The Decisive Battle.

It will probably not be denied that South Carolina has reached a crisis in her political existence. The state government has been dealing in an iniquitous business and has come to grief in it. Many prominent citizens, whose hands have been soiled and who have yielded to the temptations thrown in their way and have thus become corrupt. Conditions as they exist at present are disastrous. The dispensary as conducted by the state under the present arrangement is suffering, that the whole business is a great deal of trouble and is an acknowledged evil of its author, for he says that if the system cannot be reformed and the stealing stopped, if it cannot be cleaned up, he believes in killing it. And this is the opinion of many others. But can it be hoped to clean up the dispensary? Its author and every intelligent citizen knows and ought to know that it is unclean now. It is possible to make liquor dealing clean and pure and elevated. In the words of someone else, it is bringing a clean thing out of an unclean one. Despite its ardent advocates it is not probable that the dispensary as at present organized is ever to be free from its shameful propensity to tempt men to evil. It is a large and fair and offers large inducements to those who guide its interests.

This question and others must be decided by the citizens, the voters of the state. The light is now on between the forces, some arrayed one way, some another, and the result is likely to be decisive. Just before entering upon an important engagement which proved a decisive one, an English admiral once said to his expects every man to do his duty. The same is demanded of the forces in this state at this time; the duty required to be performed is honest and independent action, for a time like this demands great hearts, strong minds and true faith; men whom the lists of office do not fill; men whom the spoils office cannot buy; men who possess opinion and a will; men who have honor, men who will not lie. We would dictate to no man, nor would we instruct any one how to cast his vote; yet whatever tends to sobriety, whatever restores confidence between man and man, whatever tends to unite the love among the people of our state, these are the things to consider. If right and wrong are in the balance, if there may be a gain, let us not hesitantly gain the ascendancy, let us remember that "Rightness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." The responsibility rests upon those who have the power to select the law-making power of the state. This is the decisive moment. May the citizens not allow the advantages already gained open for naught.

A Quiet Evening.
At 8.30 last evening Miss Mary E. Rothrock became the bride of Mr. Phillip E. Aefehshimer, Rev. J. S. Snyder having performed the ceremony at the Baptist parsonage in the presence of only a few relatives and friends. They left on the 11 o'clock train for a short visit to Columbia, Charleston, Savannah and other points. Upon their return they will reside in Chester. We can testify to Miss Mary's fairness to duty, for she has been faithful as a pastor in The Lantern office for five years. Our best wishes are with Mr. and Mrs. Aefehshimer in their new relation, and we hope the journey through life will be pleasant and bright.

Shocked by Lightning.
During a thunder cloudb Wednesday afternoon Mr. W. F. McCullough was shocked by lightning at his telephone at the Ferguson-McCullough Co's store. Mrs. W. L. Ferguson was at the other end of the line talking to Mr. McCullough's home when the wire was struck and cut. In two about half a minute the Ferguson house and College street. The neighbor was knocked out. Mrs. Ferguson's hand was cut by a fire struck her chin but she was not shocked. Mr. Fern was knocked partly down on one side and the neighbor was knocked down on the other side. Both were considerably frightened.

Death in Texas.
Mrs. M. S. Jones received a letter from Texas a few days ago telling of the death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. W. A. Brown, who died on Friday, Friday of last week before her marriage she was Miss Sallie Massey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Massey, who moved from Danville to Texas several years ago. She was the mother of little Miss Mary Brown, who has been living with her aunt, Mrs. S. M. Jones, for about three years. She is survived by her husband and two children, Mary and Frank.

Miss Annie May Fryer Entains.
Miss Annie May Fryer entertained a number of her friends last Monday evening in honor of Miss Rebecca Walker, of Winnsboro, and Miss Louise Watson, of Charleston. Several refreshments were served by the hostess at the houses during the

THE TILLMAN RALLY.
Senator Tillman Speaks on the Issues—Senator Lattimer and Two Candidates for Congress Speak.

The previously arranged public speaking was held in Mr. J. G. R. L. Tillman's residence. The old G. R. L. church, yesterday. The attendance was large and the order and attention good. The people in the county are interested in hearing discussed the issues of the day. The speakers by the leading statesmen of the State. It was particularly fortunate to have as speakers Senator Tillman, who has been a legislator in the South for this State for sixteen years, four as governor and twice as senator; Senator Lattimer, who has spoken several times in the county, and who has always been heard with appreciation; and Hon. D. E. Finley and Dr. T. J. Strait, candidates for the national House of Representatives. It was greatly regretted that Mr. Pollock, another candidate for this position, was unable to be present, he is in the hospital in Columbia. The farmers are especially interested in the issues and they could well take a day off from their regular work. The young men of the county, and young ladies who are interested in the issues, are glad to see the people for consideration. They were there listening to the speeches and enjoying themselves in a social manner. County Chairman Jno. M. Wise presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers. Senator Benjamin H. Tillman was presented first. He held the attention of the audience for two hours.

Senator Tillman, as is known, is making the race for reelection without an opposition, and he is expected to make speeches. His object in accepting the invitations extended to him is to give the people the best of his views, and if anybody objects to his views there is no use of getting mad. He has a message for the people and he proposes to express it, just what he thinks and feels. He knows he would make some enemies, and had made them, yet he had never been careful to avoid making enemies. He does not aspire to be known in history as a politician, but rather as a statesman. He did not propose to discuss solely questions pertaining to national affairs. He has not the right to discuss local questions even if his enemies assert that a senator has no business coming to South Carolina and adding to the local troubles. He always wants to do what his enemies don't want him to, and this has been his endeavor. When the time comes for him not to express his opinion he may well know that his day of usefulness is over.

The control of the whiskey traffic is the chief question involved in the present campaign. Senator Tillman said that if someone could find a perfect solution he would join heartily with that person. His experience led him to believe that there will be whiskey, it will be drunk. Experience has also taught him to deal with men practically, just as they are and not as one would like them to be. Do the people know under the circumstances is the wisest policy. His candid opinion is that properly and honestly administered the dispensary is a good thing. He is not a prohibitionist, for this is an indication that the State is as rotten as the dispensary. He expressed his disapproval of local parties and their policy. If it is not to be stopped in thirty days, how can it be stopped in thirty days separately administered? and to prevent the sale of liquor illegally. The local parties are the great trouble. The absolute prohibition is impossible.

Mr. Tillman then gave a history of the dispensary's founding, and he spoke with some denigrating the contests between prohibition and the dispensary in the past. Finally the people grew suspicious that the business was not being properly administered, and two years ago the legislature appointed an investigating committee. That committee has cost the people a great deal of money. It is regretted if anything is accomplished. A lot of smoke has been raised, and where there is smoke there must be a little fire anyway. But the committee has failed.

That the members of the house failed in their duty was the opinion of the speaker. When they were unable to kill the state dispensary they refused to clean it up, they did not do what they could under the circumstances. In order to settle the question in the right way the people ought to take the matter in hand and have a straight ticket, let every man who comes along in every county express his opinion on the matter. He is going to vote on the issues, and not wait until he gets to Columbia before he lets his constituency know how he feels. He is going to be honest representation can be had. Senator Tillman at this point left the whiskey discussion and gave his opinion on the subject of the new school. He does not stand for ignorance; his assignments for education of the youth of South Carolina speak for themselves. He is in favor of the child in the state education. And this led to a brief discussion of the race question. Despite what northerners say of the colored man, he is not the child in the state education, as long as the great wrongs as they are perpetrated in this state, South Carolina is going to remain under white domination. In closing Senator Tillman said that as long as he could do an act it would ever be for the benefit of his constituents, and that he would ever strive that they may not be ashamed of Ben Tillman, an intermission of three quarters of an hour was taken at the close of Senator Tillman's speech.

In the afternoon Senator A. C. Lattimer addressed the audience. His speech was long, but was practical and full of common sense. He spoke about the advantages of the road and free delivery and the progress it has made. Senator Lattimer has always been an ardent advocate of good roads. His pet scheme is to have the national government go into permanent road work, take the millions of dollars now lent to the national banks, drawing no interest and spend them in road construction. He has introduced a bill providing for federal aid in building public highways, but congress has not been in sympathy with the scheme. Good roads pay any way and the thing to do is to work in dead earnest and do permanent road work independent of such aid; it pays. An excellent idea is to organize road districts in every county, to build and construct the public highways in a practical common sense way.

Senator Lattimer said he had been criticized for not making speeches on the floor of the senate. Every man has distinctive gifts. What he lacks in one way, he makes up in another. He has a few long speeches but in committee conferences and in other quiet ways. He knows when he needs to speak and if it is necessary he will do so. He can accomplish the same or more without speaking, he refrains; and that is the common sense way, his method of obtaining results. In his opinion, he is doing the very best that he can for his constituency.

The position which the junior senator holds will be vacant two years from now. It is not apparent as a candidate for reelection; but at the proper time he expects to account for his record and offer his services again. The people very much appreciate Senator Lattimer's kindness in being present. On other similar occasions he has honored the people of this county, and in many ways in his position he has favored Chester.

Dr. T. J. Strait, of Lancaster county, who represented the 5th district for six years in congress, appeared as a candidate for election to this position, now held by Hon. D. E. Finley of York. Dr. Strait expressed the opinion that the best man should be elected, taking into consideration the aspirant's character, qualities and characteristics. He explained why he could not obtain any large appropriations for the district while he is in congress. He is not a politician, but he is a practical man. He has been known in this county for years; nothing could be done after the public opinion was formed. He has seen the American war followed and all appropriations went toward the better equipment of the army and navy. He is not a politician, but he is a practical man. He has seen the country is prosperous and he would like to have a showing in this good time.

Dr. Strait attacked Finley's record referring to the obtaining of the appropriation for the King's mountain monument in York county by a North Carolina congressman. If elected the aspirant would be known. Upon closing the chairman by request handed the candidates for congress a question reading this way: Would you favor the creation of a new judicial district in South Carolina if Chester were the place designated for holding court. Dr. Strait answered this in a few words, saying that if no agreement could be reached he would remain silent and allow the committee to make the decision rather than defeat the bill. He has spoken in favor of the bill. It is in the center of the proposed district. Representative Finley defended his record. He said that he had never been in trouble on a humble bill. He does something here and he does something in the performances of his duties in Washington. He explained why the bill providing for an appropriation for the erection of the King's mountain monument was introduced by a North Carolina man. North Carolinians and Virginians fought the battle. The speaker told something of his accomplishments in his efforts to serve the people. He has received a place of power and influence by the length of his service.

In answering the question whether or not he would vote for and support a bill to create a new judicial district in Chester as the place for holding court, Mr. Finley said that this matter of a new federal district with Rock Hill as the location for the court has been on his mind ever since Chester had been mentioned. He is and has been committed to Rock Hill, he has been and expects to remain faithful to every promise he has made.

MARKET INSPECTION.

Writing the question of the cleanliness of markets, and foods that have been kept too long, Mary Hinman Abel, in The Delinquent for August says:

"A board of health that is at all efficient gives its first attention to preventing the sale of decayed and otherwise unwholesome food. The general public has little idea of the amount of stich food that is sold and destroyed every week in our large cities.

WANTED—A few summer boarders. J. J. Gall, Leonis, N. C.

A Plea For Good Roads.

Mr. Editor—What has become of the road-reconstruction bills that we heard so much about a year ago? I cannot understand why its votaries should always take an off year in politics to legislate for it. It seems to me that the matter should be injected into the county campaign for the purpose of discussion, and that the voters should be given an opportunity to provide a separate ballot box in the primary that the voters of the county may register their vote on the several plans that may be presented.

That we are solely in need of good roads no one will deny, and that it will take money to build them is another self evident proposition.

There are lower now in this county than they have been in late years, no this is not the reason why we should undertake to raise money to build permanent roads.

The levy now is only 13 mills for all purposes, as against 15 mills of four years ago.

One taxable property of the auditor's books exceeds five million dollars, and I figure it out that one hundred and twenty-three miles of macadamized roads will be required to serve the county.

On the eight roads leading out of Chester, with their tributaries, and we need across the county line, the best informed persons say that these roads can be built by contract to the satisfaction of the county, at not over one dollar per mile.

The poor man's plan would be to have the needed legislation passed and to issue one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars in county bonds payable in fifty or seventy-five years at 3 1/2 per cent interest, have three road commissioners appointed by the governor to estimate the cost of the roads to be built, and let out the contracts and commence work all along the line by the time crops are laid by in 1907.

This plan would cost only $1,250,000, as against the levy of 13 mills to pay interest and the road commissioners' salaries annually, and to create a sinking fund that would pay the debt as the present valuation of property before it was due.

But when we consider how taxable values will increase with the roads built, it is but reasonable to suppose that the tax levy could be reduced in a few years.

The other plan that I heard advocated, denominated as the "millionaires plan," is to levy a five mill tax and to build the road along the line suggested, but to pay for we about twenty-five thousand a year for five years.

In any event, Mr. Editor, I would be glad if you would open your battery on the road question, as it is more your line, and let the matter be presented to the voters of Chester township by all of the entire taxes of the county, but it would reap the greatest benefits.

Let the advocates of the movement get together and not be divided on a mere matter of plans. I may say much taxes in proportion as any man in the county, and while I favor the poor man's plan, I should be glad to see any plan triumph, just so we get the roads.

W. H. Newbold.

Twenty Year Battle.

"I was a loser in a twenty year battle with chronic piles and malignant cancer, until I tried Buckley's Arnica Salve, which turned the tide, by curing both, till not a trace remained."

Writes A. M. Bruce, of Barville, Va. Besides for old Ulcers, Cuts, Burns and Wounds, 25c at the Chester Drug Co. and Johnson's Drug Store.

Edwin Bull and Dick Watson, both negroes, who were croppers on Mr. Willie Bull's place in Darlington, got into a quarrel over a mule Saturday and Bull cut Watson so severely that he died in a few days.

Bull had ordered Watson to get Bull's mule to drive to town. To this the negro objected and after Watson had hitled the mule to the wagon and started to drive off, Bull jumped in the wagon and after a few blows had passed between them, he drew his razor which he had concealed in his pocket and literally slashed Watson's thigh, severing the main artery. Bull went to Darlington in the afternoon and surrendered himself to the officers who placed him in jail.

Saved His Comrade's Life.

"While returning from the Grand Army Encampment at Washington, D. C., a comrade from Elgin, Ill., was taken with cholera morbus and was in a critical condition," says Mr. E. H. Houghland, of Ridon, Iowa. "I gave him Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and believe saved his life. I have been engaged for ten years in the immigration business and I have many parties to the south and west. I always carry this remedy and I have used it successfully on many occasions. Sold by all druggists."

Mr. M. H. Feldman, aged 35 years, dropped dead Friday afternoon in a restaurant in Spartanburg while engaged in conversation with several other men. He conducted a harness store in this city and had many friends. He is survived by his wife and five children. He was a Confederate veteran.

Old Chronic Sores.

As a dressing for old chronic sores there is nothing so good as Chamberlain's Salve. While it is not effective to heal old sores entirely, they show less tendency to recur, and because of this salve is especially valuable. For sale by all druggists.

Chinese Thrift.

"China would be a poor field for accident insurance," says a man who I saw in the tea trade for a representative of the New York Sun. "The inhabitants would be only too glad to get hurt in order to collect their insurance."

Up the river from Hongkong there's a little settlement of Englishmen who have built a fine gravel yard inhabited by a few scrub birds of the snipe family. They are very poor shooting, but your Briton must have sport of some kind and about the only thing that grows there is a One day an Englishman led a dog on a snipe and hit a Chinaman, who had just bobbed out from behind a tombstone. The man of shot struck the cooie in his wrist, putting his hand out of business.

One of the Chinamen made a mound. The Briton wanted to do the square thing, offered to pay the damage. The cooie demanded 810.

The Englishman generously made it 815.

"There was no end and good hunting in the graveyard after that. Whenever an Englishman was seen approaching a Chinaman he hid behind every gravestone."

"Who knows how cleverness they'd manage to get in range just when the Briton fired. If one of them had the luck to get two or three birds out of his system he would come out roar and collect."

"Of course this drove away the snipe, but the cooies took to eating birds, trying to get one egg for a restaurant and hiding themselves in holes, from which they could rise and get shot at the proper moment. The Englishman had to stop hunting. It was too expensive."

"One of the pleasant and refined Chinese tortures is crushing the ankle. There are colleges in Shanghai who keep a standing army of the able count, and let out the contracts and commence work all along the line by the time crops are laid by in 1907.

This plan would cost only $1,250,000, as against the levy of 13 mills to pay interest and the road commissioners' salaries annually, and to create a sinking fund that would pay the debt as the present valuation of property before it was due.

But when we consider how taxable values will increase with the roads built, it is but reasonable to suppose that the tax levy could be reduced in a few years.

Want to Baptize Col. Bacon.

The Colonel is going to live on the large lot just above our home. He is not there yet, but his peas are his new peas. Dr. Burtis himself supervised the preparation of the ground and the sowing of the peas.

He harrowed the ground well. And next morning after the sowing, the peas were an inch high—a magnificent stand. We went on the line fence, and looked at them with indignation, and said to ourselves: "If these had been Methodist or Episcopal or Presbyterian peas, they would have lain in the ground ten days without even sprouting."

"Tell you, there's a great deal in water!" Edgfield Chronicle.

This paragraph, in which Col. Bacon expresses his admiration for Baptist peas as well as Baptist preachers, together with the disposition of the Colonel to refer to Rev. Mr. Burtis as "Brother Burtis," has caused some joking among the good Baptist brethren of Aiken as it has caused sorrow to the Episcopalianists, for it is supposed by the former and feared by the latter that the Colonel will soon be over the line fence and into the fold of Dr. Burtis. In the recent election under the Act of Col. Bacon stood for water-acting whiskey and the belief expressed above that there's a great deal in water" leads the Baptist brethren of Aiken to believe that the Colonel will soon take to "a great deal of water," and they intend requesting that the transfer ceremonies take place in Heaven's Dam, as baptizing in Edgfield could accommodate the mighty host that will attend from Aiken county.—Aiken Journal and Review.

Do Not Neglect Your Bowels.

Many serious diseases arise from neglect of the bowels. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is a pleasant and agreeable laxative. They invigorate the liver and regulate the bowels. For sale by all druggists.

W. J. Bryan's Fortune.

The value of W. J. Bryan's possessions as fixed to day the county assessor for 1906, is $725,225. This does not include $28,000 in government bonds, in which the proceeds of his first book were invested and which are not assessable.

In 1905 Mr. Bryan paid taxes of $8,150 worth of property. His total taxes this year will approximate $1,250.

The home property at Fairview is assessed at $24,150 and the adjoining tracts of land bring the farm up to $40,000.

Mr. Bryan's personality is fixed at $10,655. He reported $3,000 cash. Other items on his personal list are sixteen heads of cattle, $6,800; horses, $8,200; mules, $300; traps, $200; tools and silverware, $500; household goods, $3,000; ironing, $150; dog, $10; watches and clocks, $300; car, $100.

Aside from this property Mr. Bryan owns The Commoner, which is on the assessment rolls at $22,200.

Mr. Bryan's 816 head of horses on the farm were returned at $1,200 or $300 apiece. C. W. Bryan, his agent, called on the county board to explain that this was too high, and it was cut to $800.

Mrs. J. M. McMill, whose critical illness was mentioned recently, is able to sit up some at this writing, though still quite weak.—History Grove, York. Yorkville Enquirer.

Mrs. J. S. Jones, of Yorkville, left for McConnellsville Saturday morning to spend the day with her parents, Capt. and Mrs. J. D. McConnell, on their return home from a visit of several days at the home of her brother, Dr. H. R. McConnell. She was accompanied by nurse Miss Lizelle Burris, who was quite sick with measles and the little boy of Dr. and Mrs. McConnell, who was just recovering from measles.

Mrs. McConnell has also had measles but is recovering.

Murderer Drinks Poison.

Fred Leslie Hancock, murderer of Professor Jesse Troutman, who figured in a sensational trial for the crime at the last term of the circuit court, committed suicide in jail in the Escomba county jail at Brewton, Ala., Sunday by taking an ounce of carbolic acid.

Hancock made his escape from jail May 9 and had just been recaptured in Kansas City, Mo. Sheriff Boney returned to Brewton with him last Friday. He left a note in which he said he was going where he would receive a just trial, where only the truth was told, and where he would not be tried by the prejudice of the people.

Lynchers on Trial.

Raleigh, N. C., July 16.—The trial of a twenty-one alleged lynchers, prominent farmers and business men, will begin Monday at Monroe, Union county, N. C. They are charged with the murder of a white man named Johnson for killing his brother-in-law a few months ago. Great pressure is being brought to bear to acquit the lynchers.

The case was removed from Anson county, the scene of the lynching, at the request of the defendants.

"At least," said the author who had made a sensational success, "my manuscript didn't go into the waste basket."

"No," answered the cold hearted publisher, "but that's where your book will go after the average reader gets through with it."—Washington Star.

Bascomville Notes.

Farmers are busy laying by. Some fields are swamped with grass. Two weeks ago white flies were put up in several fields. Cotton on sandy land has been damaged by excessive moisture.

Bascomville has reached that stage of importance that is marked by a tennis court.

The sick here are convalescent. Gardeners have had no cause to complain of "gardens needing rain," and they (the gardens) are fine. We are also blessed with a goodly supply of fruit.

Mrs. Ross and Master William are visiting in Chester this week.

Bowel Complaint in Children.

During the summer months children are subject to disorders of the bowels which should receive careful attention as soon as the first unusual looseness of the bowels appears. The best medicine in use for bowel complaint is Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as it promptly controls any unusual looseness of the bowels. For sale by all druggists.
