COLVIN'S SHOES

106 Main Street, - - - Chester, S. C.

We have managed to sell right many Shoes during the last 10 days. We announce to the public that this Sacrifice Sale will continue to August 1st 10 per cent cheaper than the last 10 days. As we went over our stock we found 2400 pairs of Shoes which were in the way, and they must go at any price. The room is needed, and we must get everything ready and in good shape for Our Ladies' Tailor-Made Clothing Department.

Don't miss this opportunity

Thralkill Goes to Chaining.

Saluda, July 11.—Clarence Thralkill was this afternoon carried to the county chalking to serve his sentence for the remainder of it for the part he had in the killing of Benjamin Burton at Monetta two years ago.

When his appeal to the supreme court was dismissed the county supervisor carried him to the poor house here. Here, he remained until the matter was called to the attention of the governor, and the attorney general and solicitor of this circuit decided that his staying on the poor farm was not serving the sentence of the court. The governor communicated these opinions to the sheriff of this county, who took Thralkill in charge. Pending a final consideration of the question Thralkill has been in the county jail.

In pursuance of the final conclusion reached by the attorney general in the past few days the young man now goes to the chaining.

The sentence which was pronounced by Judge Purdy read as follows: "It is the sentence of the court that you, Clarence Thralkill, be confined in the State penitentiary at hard labor for a period of three years or till you do work on the public works of Saluda county for three years or be confined in the county jail for a like period."

Under this sentence the supervisor was advised that Thralkill could be allowed to work on the poor farm of the county, and there he went and remained until Burton's relatives, presumably, called the governor's attention to the matter.

The public is familiar with the result.—Special to The State.

Twenty Year Battle.

"I was a loser in a twenty year battle with chronic piles and malignant sores, until I tried Buckner's Anker-Pain-Expeller, which turned the tide, by curing both. I'll not a trace remain, writes A. M. Bruce of Farmville, Va. Besides a lot of Ulcers, Cystitis, Burns and Wounds, etc. at The Chester Drug Co's and Johnson's Drug Store."

WANTED: A few summer boarders.—Mrs. J. T. Galt, Lenoir, N. C.

Seven Girls Drowned in Iowa.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, July 12.—Seven girls were drowned today in Cedar Rapids river, only three blocks from home, while wading. The smallest child slipped into a deep hole and in trying to rescue her six others were drowned. Both Klessey was the only one of the party to escape. The dead:

Lucile, Hazel, Gladys and Josie Sweeting; Ruth and Cora Coyle, and Clara Usher.

The girls ranged in age from 7 to 18 years. The Sweeting children lived with their father near Ellis park on the outskirts of Cedar Rapids. Clara Usher was the daughter of Sweeting's housekeeper and the Coyle children were her nieces, who were on a visit from Sioux City, Ia.

Four of the bodies were quickly removed from the water, but two were too late to resuscitate them. The other bodies were recovered later.

A Fragic Finish.

A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great North Sea dyke, which a child's finger could have stopped, to become a ruthless break, devastating an entire province of Holland. In the manner Kenneth McLeaver, of Vanceboro, Me., permitted a little cold to go unnoticed until a tragic death was only averted by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes: "Three doctors gave me up to die of lung inflammation, caused by a neglected cold; but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life. Guaranteed best cough and cold cure at the Chester Drug Co's and Johnson's Drug Store, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free."

Aaron Prokean Now in Jail.

Charleston, July 12.—Aaron P. Prokean, the negro congressional aspirant, surrendered himself at the United States marshal's office today and was taken over to the county jail to begin his sentence for tampering with the mails when he was recognized as a railway clerk on the Atlantic Coast Line. He has been in Washington, contesting the seat of Congressman Legare, but his contest having been dismissed he now courts the walls of the capitol for the third charge of the county prison. He is to serve three months and one month additional, as he does not pay a fine of $50.—Special to The State.

Earthquake Spotted Maps.

Washington, July 12.—Secretary Metcalf today designated four members of the geographical and coast survey to go to California and investigate apparently authentic reports that the triangulation of the earth within the zone of the earthquake disturbance has been altered so greatly as to make existing maps unreliable for future reference. The men designated are Prof. C. H. Stodair, Edwin Smith, Walter Fairchild and J. H. Pratt.

This immediate inquiry was determined upon in consequence of evidence submitted to Secretary Metcalf by the California earthquake commission to the effect that horizontal displacement of the earth's crust such as was found to have occurred at the time of the earthquake in Sumatra in 1882, and in India in 1897, had taken place on the Pacific coast.

The commission declared that the geographical co-ordinates of the triangulation as published had been so changed by the recent earthquake as to make the former official figures untrustworthy from the standpoint of a scientist. There have been a number of reports sent here that the "fault," as the earthquake disturbance is technically termed, has resulted in horizontal changes amounting to as much as eight feet, and photographs have been sent Best showing such displacement, in boundary fences and reservoir slopes.

As Secretary Metcalf's home is in Oakland, which was directly in the zone of the earthquake, he feels a personal interest in the survey's testing and correcting its records. He said today his estimates of the San Francisco losses after personal inspection in 1905-06, and the impact of the California people will be severely tested in restoring conditions to the normal.

Saved His Comrade's Life.

While returning from the Grand Army Encampment at Washington City, a comrade from Eagle, Ill., was taken with cholera morbus, a most serious condition," says Mr. J. E. Houghland, of Eldon, Iowa. "I gave him Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he was saved. I have been engaged in many years in farm-labor work and conducted many parties to the south and west. I always carry this remedy and have used it successfully on many occasions. Sold by all druggists."

Farmers Institute.

The Farmers Institute will be held at Mount Prospect, four miles from Richburg, on August 1st.—The following committee has been appointed to serve and will have a meeting at Mt. Prospect church, July 20th to make arrangements for the day. We are expecting the best speakers we have ever had and the largest crowd. Come one, come all, and bring your baskets.

COMMITTEE:

Ed Anderson	John Yongue
J. C. Backstrom	M. E. McFadden
L. E. Gibson	E. W. Gibson
J. C. Dye	W. B. Gladden
Oscar Gillespie	Jim Knox, Jr.
R. L. Hicklin

Modest Claims Often Carry the Most Conviction.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial was therefore a great surprise instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by all druggists.

Death of J. W. P. Hope.

Mr. J. W. P. Hope died Wednesday night at his home in this city after a brief illness. Mr. Hope was nearly 74 years old and his death was due to a general break down attendant upon old age. He was a native of York county, having been born near Sharon in 1830, where he lived until coming to Yorkville about 1867. Mr. Hope engaged in the mercantile business after removing to this place and continued to conduct a successful business until 1893 when he sold out and retired from active life. He was highly esteemed by a large circle of friends and was favorably known throughout the county. In early life Mr. Hope married Miss Mary Wylie, daughter of the late W. P. Wylie of this county. Surviving children are as follows: Mr. John M. Hope of Jonesboro, Ga.; Dr. W. D. Hope of Lookhart and Mr. Edward E. Hope of Portland, Ore.; Mrs. S. W. Guy, of Lowryville, and Mrs. S. W. Inman, of Yorkville.

The funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the late home of the deceased, the Rev. E. E. Gillespie officiating.

The interment was in the Yorkville cemetery at 5 o'clock. The pallbearers were as follows: W. B. Carroll, W. C. Latimer, J. J. Hunter, G. H. O'Leary, J. F. Wallace, S. M. McNeil, W. B. Metcalf, J. P. White, Dr. W. G. White, W. B. Wylie, J. M. Starr, J. A. Latta.—Yorkville New Era.

N. B. Truth, St. Paul, June 22, '05.—"I've lived so long, I remember well when the Mississippi was a brook. My health and long life came by taking Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. 35 cents. J. J. Stringfellow."

Mayor Ousted and Fined
 An article of his non-enforcement of the prohibition laws and the law against gambling the Kansas superintendent, not many days since ordered the mayor of Kansas City ousted from his office. He refused to vacate and now the same court has ruled him to be in contempt and he will have to relinquish his office and pay a fine of ten thousand dollars, and must go to prison until the fine is paid. Pretty hard on the mayor, isn't it? But who will say that the punishment was not deserved? What are mayors for, if not to enforce the laws? They are pleased to him or not—Green-White Mountain.

FORECAST OF PRICES.
 Price Gives His Estimate of the Prices This Fall at the Grounds Upon which those Estimates are Based.
 New York, July 8.—Thursday published the average opinion of 145 members of the New York, Liverpool and Southern Exchanges to the following effect, namely:—Cotton.
 A crop of 11,000,000 bales next year would sell at 12.30 cents.
 A crop of 12,000,000 bales next year would sell at 10.92 cents.
 A crop of 12,500,000 bales next year would sell at 9.10 cents.
 A crop of 13,000,000 bales next year would sell at 7.90 cents.
 Since this statement was published it has not been commented upon to the effect that it was valuable as a guide to the probable course of the market.
 Under the circumstances, it is not surprising that the fact was noted by the press. On the 23rd of June, I procured from 150 members of the various Exchanges answers to the same question. Their average estimate of the crop of the next year did not exceed 10,000,000 bales, cotton would go to 15.22 cents. If it did not exceed 11,000,000 bales it would go to 11 cents. If it did not exceed 12,000,000 bales, it would go to 9.1 cents.
 The crop this year turns out to be just about 10,000,000 bales and the market has sold as high as 12.50 cents for July contracts, and has I think averaged throughout the season something over 12 cents. There is very little doubt that if the world had ever really believed the crop just marketed was as small as 10,000,000 bales, cotton would have gone to 15 cents. I mention this simply as showing that the average opinion of the various Exchanges was last year approximately correct, and certainly conservative.
 I mention it also as an evidence of the world's education in the direction of higher prices for cotton. Ten years ago any one who predicted that in the year 1900 150 members of the world's cotton exchanges would believe that a crop of 12,000,000 bales of American cotton could be marketed at anywhere near 11 cents a pound would have been regarded as insane.
 But times change. As I have previously remarked, the chief element in cost that enters into the production of cotton, as well as its value to the consumer, is the average work paid for an average day's work. This average work is today throughout the world about 50 per cent to 200 per cent higher than it was ten years ago, and the cost of cotton production and the price that people are willing to pay for it are proportionately increased. Add to this the expanding circumference of the world's commerce of civilization and comparison of the cost of cotton and the price for cotton are, as the president of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association says: "Gone, never to return," is apparent.
 Throughout the entire agricultural and industrial world, the factor of labor scarcity is becoming more and more important. In a recent article published in the New York Herald from Topeka, Kan., the following statement appears:
 "Kansas is sending out the strongest appeals for her history for one to work in the harvest fields. The drift, coulties of the last few years to get enough help to garner the wheat, before it becomes dead ripe and that drifters in the gathering, will be intensified this year if the advance signs are any token of what is to come. At least 25,000 more men than are now in the field will be needed, and if need be there will be resort to desperate measures to draft men into the service behind the self-blinders. As a matter of fact, to empty the jail of small offenders has been made."
 "Competition this year for labor is stronger than ever before. The bowels which are subject to disorders of the bowels which should receive careful attention as soon as the first unusual looseness of the bowels appears. The best medicine in use for bowel complaints is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy as it promptly controls any and all looseness of the bowels. For sale by all druggists."

DREAMS.
Do Not Always "Go By Contraries"—Some Remarkable Fulfillments.
 The old saying that "dreams go by contraries" does not always prove true; and the fulfillment of many a prophecy bearing on the future of persons and nations.
 According to sacred literature it will be recalled that it was a dream of Pharaoh, which was wisely interpreted by Joseph, that caused the people of Egypt in times of plenty to prepare themselves for famine. They saved not only thousands of lives in that country but in the whole surrounding section.
 "About a year before it occurred a gentleman who owned considerable property there had a very vivid dream that San Francisco was to be destroyed by earthquake and possibly fire. He expressed was he by his dream that the next day he related it to his family, and declared his intention to sell all of his property there, but his family would not let him and he remained there at a very remunerative price, and not content with this he moved away into a state many miles distant. The terrible earthquake and fire of last April was a fulfillment of his dream.
 This is not a fairy tale. It was told me by a man of unquestionable veracity, whose relative it was who had the midnight warning.
 As San Francisco had felt no second earthquake shocks, and it had had fire, which would have suggested its destruction from these causes, can any one say what caused this dream? Was it "a direct warning from Providence?"
 When this instance was being related another person told an instance that had come under his personal observation.
 A man had planned to go on a pleasure trip. He was to take an ocean voyage. He had engaged a passenger steamer and the persons going. The night before that set for his departure he had a vivid dream. It was that the ship he was to sail on would sink in the ocean and every life there would be lost. The dream seemed so real that during his remaining waking hours he could see the sinking ship and the persons getting down to their watery grave.
 This preyed on his mind so much that when the time came for sailing he suddenly changed his mind, and refused to board, to take another vessel. His feeling can be imagined when a few days later the news was heralded to the world that within 48 hours had sunk and every one had been lost, just as he had dreamed.
 But if dreams may come as warnings we believe they may also come as comfort and joy. We have heard of a lady who had a long severe illness. She had a dream which seemed to represent the care and struggle along life's pathway, which was as a great stairway reaching from earth to the celestial regions. Weak, but with gasp turned upward from the world's mire, she gradually mounted higher and higher, passing those who had gone on before, some resting, some coming down again. Onward, upward she climbed until, as she saw, few, she reached the scene of heavenly beauty, and was welcomed by Christ himself. The dream was so real and beautiful she had not really left this earth. But in a short time she knew it had been a dream. Soon after this she went to sleep again and the dream of the midnight death, her second. Awaking from it, she again assured herself that she was awake. In a short while she slept again, and marvelous as may seem, the dream was repeated. Who will say that this was not to the assurance that her efforts to attain the heavenly life would be blessedly successful?
 We believe this, and the godly consecrated life that she is living gives evidence and assurance that she is being prepared for that other life.
 Dream? Yes, we may laugh at them. Some of them may seem so far-fetched that they will never be realized, but with all the practicality of this age how can these instances be explained, if not by giving Providence credit for warning and comforting through their medium.

all the order. Factories are running at full capacity all over the country. Building operations are going on, in a scale exceeding anything of old in past years. These activities, in addition to the many public improvements that are going on, have absorbed the bulk of the labor of the country, skilled and unskilled.
 "One of the wisest drafts for the north-west, in that region extensive road building is going on, and with all the efforts at colonization, the most progress has been obtained. To make the progress desired by the railroad management. To supply the deficiency for the railroads alone, effort is making to divert the tide of immigration from New York to the Gulf ports. Several weeks ago, it was announced that 50,000 more men could be acceptably used in the south-west. Every demand from that source increased the anxiety and the woes of the western white producers."
 "The same plaint is made in the Iron Age of it as follows:
 "With the coming of the dog days, a new element is perpetuating the iron and allied industries in their efforts to meet the extraordinary demands of consumers—and that is, the scarcity of labor. It seems to be a case of too much prosperity—the men being inclined to insist upon more rest and recreation. This has become manifest in the iron mining region. In the Connellville coke region the lack of hands has made it impossible for the H. C. Truck Coke Company to operate more than 90 per cent of its ovens, and the leading interest is now forced to purchase coke in the open market."
 "In the south, to which section practically none of our tremendous immigration has been directed during the past ten years, sufficient labor can be found to cultivate and market a large crop of cotton, as long as the wages paid for this service are about half what competitive industries are offering. It shall be much taken."
 Theodore H. Price.
