Carnegie Library, Quiet But Immensely Busy, Grew From "Small Bookcase" To Hall of 57,000 Volumes

By ROSALIE SALVO

One of the most significant buildings at Winthrop College is the Carnegie Library. It is a large building, occupying an entire city block, and is situated at the center of the campus. The library is a focal point for students and faculty alike, providing a quiet and studious environment for reading and research.

The Carnegie Library has undergone many changes over the years, but its core purpose remains the same: to provide a place for students to study and learn. The library has grown significantly over the years, and its collections now include over 57,000 volumes, as well as a wealth of other resources.

Nearly 100 S. C. School Principals To Participate In Annual Teacher Exchange Week

November 30; List Plans; Students

Sixty-five Winthrop seniors have already been scheduled by the senior students to serve as the hosts and hostsesses for the various schools. Curiosity as to what to expect in the manner of hospitality, what the seniors would like to see and what the visitors would like to do is high. The enthusiasm of the seniors should bring a friendly and happy atmosphere to the schools, and the spirit of warmth and welcome will come to Winthrop in observance of the annual tradition. The students are looking forward to the coming week, which is a special time for them, as they are able to visit their former schools and to see and visit friends.
Toward More Inter-Relation

This afternoon the first meeting in a series for discussing "Correlation of the Arts" was held. We were interested to learn how many of Winthrop's students have had the opportunity to study more than one of the arts. It made us wonder how many students really realize the relation to art in the real world. At the present time, more and more students are taking courses in more than one of the arts. This is an excellent way to gain a better understanding of the arts and how they can all be interrelated.

What We Live By

In a step-up-war world, one of the few things that have been slowed down is the week. All nations are pushing itself to the extreme of whatever they feel is necessary. The Winthrop is no different. They have long ago made those rose colored glasses of major fields at Winthrop is good—natural sympathy for the underdog and warfare. This is because of a true spirit of thanksgiving. In the few out our gossiping nature. It came quite unexpectedly Saturday night over at the cottage—Kat. Well, almost anyway. The rest of the world seems sensible, but it's really serious. . . .

We might say something else in appreciation of the Masquer play in Mountain View. . . . We have to be a good year in every respect, but, like to run it for those who haven't read it.

The Commander

"The Commander" is a biographical novel by the war correspondent who was the world's leader in war correspondents. The novel tells the story of a man who has to be a commander. His name is Edward "Eddie" Logan and he is a young man who was raised in a poor, rural family. Eddie's father was a farmer and his mother was a homemaker. Eddie was the oldest of five children and he had to help his father with the farm work.

Eddie's life changed when he was drafted into the army during World War II. He served as a corporal in the 101st Airborne Division and was captured by the Germans in Normandy. After being released from captivity, Eddie returned to the States and began to write stories about his experiences in the war.

The Commander was a best-selling book and it was made into a movie. The movie was directed by John Ford and starred Gary Cooper as Eddie Logan. The film was released in 1946 and it was nominated for several Academy Awards, including Best Picture.

Outside These Gates

The Commander's life story is told through the eyes of his family. His brother, Frank, is the narrator of the book and he describes the effects of the war on his family and how it changed their lives. The novel is a powerful and moving account of one man's struggle to survive in a war-torn world.

The Commander is a classic war novel that continues to be read and enjoyed by readers of all ages. It is a testament to the strength of the human spirit and the importance of remembering the sacrifices made by those who fought in the war.

Newspaper should, in my opinion, as a laboratory in journalism, Dean Mowat G. Fraser will be given more immediate usefulness to the both the AAUW and the Southern according to Dr. Fraser. "Such courses important in Winthrop's case with the AAUW is a desirable national organization for women, even during the war. He would utilize, by all means, the best possible laboratory, however, according to Dr. Fraser. "Such courses should be given to women as a laboratory in journalism. Even Frank M. Drake, Dean of the College, says: "A feature of the regular meeting of the Secondary Education club which will be held in the month of November is a talk by Dr. W. M. The Recreation Roundup

by MARTY WORTHEN

Now in the midst of heated play (actual and verbal) of the hockey tournament, members are getting to know each other better through games.

By virtue of two losses and one tie, the sophomore squad is the only one of the four that has completed its first tournament. They played first against the seniors, 2-1, and then the juniors, who scored a clean sheet. The sophomores lost by a narrow margin, 3-2, and then they lost to the freshmen. The juniors won by a clean and decisive 4-1 victory over the sophomores, a slim 8-1 win over the freshmen, and a close, 1-0 win over the seniors.

With two outstanding forwards in sophomore and freshman ranks, the team had a tough time against the seniors and juniors on Monday evening. It is something every member of the team can expect at some point in the tournament.

The following weekend, another game was scheduled, and it is designed properly to give the juniors and seniors a taste of what is expected in the regular inter-class competition.

THANKSGIVING: War Effort; Tigers

Arranged in sheets a "lag gradation gown" and cleverly executed with hula hoops, the seniors came fourth to receive their honorary degree "motion picture" at the end of the second week of Thanksgiving. They'll pay for "victory" dynamically through taxes and work.

A. M. Goodwin, chairman of the judges, presented a "lovely girl" to Mary Sue Roundtree, chairman. Freshman president, "Paddy" Welch, was called to the stage and congratulated for good work on the part of the team.

Shipping down the steps headed by the Freshman P.E. team to the steps of "Buty Had a Little Lamb", the seniors with perks and bows nonchalantly held their hair curled out the rearway theme scheme in honor of their "baby" freshman singers.

Seeder Welch, led by Mary Lou Ahlefeldt and Betty Bland, is eager to devil salvation with an extra presentation as the big "B" was wrapped with dollar slips and two flaming torches blazed at each side of the class blanket to call on the Devil face on the blanket. Junior choir members are: William, Janet and Janet Baggs and freshman pep pay betters Betty Georgia and Frances Kim. BRUNSWICK'S SORROW WINS A second written by Del Brown, president of P.E., was selected by that society as the poet of the month last week at a regular meeting held in Mr. Brown's office.

TATLER PAYS AGAIN Those who have not had Tatler since it was published Monday in Johnson hall, should write to Harriet Quattlebaum, editor of The Tatler.
