where one is desired it is necessary to send in a petition by July 1st, signed by 15 citizens. That extract from the diary of J. T. M., on another page, is interesting to all who give attention to the weather, the crops and various other things. The spring and early summer of 1886 seem to have been worse than this year so far. Just as the farmers were getting to work again the rain came. There was a considerable shower here yesterday morning before day, and during the forenoon a very heavy rain. Perhaps the showers were not general. An opera, "The National Flower," will be given by home talent at the opera-house one night next week. The proceeds will be equally divided between the park association and the school library. All parties interested in either or both of these causes please take notice. Book at the market of Timmie & Haswell, 8 1/2 to 12 1/2 cts. Stew beef 5 to 6 1/4 cents.

Janie McKee, of Cornwell, spent yesterday and last night with friends in the city. A. G. Brice, Esq., went to Due West today. He is medical officer of the Euphemian society. Rev. J. S. Moffatt will preach the annual sermon at Jones Seminary, All-Healing, N. C., next Sabbath. Mr. John Boyd McKee, of Cornwell, got a severe fall Wednesday when mounting a bicycle, caused by his foot slipping. The handle bar gave him a dig in the short ribs which laid him out for a while, and he is still sore de combat, but is improving. Mr. C. Williams went from Memphis down into Tate and DeSoto counties, Miss., to visit the children of his sister, Mrs. Richard Prestley. He found them doing well and apparently useful citizens. Mr. Williams also visits the Memphis people all that could be expected in entertaining their visitors. He saw no evidence of extortion. We have a few heads of wheat from the farm of Mr. L. E. Sigmon, of Banks. Some of them are of the bearded variety, on which the grains are remarkably large, standing almost straight out. The other variety seems to be fine specimens. All these heads are remarkable for their fullness and weight rather than their length. Messrs. L. D. Childs, undertaker, and J. Henry Gladden, coroner, and Dr. J. M. Brice, physician, complying with insurance regulations, made certificate yesterday in the case of Conductor M. C. Roddey, who died in Memphis at the Nicholson hotel recently. We have heard that he had $8,000 insurance, but do not speak with authority. Mr. J. M. Fudge went to his plantation five miles in the country yesterday morning to look after his oats. After the rain came up he found that his horse had broken loose from where she was hitched and had come home. He had to leave his buggy and walk home. Two or three streams were all over the bottoms and he had to wade over the foot logs, some places over his knees. Steak at the market of Timmie & Haswell, 8 1/2 to 12 1/2 cts. Stew beef 5 to 6 1/4 cents. Married. Eureka Mills, by Rev. J. S. Moffatt, Thursday, May 30, 1901. Mr. John Benson and Miss Neely Jane Bell. Marriages. Miss Anita Hall, who has just arrived from Cuba, is to be married next Wednesday at the home of her sister, Mrs. M. S. Lewis, to Capt. M. B. Stokes of the U. S. army. Two other marriages are to take place next week, but as we have heard of no cards we will not announce them at present. School Entertainment Repeated. By special request a part of the programme rendered by pupils of the Negro graded school Monday night, will be repeated at the opera house Tuesday night, June 11th. Exercises beginning promptly at 8:30 o'clock. Proceeds will be used for the benefit of the school. Come one, come all and help a worthy cause. Admission: General admission 10 cents, reserved seats 15 cents. Respectfully, J. J. AGURS. The Churches. Rev. J. C. Stoll will preach Sabbath morning at the A. R. P. Church. No evening service. There will be no preaching at the Presbyterian church, the pastor being at Due West. Sabbath school as usual. "One of the neglected graces of the Christian life" will be the theme of Sunday morning's sermon at the Baptist church. At night the subject will be "Some Cast-aways." This will be an evangelistic service. Over Half A Century. Maj. J. W. Reed took advantage of the reunion to visit two cousins in Mississippi whom he last saw before 50 and 51 years ago. He could hardly look across the years that had elapsed since he saw them as little girls, and realizes that they are grandmothers. He had a glorious time with his fair cousins. An opportunity to visit them was the real inducement to go to Memphis, and he feels that he was repaid several times the cost of the trip. Maj. Reed thinks the Memphis people did everything that could be expected to make the veterans enjoy the occasion.

Tillman and McSwain. Below we copy Governor McSwain's reply to Senator Tillman's strictures, and also another letter of the senator's in which he withdraws his resignation and indulges in a few more bitter flings at both the governor and Senator McLaurin. McSWAIN TO TILLMAN. Sir: Your letter of June 6th has been received. I have carefully noted its contents, and the most charitable view which I can take of it is that it was written in the heat of passion and without due consideration. I note that you say that I have "transcended" my authority, and that the governor "can not compel a member of the United States senate to hold his commission and exercise the functions of that office if he chooses to surrender it," and that you "decline for the present to withdraw" your resignation. Had you read carefully my letter addressed to you and to Senator McLaurin, you must have seen that I did not express my desire to "compel a member of the United States senate to hold his commission and exercise the functions of that office," if he choose to surrender it. My sole purpose in returning the resignations was to ask you gentlemen to consider calmly and thoughtfully the consequences to the people of what I judged to be a hasty act, and I must confess that I am somewhat surprised at the tone of your answer to my revuest. I consider the course which I took in this matter to be for the best interests of the people of South Carolina, and I am responsible to them alone for my action. And, furthermore, I still believe that my course has met the approval of a majority of the citizens of the state, nor do I consider them "unthinking citizens," but men who know and recognize as fully as any people on earth the rights and duties and responsibilities of citizenship, and do not need the services of any one to tell them their duty. You insinuated that I have been "impudent" in "swallow the venom" of any present or would-be aspirants "who are not just yet ready for various reasons to enter the contest brought on so unexpectedly" and that for this reason my action has taken the direction it has, is unworthy of a man holding the high commission which has been given you by the people of South Carolina, and deserves notice in this connection. However, I may say for your benefit that I alone am responsible for my reply and will give account for the course I have taken to the people who honored me and not to any one individual. In this matter I have done what I thought best calculated to promote the present prosperity and contentment of the people of my state, and shall continue to do so regardless of what any one man may say or think of my course. I did not think that a political campaign in this manner could do any good. However, had the resignations been unconditional and unrestricted, my action might have been otherwise. With due respect for your opinion I think I have as high "conception of the office of senator and its powers" as you or any other citizen of this state, and you must have known that the brief interview to which you refer meant that I would simply meet the responsibility and perform my duty under the conditions. If you still wish to resign your commission and will send to this office an unconditional resignation, I will exercise the authority and power vested in me by the people. Respectfully, M. B. MCSWAIN. TILLMAN'S LAST SHOT. Senator Tillman writing from Trenton, June 5, says to the governor: "Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your telegram in which you say, 'I understand Senator McLaurin's letter to be a withdrawal of his resignation,' and I have read that worthy's communication in which he graciously consents at your request 'to look on to his commission as United States senator and continue to serve the state as he has done in the past to the best of his ability.'" This leaves me one of three alternatives. To appeal to the Democratic executive committee to take the matter up and determine what the best interest of the party requires to be done; to appeal to the senate itself as determined the question as to whether a resignation from that body, to take effect at some future time, is binding, or withdraw my own resignation. There are no precedents on this subject because in the hundred and twenty-five years of our national life, with more than 200 resignations from the senate, no senator has hitherto been willing to occupy the despicable position now assumed by Senator McLaurin, and founded on me. I am certain of one thing, that the executive of a state has no authority to decline a resignation that has been tendered, and I am equally certain that had your excellency confined your action within legal bounds that your appointees would be seated in the senate when that body meets in December, and hold their seats until the legislature should act in January. My chief regret is that I am forced by your action to engage in what the outside world will consider a game of office bouffe, by withdrawing my own resignation after Senator McLaurin's undignified and puerile action; but the purpose for which it was tendered has been thwarted by Senator McLaurin's precipitous acceptance of executive advice. Bob Acres has been outdone for once. As I have already said I had no motive or purpose in resigning except to force McLaurin's, and there is nothing for me to do but accept the situation and withdraw my own resignation, if it be lawful to do so. Yours respectfully, B. R. TILLMAN. Arm Broken. We failed to note a mishap that befell Miss Jane Brown a week or two ago. She went out to keep house for Mrs. Little Douglas while the latter was to be gone to Memphis. While sitting in the piazza, the floor, in which there was a defective spot, gave way under her feet which turned over and threw her to the ground, breaking a bone in her right arm and injuring her left hand. She was brought home, to Mr. W. R. Brown's, the next day and is getting on quite well. Encountered a McCormick. John Frazer, Jr., had a frightful experience with a reaper and binder Wednesday, on account of which he will be laid up for repairs for some time. While near where the reaper was at work, one of the lines dropped down and he ran in to pick it up and hand it to the driver, not thinking of the reel, which struck him and threw him in front of the knives. Deep and long gashes were cut both below and above the knee on one leg. His father, who was some distance off, was naturally terrified when he saw the situation, but was glad to find the injury no worse than it was. Mrs. Castles Dead. Rev. J. S. Moffatt received a telephone message this morning saying that Mrs. Sarah Castles died yesterday evening or last night at the home of her son, Mr. Warren Castles, near Wainboro. A few days ago she went home with her daughter-in-law, who had been here a few days. Yesterday afternoon, her daughter, Miss Janie, received a summons by wire to go to her at once as she was very sick. An hour later another telegram came saying she was sinking rapidly and could not last long. The remains will be buried today at 1 o'clock at Hopewell, Rev. J. S. Moffatt conducting the funeral service. Mrs. Castles' maiden name was Sterling, and we believe that her sister, Mrs. A. Marion, is the only member of the family now living. Mrs. Castles was well up in years and has been quite frail for some time. She and her daughter moved from their home in the country to town last winter. Items from Rock Hill Journal. Misses Triplett and Limer are visiting relatives in Ebenezer. Mrs. A. R. Banks, who has been quite ill, is now convalescing. Mrs. Newton Gaston is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Dr. Strait. Miss Mamie Poag is spending the week at Dr. Fennell's. Mrs. Horne and daughter, of Chester, are visiting Mrs. Dillingham. Mr. Bert Brice, of Chester, is with Mr. Barron Steele this week. Mrs. J. C. McFadden, of Chester, is visiting her brother, Major J. J. Waters. Miss Julia Simpson leaves tonight to attend commencement exercises at Due West college. Mr. Robt. Hall is spending a few days at the home of Mrs. M. L. Hall on his way to Chester.

Careful with Your Watch. No wonder a possessor of a good watch is careful into whose hands he leaves it for repair when it fails to do its work. We do thorough, guaranteed watch repairing. R. BRANDT, Under Tower Clock Chester, South Carolina.

The Situation.
 Until Senator McLaughlin's reply to Governor McWrenney's kind suggestion is received it is impossible to tell just "where we are at," but it is hardly probable that the junior senator will insist upon sacrificing himself when he is assured that the "dear people" do not wish to witness the spectacle this year. Senator McLaughlin has already decided that "I will withdraw my resignation if Governor McWrenney has requested it." Even with his reputation for many and sudden changes, the Bennettville senator can hardly afford after that statement to again change his mind. Having admitted the wisdom of the governor's suggestion—and incidentally the folly of the double resignation—Senator McLaughlin can find no excuse for now insisting upon the fight, unless it be to save his pride or unless he has some reason to feel confident of success. For Senator McLaughlin to insist, then, upon the resignation will be another of a series of surprises.

It was expected that Senator Tillman would protest his readiness to enter the contest, but it was not imagined that he would be quite so savage upon our patriotic and infamously little governor. His sarcastic references to the contents of "his excellency's" letter are really unkind, yet as usual the senior senator puts the case as strongly as possible from his standpoint and his bitter words are characteristic.

He does his best to convince the reader that Senator McLaughlin's immediate removal from the senate is necessary for the preservation of the republic. As much as we would like to see Senator McLaughlin get out of the body where he has indeed "misrepresented" South Carolina, we are not of the opinion that Senator McLaughlin is of sufficient consequence in national politics to affect the future of this country one way or the other. His vote has in times past been valuable to the republicans, but not the senate is safely republican and the worst McLaughlin can do in the eighteen months of his term yet remaining is to vote with the majority in opposition to the views of his constituents. This is humiliating to the South Carolina democrats who are responsible for his membership in the senate, but it is not important so far as the future of the United States is concerned, and Senator Tillman depends on to tell the public that Senator McLaughlin does not represent his people. Senator Tillman intimates that certain prospective candidates for his colleague's seat have "Imperturbed" your excellency to await their convenience." We are prepared to believe that there are good grounds for this suspicion—it is a suspicion merely—and while the governor was not moved to a creditable extent by a patriotic desire to shut off a wearisome and harmful contest it is quite possible that there were other influences controlling his action. The gentlemen who are burning with an unselfish ambition to become Tillman's colleague have been counting on having Senator McLaughlin as their chief opponent next summer. If Tillman can win up hill and down hill there will be nothing for them to chew on. Hence these patriots prefer letting McLaughlin alone until 1902 when they can have a good chance at him. Senator Tillman is doubtless fully aware of this desire on their part and he writes as if he knew the governor had been approached by them on the subject—which is another intimation that we will not dispute.

Anti-Third Term Doctrine.
 It is recalled that the anti-third term doctrine does not rest upon precedent alone. In 1875, the Democrats being in a majority, the house of representatives adopted a resolution declaring that "any departure from the time honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic and fraught with peril to our free institutions." It was adopted by a vote of 236 to 177; all the democrats and 70 of the 88 republicans voting for it. We have changed considerably, however, ever since 1875.—News and Courier.
