U. S. NEEDS NEW MODERN NAVY

ENGLAND'S SEA POWER, SAYS KAISER

New York, June 6.—What kind of reception would a fleet of super-submarines get if they crossed Atlantic and struck at America? Will such a thing as might very well happen if the United States and Germany go to war?

In our present state of unpreparedness there would be a period of confusion when American vessels might be driven to the shelter of the first friendly port and even our largest ships of war would have to seek refuge.

But the submarine is not invulnerable. It is not a new science that has developed in the last two years designing means for its destruction.

Throughout the history of naval warfare, every new engine of war has been heralded as unquarrelable when it first appeared.

The torpedo boat destroyer stands today as the most perfect engine for a submarine to encounter.

From the very beginning of Germany's submarine warfare against British shipping, the destroyer has even the almost obsolete torpedo boat been the chief protection against the great underwater craft.

The United States also possesses the fleet that we need to meet our submarine invaders in a little more than one-fifth the size of Great Britain's.

Each with its enormous flotilla of destroyers, England found itself far from safe and other means had to be devised for guarding the coast waters and harbors.

One of the best of these was the development of small, swift motor boats, armed with light guns.

The chief difficulty in fighting submarines is to locate them. Once a submarine is found there are many ways to dispose of it.

In Speech to Sailors, Emperor Declares "Blow You Overboard!" Put Fear in Bones of Our Enemies"

Berlin, June 7.—In the complete account of the emperor's speech to the sailors of the fleet at Wilhelmshaven yesterday, which was published here today, the fleet is quoted as saying that the great naval battle which has destroyed Great Britain's supremacy on the sea.

"When the great war came," said the emperor, "I saw my duty as a ruler and as a fatherland. The one after another, they were superior forces, finally conquered them.

"Repeated efforts were made to bring the enemy out but they proved fruitless until the day finally came when we met the fleet of the Kaiser's navy."

"I, standing here today as your supreme war lord, thank you for the service of your hearts. As a representative of fatherland I thank you in the name of my army."

"At a time when the enemy is slow, I have been able to drive the Italians from mountains to mountains, and add new legions to our cause."

U. S. CONSIDERS ARBITRATION OF MEXICAN AFFAIRS

Many Grave Questions Between Countries That Must Be Solved Sooner or Later Would Come Before Board.

Washington, June 7.—A proposal of General Carranza that the United States and Mexico should submit to arbitration the whole subject of territorial questions to the international board of arbitration proposed by the United States.

"Such a proposal, if it is made, will serve as a reply to the Mexican note demanding withdrawal of the American troops and may contain an adjustment of many unsettled differences that for years have embarrassed the relations of the two nations."

President Wilson and General Carranza would appoint an equal number of commissioners under the plan and the meeting probably would be held somewhere outside the territory of both countries. There is no indication that Carranza is in any way ready to discuss to whether the proposal should be made.

Four boats were seen by observers on shore to leave the ship. The wind was north-west, and heavy seas were running. Patrol vessels and a party were sent to search for the boats, but only some bodies of men were recovered.

"No report has yet been received from the search party on shore."

When the official announcement about the sinking of the ship was made in the newspapers on the street, there was a crowd about the stock exchange which required police to keep the crowd from breaking up.

The English undoubtedly are a wealthy nation. They could have walked the London streets without receiving that something which the common people take as a matter of course.

LOSS OF EARL KITCHENER WAS GREAT BLOW TO GREAT BRITAIN

London, June 6.—The news that Earl Kitchener, Secretary of State for War and his staff, who were proceeding to Haiti aboard the cruiser Hampshire were lost on the Oceanic Islands last night, was the most stunning blow Great Britain has received since the war began.

This is the second shock the country has sustained within a week. The first was the sinking of the Hampshire.

Kitchener was the one outstanding personality whom the people talked about and believed in as a great man, notwithstanding newspaper criticism.

A telegram from Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, commander of the fleet, giving the bare facts of the loss of the Hampshire at 10 o'clock in the afternoon.

Admiral Jellicoe's report to the Admiralty was as follows: "I have to report with deep regret that His Majesty's ship Hampshire, capt. Herbert J. Savill, R. N., was lost on the night of the 5th inst."

The Hampshire was seen by observers on shore to leave the ship. The wind was north-west, and heavy seas were running.

"No report has yet been received from the search party on shore."

INNES CASE WILL GO TO HIGHEST COURTS

This Will Be Ground on Which Appeal For New Trial Will Be Based.

Atlanta, Ga., June 5. Victor E. Innes may secure a new trial in the Innes case for larceny after the trial of the money of Mrs. Elsie Neime was found guilty by the Fulton Superior Court, but it will not be until the highest court of the state has affirmed the judgment of the court that trial may be had.

When Innes brought back with him his extradition papers from San Ben H. Hill of Fulton Superior Court and actually put up with a trial, the state has affirmed the judgment of the court that trial may be had.

Defended by Judge John S. Canfield, a former justice of the supreme court of Georgia, Judge James K. Pettigrew, one of the leading lawyers of the Atlanta bar, Innes and his wife are represented as any defendants that ever went to trial in Fulton county.

These attorneys this week will file with the court a motion for a new trial for Innes, and it will be denied they will file a general bill of exceptions and appeal the case to the state supreme court.

It will be claimed by Innes' attorneys that Judge Hill erred in his charge to the jury, that he erred in ruling on the admissibility of evidence, that the verdict was not established in Fulton county, that the evidence did not justify a verdict of guilty, and that Innes is entitled to another trial on various other grounds.

Several attorneys representing Innes have complete charge of the case and they admitted that Innes obtained large sums of money from Mrs. Elsie Neime. It had been generally expected previous to the trial that they would claim that Innes never saw Mrs. Deanna after her death.

Instead of this denial they admitted that Innes received money from the young woman, but they claim that she gave it to him because she was wildly in love with him and wanted him to have it, and for investment or any other business purpose whatever.

WOMAN'S PARTY BORN TODAY IN CHICAGO

Chicago, June 4.—Two national suffrage organizations will get in separate lines for a convention tomorrow to plan for the women's party.

For twenty years after the first War Republican platform were largely devoted to demands and resolutions relating to the negro. Then came the time when the subject were intermingled and half-hearted. Finally, in 1912, they were united.

For two decades after the civil War every National Republican convention took pride in the large attendance of colored delegates from the South. They were all reported lost in the Hampshire.

YORK COUNTY NEWS ITEMS

During a recent call on the York County Board of Supervisors, James W. Edwards, editor of the York County News, made the following statement:

The support of the post office bills for penitentiaries when passed were giving the committee to see again sent to the state of Georgia.

These attorneys this week will file with the court a motion for a new trial for Innes, and it will be denied they will file a general bill of exceptions and appeal the case to the state supreme court.

Instead of this denial they admitted that Innes received money from the young woman, but they claim that she gave it to him because she was wildly in love with him and wanted him to have it, and for investment or any other business purpose whatever.

FRIDAY, JUNE 9.

YORK'S HOSPITALITY.

The town of York, as we all know is not the commercial center of this territory, but when it comes to hospitality it is in the ranks with the best.

The newspaper men of South Carolina are holding their forty-second annual convention in York this year and they are certainly being entertained in grand style. Everybody in York is taking a personal interest in seeing that each visitor is entertained.

Everything in York has been thrown open to the "hospitality pushers." When it comes to hospitality, you must hand it to old York.

SIGN BOARDS.

We notice that the county commissioners of Catawba county, North Carolina have issued an order that sign boards be placed on all cross roads and fork roads in the county. The cost to be charged to each town.

This is something which means much to the travelling public and the cost is small. We would like to see this matter considered in Chester county and believe it is a good idea to have signs placed on all roads.

THE VALUE OF A GOOD NAME.
Along with the value of good soil, good seed, good livestock, and good farming methods, the young farmer would achieve success must ever bear in mind the value of a good name. The man of his word, the man of honor whose reputation for square dealing is known to all the countryside, has an asset of incalculable value.

Most of the world's business today is done on credit, or confidence in the ability and willingness to pay, and were kind abolished business of all kinds would of necessity largely stop. And just so it is with the young farmer struggling to get on his feet. Very frequently without capital of his own, if credit is denied him he labors at a sore disadvantage. He may need credit to buy, clear and drain land, to build a home, to buy improved livestock, but without capital and without credit there is no chance to get on his feet. A possibly farmer badly handicapped.

To all of our young men we would say, then, diligently as you cultivate your prize acre of corn, look even more carefully to your good name. Fine and famous as your prize pig may be, strive ever that the fame of your good name may spread farther. Your crop may fail or your pig may die, and still the loss would not be irreparable; but once a young man's good name is gone something is lost that a whole life's work may never replace.

Make debts, if you need to in order to better your business, in order that you may become a better farmer; but when you give your promise, either verbally or in writing, make it an iron rule to let nothing on earth keep you from fulfilling it. The good name you will win will be of more priceless than good.—The Progressive Farmer.

DUELING IN AMERICA.
It would appear that the now almost eradicated style of settling controversies by resort to arms in personal combat found its way to the New World at a very early date. For the colony of Plymouth was only in its infancy when it is reported that Edward Doty and Stephen Lester, both servants of Edward Hopkins, settled an altercation with swords in 1621.

Both contestants were wounded and there being no statute covering that style of offense, the whole community of Pilgrims assembled and sentenced the two offenders to be tied together, heads and feet, for twenty-four hours without food and water.

More than a century later the first duel to be fought on the night of July 5, 1726, between two of the leading young men of the town—Benjamin Woodbridge and Henry Phillips. The former was a partner in business with a nephew of Chief Justice Sewall and Phillips was related by marriage to the famous Peter Randall.

Their grievance was engendered at the card table and they each with drew and securing their swords they repaired to a nearby grove in the Commons and there without a witness they fought it out. Woodbridge was mortally wounded and Phillips escaped to a British man-of-war at anchor in the harbor. He was conveyed to England, where he died in five months.

This proved to have been not the first duel fought in Boston, but was also the first fatal duel in all the country. The most notable American duels, mentioned in the order in which they were fought, are:

Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr, 1802; Hanson and Killeb, 1803; Henry Clay and Humphrey Marshall, 1808; slightly wounded at second fire.

Stephen Deane and Commodore Barron, 1820; Deaver killed.

Henry Clay and John Randolph, 1824; both killed.

It is rather remarkable that the analogy in the lives of Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis should extend to dueling in which they both figured, yet harshly the ridiculous affair between Lincoln and Shields, so often told, finds a counterpoint in the life of the Confederate President.

During a discussion of the Missouri compromise in the National Congress, the feeling on the question of slavery ran high. William H. Bissell, a member from Illinois, and James A. Seddon, from Virginia, one the champion of slavery and the other opposed, became so earnest in their argument that they resorted to bitter personal attacks which finally resulted in a comparison of the relative courage of the soldiers from the free States and those of the slave States in the Mexican war, which had been just ended.

Bissell cited the conduct of the Mexican volunteers at the battle of Buena Vista to their discredit.

Jefferson Davis, who commanded Virginia volunteers in that action, took exception to Bissell's remarks and challenged him to a duel. Bissell accepted the challenge and named muskets at thirty yards the weapon. The case of Lincoln and Shields the duel was not carried to a conclusion.

There were many other American duels of less importance. The case of the slanderer of Gen. Washington during the Revolution, was in Philadelphia and the British evacuated that city, and his abusive language and offensive manners, involved him in difficulties with the American officers, and was finally covered.

In 1766 Simpson, master of the British sloop-of-war Viper, fought a duel with Thomas Whitehurst, who was then in command of the sloop. Whitehurst was killed and Simpson was tried for murder and was acquitted.

In 1771, in consequence of military rivalry, a duel was fought between Button Gwinnett, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and Col. McIntosh, a brigadier general of the Georgia continental army. Both were wounded by a bullet in the thigh. McIntosh, recovered and Gwinnett died. McIntosh was tried for murder but was acquitted.

Another duel in the South occurred in August, 1778, between Christopher Gadsden, of Charleston, and Robert Howe, of North Carolina. Howe's conduct was censured by Gadsden as to his conducting of the campaign in the defense of Savannah, and they met at Camden, but all the damage either sustained was a scratch upon the head by Gadsden.

Chicago, June 7.—The contest in which Gibbs Mitchell of Charleston was withdrawn before the football credentials committee today by Aaron J. Froleau, the contestant.

HUSBAND IN DESPAIR

SICK ALL HER LIFE

Wife Had Ceased Eating And Suffered Continually.

Mr. E. R. Johnson, the well known engineer on the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, after having received medical advice in Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee at different intervals since she was fifteen years of age to the effect that she was suffering from ulcerated stomach and gall stone, gives a vivid illustration of what Tanlac is daily accomplishing for like sufferers.

She had stomach trouble all her life, was prone to fits of vomiting and was absolutely lacking in appetite. After taking only two doses of Tanlac, she declares, she ate the first food that she had eaten in sixteen weeks.

"I suffered from stomach trouble all my life," states Mr. Johnson. "When I was two years old I was given up by physicians to die, and again when I was fifteen years old, I have had, according to eminent medical advice in Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee, gall stone and ulcerated stomach, and they finally said an obstruction in my stomach. On consulting medical advice in Charleston, I was informed that it was impossible to state just what the trouble was."

"My most distressing symptom was vomiting. For sixteen weeks before I took Tanlac I had been unable to retain anything on my stomach—not even medicine or raw eggs. I was told that I would have died for lack of nourishment if I had not been stout. I weighed 227 pounds before I took sick, and I have really lived on superfluous flesh for bodily nourishment. My husband had given up all hope. One evening recently I remarked how badly and emaciated I looked. Mr. Johnson burst out crying and said, 'Sissy don't say that. I think' (One month ago I thought you would die. I had given up all hope and here you are nearly well)."

"It is true. I have taken a little over three bottles of Tanlac. After taking only two doses—now, don't laugh, it is a fact—after I had taken two doses I ate the first food I had eaten in sixteen weeks. I consider that wonderful indeed. I am now eating nearly everything I want. I have not vomited since I took my second dose of Tanlac and I am feeling much stronger.

"I certainly do recommend Tanlac for what it has done for me. I had nearly given up hope, and Tanlac has done what I didn't think any medicine or physician could do. It is simply wonderful. I cannot say enough good things about it."

department automobile truck, was shot and probably fatally wounded about 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night by his sister-in-law, Miss Inez Berrie, a 16-year-old school girl, who was living at his home. The girl fired three shots at Boyd from a .22 caliber revolver, two shots taking effect, and Boyd lies at the Aiken infirmary where he was operated on this morning at the point of death.

Immediately after the shooting the girl disappeared and the police searched all night and all this morning for her. This afternoon she gave herself up, having spent the night and morning at one of the winter residents' homes. She is in jail awaiting the outcome of the injury to Boyd.

The cause of the shooting is shrouded in mystery, but there are many rumors about. When questioned by the police Tuesday night as to the cause of the shooting, Boyd declared that the girl shot him about money matters. Her father died in April of this year.

Little hope is entertained by the attending physicians of the recovery of Boyd, who was shot twice through the groin, the intestines being punctured in two places. The girl has made no statement.

Mr. Sullie Ford, of this place, died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert J. McPherson, on Chesterfield avenue. She had been in very bad health for a long time, and her death yesterday was not unexpected. She was a native of Chester county and was 61 years of age at the time of her death. The remains were taken to Chester today for interment. Mrs. Ford was a good Christian woman and one of superior traits of character, whose influence for good was ever felt and appreciated. She was a devout and consistent member of the Methodist church and when able to do so always took an active part in the church work. For a number of years Mrs. Ford has made her home in Lancaster with her daughter, Mrs. McPherson, who with two other daughters, and one son, Misses Ray and Sue Ford and Ferguson Ford, survives her.—Lancaster News, June 6th.

Soy Beans as a Cash Crop.

The South is searching for a money crop to take the place of some of its cotton. In this search soy beans should not be overlooked. The crop is well adapted to our soils and climate. On our thin to average lands it will probably yield more pounds of beans per acre than the same land would produce in corn. Moreover, its production would not reduce the nitrogen in the soil as is done in the growing of corn. For our average lands it seems to have advantages over corn, oats, cowpeas, or other Southern grain crops, either as a money crop or as a source of feed for livestock.

With the coming of the cotton boll weevil, the oil mills are anxious for another crop that will yield oil. In fact another oil yielding crop in addition to cottonseed would be of great benefit to the oil mills by enabling them to keep their plants in operation for a larger part of the year. It may be that the cotton oil mills would have to have different machinery in part for handling soy beans, but even this would not take away the advantage of another crop to grow during their operating season. For much of the plant could certainly be used alike for both kinds of seed.

If the oil mills could get enough out of soy beans to enable them to pay around $1 a bushel for them, which it is stated they can, there is no question but that the extensive production of soy beans would be an excellent thing for both the farmers and the oil mills.

At any rate, the soy bean is a very desirable crop for the South, as a producer of rich protein concentrate or grain and high grade straw for roughage. We have not yet begun to appreciate its value. For feeding 35 to 40 bushels of soy beans are probably equal to a ton of cottonseed meal. This amount of seed and two tons of soy bean straw or stover can be produced on two acres of land that will produce 15 to 20 bushels of corn per acre.

There is no longer an excuse for the purchase of high-protein protein feeds for feeding livestock while soy beans can be grown the same season after a crop of oats or wheat.

Arkansas Storm Toll Reported to Be 60 Dead and 300 Injured—Big Property Damage.

Little Rock, Ark., June 6.—As means of communication were restored today to the section of the State swept by tornadoes and electric storms late yesterday the list of dead grew slowly and reports of property damage reached hundreds of thousands of dollars. Figures compiled early tonight indicated the death toll would reach 60, with more than 300 reported injured.

Scarcely a section of the State appears to have escaped one of the many storms which centered in the central Mississippi Valley. The greatest loss of life was at Hobbs, Searcy, where 27 persons are reported to have been killed and about 60 injured.

The death list at Judsonia, a town of 300 people, has been definitely fixed at nine. All are negroes, although three injured white persons may die.

Additional casualty lists were reported tonight from Forest City where three white persons and a negro were killed and about 40 mostly negroes, were injured; from Stuttgart, near which six were killed and 30 injured; from Ozark with one death and the report that two more are believed to have been killed and from Fayette, where the list of dead in Dallas County was increased to five.

Miss Amelia Wilson, R. F. D. No. 4, Alma, Ark., says: "I think Cardui is the greatest medicine on earth for women. Valuable Health Hints For Our Readers

CATARH
Just because your back and split and your nose is wet, cold, red, sore and a nuisance, don't merely plug it up. You can't cure catarrh by greasing your nose. Take S. S. S. regularly and you will drive catarrhal poisons out of your blood. The membranes will soon recover and no longer continue to accumulate the mucus that gathers and thickens into catarrh. S. S. S. stimulates the cells of the tissues to select from the blood their own essential nutriment. Rapid recovery from catarrhal inflammation in the stomach, kidney, bladder and all membranes is the result.

MALARIA.
Throughout the country, wherever people to whom S. S. S. has given relief, other treatment that seems to defy all efforts, the most sickening torture after the most sickening torture.

The gnat complexion of malaria's victims, the chills and fever, the malarial dysentery that seems to defy all other treatment, the persistent anemia where the blood turns to water and the system wastes away. These are really signs of S. S. S. so effective in restoring a man to his natural vigor.

STUBBORN SORES.
Sometimes a sore spot becomes indolent. The tissues surrounding it lose their vitality and are unable to provide sufficient nutriment to stop the drain of blood with pain. This can be cured by applying S. S. S. to the sore. It is naturally assimilated by the same as milk or any other nourishing liquid.

Nature acts with marvelous rapidity. S. S. S. gives the proper assistance, and then stimulates cellular activity, and the parts surrounding an ulcer are completely healed. This is the way that S. S. S. restores the sore spot to its natural vigor.
