Our Real Wealth.

To go out of the world as poor as when we came into it is one of life's unwritten tragedies. We may not all be able to understand why this should be, but that is only because we have unconsciously helped to bring about such a tragedy in our own lives. The possession of riches is the result of existence for many persons, and to the general mind the man who lacks money lacks also the ability to enjoy life to the utmost. However that may be, and however comfortable a feeling it is to have a well-filled purse with which to supply our creature comforts, the fair-minded, sensible person is forced to admit that the possession of money is not really essential to our happiness or our well being. At best it is only ours for a limited time, and when the call comes and life is ended for us we go away empty-handed as far as our actual wealth is concerned. We must not value money for its own sake, but for its equivalent in those things which advance our best interests. We must learn first to value the better things of life, and to find enjoyment in its most intellectual and highest moral side. We need only to have our minds and our natures educated to an appreciation of the healthful and broadening influence of the true progress of life to make us yearn for their possession, and it is in such circumstances that we are able to possess wealth as able to gratify those desires which are likely to make us better men and women. A single pile of money can mean the happiness of itself any more than a million pieces, but the wise equipage of such can take us through new roads into pleasant lands of thoughts and desires which will improve us morally and intellectually. Heavily weighed interpreted cannot fail to exert its healthful influence, and it is such influences which help to make us see life and understand it better than we otherwise would.

our future happiness depends. Possessed of the underlying principles of a true and successful character, we may easily and most naturally, and in the end shall see clearly that real happiness, real progress, and real merit are dependent not upon the riches of this world, but upon our own individual ability to make a clean record in life. Given those conditions we shall not go out of the world poorer than when we entered it; we shall have something in our hands that will last forever, something deeper and vaster and more enduring than all the wealth of the world, something that will lead to the better life of the nation. The ability to accumulate the wealth of the higher moral side of existence and the power to share that wealth with those about us is the ability able to seek the world while things of life and culture them for our own good and for the good of others—these are the true riches of life. It is not our hands when life is over. They may not be of very great value from a worldly standpoint, but they help to lead useful lives and to leave behind us the fragrance of fine thoughts and good deeds.

THE FINANCIAL SLACKER.

The subscription to the Liberty Loan by the heroic work of tens of thousands of contributors in the cause has stimulated the activity and the thought of the whole country on the war situation, but the number of subscriptions was not one-third as great as it should have been. The bankers of the country who led in this work set at the beginning of the year that there were 10,000,000 subscribers the loan would not have reached the popular sentiment of the country to the extent necessary for the best results. This may have been too high an estimate, but it was based on the fact that the last loan in Great Britain had nearly 4,000,000 subscribers, or one out of every six in population. A similar percentage in this country would give about 18,000,000 more. That, however, was not to be expected.

That the loan was oversubscribed was due to the magnificent work of many people in all sections of the country, and to the aid rendered by newspapers and periodicals, but it is an interesting fact in view of the bitterness with which Wall Street is constantly assailed by narrow-minded people, that New York patriotism has contributed half of the total of $2,000,000,000, showing a patriotism which in proportion to population and wealth far exceeded that shown in any part of the country.

All through the country there were subscriptions of a thousand or two dollars from men who should be subscribed to their work and thirty times as much.

Another loan, however, will have to be taken within the next three or four months, and we shall have to keep on issuing new loans to the extent, probably of $8,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000 a year, and the country must of necessity absorb them.

The campaign for broadening the interest of the people of the whole country in these war loans must, therefore, be continued with unabated energy, and men who subscribed a mereittance for the Liberty Loan must be ashamed, if no other way is available, into a subscription in keeping with their ability for the coming loan.

This raises the question as to how the country shall reach those of our German predators who refused to become subscribers to the Liberty Loan. There are many men of large wealth in this country who have little subscription in their souls and are, if large wealth who, although citizens, are still more interested in Germany than in this country, who will not subscribe to these war loans and who will not subscribe at all unless compelled to do so.

We believe that the National Government must find a way to thoroughly investigate cases of this kind, and under some law, possibly yet to be passed, compel subscriptions from people of this kind and make them in this way contribute to the welfare of the nation.

There are many men of this class who are neither giving themselves up contributing their money to the nation's life. They are keeping their own hides whole and using their business and their capacity to make money for their own ends. They are not giving their money or their time and their energy to the nation's welfare. They must be found to reach these "slackers" because of their pro-German predilections or of their disposition to "hog" all and use their money for larger earnings at the expense of their fellow-citizens. We hunt out and imprison the slacker for army service, let us hunt out and take a part of his money of the slacker in financial operations who fails to do his duty by his Government or imposition him—Manufacturers' Record.

AIR MASTERY IN NEW MOTOR

Detroit, June 15—Largest Engine Said To Be Most Powerful Ever Built.

Detroit, June 21—A super airplane motor, designed to conquer the skies for the Allies, help to sweep the seas of German submarines and end the war speedily, has been perfected by a prominent Detroit engineer, whose name is withheld.

The new motor is said to be the most powerful internal combustion engine ever contrived, and it is necessary for the construction of it to wear muffs to protect their ears.

The average life of the ordinary airplane motor is sixty hours. At the end of that time the motor has to be rebuilt. The United States Aviation Material Administration claims that its life is determined only by the life of the airplane itself.

An Ordinance

An Ordinance to Provide for the Improvement of Columbia Street and to Levy an Assessment For One-half the Cost of Improvement Upon the Owners of Abutting Property.

Whereas, a petition signed by a majority of the owners of property abutting on the east side of Columbia street from Main street to Hinton street, and thence on the west side of said Columbia street to and including the premises of S. E. Wylie, and praying for the construction of a cement sidewalk on said sides of said street between said points, under the Act of 1915, has been filed with the clerk of this council:

Now, therefore, be it ordained by the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of the City of Chester, in council assembled, and by the authority of the same:

That a cement sidewalk is hereby created to be constructed on the east side of Columbia street, from Main street to Hinton street, and on the west side of Columbia street, from Hinton street to and including the premises of S. E. Wylie, according to specifications of city engineer, at a cost not exceeding ninety cents per square yard; that a sum equal to one-half the cost of said work and hereby is appropriated out of the city treasury to be used solely to defray the cost of the city's one-half of said work, and an amount equal to one-half the cost of said work is hereby assessed upon the owners of property abutting upon the said Columbia street between said points, to be levied upon said owners in proportion to the linear frontage upon said sides of said Columbia street respectively owned by them.

That the city engineer shall prepare an accurate survey and estimate of said part of said street, showing the frontage of each property owner liable to assessment, and the cost of said work is ascertained and prepared an accurate roll of the amount of assessment for which each property-owner is liable, and enter same in a book to be kept by the city clerk, in which satisfaction of the amount of assessment shall be entered upon payment in full of each such assessment.

Provided, that before entering said amounts in said book, said clerk shall publish notice that said roll is on file in his office, and the property owners affected shall have one week in which to file objections to said assessments, upon hearing which objections council shall modify or approve said assessments, and shall then be entered in said Assessment Book accordingly.

That the amount of assessment hereby levied upon said property-owners respectively shall be paid and payable within thirty days after the date of the assessment, and the clerk shall collect legal interest upon all amounts collected after the same are paid, said amount to be used solely in paying for said work.

Done and ratified in council this 9th day of November, A. D. 1916.

JOIN THE RED CROSS

By joining or assisting the Red Cross Society you help the wounded soldiers and also help to keep down disease in the army.

By keeping our soldiers well you help win the war.

The following will give you an idea of the sickness in previous wars.

In the Mexican war 6 died of disease to 1 from wounds. In the Crimean war France lost 10 men by sickness for every one killed. In our own Civil War 2 died from disease for each one shot. During the Crimean war 12 Germans died of sickness of every one killed in battle. But modern hygiene was so far ahead at the time of the recent Russo-Japanese war that the world was startled by the fact that for the first time in the history of armies there was only one death from disease for every 2 men who died fighting. In the present great war sanitation is working on a super-scale, and modern hygiene is rapidly cutting down the excessive death rate.

The better the health of our army the sooner we will win.
