THE LANTERN.

PUBLISHED TUESDAYS AND FRIDAYS

J. T. BIGHAM, Editor and Prop.

Entered at the Postoffice at Chester, S. C., as second-class matter.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 7, 1908.

Referring again to the subject of appointing negro to the public office, it has been found that in the county of Beaufort alone Gov. Richardson appointed 4, Gov. Tillman 11, Gov. E. B. Goddard 12, Gov. McSwain 16, Gov. McCall 17. Then why should it be proclaimed from the stump as a new and unpardonable offense that Gov. Arnold should have appointed one or two in the whole State?

Some one has remarked that while Mr. E. D. Smith claims credit for raising the price of cotton, the price has been going down ever since he became a candidate for the United States senate. This seems to suggest that if he give up his place in the Cotton Association to become a senator, cotton may go down to five cents a pound.

When we get in a hurry we are apt to try to borrow the Lancaster News. There must be a joke concealed somewhere in the foregoing, but owing to the density of our own stupidity we have been unable to discover it. The News is ever ready to lend us its own type, we shall take pleasure in lending it to our esteemed contemporary when it is in need of it.

No joke. When we get in a hurry we just want your facilities for getting up matter as you got up the campaign meeting.

We are requested to say that the Sabbath school is very grateful for the thoughtfulness of the Presbyterians in providing for this arrangement.

THE COUNTY CAMPAIGN

Opening Meeting Held At Armetia Wednesday—Good Speeches and Fine Dinner.

The county campaign opened at Armetia Wednesday according to the schedule. There was a large gathering present, and the speeches of the various candidates were listened to with much interest. The candidates spoke earnestly, and the speeches as a rule compared most favorably with those of the former year.

One of the most pleasant features of the day was the magnificent picnic dinner. Everywhere there were people who had come with hospitality that has made Armetia famous. It mattered not whether a man had friends present or not; he received just as much attention as if he were the special friend and guest of the entire neighborhood.

There was plenty of good cheer, chicken, cakes, pastry, everything to tempt the palate, and a warm and genial cordiality that pervaded the assembly and made everyone present feel as if he were on his native-heath.

Mr. L. T. Grant presided and introduced the speakers. Rev. A. J. Holler opened the exercises with an earnest prayer in which he prayed that the people might be led to choose the best men for the office which they were to elect.

The candidates for the legislature kind off. Capt. J. G. Wollong coming first. Capt. Wollong is an old campaigner, and he spoke well. After expressing his pleasure in being privileged to meet with the people of this progressive neighborhood, he plunged into a discussion of the issues of higher learning, but is especially the friend of the common schools. He is in favor of increasing the efficiency of the common schools, and thus increasing their efficiency. Communities should levy a special tax in order to make the system more efficient as possible. He served twenty five years on school boards in Fairfield county and left proud of what he had accomplished there for the cause of education.

He is opposed to the immigration bureau and the heavy expenses that it entails. He is in favor of the present way of dealing with the liquor situation. The present law is entirely Democratic, peremptory, and it is not necessary to dry, just one or two counties. He was inclined to be opposed to selling the state farms and the other public lands. He is in favor of the guano business, for the reason that it would mean to give up a business that is profitable and engage in one that may not be so profitable. He was opposed to the office of insurance commissioner. He favors regulating the railroads, but not opposing them.

Mr. F. T. Hollis came next and delivered a sound, logical speech. He talked about the lien law and the other public lands. He declared himself as opposed to both and to the whole system. He favors economy in governmental matters. He is in favor of the present way of dealing with the liquor situation. He is in favor of the present way of dealing with the liquor situation. He is in favor of the present way of dealing with the liquor situation.

Mr. J. E. Nunney came next. Mr. Nunney spoke clearly and forcibly and left no doubt in his audience's minds of his grasp of the issues that he touched on. The proposition of selling the state farms and having the convicts engaged in the fertilizer business is entirely new to him, he declared, but he promised to take the matter under further consideration and let the voters of the county decide. His decision before the campaign is over. The supreme issue, Mr. Nunney declared, is legislative extravagance, and this, he contended, should be checked. He respected the authorities for the alleged excesses of the late legislature and the University and Clemson Colleges and cited figures to show how much more modestly the denominational schools have been conducted. He apparently just as good results. Mr. Nunney favors the establishment of a county of good common schools of his own standard, which should be admitted into the junior class at college. This, Mr. Nunney thinks, is the cause country boys to be away from home a longer period than usual in taking a college course and will not rob the parents of their money. Mr. Nunney accompanied her and will return in a week.

law and the crop mortgage system. He is opposed to the importation of undesirable foreigners. He favors local option as the best method of dealing with the liquor problem.

Mr. S. A. Rodman declared that election will do right, but what he really wants is economy. He stated that at the last sitting of the legislature the work of the body was all done by one hundred men. The people who work in their general assembly. If he were a member of this body he would be in favor of cutting the Clemson appropriation in two and other community in the county. He favors the lien law and the present system of crop mortgages, as he thinks it necessary for the man who puts out his goods to have some form of security. However, he admits that the system is abused, and should be remedied. He favors better roads; also the limitation of a good class of foreigners. He regards the liquor evil as a great issue. He is not friendly to the dispensary. He thinks a better mode of liquor control is had, if some other method of sale were practiced.

Mr. A. B. Grice made a splendid speech. His remarks were devoted principally to showing what was done by the recent legislature and wherein that body had been extravagant and wherein otherwise. Mr. Grice declared that the legislature had been brought about the legislature is true to some extent, but that in other respects the appropriation and the legislature were merely pay obligations made by other legislatures, such as the work on the capitol, purchases for the South Carolina college, S. C. College, etc. He is a friend of Winthrop, but had always fought the heavy Winthrop appropriations. He is opposed to the charge of extravagance, and thinks that the church should have a hand in this department. He opposed the creation of an office of insurance commissioner and had introduced some legislation intended to remedy insurance evils, but which had been defeated in the legislature. He is in favor of the charge of extravagance, and thinks that the legislature should have a hand in this department.

Mr. J. B. Westbrook was glad to meet and mingle with the people of Armetia and complimented the people upon the fact that they could boast of a bigger white population than any other community in the county. He declared that there are no issues in the campaign for clerk. The discussion of these issues left to the candidates to make up their minds as to whether they would accept of a clean campaign. He wanted to see all personalities, but felt called upon to reply to the question, and said that the same means were used in his appointment. He read a copy of a letter from Mr. J. C. McFadden to Gov. D. C. Heyward dated Nov. 10, 1906, in which Mr. McFadden tenders his resignation. Then he read a copy of a letter from the members of the western part of the county, a section that he says is entitled to a share in the county government. West Chester has done full duty in jury service, supporting candidates from other sections, etc.

Mr. J. Henry Gladden complimented the ladies in the audience. He thought that if he were young again and single he would like to see the ladies and the high esteem in which these young people are held. Among the out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Crawford, Misses Kate and Virginia Ross Crawford and Arthur Crawford, of Chester, S. C.; Miss Katharine and of Zed Crawford, of Lincoln, N. C.

Draper and John Ward, and Miss Margaret Ward, left yesterday for Rock Hill to spend a few days on their way to Charlotte. The other members of Mr. Ward's family left this morning.

Mr. J. R. Alexander went to Charlotte Wednesday to attend the funeral of his aunt, Miss Margaret Todd. His sister, Miss Lizzie Alexander, who had been with her aunt several weeks, returned with him in the afternoon. Mr. L. M. Ford, of Bascomville, who is doing much to compile and preserve local history in Chester county, is in town today. Miss Tully Atkins, of Lowryville, was the successful contestant for the Winthrop scholarship for Chester county at the recent examination.

KLUTTZ DEPARTMENT STORE

In a few weeks Kluttz leaves for New York City to purchase the biggest Fall display of goods in our history. From now until he leaves we have slashed the prices of what we have left in summer goods in most cases to less than it cost to manufacture them. We have yet left too many Summer Goods, and they must get out of the way to make room for our Fall Stock. Everything is reduced. Hundreds of bargains await you in every department. We always supply you with the sweetest music to be found by the Victor Singing and Talking Machine.
