Mr. R. E. Brown, formerly of Rockville, who has been in Texas nine years, is visiting friends in the county. He brought two of the Texas horned lizards with him. They have horns on the tops of their heads but do not look, being entirely harmless, like our hop lizards. They do not hop, however, but run like a lizard. They are about as wide as our roads but flat, have a tail and their legs stand out like a lizard's. One of them jumped in town. Whether it will start a colony or not is yet to be seen. We were in a rush to catch a train when we saw it. It was not seen in further information from him about Texas.
