THE SCHOLARSHIP BUSINESS

When the General Assembly meets every year we hear a great deal about appropriations for State educational institutions. We know these institutions should receive the appropriations but there is a limit to all things. It is a positive fact that the scholarship feature of State educational institutions is imposed upon and to a large extent.

The scholarship feature was created for the purpose of enabling those unable to pay tuition to receive an education and those able to pay have "gobbled" up the free tuitions to such an extent that the parties for whom they were created are unable to get inside of the college.

In conversation with a student of one of the leading State institutions we were informed that this particular college had about 650 students the past year and about 40 were paying tuition. This student said the statement that there were boys at this college whose parents were said to be worth as much as $100,000 that were not paying tuition.

It is our understanding that the Grand Jury in each county is supposed to investigate these scholarships and it is to be hoped that the Chester county Grand Jury will not be derelict in the performance of their duty. The majority of the taxpayers of this county are in favor of these scholarships being supplied to those for whom they were created, and they should be handled accordingly.

THE POSTMASTER AT CHESTER

The appointment of a postmaster at Chester has been under consideration for some time past and continues to "hang fire."

There are a thousand and one stories in connection with the appointment but as we see the matter there is absolutely no excuse for this delay. There are applicants for the place who have been kept "sawing" for months now and we are of the opinion that this is being done for political reasons. We do not make the positive statement—we simply state that this is our opinion.

We do not believe it right that these applicants should be held in suspense in any such manner and the matter should be brought to a close and somebody appointed. This political "dilly-dallying" with postoffice appointments is disgusting and the public should demand an immediate discontinuance.

THE AVERAGE MAN.
 AND WHAT HE CAN DO.

It is one of the maxims of newspaperdom that sometime "there is a story in every man." That means that sometimes, somewhere, in the life of everybody there is something which has the value of news to the wide world. That humble, drooping fellow yonder, with his shabby clothes and broken shoes, may have been a statesman once. That dejected woman there may have lived a tragedy greater than in literature. That pale-looking clerk may have experienced a romance that would pale that of Romeo and Juliet. This workman, in his gray overall, may tomorrow be on his way to the presidency of a great corporation. This red-headed country boy, with a dirty rag tied around a stubbed toe, may be governor or United States senator. That sad-faced literature in her fingers, who can tell!

Don't judge people by their appearances. A great many people look sicker than they are; a great many look better than they are. Look. The foremost authority on Arable in the United States is a humble apothecary in Cambridge, Massachusetts. Henry Ford, the greatest of our years was a drug clerk. Nathan Bedford Forrest, one of the greatest cavaliers of modern ages, was a farmer before he sold arms to the Confederacy. William Pitt, one of the most interesting and celebrated statesmen in America is a railway station-man.

In a North Carolina cotton mill there lives a boy and a girl in whose honor splendid processions was given a few months ago. In competition with representatives from every other school in the Old North state, they had won the highest honors for oratory and debate.

George McPuffie, who, as governor of the United States senator from this state, attracted national attention by his genius for statesmanship began life as a farmer boy and store clerk in Augusta, thirty odd years ago, was an unsuccessful lawyer in Atlanta, ugly and unsought.

Edison, the inventor, started out as a telegraph operator, a mechanic.

Instances like these, in statesmanship, literature, science and the other fields of action could be multiplied into millions.

Don't think too much of yourself and too little of the other fellow. Don't measure a man's ability and worth by his clothes, his hair, his smile, his face, his poverty or his simplicity. Talk with him, and you'll be surprised to find out what he knows and what he is. Read Robb's "A Tale of Two Cities," and you'll find a man's man or a "stuck-up," and make its principle one of your building stars.

All is not gold that glitters, and all that glitters does not glitter.—Greenville News.

ABOUT A THOUSAND POSTMASTERS MEET.

Washington, July 18.—The National Association of Postmasters of the United States opened a four days' meeting here today to discuss means of improving the postal system. Subjects before the convention included betterment of the railway mail service to insure more prompt rural deliveries, benefits of government ownership of the railroads, and a reduction of a more efficient news-paper-carrying railroad plant. Delegates number about 1,000.

Addressing by President Wilson and Postmaster General Baileton will be the order of the meeting. Daniel C. Cooper, first assistant postmaster-general, was on the program today. The program will give a lawn party on the White House grounds for the postmasters Friday.

Opening the Eyes of the World.

Looking at it in the light of an evidence of good faith, Germany had offered this country a liberal supply of much-needed dyestuffs, but England said that the dyes should not be permitted to cross the Atlantic. Germany revolved the matter in her mind for a time and then concluded to bring the dyes over herself. It had never occurred to the American people, perhaps that Germany could find a way, and in doing so gave to the world a demonstration of the development of under-water craft that was as audacious as amazing. It points to the most important suggestion, however, that the ocean-going craft of the future will be of the submarine type, and that they will give the surface in fair weather, or below in periods of storms, giving ocean navigation freedom and independence from the restraints of the surface. Germany has opened the eyes of the world to the almost unbelievable possibilities for the future of ocean transportation and its practical revolutionizing.—Exchange.

STATE PASSES BIG NAVY BILL

By Vice Vasa, Republicans and Democrats Express Country's Determination to Construct Great Navy.

Washington, July 18.—The approved naval building program recommended by the naval building committee at its conference with President Wilson and Secretary Daniels, approved by the senate today by a large vote. Democratic and Republican leaders worked together to pass the bill, although a small group of senators from both sides of the chamber opposed it due to debt, sentiment in its favor was overwhelming that no roll call was demanded.

With the important building program before the way, administration leaders believe the naval bill can be passed to a final vote tomorrow and put to conference, where a stubborn fight is expected. The program approved today provides for construction of ten battleships and four cruisers in 1917 and a total of 17 war vessels of all classes within the next three years. As it passed the house, the bill authorizes only five capital ships, but the future will be left open, and no provision for a continuing policy.

Only two amendments likely to develop extended argument remain to be disposed of before the senate reaches a final vote. They are Senator Oliver's proposal directing that the federal trade commission investigate the armor plate situation before the government begins construction of an armor plant, and the La Follette amendment to prohibit the use of any United States warship in the collection of money due to private citizens.

By a vote of 48 to 18, the senate today passed an amendment designed to provide that three of the new battleships to be constructed in the next three years should be of the "skinfint" class. This was proposed by Senator Penrose to have communications submitted by the Bethlehem Steel company in connection with the armor plate plant still printed as a public document also failed.

DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

A special meeting of the Chester County Democratic Executive Committee will be held at Chester Saturday, the 22nd, at one P. M., at the Court House. A petition will be presented by Baton Rouge voters to put the office of Magistrate in the primary. All parties interested in the membership of the Committee are requested to be present.

JAMES H. GLENN,
 County Chairman.

Being economical is an excellent virtue, but old Skinfint had practiced this quality to such an extent that with him it had become almost a vice. His wife was sometimes driven almost to the verge of distraction by his meanness. The climate came when they moved into a new house. When old Skinfint was out, his wife thought she would repair the walls of the drawing room so as to make it look attractive and pretty. But when Skinfint saw it he nearly had a fit.

"I don't dislike the pattern or the color," he gasped, purple in the face with rage, "but I do object to the way you have put it on. You extravagant!" he cried, "how dare you waste it!"

"Why how else could I have done it?" meekly answered his wife.

"How else?" he roared. "You should have tacked it on. You don't suppose we shall always live in this house do you?"

CHARLESTON'S DRINKING WATER WILL BE SAVED

Charleston, July 18.—Engineers from the bridge here have discovered a source of 30 per cent of Charleston's portable water supply, will be temporarily sealed at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning. The violent current being stopped by many thousands of bags filled with clay. Work on a permanent dam will begin as soon as the temporary repair is sound.

Rivers in the coastal section, the head waters of which are in the Piedmont section, are nearing danger point and warnings have been disseminated. The terrific freshets of the up-country are sweeping to the sea and in a day or two the Santee and the Pee Dee rivers, near the coast, will be far out of their banks.

NEGRO LOSSES LIFE IN EFFORT TO CATCH FLOATING BALE.

William Cherry, colored, who with his family reside on what is known as Spring's Island, in the Landsford section of this county, lost his life in Catawbas river Monday while attempting to catch a floating bale of cotton.

From information obtainable he had managed to secure the bale and in attempting to land another he was suddenly seen to go under and nothing more was seen of him. He was in the employ of Mr. R. H. Fudge, of that section. Just whether or not the body has been found we are unable to state.

This is the only life lost in Chester county on account of the flood, of which we are aware.

THE PREPAREDNESS OF THE ALLIES.

The note of confidence in Lloyd George's recent speeches is the more surprising because in the last eight months of the war he continually admonished England of the difficulties and dangers she faced. When the supply of munitions was short by the Allies must surprise him. His outbursts that they never could hope for victory or for safety until his baggage was overcome. At the time the Russian retreat in 1915 he emphasized the fact that Germany's advantage lay in the superior organization of her industries and that the Allies must surprise him at least once the enemy in that respect if they were to win. With unshaken faith in the outcome, he was none the less insistent and plain-spoken regarding the needs and perils of the hour.

His present assurance, therefore, that the foundation for the offensive in the West is broad and sound carries conviction. He stresses the importance of continuing the output of munitions, but his statements leave no doubt that the dangerous shortage of months gone by has been relieved and that the great drive will go steadily forward as far as guns and shells are concerned. He declares that the British attacks thus far are merely the prologue to a greater offensive, and that the storm

WHISKEY WORSE THAN WAR.

Russia Proves Familiar Claim of Temperance People.

The Russian minister of finance has issued a public statement in which he sets forth a marvelous condition of prosperity in Russia.

Russia is in the midst of the world's greatest war; she has dealt her enemies some heavy blows. Now, almost two years have witnessed her life and death struggle against Germany, Austria and Turk. But for the wonderful interposition of a new factor of prosperity, her people would long ago have begun to feel the economic distress of this tremendous conflict.

But in the case of Russia the tendency of conditions has, according to the Russian minister, been miraculously reversed.

The minister of finance says: "On the other hand, there is nothing illusory or spurious about the Russian prosperity. It rests upon the incontrovertible fact of the Russian people's increased earnings and savings."

an increase in deposits of 120,000,000 rubles. This is accounted for principally by the growing thrift and economy of the peasants since the enforcement of prohibition; by their greater earning power and the higher wages they command. This marvelous prosperity makes Russia capable of raising large numbers of successful internal loans, and it is by this means chiefly that we hope to defray the expenses of the war, which have now reached 1,000,000,000 rubles monthly."

Such has been the unparalleled result of the enforced abstinence from the use of intoxicating liquors by the Russian people.

W. F. STEVENSON WRITES REGARDING LONGEY OF CONGRESSMAN

Champer Clark, in his speech to the "Baby Congressmen," being circulated in this District, says that if a congressman has the necessary qualifications and you keep him there he is certain to rise "as the sparks are to fly upward." Hear him:

"It is an unwise performance for any district to change Representatives at short intervals. A new Congressman would have to learn the class and spell up. Of course, the more tact, energy, courage, and industry he has the quicker he will pick up. If he possess those qualities, and if his constituents will keep him in the House, he is as certain to rise as his constituents are to fly upward. No human power can keep him down. It is only fair and rational to assume that every Congressman has an appropriate desire to see him among the 'top-notchers.'"

Let us take the present House and see how long the men who hold the high places have served. I can not name all, but will cite a few as samples.

Mr. Speaker Cannon is serving his fourth year. He has no record, or in pugilistic parlance, "he holds the belt," for length of service in the House in our entire history. In several Congresses he was chairman of the great committee on appropriations, and then was Speaker eight years, only one man, Henry Clay, having been Speaker longer.

I am serving my twenty-second year. My worthy leader, Mr. Burdett, is serving his twenty-fourth year; Mr. Kitchin, chairman of Ways and Means, his sixteenth; Mr. Fitzgerald, chairman of Appropriations, his eighteenth; Mr. Moon, Chairman of the Post Office and Post Roads, his twentieth; Mr. Jones, chairman of the Insular Affairs and "father of the House," his twentieth; Mr. Flood, chairman of Foreign Affairs, his sixteenth; Mr. Hay, chairman of Military Affairs, his thirtieth; Mr. Glass, chairman of Banking and Currency, his sixteenth; Mr. Wadsworth, chairman of the Judiciary, his fourteenth; Mr. Adamson, chairman of Interstate and Foreign Commerce, his twentieth; Mr. Stephens, chairman of Indian Affairs, his twentieth; Mr. Hayden, chairman of the Library, his twentieth; Mr. Henry, chairman of Rules, his twentieth; Mr. Lever, chairman of Agriculture, his sixteenth; Mr. Padgett, chairman of the Navy, his sixteenth; Mr. Judd, chairman of Committee on Immigration, his eighteenth; Mr. Lloyd, chairman of Accounts, his twentieth; and Mr. Speckman of Rivers and Harbors, his twenty-second. There are other big chairmanships, but these will suffice to show that as a rule the big jobs go to old and experienced men. Men for whom the men who rank close to chairmen are old timers.

RAILROAD WAGES Shall they be determined by Industrial Warfare or Federal Inquiry?

To the American Public: Do you believe in arbitration or industrial warfare? The train employes on all the railroads are voting whether they will give their leaders authority to tie up the commerce of the country to enforce their demands for a 100 million dollar wage increase.

The railroads are in the public service—your service. This army of employes is in the public service—your service.

You pay for rail transportation 3 billion dollars a year, and 44 cents out of every dollar from you goes to the employes.

On all the Southern railroads in 1915, seventy-five per cent of the train employes earned these wages (lowest and average of all) as shown by the payroll—

COLLAPSE OF TOWER CAUSES TWO DEATHS

Larry Dean Lark and B. Boyce Key Killed on Trains Near Greenville.

Greenville, July 19—Larry Dean Lark, aged 21, and B. Boyce Key, aged 27, are dead as a result of the collapse of a wooden tower that was being used in the construction of concrete piers for the Southern railway bridge over Saluda river near Greenville. The first died almost instantly, while the latter died several hours later. A Greenville hospital. The tower fell this morning while the men were mounting it to attach guy wires. The tower, 75 feet high, is believed to have given away because of a softening of the ground caused by recent rains.

His body went dead and his mate went lame. And lost his cow in a poker game. Then a cyclone came on a summer's day. And blew the house where he lived away. Then an earthquake came, and when that was gone, And swallowed the ground that the house stood on. Then the tax collector came around And charged him up with the hole in the ground.
