NORTH BIG USER OF COTTON SEED

Comparatively Little Meal, However, Fed to Cattle in the South

Washington, June 13.—Though cotton seed meal in the North is being used extensively in the Northern feeding plants, in the South not so large a percentage is used for feeding. Attention is attracted to this fact by W. F. Ward and S. H. Ray of the Agricultural Department, who have been studying the meat situation of the United States. "Many Southern cattle," they say, "are shipped into the North and West to be finished for market, while the meat is often returned South for sale. It is found that enormous quantities of grass and fodder are going to waste there.

"In the Southern States," it is declared, "should not be raised and slaughtered their cattle to the extent of supplying their own needs; after that if a surplus of the cattle of cottonseed meal exists, it should be shipped to other sections of the country. Freight is often paid several times on feeds and feeders for fattening purposes, and the same cattle go to some far-off market for slaughter—and again on the dressed meat going back to the place where the cattle were fattened.

"That seems like a most extravagant waste of money and is a state of affairs, which to a certain extent, could be remedied by raising, fattening and slaughtering cattle in the same section," says the report. "These apparently wasteful methods are frequently justified, however, by existing conditions which are often overlooked by the casual observer.

"The lack of adequate slaughtering facilities, well planned and equipped markets, the necessary rapid transit facilities and a constant and sufficiently large supply of cattle and hogs, are factors in the slaughtering of cattle at a profit in the section where they are raised and fattened. In such cases it might be better to ship the fattened animals to some of the larger markets."

Cottonseed meal has been used in large quantities for fertilizing purposes. The first year of how it was put was the following amounts: North Carolina 181,192 tons; Georgia, 231,983 tons; Alabama, 100,000 tons; Florida, 35,868 tons.

The nitrogen out of cottonseed meal, it is stated, is worth as much as the meal usually costs. At the same time, the use of cottonseed meal as a fertilizer is exceeding poor practice, since cottonseed meal, after being fed to cattle, contains 75 per cent or more of the original fertility to the soil in the form of manure. Only one-fourth of its original fertilizer value is left over to be added to cattle and cattle will surely make profitable gains on cottonseed meal when fed the necessary roughages.

FLAMES CLAIM WHEAT

L. H. Abrams loses Two Hundred Bushels.

Newberry, June 11.—H. H. Abrams of Newberry lost about 200 bushels of wheat yesterday afternoon at his farm about one-half mile from Hester. Mr. Oyster had gone there with his threshing outfit, and the sheaves of wheat had been gathered in a large pile ready to run through the thrasher. It caught fire, presumably from a spark from the engine, and the farmer escaped rapidly that it was impossible to save it.

WOODS-WHITE

Written For The News.

Chester, June 16.—Historic Purty Presbyterian church in all of its history of weddings never looked more beautiful than it did on Wednesday night at time of clock when it was the scene of the marriage of Miss Emma Alexander Woods of the late Mr. and Mrs. Butler Woods, to Perry Dare White, a well known young business man of Chester. The Rev. A. D. P. Gilmour, D. D. of Purty Presbyterian church, officiated.

Scores of carriages and automobiles arrived at the church door before the ceremony, at the appointment hour the edifice was filled with the friends of the contracting parties.

Imposing Purty church was a fitting place for such an impressive ceremony. Decked as it was flowers, filmy tulle and broad white chiffon, its holiness was given the human heart, pure love, which would be the triumph of the altar of God.

Marking the decorations of the church were accession lilies, suggestive of the purity of the bride. The pulpit was transformed into an improvised altar and above was an array of white tulle interwined with green and white lilies. This arch was supported by massive white coronal pillars which were crowned with huge jars of accession lilies.

During the ceremony, the brides were arranged around the bride, as if pulled started with the sacred veil. Flying above the arch was a mass of white tulle, which was supported by massive white coronal pillars which were crowned with huge jars of accession lilies.

At the apex of the arch, which was supported by massive white coronal pillars which were crowned with huge jars of accession lilies, were clusters of accession lilies tied with Streamer, and white tulle. The aquatic floral decorations which were also carried out in the choir.

White and green were the colors of the wedding. The brides were dressed in white and green, and the bridesmaids in white and green. The bridesmaids were dressed in white and green, and the bridesmaids in white and green.

WILSON APPROVES AMERICAN PLANK

Washington, June 14.—President Wilson today approved a plank on Americanism for the Democratic National platform which arranges individuals or alliances seeking to embarrass the Government in negotiations with foreign Nations, and condemns any political party which modifies its policy for fear of political consequences.

The President decided to challenge openly Americanism of alien birth opposing his foreign policies. Learning from editorials in some foreign newspapers that they were supporting the Republican nominee, Mr. Wilson sent word to several representatives in St. Louis to make a plank on Americanism direct and unequivocal.

The plank on Americanism, drawn partially here and partially in St. Louis, has been completed tonight and resolutions committee of the convention. It was taken for granted that it would be embodied in the platform, practically as written.

The plank carries out some of the ideas expressed by the President in a flag day address here Friday, according to a small group of Americans of foreign extraction by attempting "to levy political blackmail" upon their country. If further states that the Democratic party will not be influenced by such "blackmail" and in effect challenges the Republican nominee to make a similar stand.

Foreign-born Americans are severely censured for interfering in the affairs of foreign Nations in the relations between the United States and other countries. The plank denounces men who seek to interfere with American institutions by political or financial means and foreign influence.

Reports that efforts were to be made at St. Louis to put into the platform a declaration in favor of an arms race, and other proposals which the President's advisers are neutral strengthened Mr. Wilson in his determination to make the so-called lynchpin issue as conclusively as possible.

The President kept close touch with the situation in St. Louis today in spite of a series of activities which made his day unusually strenuous. Before marching in the parade he made his way while reviewing it. He received reports from Administration leaders at the convention. Mr. Wilson considers the campaign for the presidency on in earnest, and his spokesmen here say he will keep constantly on his aggressive.

Many telegrams were being prepared the keynote speech of former Governor Glynn at St. Louis came to the President tonight from delegates to the convention. Mr. Wilson seemed much pleased, particularly in recognition of the temporary chairman's tribute to the course of the Administration in keeping the Nation out of the declaration supporting that course would be made a prominent part of the platform.

Bernard Baruch, a New York financier, discussed the political situation with the President for an hour and a half late this afternoon. Mr. Wilson said this afternoon that he supposed a declaration in the platform against the election of Federal judges was suggested by some open St. Louis as a reflection of Democrats at St. Louis, but the President sent word to his spokesman he was anxious to keep personalities out of the campaign as far as possible.

The President probably will indicate to the delegates at St. Louis to the National Committee for chairman of members to Homer Cummings, Connecticut. The name of Vance McCormick, former candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania has been suggested. Secretary McAdoo and Postmaster General Burleson conferred with the President on the question tonight.

FACE DISCOLORED SUFFERED A GONY

Charleston Woman Would Become Unconscious For Half Day.

TANLAC HELPED HER.

After having been unable to work for four months on account of ill health during which period she suffered from chills, fever, indigestion and that most repugnant and disgusting of all complaints—belching, which would continue for an hour at a time—Mrs. L. Boylet, well known housewife of No. 2 Blake street, Charleston, had added her name to the thousands who have found relief in the use of Tanlac.

"I suffered from indigestion and chills and fever," states Mrs. Boylet, "my indigestion caused me terrible pains in my stomach and chest, and I would sometimes belch for an hour at a time. I suffered something terrible at times. It seemed that I could not digest anything that I ate."

"I suffered from extreme headaches and was extremely nervous, jumping at the slightest noise. After eating I would have great fullness in my stomach and I became very weak. These chills and fever would come on me very suddenly. I would be sitting, talking to my friends peacefully, and severe pains would start running up my limbs. In a few minutes they would spread to my back and upper body. Then those terrible pains would catch me, for hours. Chills would set in and I would go to bed. In a short while I would become unconscious, remaining so for nearly half a day. These spells about twice a year and have had them for about four years. Sometimes my feet and ankles would swell to double normal size, and sometimes a large blister would form on my knees. This would first turn red and burn just exactly like a red-hot iron being pressed to me. In a day or two it would turn into a real blister. When this blister was opened and the water let out it would turn into a very bad sore. I call you, I suffer terribly. I have not been able to work for 4 months because of poor health. Sometimes I would turn black in the face, and have been pronounced dead while in the grip of these spells. These two conditions were gradually killing me. I do not believe that I would have lived very long if I had not got relief when I did."

"I read of some of the wonderful things that Tanlac was doing, and one of these statements was that of a friend whom I have known for more than fifteen years."

"The relief that I received from Tanlac has been wonderful. It has relieved me of my indigestion entirely. My appetite is just too good. I can eat, and crave nearly everything."

"These headaches I had that nearly drove me out of my mind at times, have been entirely relieved. I have not had a headache since I started taking Tanlac, and my nervousness is gone. I have not had one of these spells, although I have passed the period when they usually come upon me. I do not believe that I will ever have them again. They have come on me regularly at about the middle of May, and they did not come on me this year because I took Tanlac, I know."

"Tanic is certainly a wonderful medicine, and may as well be called you. I most surely do recommend it. It has performed a miracle in my case."

Tanic, the master medicine is sold exclusively by Letiner Drug Store, Chester; Lockhart Mills Store, Lockhart; Kennedy Mercantile Co. Blackstock; D Ferguson, Fort Lawn. Price $1 per bottle straight.

HUGHES STAYS FOR AMERICANISM

Demands Suggestion From Progressive Rousing Call to Assure Sphinx of Support.

New York, June 13—Charles E. Hughes today defied his critics to ward German-American support as one of "undiluted Americanism." In the first statement issued since his acceptance of the Republican nomination for president he said:

"I stated my position very clearly in my telegram to the convention. My attitude is one of undiluted Americanism and anybody that supports me is supporting an out and out American policy, absolutely nothing else."

The nominee's day a busy one was devoted almost exclusively to receiving callers. There were so many of them that a line was formed and they filed past to shake hands and chat for a moment instead of waiting to be received alone. Several Progressive leaders and Republican supporters of Col. Roosevelt were among them.

Everett Colby of New Jersey, who placed John M. Parker in nomination for the vice presidency at the Progressive convention, and Theodore Douglas Robinson, nephew of Col. Roosevelt and a former Progressive leader in New York, called during Mr. Hughes' absence at luncheon. They left word that they would return in a day or so to deliver in person their pledges of support. Oscar Straus and William C. Clevland, pledging support and followed in person later to congratulate the nominee and reiterate his pledge.

RE-ARRESTED AS HE WALKED OUT FEDERAL COURT.

Knuckley Released on Bond in White Slave Case Held On Another Charge.

Greenville, June 14—Ed Knuckley, a young Syrian who has been in jail for several weeks under a charge of violating the Mann White slave act, was brought into federal court Wednesday morning. There was a wan and pathetic look about him, and he complained to a group that gathered outside of the station of the sameness of his confinement in jail. He had been sick and, with his attorney, he was appearing for his release on bond. At the request of H. P. Burdette, Judge Johnson had reduced the bond from $1,000 to $500.

After the bond was signed by W. E. McCain of Greenville and the necessary papers had been approved in Clerk of Court J. B. Knight's office, Knuckley prepared to leave the room when George Sharkey, Sheriff King, who was waiting to arrest him on a warrant charging adultery. The warrant had been previously sworn out by Deputy Sheriff Campbell and had been withheld pending other developments in the white slave case.

Upon this proceeding Knuckley and the officer and the attorney went immediately to the office of Magistrate J. L. Ballenger. There Attorney Burbage arranged for bond for his client in the sum of $200. This W. E. McCain also signed.

Annie Azer, the young Syrian woman who was bound over with Knuckley on the "white slave" charge, was taken from Greenville to Charlotte yesterday by her father, who came here in consequence of the report that his daughter had again been arrested on a state warrant. She was released with the proviso that she leave Greenville. She carried her 3-year-old son with her.

THE SKILL AND WEAKNESS OF AMERICANISM

The skill and weakness of Americanism is the subject of the address given by the speaker, Charles E. Hughes, at the opening of the convention following by great achievements. The plunger does our plumbing; the roofer does our roofing; the one our cooking; the preacher our preaching.

"But by a singular condition in the higher stages of thought and of service we often go far beyond the ordinary. We believe that if we had served well, for instance, as the director of a university, he has thereby proved that he will make a good president, or an ambassador; if he has proved his ability as a lawyer; it is therefore believed that he would make a good president of a life insurance company; if he had proved himself able as the Governor of a State, we imagine he also is fitted to be chancellor of a university. We reason that because Colonel Goethals has built the Panama Canal to the world's satisfaction, he will serve equally well as a chief executive of a city."

Experience proves the contrary. Highly specialized ability in one particular field means failure in another sphere.

Four men were made President of the United States who were conspicuous in the Civil War: Grant, Hayes, Garfield and Harrison. Grant, of course, was made President because he had been the commanding general. He revealed rare qualities as President, but he was not successful as an executive, and the other three also failed.

The contrast between our following the expert in small private affairs and our not following him in large public ones is deep and general. The cause of this contrast is not quite so clear. May it not, however, lie in our not knowing, or failing to realize, that government affairs are all great business; that it requires an orderly arrangement of tremendous human and material forces?

We should think that government is the most important business to which the individual or a community can address itself. It demands, if anything demands, the expert of the most efficient training, of the broadest and highest vision, and of the most fundamental education.

We act, however, as though we thought government in the only business in the world in which no training is necessary.

What we lack in America above all else is men trained in the public service, men who can be wholly detached from any private interest, men who have the sense of trusteeship when acting for all the others and the power that goes with that service.

STOP! LOOK! LISTEN!

The above advice applies to no class more aptly than to the farmer on the subject of hail and hail insurance. Our county in the main has been fortunate for the last few years so far as crop loss by hail is concerned (though there have been several heavy and severe losses during that time), but the very next hail storm of serious nature may be right here in our midst and may wipe out at one blow all of the toil and preparation of months. Hail has wrecked destruction in other parts of the State already this spring, and the very next storm may occur in Chester county. We are not making an effort to frighten the farmers into separating from any of their good coin, but we do want to be in a position to help our friends when trouble comes.

All losses paid promptly. No trouble about adjustments.

Lesson XII.—Second Quarter, For June 18, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES

Text of the Lesson, Mark 6, 19-34.
Memory Verse, 29, 32. Golden Text, Acts 16: 31. Commentary, Prepared by Rev. D. W. Stewart.

Jesus' disciples were gathered about him, and he said to them, "I have compassion on this people, because they are here so long, and I have only five loaves and two fishes. But what if I should give them to eat?" He said to them, "Bring them here." And they brought them. And Jesus said to them, "Sit down on the grass." And they sat down. And Jesus took the loaves and the fishes, and blessed them, and gave them to the disciples, and they gave them to the people. And they all ate and were filled. And they took up the fragments of the loaves and the fishes, and gathered them together, and filled twelve baskets. And the people saw that Jesus had done a great sign, and they said, "This is a great sign, for he has given life to the people." And Jesus said to them, "I have compassion on this people, because they are here so long, and I have only five loaves and two fishes. But what if I should give them to eat?" 'Healthgrams' On Skin—Flashed to Thousands

One of Nature's signals is an unhealthy skin. It is a good sign that the skin indicates the condition of the body and the health of the system. Unless the blood is purified and kept rich and healthy, it will eventually react on the organs and tissues of the body, and the result is a general weakness and a tendency to early catch colds. Malaria and scores of other equally serious ailments are all manifestations of bad blood. For over 20 years S. S. S. has been a highly recommended remedy. Thousands of men and women have been relieved of such ailments as Rheumatism, Bile, Chills, and all the results and the tendency to early catch colds. FRIDAY, JUNE 16.

HERE THEY GO.

We notice in the Abbeville Medium that a Hease-McLaurin club has been formed in that section.

Wonder what this is for?

Our last information was that Mr. McLaurin was not going to run for office this year.

Well—er—we guess it must be politics.

MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS

The city of Chester continues to make advancements in the way of permanent improvements. Within a few days the authorities will complete a water extension from the end of the Whyte street main, near the Seaboard passenger station, to deter street thence across to Center street, and out a considerable distance.

This will give a number of people connection with the city water line and will also provide fire protection as several hydrants are being installed along the extension.

People along this extension will be able to save a considerable sum on fire insurance in addition to other benefits to be derived from the improvement.

After the extension of this line is completed the city force will begin cement paving on College and Church streets and from there they expect to go to York and Smith streets. They anticipate reaching the latter streets early in July.

FALSE DIGNITY.

There are some funny people pre-ambulating around in this world and one often wonders just how they happen. It is a problem not easily solved by the man with an unlimited amount of comprehension or by some with an unlimited amount.

We are speaking of what the world calls a dignified person. There are some people who inherit a legacy and become dignified and after the course of a short period they pass from the dignified state into what is known as the foolish state. There are other people who go through this experience trying to be "somebody."

It is really amusing to watch people going through this experiment. They do away with their own dear selves in order to become dignified and slip a cog during the circuit and check up in the foolish house where they blame their old time friends for placing them in this unwelcome position.

There is too much false dignity in our every day lives and we ought to cut it out and return to our natural state. We make fools of ourselves trying to be dignified and never realize it until the world hands us a ticket to the foolish house.

Discard that false dignity robe—go home and get down in the floor sand roll and toss with the kids. Be a man—not a fool.

THE POLITICAL GAME.

We have never played the political game so do we ever expect to. Of course, we are interested in our government and the men in charge of each department, but as for getting into the game, as some people do, we ought to be excused.

It is a hard game to play. For a man to be "on the square" and play politics in this day is what we term a tough proposition. And for tricks—the average citizen cannot conceive the meaning of the term tricks until he visits the interior of a political chamber.

We of course, would not assert that all politicians are tricky for the simple reason that we cannot prove the assertion, but no matter, it is a mysterious game with mysterious ways.

Since South Carolina is to enjoy a little "politics" this summer we would like to suggest to the women who are seeking the ballot box, to pay strict attention to the mysterious doings, which, of course, will take place.

As a matter of fact we would like to know a woman's idea of the political game.

HE CAN—BUT WILL HE?

The average man can make a success, but he doesn't—not one that is worth talking about. There are several reasons for this, the principal one being that he doesn't know that he can make a success. He hasn't discovered himself. He doesn't know that it doesn't take any more energy to do it for a lifetime than to do it just now. He hasn't realized that it takes almost as much energy to be indifferent as it does to be positive.

His ambition has not been aroused, and he is satisfied with indifference. The price of success is more than he thinks he can pay.

I have often been asked by young men if I thought they could succeed, and I have invariably answered: "I know that you will if you never mind buckling in and stay buckled in, such a question would become obsolete. They too often engage in an enterprise and are hopeful of great success without reckoning the price at which success comes; when they encounter a few obstacles they change their minds. They say: "This thing isn't what it's represented to be; I'm going to try something else," and so multitudes go through life pumping from one thing to another. They don't like the business because they are not acquainted with it. They haven't studied it enough to know what is in it, or their moral stamina has not been developed to such an extent that they can face the music and overcome the difficulties one at a time.

The road to success is not very long if you put your personality, your vim, and your whole life into every step of that road. If you go thru the obstacles as you come to them; whether it is agreeable or disagreeable, you will find the distance only about a mile, but try to dodge them and it's a thousand. When once the start is made, doing the thing to a finish is the price of success, and after all it is the easiest way.

The more you give the more you have left. Talent begets talent. Industry and good judgment make the genius. There's no cut rate at success headquarters. Pay as you go and the price is small; try to work in on a sham and the price is so high that it puts a mortgage on your soul. Don't think of success as some great prize within your grasp. Every time you do a thing right and finish it you are successful, and each right action brings you nearer success on a larger scale. Every time you do a wrong thing, you are a failure, and it makes it easier for you to fail again, unless you take advantage of the experience gained by that failure. Doing a thing wrong once is no crime, but it is seldom necessary to make the same mistake.

Would you know whether or not you can succeed? Look around. If others are succeeding in that particular business, then you can. If it is a profitable thing to do and a thing you want to do, don't say that you cannot, and don't listen to any of the "it can't be done" croakers.

The reader of this article can do anything that has been done if he wants to badly enough. You have within you the ingredients of success; it rests with you to bring them out. First, is the enterprise worthy of your energy? If it is and you have decided that it is what you want to do, you can do it, and it won't be half so hard as it seems. As your knowledge of the business increases, the obstacles will decrease, and if you will add to your past efforts a little more energy, a little more headwork, a little more vim, you will find yourself leading the hosts long before you had dreamed of such a rise.

"He can—but will he?" is not complimentary. I wish every man would so live, that when he undertakes anything out of the ordinary his friends will be able to say: "It seems impossible, but if any one can do it, he is the man. I have never known him to fail yet, and I believe he can do anything he undertakes." I knew of a young man once who undertook to superintend a very difficult business. His closest friend said in speaking of him, "I know of only one reason why he is likely to succeed, in the venture, he thinks himself that he will succeed and I never knew him to fail in anything in which he himself believed."

Every young man is building a reputation, if he gets that kind of a reputation it is worth a gold mine. Why not get it?

The gin house on Mr. T. Y. Williams' place at Waxhaw creek on the Lancaster road, together with sixty bales of cotton and two cars of cotton seed, was destroyed by fire last Saturday morning. There was no insurance. This is an unusual time of year for fire in a gin plant and suspicion of incendiarism was aroused. Joe Cunningham, a negro, who had been mad at Mr. Williams and Mr. Anderson, who lived on the place, was arrested and is now in jail at Lancaster awaiting a hearing.

THE STRAW HAT season has just opened up, and you will find with us all the new shapes and straws. The S. M. Jones Co.

The Methodist of this State will soon launch a campaign to raise an endowment fund of $200,000, one-half of which will go to Wofford College, one fourth to Lander and one fourth to Columbia College. Plans have not been matured, but it is thought that it will be worked through the presiding elders and pastors, that thirty or perhaps sixty days will be devoted to it and an effort will be made to carry the campaign into every home of the four hundred churches in the State.

Rev. J. B. Traywick, pastor of the Wimbombro Methodist church was a Chester visitor Tuesday. Rev. Traywick has been preaching for 31 years.

LADY KILLED AT CROSSING

Rock Hill, June 15th.—Mrs. Belle Phillips of Rockingham, N. C. was killed this afternoon at 1 o'clock at Steele's crossing, on the C. O. C. division of the Southern Railway, by train No. 114, in charge of Engineer Brickman and Conductor Myers.

When the train struck the automobile in which she and two children were riding, the car being driven by C. A. Strat of this city.

Strat, who had charge of the car for Heller and Hisey of this city, who do a transfer business, had taken some parties to Catawba Junction to catch the Seaboard train for Atlanta, and Mrs. Phillips and two children had come from Rockingham, wanted to come to Rock Hill. Strat was on the way here with them when at the above-mentioned crossing the train leaving this place for Columbia via Camden ran into them.

Strat states that if the engineer blew the whistle for the crossing he did not hear it, and when he saw the train he was on the crossing and the train within 15 or 20 yards of him and he put on all the power he could, but the train struck his car before he could get off, tearing the car to pieces and injuring Mrs. Phillips so badly that she died in a few minutes after she reached the Fenell Infirmary here.

The two children were also injured but it is thought not seriously. Strat, the driver of the car, was only slightly hurt on the leg and shoulder.

Mrs. Phillips was a widow and was on her way to visit her mother, Mrs. McKenzie, of this city.

OPPORTUNITY.

They do me wrong who say I come no more,
When once I knock and fail to find you in;
For every day I stand outside your door,
And bid you wake, and rise to fight and win.

Wait not for precious chances passed away;
Weep not for golden ages on the wane

Each night I burn the records of the day;
At sunrise every soul is born again.

Laugh like a boy at splendors that have sped,
To vanish joys be blind and deaf and dumb;

My judgments seal the dead past with the dead,
But never bind a moment yet to come.

Though deep in mire, wring not your hands and weep;
I lend my arms to all who say, "I can"

No shamefaced outcast ever sank so deep
But yet might rise again and be a man

Dost thou behold thy lost youth all aghast?
Dost reel from righteous retribution's blow?

Then turn from blotted archives of the past
And find the future's pages white as snow.

Art thou a mourner? Rouse thee from thy spell;
Art thou a sinner? Sins may be forgiven;

Each morning gives thee wings to flee from hell—
Each night a star to guide thy feet to heaven.

—Walter Malone.

"THE SHORT BALLOT" THE THING

The more we see of government the more convinced are we of the wisdom of the "short ballot" as advocated by President Wilson and by other eminent men in all political parties. The "short ballot" works well in the Nation and would work well in states and counties. Having only a President and Vice-President to elect Nationally, the people are able to "size up" various candidates, take their measure, study their ideas, sequence the people usually know what they are getting when they pick and choose a President. But think what dangers we should be in if the people had to pick and choose among multifarious candidates not only for President and Vice-President but for Secretary of State, Secretary of the Treasury, Secretary of Agriculture, Secretary of the Interior, Secretary of War, Secretary of the Navy, Secretary of Labor, Secretary of Commerce, Attorney General, Commissioner of Education, etc. We get vastly better government by avoiding this confusion and saying instead, "Well, we have looked the country over and we have decided that Governor Cleveland or Theodore Roosevelt or Woodrow Wilson represents the ideas and principles we wish enforced by this Government and we trust him to pick his assistants subject to the approval of the Senate." And then we hold Mr. President responsible for the sort of government we get and know whom to blame if things go wrong.

Instead of adopting this principle in the states and counties, however, the people are confused with an endless list of candidates for an endless list of offices—governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, state auditor, commissioner, commissioner of labor and printing, judges, solicitors; then sheriff, clerk of the court, register of deeds, treasurer, coroner, surveyor—and Heaven knows what else. And the natural result is that citizens despair of learning anything about more than three or four of the candidates, and then vote blindly about the others as a matter of their ring or faction success.

It is not clear, kind reader, that such a system does not provide rule by the people, but rather come nearer getting genuine rule by the people in our "short ballot" National election—in which everybody knows whom he wants for President and why—rather than in our hedge-podge state and county elections in which we know nothing about half the candidates, what they will do, or how they will do it?—The Progressive Farmer.
