THE SABBATH.

One Day of Rest Out of Seven is a Matter of Necessity.

No religious obligation is more familiar than the sacred observance of the Sabbath. It is always prominent in the enumerations of duties owed by man to God. To a large extent it is a test of the godliness of a person. Religion and morality are equally involved in many of the commandments of God—such as those forbidding murder, unchastity, theft and lying. Man's innate sense of the right and honorableness impel him to conform to such requirements as these. The ungodly man feels the obligation to treat his fellowman with honesty, justice and kindness, to speak the truth and be chaste. Readiness of conformity to these requirements can subsist along with absence of recognition of obligation to God.

But the sacred observance of the Sabbath is not involved in the general principles of the right and good governing men in their relations with each other. It is a matter simply between man and God. One can ignore the sacred obligations of the Sabbath and not be affected thereby in his own self-respect and in that of others. He can violate this command and yet stand as honorable and virtuous. Attitude towards the Sabbath is therefore a sharp test of godliness, of recognition of obligation to God. For this reason the sacred observance of the Sabbath is offensive to the world, excites the antagonism of the natural heart of man. It is a touching, showing his real attitude towards God.

While it is true that the sacred observance of the day is, in a peculiar sense, an obligation to God, there is another view of it, which is too much overlooked. It is viewed too exclusively as affecting our obligations to the will of God, and, as such crossing our interests at many points.

The Savior, in clarifying the attitudes of his disciples, the ministrations of man had observed, declared "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath." According to this, the institution is for man's benefit, for God's sake. It is "the Lord's day," and yet more truly it is man's day. In the deepest sense it is not true that God gives us six days for our own use and profit, reserving the seventh for himself. All the seven days are for our use and profit, most especially the Sabbath. It is man's day above all others.

The object of this article is to call attention to the fact that the Sabbath, with its sacred appointments, is a necessity to man. It is necessary to his welfare in all spheres of his nature—physical, mental, moral and spiritual.

It would be most interesting and profitable to consider man in each of these spheres of his being, and see the necessity of the Sabbath to him in each of them, but the limit set to the length of this series of articles will not admit of it.

The necessity of the Sabbath as a day of rest is generally recognized. Man is a laboring race. Each one has, or ought to have work to do. God said to him, at the beginning of the course as a sinner, "In the sweat of thy face shall thou eat bread." Neither the body nor mind can bear continuous labor. Periodic seasons of rest are required. This need is partially met in God's gracious provision of the Sabbath. Eight hours of each twenty-four is required by the average person for sleep. But the nightly supply of rest is not sufficient. A more protracted period is required. Six consecutive days of labor is as much a man can bear. He needs to spend the seventh in rest.

But for the rest afforded by the Sabbath an almost universal breakdown would prevail. Physical and mental wrecks would block the progress of human affairs. It is not only the actual rest which benefits, but also the anticipation of it, during the days of labor.

There are many incidental benefits which are incidentally gained, such as the promotion of temperance and domestic welfare. The great matter of "Sunday clothes" exerts an immense influence in saving the race from brutal coarseness and degradation. It affords to families the opportunity for intercourse which is essential to well-being.

Viewed as a period of rest from labor the Sabbath is a necessity. It has been aptly called "Heaven's antidote for the curse of labor." This benefit is recognized and appreciated by many who do not appreciate its highest necessity as touching man's moral and spiritual interests.

It is necessary for these in a preeminent degree. We could better dispense with a Sabbath for the rest and recuperation of the body and mind than with a Sabbath for the promotion of our moral and spiritual welfare.

The approach and dawn of the Sabbath calls upon man to turn his attention to things that are high—to God and our relations to him, his requirements of us, and our eternal destinies. Man is summoned by it, to a large degree forced by it, to think of God, to meet together for his worship, and to receive instruction from his word. The Sabbath is well called the very cradle of religion. Without it, all interest in religious things would be lost. The very knowledge of God would fade from the minds of man.

It is absolutely essential to man's moral and religious welfare. Its benefits are commensurate with the heights and depths of man's nature.

It follows that those who violate its sacred character, discredit its obligations are enemies to mankind to the best interest of their country, communities and families. All high interests demand that each one keep the Sabbath as God has appointed it to be kept, to use its influence for its proper observance, to resist every encroachment upon it as God's day for man's special benefit.

Nervous Dyspepsia Cured by Rydale's Stomach Tablets.

Mr. R. E. Jones, buyer for Park and Bridget, whose large department stores are located at 9th and Penn. Ave., Washington, D. C., as follows: Last February, 1904, year, while in New York on business for my house, I caught a severe cold, which laid me up for several weeks and left me weak and nervous. I had little or no appetite, and my digestion was very poor. My physicians could not get at the cause of my trouble, as my digestion seemed so much impaired. I decided to try Rydale's Stomach Tablets, being assured by a friend, that they were a good dyspepsia medicine. After using them for a few days, I began to realize that I was getting better. I gave up the doctor's prescription and have gained 20 pounds in weight since the use of these tablets. I never felt better in my life, and accorded Rydale's Stomach Tablets with having cured me. I can recommend them, most heartily, to sufferers from nervous indigestion and general run-down conditions of the system. T. S. Leitner.

Items from Rock Hill Herald.

Miss Helen Brice, of Blackstock, is visiting the Misses Brice in Oakland. Miss Eunice McConnell, of Yorkville, passed through the city on her way to Chester, where she is to nurse a patient who is sick of typhoid fever. Miss Harriet Stringfellow, of Chester county, spent Tuesday night and Wednesday here with her friend, Miss Kitty Stewart. She was returning home from a visit to friends at Camden.

Senator B. R. Tillman passed through Rock Hill Wednesday last on his way from Washington to his home in Charleston. While here he stated to a friend that the automobile accident reported from St. Louis, in which he and Senator Bailey, of Texas, are said to have been thrown out when the collision with the street car occurred, the senator receiving a sprained ankle, was not true, and that it was manufactured out of the whole cloth. The senator seemed to be in good health, and was very hopeful of democratic success.

TRIP TO WILMINGTON.

An Interesting Account of the Trip—Points of Interest Visited—Experience on Old Ocean.

On last Tuesday, July 12th, an excursion was gotten up by Maj. J. W. Reed; and as I was fortunate enough to be one of the party who went on that excursion, I shall endeavor to give an account of our much enjoyed trip.

We left Chester at 6:30 on Tuesday morning. Not a very large crowd, but just enough to make it comfortable for all parties, with Maj. J. W. Reed and our polite conductor, who knows so well how to show polite attention to ladies. All started off from the S. A. L. depot at Chester in high spirits. About 4 o'clock all began to feel that something like a lunch would not come amiss, so all who had a lunch box, or basket, soon began to pass the eatables around and to hunt up all beaches and grassy meadows to partake of the good things. After having fully eaten to our hearts' content, the baskets were closed and put aside for another time. Now all were ready to enjoy everything that came in sight.

Soon a very tempting sight came into view, a 20 acre water melon patch, and I think some of the gentlemen, I among the rest, would have liked to have called out: "Mr. Captain, stop the train; but alas, too soon it was out of sight. We were also pleased with the sight of the fine crops along the line of our route. As fine corn and cotton, I haven't seen in years. Only one little drawback on our trip, something being about the engine after leaving Hamlet, which detained us for about an hour. Then we made up for lost time, and reached Wilmington at 2:30 o'clock, took a street car and went to Barnitz' hotel, where we found comfortable rooms awaiting us. After refreshing our selves, we took dinner.

After dinner we all started for the street car, which was to take us to Wrightsville Beach. The rain was pouring in torrents, but all the same the ladies gathered up their skirts and walked through it all, kept in a good humor, consoling themselves with the thought of what they were to see at the end of the route. Of course the sight of the great Atlantic ocean was attractive to any of us, but especially to those who had never seen the ocean before. The party went to the pavilion where we got a fine view of the incoming tide. Quite a number of people were in surf bathing, which was an amusing sight to lookers-on. We remained at Wrightsville Beach nearly 2 hours, returning to Wilmington about 8 o'clock.

After supper we decided to take in the city. We found the town windows quite attractive. The ladies found the ten cents' store especially attractive.

The party took the steamer Wilmington at 7 o'clock a. m. Wednesday morning. The steamer Wilmington is a fine vessel. We all felt that we could safely risk going on the trip in so handsome and strong a looking steamer. After becoming acquainted with Captain John W. Harper, who has been running boats up and down the river for 20 years among Wilmington and Southport, we found in him a most obliging and pleasant gentleman. All were delighted with the interior of the boat. Soon the bell rang out a cheerful ring, the boat horn blew a deep sound, then we began to move off over Cape Fear river. A great many of the ladies and gentlemen went on the higher deck to catch a glimpse of the city of Wilmington. Then our attention was drawn to the vessels that were passing us on the river. The best point of interest on the east side was the wharf of the New Hanover Transit Company, from which there is a short railroad connection of about two miles to the favorite sea side resort, "Carolina Beach." There we all landed. Hundreds of visitors were there, and surf bathing seemed to be the favorite amusement. Our party then went to the hotel, where they were served with a nice lunch in the most appetizing manner.

We then returned to the car, and were safely landed back on board of the Wilmington, which was there to carry us out to sea. We saw Fort Fisher, the last Confederate fort to surrender during the civil war, under command of Col. William Lamb. The old fort is now in such a dilapidated state that you scarcely would think of its ever having any history connected with it. Still we could not help looking at the old place with interest. Then we saw "Fort Caswell," as headed up by the United States as new quarters for troops. Some very handsome buildings are there. We did not remain very long on the ocean, as some preferred "Terra Firma." We could not sail as rapidly in returning to the city, as the tide was against us.

I think we all enjoyed the trip. I must say I never expect to take so nice an outing for so small an expense. We all thank Maj. Reed and Mr. Goff for getting up this excursion, for we feel we got our money's worth double. I am sure all our party will agree with me that it was one of the most agreeable trips of our experience.

Maj. Reed for his kindness, and Chief Taylor for the splendid order kept during the entire trip. When Maj. Reed gets up the excursion for September, I trust our people will patronize it, as it will be for the benefit of our Confederate monument.

Things of Interest at Lando.

Lando, July 11, 1904. Campbell, wife of D. Campbell, died Friday night, aged about 50 years. She was a devoted member of the A. R. P. church. There were seven children born to her, all of whom with a devoted husband and father survive him. Mrs. Campbell had the esteem and confidence of all who knew her. She was a good mother and loving wife, and upon her death the community has lost one of its best women, and the children their best friend. The burial took place in Harmony graveyard, services being conducted at the church by Rev. E. A. Wilks.

The eight months old daughter of Mrs. Gough died Sunday, the 10th inst., of fever. B. D. Heath, of Charlotte, was down last Saturday looking after his interests here. Mr. Abm. Henderson, the efficient second hand in the card room of Mill No. 1, is back and is out again.

Lando was visited with quite a heavy rain and high wind yesterday, no damage being done, however. We had the pleasure a few days ago of visiting the pleasant home of our superintendent of Sabbath school, Mr. Gross, a few miles from Lando on the Chester road. He has a nice clean crop, also fine water melons and cantelopes, which we enjoyed along with a farmers' dinner, such as farmers' wives can prepare.

Rev. W. P. Meadors, presiding elder of this district, held quarterly conference here the 9th and 10th of this month, and preached an able sermon on Sunday. Mr. Ward Heath has the finest cotton we have seen, the long staple variety. He says he has gathered 4 bales from the 3 acres. We think he will gather some fine crop. All crops are looking fine down this way.

Yours truly,
J. J. WARD.

LAND IRRIGATION.

Many Different Methods of Preparation Described in Department Bulletin.

The United States department of agriculture is issuing bulletin 145, of the office of experiment stations, describing methods of preparing land for irrigation and applying water to crops in different sections of the arid region of the United States. In this bulletin the methods of getting rid of sage-bush, smoothing the ground, building laterals, and distributing water over fields as developed by the experience of farmers in irrigated districts, are brought together and described. The tools and implements used are illustrated, and the cost of the work, based upon actual examples of different states, is given. The purpose is to afford farmers a reliable guide both as to the cost of bringing wild land under cultivation and methods best suited to different soils, climates and crops. The facts included in this bulletin have been gathered by irrigation investigations in co-operation with state experiment stations and state engineers.

The fact, not well understood, is brought out that the cost of preparing land for irrigation in many instances greater than the cost of building canals and reservoirs. Detailed figures of the cost of checking land show that it varies in certain districts in California from $1.50 to $18.00 an acre. This is more than twice the cost of the canal systems in the San Joaquin valley, California, which is given in the report of the census bureau for 1902 as $4.99 for an irrigated acre. Where the preparing of land is done for the cost of checking varies from $5.00 to $20.00 an acre. The price of preparing land for flooding is much less, but is $5 an acre in Wyoming. The need of a better understanding of this particular branch of irrigation practice is becoming more and more important. Reservoirs and canals are but means to accomplish a purpose. That purpose is to increase the products of the soil.

The value of the soil or reservoir depends upon the acreage of land which it will serve and the increase the value of the products which the use of water will bring about. The time is coming when the most important problems connected with irrigation will be the best means of applying water, and, not, as at present, those of canal and reservoir building.

About 30 different methods of applying water are now in use. This does not mean that there are 30 distinct systems, but includes the different ways of preparing land by checking, compartments, deep and shallow furrows, flooding, sprinkling and subirrigation. This bulletin gives some of the results of a series of tests of different methods of applying water and the difference in loss of water by evaporation in deep and shallow furrows and in flooding.

About one and one-half times as much water was needed to irrigate an acre of land by flooding as was required in furrows 12 inches deep. About one and one-third times as much water was needed to irrigate in furrows 12 inches deep. A saving of one-third of the water by the adoption of a better system would mean not only increased profits to farmers, but a large increase in the acreage which could be irrigated from canals or reservoirs.—Green-ville News.

Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equalled. Joe Golobick, of Colusa, Calif., writes: "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from Rheumatism and nothing relieved me, though I tried everything. I can't stand Electric Bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved me. My wife has a good case for Liver and Kidney trouble, and general debility. Only Soc. Satisfaction guaranteed by the Woods Drug Co. and Johnston Drug Store. T. & F.

General News Items.

Paul Kruger, the ex-president of the Transvaal republic, died in Clarens, Switzerland, last Thursday from pneumonia and heart weakness. He was in his 80th year. He had been ill for some time, but the seriousness of his condition was kept secret. He expressed the desire on several occasions to be buried by the side of his wife in his own country. Unless the British government offers objections, his body will be removed to South Africa in compliance with the desire. Mr. Kruger first went to London, after the war, then to France, and finally to Switzerland, where he died, having been there only about one month.

Dr. Samuel Lander, for 31 years the beloved president of Williams Union Female college, died in Wilmington on Thursday, the 14th. He was born and reared at Lincoln, N. C., was educated at Lincoln academy and Randolph-Macon college, Virginia. He has been actively engaged in educational work, preaching part of the time in connection with teaching, ever since his graduation, both in North Carolina and this state, and in all his efforts he was diligent and most successful. Trinity college, North Carolina conferred the degree of doctor in divinity upon him in 1878. He was 71 years old at the time of his death.

THE BLUE BACK.

Webster's Masterpiece Still in Popular Demand in Country Schools. It may strike some persons as a rather remarkable fact that the Webster spelling book, with its familiar blue cover, has sold up to date about seventy millions of copies. The spelling book is no more in vogue in this section, where we have been over all of the many fads of modern pedagogy along with some that are vital and measurably permanent. The spelling book no longer has a place in the curriculum of one's day. There are no more spelling bees, no more spelling down in the class. In its place children write out laboriously the words selected from their lesson.

Whether they spell better than this generation we do not know, but if our own experience is of any value they do not.

Is there a man or woman of forty in the country who does not remember the thrill which followed in turning over the last page of monosyllables, ending, we think, with "Ax," and beginning the new entry into learning with the magic word "Baker." That, indeed, was an event in millions of lives, and though we must admit that teachers of that age had conception of the relation between the infantile "paraphrase" and its collateral "concept," they produced a race of young men and women who could spell and cipher and read. We do not claim that it was all of education to learn these three things. We do not deny that the modern curricula have many more and perhaps more advantageous items than the older generation was favored with. We do not think that there is a lack of interest in orthography which ought not to exist in these days of typewriting machines. Many a man has escaped censure by writing obscurely with his pen, but with the machines, which are destined to do away with penmanship, there is no recourse except to practice and the old spelling book.

So far there have been issued over 70,000,000 of the Webster spelling book, and its popularity is still on the increase. It is true that most of the circulation is in the south, where they are glad to get anything that is cheap and good, but the fact that the elemental in education survives has an instructive value. Nath Webster never made a cent, we are told, on his dictionary, but his family have made fortunes on the spelling book. That ought to give some food for thought to the philosophers who think that education began about ten years ago.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Are Your Lungs Weak?

Does the cough, left by the grippé—or the cold contracted during the winter, still hang on? Rydale's Elixir will cure the cough and heal your weak lungs. Fayssoux Woot Suit in Rock Hill. Will Fayssoux was in town Sunday. He has settled the runaway trouble he had in Rock Hill last week in the magistrate's court. He offered to pay the liveryman $25 for damages and use of the team, but the liveryman wanted $100 and took the matter before the magistrate. The magistrate's jury found in favor of the liveryman and he paid the costs. The team had been in the habit of running away nearly every time it was hitched up. Fayssoux at once brought suit against the liveryman for detaining him in Rock Hill and making him lose an engagement at Chester. The liveryman was bound over under a $500 bond and the trial will come on the 27th inst. The merchant was paid for his swag and had no trouble.—Gastonia News.

Dave Bankhead No More.

Death in most cases is sad, but it is particularly sad when it claims for its victim a young man strong and full of hope, just starting out in life. Such is the case of Mr. David Marion Bankhead, whose eyes four weeks ago gleamed with the vigor of health and youth and hope, but now they are closed in death, awaiting the resurrection morning. After an illness of three weeks Mr. Bankhead passed quietly away at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. His death was taken to Winsboro Saturday morning, and after funeral services conducted in Zion Presbyterian church by Dr. Charles R. Hyde and Rev. C. G. Brown, as assisted by Rev. Byrd, of Winsboro, was laid in the grave near the Members of Rathbone lodge 79 K. of P. of Chester aged six pall bearers, as follows: Robert Frazier, John A. Halner, R. L. Douglas, Dan Davis, S. R. Lathan and Jos. A. Walker, Sr. Mrs. Bankhead and her mother, Mrs. James Stewart, accompanied by Mr. Robert Frazier, who went to make all preparations for the funeral the next day, went to Winsboro Friday night, leaving on the 11:06 train. Mr. and Mrs. John Bankhead, Mr. Don Bankhead, Mr. W. S. McDonald, Jr., and Messrs. Andrew McDonald and Neely Bankhead, of Dover accompanied the body to Winsboro.

Mr. Bankhead was in his 28th year. For nearly 3 years he has been a very popular salesman in S. M. Jones & Co's store. For more than two years before this he clerked at the Eureka Mills store. On the 30th of last December he was married to Miss Jennie Gladden, of Longtown. With the exception of two months they have been keeping house since their marriage, making their home on Pinckney street. Mr. Bankhead was reared near Stever. He was a consistent member of Purtye Presbyterian church. The many friends of Mr. Bankhead deeply sympathize with his young wife, his parents and brothers and sisters in their untimely taking away. Mr. Bankhead carried insurance on his life to the amount of $1,000.

Confederate Monument.

The contract for the erection of the Confederate monument has been let to Messrs. Childs & Edwards of this city. The monument will cost $2,300, exclusive of lettering and hauling. The next highest bid was something more than $500 in excess of the bid accepted. The monument will consist of two bases, a die, a plinth and a spire. The bottom base will be eleven feet square, and the monument will rise in good proportions to a height of forty-two feet. The weight will be 137,000 pounds. The work will be done at the company's Georgia quarry near Elberton. Mr. Childs expects to leave this week for the quarry to look after the quarrying of material for this work and for some other monuments they have sold, one of which is to be erected in Atlanta.

Picnic at Calvary.

There will be a picnic at Calvary Baptist church Saturday, July 20th. All candidates are expected to be present. Refreshments will be served for the benefit of the church.

The Good Roads Picnic.

Everybody herabouts seems interested in the good roads picnic, and judging from present indications it is going to be the largest picnic of the season. A number of the committee in charge said yesterday while speaking of the crowd that was expected, that every white man, woman and child in the county was invited, and he believed the most of them were going to attend. The distinguished gentlemen who have been invited to address the meeting have not all been heard from yet, but all those who have been heard from are coming, except Prof. J. S. Newman, of Clemson college, who will be left away by a Farmer's Institute to another county. Latimer, Heyward, Hyatt and Mr. Spoon, of the department of agriculture, are expected, all except Gov. Heyward have promised to come, and we are satisfied that no one who attends and listens to what they have to say can go away feeling that the day has not been profitably as well as pleasantly spent.

Clarkson News.

CLARKSON, July 18.—The outlook regarding the crops is very cheering to the farmers at present. The growth of the cotton crop seems almost phenomenal, and the fruiting seems to be keeping pace with the growth of the stalk, which is considered a very favorable, provided weather conditions keep favorable. I haven't noticed many extra fields of corn, though the average corn crop might be considered fair. Leave off the cotton and prepare for the worst if it should come. An all wise Providence rules. Lightning also struck three or four different places in the cotton field on the same plantation.

Store Entered. When Mr. Robert Lindsay went into Lindsay Merchandise company's store Sabbath after preaching, he found the back door standing open. Some one had been in the store either the night previous or that morning. The back window had been forced open and entrance was made into the building. No goods of importance were missing, a few umbrellas, chewing gum and a few other articles being missed. The thief very evidently was after money, for he tried to force open both money tins, but failed. The safe was undisturbed. The Messrs. Lindsay have no idea who entered their store.

Fire Near Stover. Mr. J. T. McDonald's dwelling house and meat house in which all his provisions were stored, in the Stover neighborhood, were consumed by fire last Friday about noon. The family were all at church at Hebron when the fire occurred. A young man who lives there discovered the fire in time to save a bureau and a few bed clothes but nothing else was saved. The loss was total as he had no insurance.

A Week at the Cliffs. Messrs Ed Booth, Ralph Horne and Lucius E. Nichols and Ed Witt Bowen, of Atlanta, left this morning on the Carolina and North-Western for the Cliffs, where they will spend a week camping. They took their bedding, provisions and fishing tackle, and will amuse themselves by fishing, cooking and roving over the hills and hollows. Mr. Hope Horne went to Gastonia yesterday morning. He will join the crowd there this morning and during their stay at the Cliffs he will act as chaperon for the boys.

Mules Killed by Lightning. Mr. John McDaniell suffered the misfortune Saturday afternoon of having two good seven-year old mules killed by lightning. The darkey, Adam Commodore, was returning home with the team from Chester when the cloud approached and the rain began to fall. As he was passing Jim Vance's on the Douglas place he took shelter in the house leaving the team standing by an out building a short distance away. Lightning struck the house, knocking off the boards, and killing the mules. The mules were valued at about $300. Every one sympathizes with Mr. McDaniell in his misfortune. Fortunately, however, he was nearly through with his work.

The changing, which is at work near the Douglas place, came very nearly suffering an equal fate. When the storm came up all the convicts and guards were making for shelter, and were only about two yards from the house when the stroke came which killed Mr. McDaniell's mules. Mr. W. H. McDill and 7 or 8 convicts were shocked. Mr. McDill was in town yesterday morning and said that he was certainly frightened after he thought how nearly all came being killed, and he has not altogether gotten over the fright and shock at that time.

Killing Near Edgemore. Jim Dixon was shot and almost instantly killed at Harmony Methodist church, colored, near Edgemore, Saturday afternoon about six o'clock. The negroes of that community had come together to enjoy a picnic, and as is so often the case they left in a row. Dixon, who is said to have been a bully, a noted blind tiger, was promiscuously exhibiting his pistol, endeavoring to frighten the crowd. Robert McCorkle, who was acting as kind of peace marshal, went to Dixon and endeavored to pacify him, using the argument that he must needs be quiet since he was on sacred grounds, but at this he took offense and began cursing, and at the same time bringing his pistol into play. Then a general fire opened upon Dixon, Robert and Mac McCorkle and a Wallis being the man who did the shooting. Dixon began to run when he perceived that fate was against him, but he soon reeled and fell. Three shots took effect, two in the left leg near the same place. The other entered the left side passing through both lungs, lodged just under the skin on the right side. The bullets taking effect were from a 38 calibre pistol, and it seems that Wallis was the only one using a pistol of that description.

Sherriff J. E. Cornwell deputized Mr. E. C. Collins to make arrests, and he caught Robert McCorkle Sunday afternoon and lodged him in jail. Mac McCorkle and Ed Wiles have not yet been captured. Coroner J. Henry Gladden held an Inquest Sunday afternoon with Mr. R. J. White as foreman of the jury, and Drs. Gaston and Kell holding the jury. The coroner's verdict of the jury was that Jim Dixon came to his death by pistol shots at the hands of Robert and Mac McCorkle and a Wallis. The coroner spent the night in the neighborhood and returned yesterday afternoon.

FAMILY CARES.

This information may be of Value to Many a Mother in Chester.

When there is added to the many cares inseparable from the rearing of children, that affliction of weakness, the mother's lot is far from a happy one. This condition can be quickly changed and absolutely cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills.

This is a burden which is lighter and more happy.

Michael, a mother residing at 16 Church street, Union, says: "My son used Doan's Kidney Pills for his new and bladder trouble from which he has suffered almost all his life. He looks like a healthy boy but he cannot stand any work which causes a strain on his back and the secretions from the kidneys are strong and dark and there is too frequent action, especially at night. I am convinced that the pains and other symptoms arise from weakness of the kidneys and bladder and although we have been using Doan's Kidney Pills since the summer of 1910, we have not seen any relief. I purchased Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, and I found it was the best used here of all the trouble was relieved. The use of two boxes brought such satisfactory results that we are now using it as a preventive. He has had no return of the backache and the other troubles of his kidneys do not trouble him."

How to Avoid Potato Bugs.

Mr. S. Duncan Cross, of Chester, was in town Thursday. He gives somewhat as a gardener and poses to The Herald what he considers an infallible remedy of the germ of the potato bug, which he infests the tuber and hatches before the potato germinates. He recommends that after potatoes have been out for planting that they be either sprinkled or rolled in ashes or lime, then planted, and he guarantees that the gardener will not be worried with the potato pest.

The method is a simple one and it will cost nothing to try it. The Herald notified Mr. Cross that if he is imposing a fake upon the editor, he had better not return to this city at any time soon.—Rock Hill Herald.

Woodmen Last Decision.

The Woodmen of the World have lost their celebrated suit brought against them by a citizen of Yorkville who claims that he was injured in the initiation. The supreme court yesterday handed down a decision affirming the finding of the lower court, which awarded the plaintiff $1,000.

This case attracted attention all over the country and was of particular interest to all secret organizations, as some of the initiations were brought out by the trial. The suit was brought out by S. W. Mitchell, who claimed that while joining the order a goat was used that injured him permanently. The Woodmen, through Jas. W. Leach, who was an officer in the order, attempted to show that he had not been injured to the extent set forth in the complaint, but the jury returned a verdict for $1,000, and the supreme court with the case was taken on the admission of testimony, affirmed the lower court.—The State of Friday.

Cured of Chronic Diarrhoea After Ten Years of Suffering.

"I wish to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mrs. Mattie Barge, of Martinsville, Va. "I suffered from chronic diarrhea for ten years and during that time tried various medicines without obtaining any permanent relief. Last summer one of my children was taken with cholera morbus, and I procured a bottle of this remedy. Only two doses were required to give her entire relief. I then decided to try the medicine myself, and did not use all of one bottle before I was well and I have never since been troubled with that complaint. One cannot say too much about this wonderful remedy. This remedy is for sale by J. J. Stringfellow.

After two mistrials of the case the jury found for Mitchell the sum of $1,000. The Woodmen, through their attorneys, appealed, and the supreme court holds that the verdict shall stand. The plaintiff gets $1,000 and in addition the defendants must pay the costs of the litigation.—Yorkville Enquirer, 15th.
