Academic Traditions Of The Colombo Republic More Ancient Than Of China

[By Prof. Edwin Porter]

ACADEMIC traditions have had little to do with the event, but it will continue to be remembered in the annals of the city of New York as the occasion when the Chinese workingmen of the city were first admitted to membership in the Metropolitan Federation of Labor.

This organization, which has for its purpose the promotion of labor interests, was founded in 1905, but education had maintained its steady progress until the year 1910, when the New York Federation was established. Since that time, the latter organization has played an important role in labor Legislation, and has been instrumental in promoting the general welfare of workingmen throughout the State.

In 1918, when the Federation was organized, it was with the express purpose of bringing the workingmen of the city of New York together in a united body, to petition for the passage of legislation favorable to them. Since that time, the Federation has grown in numbers and influence, and has become a powerful factor in the political life of the city.

It is estimated that there are now over 500,000 members in the Federation, and that it represents more than one million workingmen. The organization is divided into local unions, and each local union is governed by its own officers, who are elected by the members.

The Federation is led by a powerful executive board, consisting of three members, who are elected by the local unions. The board meets four times a year, and its decisions are binding upon all the local unions.

The Federation has been active in promoting the passage of legislation favorable to the workingmen of the city of New York, and has been successful in obtaining many important reforms for them. It has also been active in promoting the education of the workingmen, and has established a number of schools and training centers for their benefit.

The Federation is a powerful factor in the political life of the city of New York, and its influence is increasing every year. It is estimated that it has over one million members, and that it represents the workingmen of the city in all matters of importance.

The Most Expensive Paper in The World

The most expensive paper in the world is the paper on which fake stock certificates are printed.

An average of $6 for every person in the United States is lost on such "investments" each year.

If you need paper, you can buy much more serviceable paper a whole lot cheaper. But when you invest, don't deposit in this kind of "paper." Buy something real.
