And in that day the young men shall see visions and the old men shall dream dreams; and the men shall dream dreams; and the handmaidens shall prophesy." This is what Peter told the peo-ple on the day of Penjecost. And Peter believed that the days foretold by the Pophet Joel had alcome for the devont men ready come, for the devout men from every bagon under heaven were there prophecying and speaking in every language. The people said they were drunk, but Peter said, "No, for it is only 30 clock in the morning." I reck-on the topers drank more in the topers drank more in the speaking its at they do now evening, just as they do now, and went to bed drunk. But it has always perplexed me to find out, when the age or period of working miracles and seeing visions ceased, and why the power was taken away from the men was taken away from the men of God. — Paul could work miracles to saye or to heal others, but had to die by the executioner. The blood of the martyrs was the seed of the church, but has the time passed when dreams and the visions are of on force or meaning? I was ruminating about dreams because last night I was ruminating about dreams because last night I shool. It is very like the effect Scand 51.00. Trial bottles from the work of the will shool of the work of the will be to saye or to heal others, but had to die by the executioner. The blood of the martyrs was the seed of the church, but has the hours in about half a minute. The clock was striking 12 and I dreamed it was the fire bell and I saw the rising smoke and then the flames of the fire where the hotel was burning. I saw firemen climbing ladders and descending with women and children in their arms I saw streams pouring in at the windows. I heard the excited voices of firemen and people, and witnessed the frantic efforts to keep the fire from crossing the next block. I saw enough and heard enough to take hours to recite and yet I the hammer on the little bell and the fire bell that had caused that long, exciting dream. This years ago-when the report of a gun provoked a dream that be gun in a quarrel between two o my friends and continued in a my friends and continued in a correspondence in which an apology was demanded and I was called upon to assist in the writing and several letters were passed, but to no purpose and it ended in a challenge. The population of Albany, ac-ording to the late census, is 94,000, ess than four or five other cities in the state, and but slight gain since 1800, but it would be hard to find a apparently cleaner or more utiful. On a single street may een hundreds of splendid residences without a single common building to mar the view, and the building to mar the view, and the lawns, flower beds, walks, and everything in sight are the perfec-tion of neatness and taste. About noon on Saturday we left by the New York Central for Buffalo, passing many towns and sev-eral large cities, all of which ap-peared thrifty and well kept. The land is mostly, hilly but has not peared thrifty and land is most prime the present the peared to the been allowed to wash away. Much of it is sown in grass for hay or of it is sown in grass for hay or pasture. The soil appears to be moderately fertile, but it is cultivasted to the best advantage. I be level that the soil here, if given poor. There is no fertility or removed attention, would produce fart, uncertainton int. If turning under most attention, would produce fart, uncertainton int. If turning under the product of the p equal attention, would produce tar-more abundantly. Many reapers could be seen at work, and much small grain was still green. Great orchards of flourishing apple trees were visible, but no apples. That crop is a failure this year.

We reached Buffalo about night and went to rooms already en-gaged, at Hotel Forn, a very convenient place near the centre of the city. We found the proprietors ngly courteous and anxious e their guests. They were is in every particular, and we feel like telling our readers that it is a good place to stay. The place is on Court street near Pearl. On Sabbath morning Mrs. Big-ham and I, after visiting a cafe;

e inquiry about the churches. We knew that if, in addition to the 00,000 people of Buffalo and her suburbs who ought to attend church, he thousands of Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists, Episcopalians and others visiting the exposition should attend the churches of their espective persuasions, those hurches would be much crowded termined to sing Psalms with the United Presbyterians. A courteous old gentleman sitting on and was equipped with a copy the Sunday School Times and of the Sunay Scool Times and other such literature, gave us directions and we soon found the Second church. But crab grass is not good hay, and it is one of the worst things that grows to injure land, it ruins the present crop and impov-erishes the land for next crop. It is indigenous to North Carolina, green vegetation is an improvement to land, ours ought to be vastly rich now, or in the near future, for there has been a lot of it turned under this year.

I notice that next Saturday is the great political speakers' day in Chester. It seems that McLaurin has stirred the people, and is advertised free by lots of newspapers. He reminds me_of the little boy who went to the circus, and saw some one riding two horses, and thought he could do that, too. He goes to the pasture to bring the horses home and bridles two of them, getup to ride both, and is making good speed riding both in a gallop until they come to a mud hole in the road and there the horses separate, and he comes down. He gets up looks around, and says, "I though! I heard something drap." Cotton has made a decided im

Tillman at Liberty Hill.

There was a big picnic at Liberty Hill, down in Lancaster county, near the Kershaw line, on July 23. It was attended by nearly a thous-and people, and was under the auspices of the Liberty Hill military company.

Senator Tillman was there, and Store so was Congressman Finley, en. Floyd and W. P. Pollock all of whom made speeches. Not a single newspaper was represented; but some interesting stories are being told of the occasion, especially in so far as it relates to Senator Tillman.

The senator, so the story goes, had been especially invited, but he declined to accept the invitation except on a promise of the committee that his "expenses" to the amount of $10 be paid.

The senator made a characteris-
