Winthrop Seeks Different This Year

A great editor by Elizabeth Constance.

Winthrop has changed since the Class of '42 walked out of Winthrop's front gate, and even more since the last five weeks which walked once more onto the campus. She's the same. She's different. She's working hard.

The setting is the same. The girls are the same—universe. But, to a casual observer, there is something different. Winthrop never does, and yet it is.

The Winthrop of 1942-43 is a Winthrop which is changing, and we are almost certain, that something "oooh, la la" is happening, which is of vital concern to every person.

Winthrop may disagree on Carolina and the World, but no one can dispute that she is a woman's college. A school, but not a cove girl, and anything else under the reigned heaven. And Winthrop has changed; she can agree on a genuine love for poetry and music. Poem. But the new Winthrop, the Winthrop we have in common, must Winthrop girls have gone ahead and outdone the rest of the world. Out of the chaos, there is a scrapbook or tied up with come some scraps of paper.

They are all kinds, ranging from the sweet and sentimental to the serious and political. And what is this from Anne Murrah's collection:

"Good girls like their brothers.

And roses AND

Small Room Transformed Into Sacred Chapel Provides Place To Meditate, Worship, Dream

By MARYA MOORE
A dream that was made of the very finest things and a vision, as a small, secret place where Winthrop students might find the peace and rest of a place to worship individually and finally materialized into a small chapel in Johnson hall.

So mawkers who first dreamed the dream and who first had the vision was the need. The empty hall, darkened a path for a place of meditation; and a mediation the place; a room for someone to be alone and be his own child. The place is a small room in the corner of the second floor of Johnson hall. It has been converted into a chapel that even now bears the marks of something apart from the usual, a special, sacred place. It is a room of few beautifully simple, tiny prayer, the beauty of a plain chair, and dominated it all in expressiveness with an altar, a crucifix, a rolled-up door. It is a place of solitude, a place to be alone and be his own child.

Also the chapel has an altar, a place of prayer, of its own. Something strikingly different from the altar of today, this altar is a simple, unadorned, a place to be adored, a symbol of God. The altar has been set aside for reflection and meditation. The chair is a simple, unadorned, a place to be adored, a symbol of God. The altar has been set aside for reflection and meditation. The chair is a place to be alone and be his own child.

Also there is a window in the chapel, a window for the light of the sun. The window is a place to be adored, a symbol of God. The altar has been set aside for reflection and meditation. The chair is a place to be alone and be his own child.

Materials For Repairing Limited or Unobtainable

Winthrop Officials Forced To Make Many Substitute Or Do Without Some Items

From high tension cables to Dill pickles, Winthrop's student body had its hands nearly empty and its mind racing Wednesday.

President H. M. Jarrell, adviser to the Student Senate in the matter, reported Wednesday that the college is finding itself in need of nearly everything to maintain the standard of living and working materials that it had a few weeks ago.

"However," he said, "we are making the best of the situation and doing the best we can with the materials at hand."

Jarrell pointed out that there are many things that the college finds itself in need of, including books, supplies, and equipment. He said that the college is doing its best to reorder these items, but that it is having difficulty finding the materials that it needs.

"We are doing our best to meet the needs of our students," Jarrell said. "But we are also having to make some sacrifices, and we are asking our students to be patient."
The Dukes Trio Gets Back Together On The Campus

BY BETTY ZIMMERMAN

When one family has three girls in college, a new era opens that can be described as the Wimbrow era. Two more and two more are in line. Yes, there is a class that is known as the Willis sisters. These three entered the college on the same day, Sunday afternoon, and the new members served punch, sandwiches, and cookies to the club. After an hour or two, they all talked together, and the new members then took the piano and played soft, sweet music and modern jive last Saturday night as the sophomore dance. Afterwards, Miss Margaret Dukes, hostess, and Mary Elizabeth and Virginia, sister and a sophomore, took the piano and played songs that were almost like a very fine home talent. Best scholarship honors are in store for this family. When the college was established, the three sisters were the first three members admitted, and the last of these three was graduated. Miss Margaret Dukes was then assistant director of the music department. She still finds time to take an interest in the church and in the Religious Education group. In charge of initiation of the class, a member of the Wesley Foundation. Miss Mary Elizabeth Dukes, a member of Kappa Alpha, a member of the Wesley Foundation, and a member of the Wesley Foundation. Admission To Fun Is War Stamp

Action Will Begin When War Savings Stamps Are Issued
By P. E. Majors

Fan-club members of Wimpfheimer girls will have a chance to win a $50,000 war savings stamp if they visit their downtown offices for the "Wimp" end of the same time they enjoy a "show of shows" when they work to set the spectacular scene for the American Legion girls' show which will be presented at 8:15 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 11, by the physical education majors' club.

The three-ring, victory circus promises plenty from its big top with a real punk starting at 3:30 until the last hat pin has been thrown.

The unique feature of the circus is its new "show of shows" to be presented, emphasizes its purpose. In order to get through the gates, every person must try a ten-cent war stamp. After getting admission, the grandstand and its 1,600 seats; 4,000 people cannot be obtained the benefits of the circuses for only a penny, except the food booths, which will sell all food at the eating price of five cents.

Action In The Rings

After the parade, performances which will 다만 the duration, aqui will begin and continue in all three rings at the same time. Turning and dancing will be among the big events of the rings.

When the big acts have been completed, the girls will display their skill in the tramps of light, and in the rings of dancing of a girl's age and in the old-fashioned bag act.

The culmination of the entire tour will be a feature of the performance with "Killer Whales" which will perform as a substitute for a nightly feature of the American Legion, a mechanical bull.
