TUESDAY, JULY 31.

Don't get "your goat" to hear a fellow standing around arguing that the United States ought not to be at war and that England is the cause of our being in the conflict, when you know that his whole argument is based on an editorial he wrote in the Charleston American about ten days before he started arguing the question.

We notice that the American Red Cross is now arranging to see dogs on the Western Front.

It strikes us that it would be an excellent idea to build wire entanglements behind our own troops as well as in front of them.

It has been the custom of the War Department, in times past, to ask congress for an annual appropriation of from sixteen to twenty-five million dollars for the armament of equal fortifications. Last year congress was staggled when the War Department asked for an appropriation for sixty million dollars. The request of a few days ago for two billion dollars for the armament of fortifications, has put members of congress to thinking. It is plainly evident that the War Department is either expecting a long war or else it is their intention to make the coast of this country invulnerable for years to come.

We hear that the servant problem in Chester, as well as in a number of other towns throughout this section, is becoming very vexing, so to speak. Owing to the high price of food, housewives are endeavoring to be as saving as possible in their food consumption and a number of servants are quitting their jobs because they are unable to keep up with the price of food. It is plain to see that the housewives object to their carrying a pan filled with the best vittles that the average cook can carry away more than the average family consumes. It is generally admitted and the fact that grocery bills have doubled of late a number of people have found it necessary to keep a watch over the pantry, which has resulted in servants taking leave.

A caller at The News office Saturday, was one Manus McLarkin, of Leeds, of personal color. Manus was anxious to find out how he stood in the first draft, he had a card and look on that dark-tanned face, "Capin" said Manus, "Ain't der no way a man can get out of dis if he has some awful excess in 'em." "Well, Manus," said the reporter, "if you can prove all that you stand a pretty good chance of getting to stay at home for awhile. 'Ye'er boss, I sure can prove it, and he went away looking happy.

POOD AND THE WAR.
 The present and prospective condition of food supplies on each side is as important in its relation to the war as food evidence appearing from day to day demands consideration. Great Britain was not driven to starvation and surrender by the Germans, said by submarine piracy, but the British Premier now tells the world that his nation's supply for a year is soon to be exhausted. The British Food Controller admits that in March the quantity of breadstuffs in his hand was enough for only thirty weeks, but adds that now it is estimated that the country will begin the new calendar year with supplies sufficient for seven months. Imports must be cut off by the end of the five months remaining and they will be cut off.

Undoubtedly he had in mind plans here for increasing equipment surplus and the stocks available in Canada and Australia. The crop of spring wheat on both sides of the boundary in North America may fall below recent official estimates, but Canada has carried over a large quantity, and the Canadian Prime Minister says that by the close of January that country will have an exportable surplus of 200,000,000 bushels. More than half of it is now on hand, waiting for ships.

Almost every day there is an additional proof that Germany's new crops will be small. Reports which have come to our State Department say that the country a few weeks ago lacked 20,000,000 bushels of the quantity of wheat that would be needed before harvest. The people of Eastern Prussia have been officially warned that the deficit exists. Weather conditions which have cut down Germany's crops have reduced those of the northern neutral countries from which she had been receiving a part of her supply. There is no help for her in the surplus abroad, which will go to the Entente allies. So far as food is concerned, Germany is weak, and her weakness must increase. But those who fight against her will have what their people and armies need.—New York Times.

PINK SILK? WHY NOT?

Uniforms, even if they be of moderate value, exercise a peculiar fascination over women. Some women respond to it more natively than others; all feel it. In these stirring days of khaki and serge, and soldier's everywhere, what chance has the mere civilian? Even the twenty lovelick maidens depicted in Bunratta at the sight of a soldier's face. It is no strange that the clothing designers they used to be called—who were holding a show in New York should exhibit costumes intended to overcome the handicap from which she who is not in the service suffers. There is a certain amount of truth warranted to confer a military air upon the man of advancing years, doubtless than he used to be and to breathe the Lady Lane, with still increasing complacency. A "bare" radi departure in the coat lined with silk and the trousers faced with the same, as to their cuffs. Such extravagance in an era of conservation can be justified only by the desperate nature of the emergency. For what will a man not give for a change for an approving look from a woman?

Pink silk? Why not! Let the humane male rival the male bird in plumage. There was a time when he revelled in colors. His recent devotion to masculine ties and socks, his adoption of sport clothes and tropical fabrics, is the beginning of the return to beauty. But why pink silk only? It is not becoming in all ages. Purple, blue of various shades, old gold, ocher, old rose, burgundy, carter, lake, mauve—the choice is wide. The dressmaker may therefore be green-glassed in a green shade, unless, indeed, he be allowed to wear with the pale coat of thought and wear yellow. The soldier's uniform would benefit posts and writs of the conventional type; a avallibrit would wear a coat of mustard hue, and the cabinet would blossom in a "Kaiser" confusion dazzling to the eye. There would be an endless opportunity for color and imagination, of which most of us have too little. It would be stimulated. A young bank clerk coming down in the morning with a series of shirt, blue-lined coat and blue trouser cuffs would divert the feminine eye from all contemplation of the boy in khaki; and even the dull work of scribble, check and adding up columns of figures would be glorified. "For what is life, we ask, without a touch of poetry in it?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

PEACE ADVOCATES MOBBED IN LONDON

Meeting Forced to Sing National Anthem—Pacifists Took Resolute Course

London, July 28.—An attempt by the "Workers' and Soldiers' Council," an organization recently formed on the lines of the Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegation in Russia, to hold a peace meeting at the Brotherhood Church in Kingsland, today resulted in riotous scenes during which the interior of the church was wrecked and a number of persons seriously injured.

Before the meeting could be called to order, a determined crowd, which included some soldiers, rushed the doors, and in spite of the stubborn resistance of those inside forced their way into the church and demanded that the meeting be stopped. A general melee followed.

Tables and chairs were thrown in all directions, and those on the platform who intended to address the meeting were flung to the floor. Soon the crowd succeeded in driving the supporters of the meeting out of the church. It then commenced an attack on the church building. The windows, including those stained-glass ones, were smashed and the woodwork was torn away. Police reserves had considerable difficulty in restoring order.

After the church had been cleared of the wounded, a Canadian soldier mounted to the organ gallery and delivered a patriotic speech, "Gods Britannia" and the National anthem were sung during which the delegates were compelled to stand. A resolution, supporting the policy of the Government, was then adopted amid cheers. The delegates were routed when leaving the church.

OFFICERS CAPTURE LIQUOR DISTILLERY

Take Plant to Operate Eight Miles From Gaffney and Arrest Two Men

Gaffney, July 30.—Sheriff Thomas, assisted by M. L. Austin and John Harris, rural policeman, E. R. Lemmons, Gaffney chief of police and Arthur H. Hines, special officer, captured a distillery which was in full operation eight miles south of Gaffney Saturday afternoon. Two white men, John Ferguson and Will Atkinson, were arrested at the plant and were brought to jail here, although they denied that they were there, only to purchase whiskey and that the party or parties who were operating the plant had disappeared.

The sheriff and his deputies spent most of Friday night trying to locate the plant, but did not succeed. The Policeman Austin remained on the ground and Saturday afternoon informed the sheriff that he had located the outfit. The quantity of the still was about 35-gallon. The room destroyed about 60 gallons of beer, three and a half gallons of whiskey, five gallons of brandy, seven gallons of the still and worm. The sheriff is of the opinion that the plant had only been in operation all this place about two days.

JOIN THE RED CROSS

By joining or assisting the Red Cross Society you help the wounded soldiers and also help to keep down disease in the army.

By keeping our soldiers well you help win the war.

The following will give you an idea of the sickness in previous wars.

In the Mexican war 6 died of disease to 1 from wounds. In the Crimean war France lost 10 men by disease for every one killed. In our own Civil War 2 died from disease for each one killed. In the Franco-Prussian war 12 Germans died of sickness for every one killed in battle. But modern hygiene was so far advanced at the time of the recent Russo-Japanese war that the world was startled by the fact that for the first time in the history of armies there was only one death from disease for every 2 men who died fighting. In the present great war sanitation is working on a super-scale, and modern hygiene is rapidly cutting down the excessive death rate.

The better the health of our army the sooner we will win.

German Prisoners Made Very Comfortable in a North Carolina Mountain Resort

Writing from Western Carolina, a business man says: Your position as to the proper attitude of our country toward the Germans is correct...

Why not send down a reporter and look into the conditions at Hot Springs, N. C., where Germans (the same blood that is devastating the world and guilty of the uncountable crimes) are being fed on the fat of the land...

May our country perish if, at the concluding of peace terms, we fail to force the giving up of every official guilty of those things which are so horrible and their heads taken from their miserable trunk!

I feel that we would enjoy God's blessings again if we fail to see the last one of the guilty ones perish. It should be the goal of the Allies.

I would like to know your attitude on this matter of internment camps and what the Germans should be given in food and fare...

The Germans who have been interned or imprisoned at Hot Springs have been given one of the most beautiful locations in America...

Charlotte Observer: "The shades of night were falling as we drew near our destination. The harvest moon hung in the sky as we reached Chimney Rock..."

Richmond Times: "Hickory Nut Gap is the most picturesque section of country to be found throughout the Appalachian chain..."

Richmond Dispatch: "There is a missing element in this beautiful mountain scenery. No language can depict the grandeur of the scenery. The Great River certainly is picturesque."
