Montaleno, May 31.—The battle which commenced May 13, has concluded its first phase and still is in the full after the battle, the east-southwest victories. Across the water from here, under the hills of Hermand's outline slopes and upon the water falls where the Timavo crawls into daylight, exploration of the conquered ground is yielding curious results.

TUESDAY, JUNE 5.

Every war has its "slackers." We had them during the Civil war and we will have them in the present war. It has been over half a century since the conflict between the States but the "slackers" has not been forgotten and he is not respected even to this day. If you prove to be a "slacker" in this war the fact will be remembered long after you have passed over the river.

Those who do not yet become members of the Red Cross Society should consider the matter. There is only one dollar a year and it is through this organization that the men to enter the army are to receive medical attention and the future of the people who are so fortunate as to be left at home, to do their part will result in untold suffering of those who may become ill or wounded in the conflict.

There is an insistent and growing demand all over the country for government regulation of the price of foodstuffs. That the public is being robbed by price fixing, profiteering and speculating baby robbers is well known. The producer does not get the value of his product but when it reaches the consumer the price is at almost prohibitive. The members of congress are the representatives of the people and they do not know your desires unless you let them hear from you. You are a member of the firm and consequently have a voice in the management of the business. Write the gentleman where you stand.

According to the 1910 census of Chester county there should be about 2,343 registers. The government officials estimate that one person out of ten is subject to registration. Since the population of Chester county in 1910 was 29,425 it will be seen that almost 2,000 men were required to register.

There should be almost twice as many colored people registered as white. In 1910 there were 10,284 white people and 19,141 colored people. There were 5,263 white males and 9,248 colored males.

It has been estimated that the first selection of men from Chester county would call for approximately 150. This being the case the selection would be 63 white men and 87 colored men.

The citizen who is forever telling other people that they should do and who does "very little himself," is still in evidence and his daily duties are being "gashed" about the men who are today engaged to the various projects to list their names on the list of this country. This "self" some young man will fail to register and will possibly offend his country.

The length of this war is a matter of speculation; it may end within a few months and again it may continue for several years. The men who have been called upon to register should realize that the fighting to be done on the bloody battlefields will be done by men between twenty-one and thirty-one years of age. In making a war it takes men and money to fight and the man who is physically unable to serve in the military should be able to purchase a Liberty Bond.

If a man is financially unable to purchase a Liberty Bond he is excusable, but as the young men who are physically unable to serve in the military should be able to purchase a Liberty Bond they should be able to purchase a Liberty Bond. If you are able to purchase a Liberty Bond it is your patriotic duty to do so. If you are unable to purchase a Liberty Bond it is your patriotic duty to do so.

Trusting Army Surgeons.
Something about a suggestion on demand is made by The New York Herald Journal. The details ishment by our Government of four special camps for the training of the many new army surgeons—from 5,000 to 30,000—soon to be needed. The sort of instruction to be given for giving competence to this branch of the military service is entirely different from that of other officers, so that in the ordinary training camps the candidate for the position of army surgeon are subjected to many distractions and much of their time is wasted. The Journal thinks that four of the special camps are needed, one in the East and the others in the South, the Middle West, and on the Pacific Coast.

This is excellent advice. The duties of the army surgeon, nowadays, and expectations of what he shall do are in many respects new. As of old, care is a part of his work to cure for sick and wounded men, and to cure them of their ailments. This is now formed in base hospitals, however, and does not differ essentially from the work done in any city hospital. It is his duties, however, but his requirements are such that the civilian surgeon can meet them satisfactorily. At the new army hospital at Columbia, Ind., for example, which will soon be in operation, many young physicians and medical students will be trained in military surgery. The particular subjects which are distinctively so called, is chiefly occupied not in dealing with men who are in battle, but with those who are to be sent there, and whose best achievement is making and keeping them physically fit to hold their own against the fighting.

He must be, therefore, an expert practitioner of preventive medicine as applied to men living in army camps. He must be able to handle the duties of civil life—a sanitarian as much as he is a doctor, or more. To be efficient he must have an amount of general surgery, properly adapted to the army surgeon of old, and his little and rank must be, and in the modern army, military, not those of a non-combatant.

What the army surgeon, when thus equipped, can accomplish has been well shown in the present war. It has been notable, except in the Balkans, for the almost complete absence of the infectious fever which formerly was the result of the close contact of did rifles and cannon combined. All there has been shown by the lamentable spread of tuberculosis among the French troops the terrible knowledge that was as much the possession of the French Army and Corps of their British and German colleagues.

TAKE THE LOAN.
By Edward Everett Hale.
Come, freedom of the mind, come, meet the great demand.
True heart and open hand.
Take the loan!
For the hopes of the nation.
For the sword your brothers draw.
For liberty and law.
Take the loan!
Ye ladies of the land,
As ye love the gallant band,
Who have drawn a soldier's brand,
Take the loan!

Who would bring them what 'sake blood?
Who would give the soldier food?
Who would staunch their brother's blood?
Who would take their boots past by?
Who would join the paring crew,
When we bade them do or die,
As ye wished their triumph then,
As ye hope to meet again,
And to meet their gaze as men,
Take the loan!

Who could press the great appeal
Of our rank and carried steel?
Who would press the great appeal
Of our rank and carried steel?
Who would press the great appeal
Of our rank and carried steel?
Who would press the great appeal
Of our rank and carried steel?

SEEK AMERICAN STUDENTS.
Universities of France Desire More of Them.

Paris, May 25.—The hope expressed by Rene Viviani, the former French Premier and member of the French Commission which recently visited the United States, in his speech at the Chicago University that the intellectual relations between university circles in America and France might be further developed has given a fresh start to a movement intended to encourage American students in France.

The universities of Nancy, Grenoble, and Montpellier, as well as the University of Paris, have been examining ways of facilitating the work of Americans and of attracting greater numbers of them.

Formerly a birth certificate was a prerequisite to matriculation in French universities; a document that many American students could not produce. Any authenticated paper to establish their identity will suffice in the future.

Greater liberty in the choice of their courses will also be allowed. American students, heretofore the faculty has had them what they must study. The University of Paris is preparing a special course, comprising the principal subjects national in respect the great majority of Americans who come to France to learn the language, literature, art and history of France. No diploma will be granted for this course, which is intended only to satisfy the demand for a French national course.

The material welfare of American students in France is also to have more attention. An association of "freezers" called "Accueil Français" has been proposed to look after their well-being, introducing them into French families and French society where they may acquire a knowledge of the real France that cannot be gained on the boulevards or in the Latin quarter cafes.

Better lodgings and good, economical restaurants for students are also among the aims of this association.

AS PEACE MEDIUM
Maximilian of Austria, Minister at Berlin, Expressed by Newsletter.
His Answer.

Petrograd, May 31.—Maxim Gor'kiy the noted Russian author, publishes a detailed account of an attempt by D. Rizov, the Bulgarian Minister at Berlin, to inveigle him into clandestine negotiations for a separate peace. In the Novaya Zin, of which Gor'kiy is the editor, he prints Rizov's secret dispatch, occupying three columns, with concrete peace proposals. Although he himself is an almost fanatical advocate of peace, he announces Rizov.

The peace proposal was delivered to Maxim Gor'kiy at Petrograd, and is being published by two German agents, acting individually. Rizov begins by referring to the already in January he had approached the Russian Ministers at Stockholm and Christiania with a proposal to conclude "an honorable peace" between Russia and her foe. He received a rebuff immediately after the revolution. He renewed his attempt with the Russian Minister at Christiania, who was an old acquaintance, and got through the Minister a reply from Prince Paul Mikoloff, then the Foreign Minister in the temporary Government, that there could be no question of a separate peace.

Referring to the two republics, Rizov, announcing his return to his real friend, now approaches his acquaintance, Maxim Gor'kiy, at Petrograd, and asks him to act as a mediator between the two republics. He declares that Germany and Austria in no wise menace Russia's real freedom. He accuses Rizov of being the real militarist rather than Germany, and declares that Russia has no moral obligation to keep her treaty with the Allies, because treaty-breaking has been common in the present war.

Writers Suggest That Neither Army Nor Merchantsmen Are for Use

The Hague, June 2.—The Frankfurter Zeitung, commenting on American preparations, asks why she has found it necessary to advertise to the world at large the measure in which she has so far contributed to the work of the war, and suggests that the Entente Powers demanded that she choose this measure in which she has already shown that she can help. Says the Frankfurt paper that it is very important move when she enters the war, which she has already shown that she can help.

STORM IN PEACH BELT.
Trees in Vicinity of Macon Stripped of Fruit.
Macon, Ga., June 3.—A violent windstorm, accompanied by hail, struck the peach belt in Middle Georgia this afternoon. Thousands of peach trees were stripped of fruit. Telegraph poles and trees were torn down. In some sections of the peach belt hail stones were three inches in size. So far as known there was no loss of life.

Sections of Houston, Crawford Twigg and Bibb counties were struck by the storm. As some points hail covered the ground to a depth of from three to eight inches, according to persons who were in that section. The storm also struck the peach belt through the district brought back filled with hallstones to this city. These parties say that thousands of peaches and that corn, watermelon and cotton crops in the path of the storm have been ruined.

Car Plunge From Bridge Over Mills Branch East of York.
York, June 5.—What might have been a serious accident occurred at the Mills Branch Thursday afternoon when an automobile occupied by O. E. Merritt and Alfred Faulkner, approaching the bridge from the east side, struck and demolished the iron railing and plunged to the ground below. With the exception of a few slight bruises, neither one of the occupants of the car suffered any injuries, and aside from the breaking of the windshield and one of the lamps, no appreciable damage was done to the machine. Mr. Merritt was driving the car when the accident occurred, had just bought an automobile and was learning to operate it, which accounts for the fact that he failed to steer clear of the hand railing of the bridge. Their escape from serious injury, such as a plunge was little short of wonderful.

"Trade quick, fellows," he jerked out in a low, tense whisper to the thirty brethren who flocked around. "Trade quick, $7 a gallon. They're right after me and I've got to buy gas and be on my way. He snapped his fingers. "Who wants a gallon? Those that don't want to trade, stop back and make room for those that do. They're right after me and I've got to buy gas and be on my way." In ten minutes his stock of 89 gallons was gone at $7 a gallon. He cashed and he threw in the clutch and on his way, rounding the corner on two wheels.

One of the buyers, moved by a strange premonition, cracked open his gallon bucket to examine the contents, and what he found was pure spring water.

Technical Education a Patriotic Duty

Never before in the history of the United States has there been such need for technical men. The selective draft, and those not replaceable of danger in modern wars are not always the places of recreation. An adequate food supply is absolutely essential. Engineers are needed at home to carry on the work of transportation and utilization, as well as to handle the engineering problems of the war.

At a conference of College Presidents in Washington, D. C., on May 5th, the following resolutions were adopted as a statement of principle. These resolutions are in accord with expressions of the Secretary of War made to the conference:

1. We believe that all young men below the age of liability to the selective draft, and those not replaceable of danger in modern wars, should be urged to do, in order that they may be able to render the most effective service, both during the full period of the war and in the trying times which will follow close.

2. We believe that in view of the supreme importance of applied science in the present war, students pursuing technical courses such as medicine, agriculture and engineering, are rendering or are rendering of their training services more valuable and efficient than if they were to enroll in military and naval service at once.

CANNING PRECAUTIONS

Cleanliness is one of the important secrets to success in canning. Be absolutely clean in every operation and keep all the surroundings the same. Carefully sterilize with boiling water every utensil before it is used. Also the jars, rubbers, and caps. In buying glass jars, secure the best. One of the most satisfactory types of jars is the "Lightning Bolt" with a glass top held in place by a simple wire spring. Use the best grade of tin cans even though they cost a little more than the cheaper grades. With glass jars always use new rubbers.

Fruit for canning should be ripe but firm. Do not use overripe specimens. Vegetables for canning should be young and tender.

Fruit and vegetables are better for canning if gathered in the early morning and kept in a cool place until ready for use.

Fruits and vegetables must be thoroughly cleaned before being put in jars or cans. Do not attempt to can decayed or dirty fruits or vegetables.

Write the Horticultural Division, Clemson College, S. C., for circular No. 21, "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables," also "Home Gardening" bulletin.

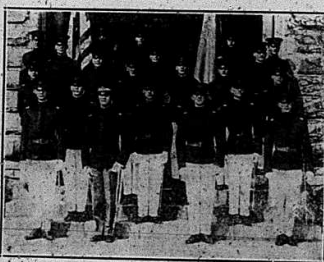

THE STUDENT BODY

Every year the number of applicants to enter Clemson College exceeds the capacity of the institution. Early in August it is necessary to begin a "waiting list," as all available rooms in the barracks have been taken.

Award of Scholarships and Free Tuition

The State Board of Charities and Corrections is charged with investigating the financial standing of all applicants for four-year scholarships and free tuition, and reporting their findings to the Board of Trustees of the College. This Board passes finally upon the matter, accepting as correct the information gathered by the State Board. Appeal from the decision of the Trustees may be made to the State Board of Education.

The College will furnish blanks to all applicants for scholarships and free tuition.

BE A FARMER PATRIOT

With the packing houses snarled for the State this fall all farmers should recruit at once in the army of meat producers which will put South Carolina on a self-supporting basis, as well as help feed the millions of people who are now dependent on the United States for food supplies. This is the time for the farmer to exert himself more than ever to grow plenty of food stuffs on the farm. The possibilities of a good wheat and oat crop are very good, and this makes it all the more necessary to prepare to grow more feed stuffs and to grow more meat than ever before. Be a farmer patriot.

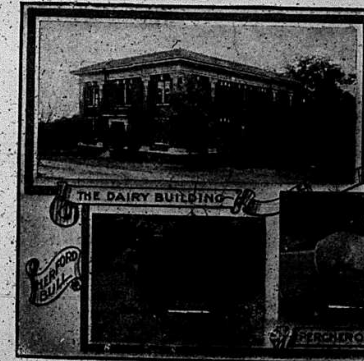

HOG CHOLERA

Every Farmer Should Know How to Infect Cholera Serum. Write to Dr. R. O. Foster, Clemson College, S. C., and request a free bulletin on hog cholera symptoms and post yourself. When your signs show these symptoms phone or wire your county demonstration agent at once for aid, unless you have already had his services, in which case you ought to know how to proceed without his help. It is impossible for him to see every man's hog, so it will be necessary for you to learn to treat them yourself after one demonstration. "Prevention is worth more than cure" is an old adage which applies especially to this malady.

FIND PICTURES OF CLEMSON COLLEGE Works for Welfare in Many Ways

Picture a country estate of 1,500 acres with stately buildings placed at elevated points in a form of a semi-circle in the center of a beautiful grove of native oaks, threaded by smooth drive-walks. Turn smooth paths against the sky at a distance of 20 miles, range after range of mountains, the home of the Highlands, of Caswell's Head, Whitefish and other lofty peaks of the Blue Ridge. Think of these mountains as if summer clad with verdure, standing out black against the horizon, and in winter often white with snow. Take for the southern boundary a river of Indian legend, and follow in its sweeping, crookedness, the swift and turbulent Santee. Be it twice the way and that is mark the confines of river bottom lands green with corn, steep hillside slopes with level grassy terraces and cool pastures with winding brooks and graceful shade trees and you have a picture of Clemson College, not colored as all the canyons of the world, but as seen every year by nearly a thousand young South Carolinians, who seek amid these surroundings, an education that will prepare them for self-respecting, self-supporting citizenship.

Every farmer should have a small canning outfit for use in preserving fruit and vegetables for winter. An abundance of canned products of this sort adds comfort and health to the family, and often there is enough surplus to give a nice little income. It is seldom that canned fruit and vegetables of fine quality fail to command a good price. With a good fall garden one does not so much feel the need of canned vegetables, but there are a great many of the tender sorts that will not grow and that must be preserved in cans. Think also of the number of fruits that may be canned. Even when one has neglected to have a good orchard there are in most localities an abundance of blackberries, raspberries, grapes and blueberries. In cases enough vegetables have not yet been planted to furnish a surplus to can. It is a good time now to make up a deficiency. Tomatoes, snap beans, lima beans, sweet corn, and other vegetables may yet be planted for canning during the dwindling and 'tilt' months of the late summer. Interested in canning should write the Horticultural Division of Clemson College for Circular No. 22, "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables."

Clemson's Finances

The public has a right to the fullest information in regard to the fiscal affairs of a State institution. It would not be possible to make a fuller or more detailed report than does Clemson College.

Not only does the Treasurer's annual report to the Legislature contain the usual summary of receipts and expenditures, but this report of 150 pages lists each individual bill paid out of College funds is shown.

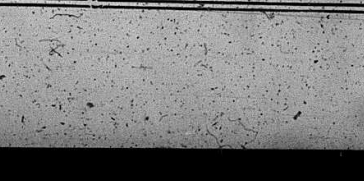

Since the support of an educational institution is of interest and importance to its patrons, the following brief summary for the last fiscal year should be of interest:

Likewise the funds from the Federal Smith-Lever Act can be used only for demonstration and extension work, under Federal supervision.

The money paid in by students for board, laundry, heat, light, and water, medical attention and incidentals, is held in trust by the College for the use of the cadets, and is not used for College expenses.

 (Contributed.)
 Out of a very interesting and interesting talk made by Mrs. Anderson of Washington on behalf of the National Navy League, was formed Chester's Navy League Unit with the following efficient officers: President, Mrs. M. S. Lewis; Vice President, Mrs. T. L. Eberhardt and Secretary, Mrs. Bobb Love.

INSPECTED COFFINS FIRST

Tampa Man Then Committed Suicide as Undertaker.
 Asheville, N. C. June 2.—After inspecting a line of coffins at an undertaking establishment last night, Murphy, a prominent business man of Tampa, Fla., returned to the undertakers early this morning and locking himself in a private office, shot himself. He died soon afterward in a hospital.
 Mr. Murphy came to Asheville with his family several weeks ago. It is thought recent business reverses had caused mental derangement.

Letter of Appreciation.
 The following letter has been received from the deaconess of the York Orphanage:
 My Dear Committee and Many Friends:
 The boxes of the shipment of 15 dozen cans and many packages of groceries has reached us and even before their arrival we want to thank you for kind donations for consideration in our great need. Since the failure of our crops last year our industry has been "dried out" and empty. Instead of a winter store of this we had empty shelves and our children have been greatly restricted. If our crops succeed we will be better than next winter. In the meantime the cash sent to purchase flour and sugar, the canned goods, etc., donated will cover my expenses less and fare better.
 The little children who have so kindly collected and donated these comforts could compare their well laden tables with the plain food on our three times a day. They would be happy to think they had spared something of their plenty to aid these children's little.
 To one and all of our nearest neighbors, Chester among them, we extend our thanks for their generous thoughtfulness.
 I am Gratefully Yours,
 M. T. GADSDEN, Deaconess.

Board of Health Meets.

 Motion was made by Dr. Malone, seconded by Dr. McNeill, that one dollar be asked to purchase an incinerator for the disposal of garbage, etc., to be placed in the hands of the city council.
 Mr. W. C. Brown was recommended for reelection as city health officer for the next year.
 Motion was made by Dr. Malone, seconded by Dr. McNeill, that no assistant health officer would be elected but that the city would be asked to furnish another team and increase the labor of the health department in place of the assistant.

WHOLE STATE AIDING IN LIBERTY BOND CAMPAIGN

"BUY A BOND FOR BABY" SLOGAN IS POPULAR.
GOVERNOR MANNING SETS EXAMPLE—ALL BANKS LENDING AID.

Columbia, S. C.—Special.—One of the greatest exhibitions of applied patriotism which this state has witnessed in many years is now being displayed in the great drive for the sale of $2,000,000 of the Liberty Loan bonds. People from every walk of life, capitalists, bankers, merchants and farmers are subscribing to the bonds which is to finance the war for the United States in now warlike.

All banks have opened their doors to applications for the bonds; so that any person who desires the bonds has only to go to any bank in his town or where his application will be immediately entered. The American people especially the farmers and merchants of the South, have not been a bond investing people to any extent, but under the drive of patriotic enthusiasm they have rallied to the Liberty Loan idea by the hundreds of thousands, and small wages earners everywhere have responded with every manifestation of eagerness.

This has extended to the utmost farm districts of the state. Local committees have been organized in every community; men of autonomous ability have volunteered to act as farmers of any means in the entire farming districts and, there, have been followed up by settlement of various kinds who have gone so far as to produce the application blank and secure the farmer's signature.

The "Buy a Bond for Baby" slogan has become popular in thousands of homes. Governor Manning himself, by showing the way by subscribing for twenty bonds, one each for himself, his wife, a daughter, seven sons and ten grandchildren. Following his lead, parents in every district have volunteered in the bonds for their children to serve as a foundation for a savings fund for the little tots. It is added in ten years to come.

Practically all the big corporations of the state have arranged plans whereby their employees could secure bonds by having small sums deducted weekly from their pay envelopes. Many merchants in the larger towns have established booths in their stores at which applications blank could be signed and information secured. Most banks have worked out plans where by the bonds could be bought on the installment plan.

One of the greatest plans in vogue to the campaign which has been the insurance men of the state. They have endorsed that which has been the action of the insurance men of the state. They have endorsed that which has been the action of the insurance men of the state.

SIX GERMAN COMPANIES PERISHED IN CAVERNS

French Found Elaborate Tunnels Under Mont Carrelet Filled With Dead.

Grand Headquarters of The French Armies in France, June 2.—The Germans have sacrificed hundreds of killed and thousands wounded in their vain efforts to reach the range of hills comprising Mont Carrelet, the Casque, the Tet, Rheims. Sixty May 20 their fruitless assault has numbered sixteen.

The last important assault was carried out on the night of May 30 and for the selected German regiments were especially trained and rehearsed behind the scene lines before they were thrown against the French lines, but they only met with success on the occasion the first and second assaulting waves were everywhere annihilated before they were half way to the French positions. A few men in the waves that followed obtained a footing in the French lines, and the fiercest bayonet duels ensued, in which all the German assaulting forces were killed, except in one trench where a German detachment held out until daybreak and were then wiped out in the course of a French counterattack.

A visit to Mont Carrelet demonstrated the importance attached to this place, and the extraordinary preparations made to hold it in order to preserve the shortest route through the German lines to the French railway. Inside the hill the Germans had excavated a tunnel with three exits on the northern slopes. There was space sufficient to hold three battalions with ten days' rations, and the ammunition depots were held in the tunnel were many deep shelters and machine-gun emplacements and pits for grenadiers.

The existence of the tunnel was unknown until the French offensive on April 17, when, after the first trench was passed, the German trenches were first spotted from the rear. On May 20, after terrific artillery preparation with 16-inch and gas shells, the French made a second attempt and won the crest of the northern slopes of Mont Carrelet. The French awaited a counter-attack from the rear of the tunnel similar to that of the seventeenth, but none occurred.

A German officer, captured near the one of the ventilation shafts of the tunnel, also expressed astonishment at the absence of reaction by his country. He was caught while endeavoring to call the garrison into action. It was found that the entire garrison had perished. It composed six companies of the 47th Infantry Regiment, two machine gun companies, two sections of prisoners, an ambulance unit and signal detachment, besides a number of artillery officers.

Since this French success the German artillery has been greatly hampered, owing to lack of observation facilities. The fire of the Germans has as a consequence been more erratic and their infantry attacks here, therefore, has declined to failure.

GASOLINE REGULATIONS.

Columbia, June 1.—The new regulations as to gasoline promulgated by the department of agriculture, commerce and industries, went into effect today. The standard permitted will be somewhat lower than heretofore, and gasoline should sell one and a half to three cents per gallon lower. The new standard is about on a level with that of adjoining states and will give South Carolina the best quality of gasoline furnished by any state in the Union. The standard heretofore prevailing has been even higher. It was necessary, however, to permit a somewhat lower standard on account of the lack of supplies in this country under the regulations here. The standard for South Carolina is still higher than that of the United States, army.

THE EVILS OF CONSTIPATION

Constipation is one of the main reasons why the average human life is below 40 years. Leaving waste material in the body, poisons the system and hinders one from making good.
