 Mt. Gallant Ice & Coal Co. has in mind to improve its service to the community. For the past month the company has been working on a new ice plant which will be completed in the near future.

Stephen P. Wadsworth, the general manager, stated that the new plant will be able to meet the increased demand for ice during the summer months.

The new plant will be able to produce 100 tons of ice per day, compared to the current capacity of 50 tons per day.

The company plans to expand its operations in the future, possibly by adding a second ice plant to meet the growing demand for ice.

The new plant is expected to be completed by the end of the month, and the company is looking forward to serving its customers with a higher quality of ice.
