McLAURIN'S SPEECH AT SPARTANBURG

From the Book House, Coast of Maine to the Pacific Coast...

With the 4th of July, 1776, was the date of the Declaration of Independence, the 4th of July, 1876, was the time when we carried out the full effect of the establishment of the capital...

Our forefathers pledged us a revolution through their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor to secure for us this boon. They forecasted the future, they built the nation...

The events of the last half century have been the grand results of the full appreciation and utilization. We are standing today with the vanishing shadows of the past...

I propose today to emphasize our present splendid opportunities as a nation and to call attention to the vanishing shadows of the past...

The thought so beautifully expressed in the words of the poet, "The true of nations are as individuals."

"Behind their west out a sower, and now he sowed, some seed of the new and the fowls of the air came and devoured it up."

"I do not see the man who has been made. It has been discovered almost a revelation that man was not made for governments...

human eye cannot look directly upon the light which is being given to the world when the sun of this world first sprang the dawn of the Kingdom of Heaven...

Then the light of liberty flickered through the clouds, and home men saw it, and knowing their eyes upon it, followed it, looking to the western hemisphere, where the clouds were dispelled and the full light broke forth...

No nation in the past has had such a glowing future before it as we have accomplished by us up to the 4th of July nothing but preparatory work.

Editorial Correspondence.

The doings of the Press Association would hardly interest our readers enough to justify giving any extended report of them. A number of well written papers were read, but they were on subjects that concern newspaper men chiefly. Col. James A. Hoyt, of the Greenville Mountaineer, however, read a sketch of Col. F. W. Dawson, which could not fail to interest any South Carolinian, or anyone else, for that matter.

Glenn Springs is a most agreeable place. The hotel is situated on a hill, which looks off all around and is covered with natural forest trees. There is quite a rural village around, which makes the place much more interesting than where a hotel is set off in a desert.

The spring is at the foot of a long and rather steep hill, but many smooth walks wind about on easy grades around the hill, and through the woods, which stand as nature planted and reared them, with large trees and undergrowth. When you ask which of the numerous paths leads to the spring, you are told it matters not which road you take, you will find at the spring. Then you will, of course, remark, "All roads lead to Rome." So returning, the walks all meet at the hotel, and there is no danger of pedestrian getting lost, unless they are lovers who have lost their heads as well as their hearts.

Water is carried to the hotel in abundance at all hours, but guests prefer to drink at the spring. A very polite "dipper" of African descent stands by the spring the live long day and hands up water with great dexterity—almost dexterity, in fact. While not quite so important information as the water. One peculiarity he mentions is that it takes away all thirst for intoxicants.

The effects of this water are so well known among our readers that it would be idle for us to say anything of its virtues. It is very agreeable to the palate, and persons who use it for their health are much pleased with the results. The hotel building is a good one, compared with buildings at many other such resorts, and the attention, fare and accommodations generally are all that could be asked.

The Farmers' Alliance. When England declared war against the Boers, President Kruger said that she might whip him in the end, but if she did it would be at a price that would stagger humanity. And his prophecy is coming true. Mr. Brodick, the secretary of war announced in the house of commons on June 25th last that the war was now costing England $1,000,000 a day. Add to this the blood our mother country has poured out upon African soil, and the price does indeed stagger humanity.

The Camden Chronicle copies our recent article on the sale of the Catalpa Falls property and asks why Camden should not have the railroad that we predicted would soon be running from Chester to some where via the Falls. We not only do not know of any reason why this road should not be run to Camden, but we cannot think of any place we would rather see have it. Let us get our heads together, neighbors, and see how we can hasten matters a little. Possibly Gen. W. B. Rouse can be induced to carry out his plan to extend the C. & N. W. Ry. from here to your place via the Falls.

points charged him, with subscribing for all the papers in the state and paying for them out of the state's money, he justified his action by saying that it was necessary for him to have these newspapers in order to know what was going on in the state so that he could better fulfill the duties of his office. Who will say that the sentiment of the press of the state in favor of the action taken by the board, has not had something to do with his present accord with the board?

Recklessness Run Glad. On Saturday night last about 8:30 o'clock one of our city policemen attempted to arrest a negro on Main street near the court-house. Exactly what the negro had done we have no information at hand, but he was warranted in saying that he was a trivial offense. When the policeman approached him, the negro took to his heels and ran off down the side-walk towards Mr. J. A. Owen's store. The policeman called to him to stop, but the negro kept on going, and the policeman pulled out his pistol and fired at him twice. That the negro or someone else was not hit is a mystery to us, for we were passing along on the opposite side-walk, and there seemed to be several persons standing around the front of Mr. Owen's store. This is not the first time the officers of the law have evidenced such a total and reckless disregard of the life and limb of our people, and we think stop should be put to it at a day.

We are to late to talk about the matter and to punish someone for their recklessness, when somebody is either killed or crippled for life. The time to stop it is now. Besides, why allow a policeman to commit murder? If that policeman had killed the negro that was fleeing from him Saturday night, he would have been guilty of murder. If he had accidentally killed some woman or child, he would have been guilty of worse than murder. We call upon our city authorities to put a stop to this thing at once.

Since the above was written and put in type we have been informed that the policeman referred to has been suspended for two weeks for his recklessness. We are far from wishing this gentleman the least harm, but desire to congratulate the mayor on his prompt action in the matter.

The editor, though at home now, is giving his attention to an accumulation of business matters, writing only a few local items that have fallen in his way.

When England declared war against the Boers, President Kruger said that she might whip him in the end, but if she did it would be at a price that would stagger humanity. And his prophecy is coming true. Mr. Brodick, the secretary of war announced in the house of commons on June 25th last that the war was now costing England $1,000,000 a day. Add to this the blood our mother country has poured out upon African soil, and the price does indeed stagger humanity.

Our little governor has about as much of a nature about him as other folks have, if not more, and the controlling desire of his life seems to be his wish to be popular. Ever since he was elevated to the gubernatorial chair, he has observed an indifferent policy towards Charleston's tigers, but now that the state board of control has decided to withhold the dispensary profits from that city, until the law is better enforced, he comes out and says that it is just the very thing that he has been thinking about for some time, and that he is in perfect accord with the board in its actions.

another. The thing that we wish to emphasize is this, every one of us can do something towards bringing some body here, and we want to see our people realize this fact and act accordingly. Have on your lips at all times a good word for your city; and if you meet, or hear of anyone who is looking for a home invite him to come to Chester, and do all you can to get him to locate here when he does come. The Commercial and Manufacturers Club has done some work along this line, nothing however like they should have done, but we are sure they are ready, and willing to lend you a helping hand, whenever you are a member or not, whether you are on the trail of anybody who might be induced to cast his fortunes with us.

More Early than to Star. In the very old days, the best rock was made of wood. The very oldest of these is a kind of pine, making feet of lumber which at first were had not appreciated, and it is not found in Canada.

The first insect known to have existed, a creature of such vast antiquity that it deserves all the respect which that period had and can envision and offer to it, was a cockroach. This, the father of all black beetles, probably lived on the earth in solitary magnificence when not only kitchen, but even kitchen midleens, were undreamed of, possibly millions of years before any public man had even a back-cave to offer, with the remains of last night's supper, for the cockroach of the period to-day. His discovery established the fact that in the sturdiest period there were insects, though, as the only piece of his remains found was a wing, there has been room for dispute as to the exact species.

Mr. Coogler in his preface to the second edition of his book notes says that what is probably a still older insect has been found by the same discoverer in Sweden. This was not a cockroach, but apparently something worse. If the Latin name was not given, it is likely translated it means the original sturdiest bug—Spectator.

Anakus Without Feet. The hooped animal, like the horse and the stag, have their hooves, no feet, for they walk on their hails, and their feet have become part of their legs. The hooped animal has a lengthening of the arctic, just as a trained athlete learns to run up his toes to increase his pace. There is also the hooped animal, but it is not so much a great advantage in climbing. The absence of legs as well as feet is an advantage to the hooped animal, but he has to travel rapidly through the water or between the branches of trees or other obstructions.

When you go to the market, a sorry story has to be told, the county of Yorkville, for instance, from Bridlington to Spurn Head, has been destroyed. It is calculated, at an average record of six feet a year. It is said that careful observation has been made, and it is certain that the cliffs 40 feet high have been eaten away by the waves 122 feet in 40 years. It is however, at Spurn Head that the greatest ravages have taken place.

In Edward the First the village of Ravenspurn, a seaport near Spurn Head, met more than one member to parliament in 1290 and 1415, and Edward IV and Edward IV, respectively, landed there, but very soon after the latter's visit the entire town was swept away by the sea. Today the village of Kites alone stands upon the beach; the old site of the village, once a fair place on a hill, with a fine old church, is now buried by the waves in 1826. In some hundreds of yards below high water mark, and where New Kites join it, the sea and the timber will not take long to destroy the entire promontory and make a blue-green precipice at Grimby.—Good Words.

One View of Our Women. American women separate themselves more each year from the life of the country and affect to smile in any of their number who honestly wish to be of service to the nation. They like the French aristocracy, and are willing, even anxious, to all agreeable diplomatic posts, at first class foreign capitals, and are not averse when their offers of service are not accepted with gratitude by the authorities at Washington. Some of them propose to hit better half some honorable position in the machinery of our government, and will not let the ladies answer will be a New York woman was transplanted to a western city, where she was told that the ladies of the place expected her to become their social leader. "I don't see anything to lead," was the amiable response. From Miss Gregory's "Worldly Ways."

King Credit.

We feel the poverty of language to express our sentiments concerning his satanic majesty. Credit has split, splintered and shivered agricultural and mercantile timber that had defied a thousand whirlwinds. Credit has hurried with relentless swiftness and barbarity beyond oblivious black shadow some of the finest brains and backbone that ever stood up in war. It is a melancholy sight beyond the power of language to describe, in detail to see the children of genius and the scholars of invention and progression crushed like egg shells beneath the heels of this tyrannical monster. The credit prices of to-day simply means ruination to both buyer and seller, and yet strange to say, with those unapproachable, solid and stubborn facts staring the world in the face, history will go on repeating itself until the last wave of time beats upon the shore of eternity.

Tillman Will Oppose Capers.

CHARLESTON, July 4.—John G. Capers, a resident of Washington, D. C., who has been appointed United States district attorney for South Carolina, will be sworn into office the latter part of the month. He is expected here in a few days. While Mr. Capers will take charge of the office at once, his nomination will not be sent to the senate for confirmation until the session in December, and it is open talk in South Carolina that the nomination will be bitterly fought. Senator Tillman is expected to lead the opposition, although it is not known whether the opposition is now far the opposition has gone.

The semi-official announcement has been made that C. P. Townsend, who was assistant attorney general of South Carolina during the McLaurin and Barber term, will be made first assistant under Mr. Capers, and that the other appointment will go to Thomas Butler, a nephew of General Matthew C. Butler. Young Butler is a democrat and a member of the state legislature. He is friendly with the McLaurin element, however, and it is claimed he will get the appointment through the influence of his uncle, General Butler, who recently came out for the McLaurin movement.

Another announcement, which has stirred the republicans and McLaurinists, is to the effect that the president will not make either of several appointments for South Carolina until the Capers confirmation has been settled by the senate. The president is not inclined to name men for office who stand little show of being confirmed, although it is admitted that politics more than anything else will figure in the Capers affair. As matters stand, however, no other appointments are likely, and the republican officeholders are encouraged.

It Dazzles The World.

No discovery in medicine has ever created quite the excitement that has been caused by Dr. King's New Discovery. The presumption, it is asserted, has been made on hopeless victims of consumption, pneumonia, hemorrhage, pleurisy and bronchitis, thousands of whom it has restored to perfect health. For coughs, colds, asthma, croup, hay fever, hoarseness and whooping cough it is the quickest, surest cure in the world. It is sold by Woods Drug Co., who guarantee satisfaction or refund money. Large bottles 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

More Glanders in York. Last week we referred to the glanders cases at Tirzan. Since then several cases have developed in Yorkville. Mr. P. W. Love had one of his fine mules to die, and another was very sick, with what appeared to be glanders. Mr. Love sent for Dr. Nesom, the veterinary surgeon at Clensonton, to come and investigate, and he came Tuesday. He examined the sick mule, and also a horse owned by Sheriff Logan, that was sick, and pronounced the trouble glanders. Dr. Nesom had to go down to Lancaster Tuesday, and did not get back to Yorkville until Thursday. This evening he went out to E. B. Carnes' on the King's Mountain road, where there was a very sick horse and found a case of glanders more pronounced than any of the others. The horse was ordered shot and the stable burned.

The mule belonging to Mr. Love and Sheriff Logan's horse were shot, in order to do away with the danger of spreading the disease. There is no known cure for glanders, and a horse of mule that has it dies sooner or later after suffering great agony. After exposure, as has been demonstrated by experiments conducted by the French war department, the disease may smoulder for several months before giving any symptoms of its presence; in other cases, it breaks out in a few days. It is contagious.

It is sometimes communicated by horses to men, with the same fatal results. One man in the lower edge of Yorkville, named Funk, died with it just after the war, having caught it in attempting to doctor a horse that had it.—Yorkville Yeoman.

Weather Forecast For July.

July comes in with a full moon and goes out with a full moon. Just after it will be in opposition on June 30th, and will be in conjunction to the moon on the first of July. Earth in aphelion on the 4th, and Saturn in opposition on the 5th. Fair and hot weather will prevail generally at the opening days of July. About the 3rd very low barometer and other evidences of storms. During the 3rd, 4th and 5th these conditions followed by moderate rains will pass over the country. The "Glorious Fourth" promises to be very warm with chances fair for afternoon, thunder storms on the 5th. Fair weather, with fresher air will succeed from about the 6th progressively to the 8th, storm conditions having preceded at all points. Moon in perigee on the 11th. About the 9th, 10th and 11th predict that a very hot wave will dominate nearly the whole country. This promises to be the hottest wave during the month and probably during the summer. These conditions will be followed by local heavy down pours, heavy thunder and lightning will be repeated. In places dry and crops suffering for moisture. Moon will reach her extreme northern declination on the 13th, 13th and 14th nearly a full moon. 15th and 16th doleful, rain and thunder. 17 to 19 scattering thunder showers. Moon on the celestial equator on the 20th, going south. About the 20th, 21st and 22d local thunder showers. Moon's first quarter on the 23rd and also in apogee. From 23rd to close of the month showery.

J. MARTIN GRANT. June 29th, 1901.

White Man Turned Yellow. Great consternation was felt by the friends of M. A. Hogarty of Lexington, Ky., when they saw he was turning yellow. His skin slowly changed color, also his eyes, and he suffered terribly. His malady was yellow jaundice. He was treated by the best doctors, but without benefit. Then he was advised to try "Electric Bitters," the wonderful stomach and liver remedy, and he writes: "After taking two bottles I was wholly cured." A trial proves its matchless merit for all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Only 50c. Sold by Woods Drug Co.

"The color fled from her face," wrote the novelist. "Ailes," that is what comes of using cheap complexion. "I thought the heroine of the story. But, being merely a figment of the author's brain, of course, she could not give any expression to this rebellious sentiment.

"I have been suffering from dyspepsia for the past twenty years and have been unable to get any relief. After taking one bottle of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure I found relief and am now in better health than I have been for twenty years. I can not praise Kodol Dyspepsia Cure too highly." This writes Mr. C. W. Roberts North Creek, Ark. Pryor-McKee Drug Co.

Condition of Cotton.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The monthly report of the statistician of the department of agriculture will show the average condition of cotton on June 25th as 81.1 as compared with 81.5 on the 20th of the preceding month, 75.8 on July 1, 1900, 87.8 at the corresponding date in 1899, a ten year average of 86.3 and a fifteen-year average of 87.5. A condition of 81.1 is, with the exception of the July condition reported last year, the lowest since the beginning of the cotton year in the principal states as reported as follows:

North Carolina 70, South Carolina 70, Georgia 72, Florida 78, Alabama 80, Mississippi 86, Louisiana 84, Arkansas 84, Tennessee 85, Oklahoma 91, Indian Territory 88.

You are much more liable to disease when your liver and bowels do not act properly. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove the cause of disease. Pryor-McKee Drug Co.

A New County. A new county is to be organized in South Carolina, from a part of Beaufort county and Roberts township and one-half of Coosawhatchie township in Hampton county. Its boundaries will be the Coosawhatchie and Broad rivers on the northeast and east, and the Savannah river on the southwest and south. All of the rice plantations opposite Savannah on Back river will be in the new county. It will contain 600 square miles and have a population of 11,000. It is proposed to name this new division Heyward county and the county seat will be at Hardeeville or Ridgeland. It is stated this separation from Beaufort county will be greatly to the advantage of those who live in the section to be cut off, as it will reduce taxes by relieving them of a large unpopulated population.—Savannah News.

New School Books.

One of the greatest expenses patrons of the public schools have to undergo is the purchase of the text books, and any permanency in them will be welcomed. A new set of books was adopted some months ago by the state board of education to be effective July 1. No schools are opened now, but the new books will be used commencing at the opening of the next session. It will be good news to patrons to know that there will not be another change until four years at least.

The following is given as the price list of the new text books: The readers range in price from 13 cents for the First reader to 48 cents for the Fifth; spelling books from 13 to 25 cents; grammars, from 12 to 48 cents; histories, 40 to 68 cents; South Carolina history, 60 cents; geographies from 34 to 92 cents; physiology, 22 to 30 cents, copy books, 48 to 60 cents a dozen, and so on through the list of text books.—Columbia Record.
