CHESTER, S. C., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1908.

HYDROPHOBIA IN KERSHAW.

The Pastors of Mr. Isaac and Mr. Savage, Inhabited by a Rabid Dog.

Mr. E. B. Williams, pastor of Kershaw county, while here yesterday related an account of a distressing epidemic of hydrophobia in a section of the county about seven miles south-west of Camden. A female bulldog, belonging to Mr. James Tean, a prosperous farmer, developed a case of rabies and bit a number of cows in his cow's pasture, where there were 50 cows at the time.

The condition of the dog was not known at the time and when it was discovered that the animal had an unmistakable case of rabies, it was killed. But a number of the cows had been bitten and several of them have since died a painful death. One of the same trifle condition had run down the river with Henry Savage and then, in several cows. Some of these have displayed signs of rabies and have been killed. All of this happened between 4 p. m. and dawn on the 11th inst.

The dog which caused all of this disturbance was what is known as a "cow dog" and had been trained as a hunt for the rabid dog. It displayed signs of ill will toward cattle, and its conduct a few days ago excited suspicion. On the day the dog ran amok it was seen to bite several of Mr. Tean's cattle and then run away.

NO PERSONS BITTEN. No persons were bitten, but several dogs came within range of the rabid-infected beast, and some of these were killed. One dog of Mr. Tean's house, a small ferret, was actually killed by the infuriated animal. Mrs. Tean was fired at the malignant dog five times with a revolver, but it refused to let go until life was exhausted. In its victim, when it released its venomous fangs from the quivering flesh.

Mr. Tean had 50 cows in the pasture at the time, and there is much anxiety as to what will become of them. Mr. Williams yesterday said that there had been no other dogs up to this time. Mr. Savage has killed five. Most of these are milk cattle, valued at $50 each, and the loss is very heavy. Mr. Williams saw a yearling bull affected with rabies. The first symptoms were drooping at the mouth and refusal to drink. The condition was followed by a period of fretfulness, when the affected animal would not actually attack, but would resent and get angry around it. Finally came the period of rampant madness, and in the case of this yearling bull it attacked and killed his owner. The first of Mr. Tean's cows to show symptoms of rabies was killed two weeks ago at a tree with heavy chairs. In its enormous convulsions the cow broke the chain. The animal was afraid to be near the tree and was afraid to be near the fire as the night light some person within range as a number had approached to see the horrid spectacle.

The cow dashed through the barn lot and out into the fields. The force of its fury being spent, the beast lay down in a large pasture, and the owner attempted to beat the bushes in order to frighten the cow out where she could be seen. One of the negroes upon whom the owner depended for help, suffered at this moment the terrifying madness and made for the negro, knocking him down and branding him with her talons of horns, but not breaking the skin. The cow's horns were removed. It is probable that the negro would have been killed.

SOMEWHAT LIKE LOCKWAVE. The yearling which Mr. Williams observed seemed to be suffering with something like lockjaw or spasm of the jaw, for it would not open its mouth with head thrown back and bellowing in a frightful manner. Mr. Tean had a large kennel of five birds, all of which were killed. A few days ago a dog belonging to Mr. Wyatt Bell ran amok and bit a dog belonging to Mr. Hammond, a neighbor. The dog was taken to the doctor and got the so-called "Koon treatment" for his dog. Before the medicine had had time to take any effect, the dog's head was cut off. Another of the Koon treatment has many who believe that it is a myth. If so be true, it is a myth. At any rate, it is not a good idea to try it on a dog. It is argued that if the dog is a myth, it should be killed. It is argued that if the dog is a myth, it should be killed. It is argued that if the dog is a myth, it should be killed.

State office and declared that he had been bitten by a dog which he thinks had hydrophobia. He did not know at the time, but he is sure of it now, for several other people had been bitten by the dog before he was. The dog behaved in a manner which was entirely unusual. It did not run away, but it was very tame and it did the dog run away and he had no opportunity therefore to find out from the Pastors people whether or not it was affected with rabies. He had heard of the Koon treatment, and said that physicians in his section had been known to use it.

A VIRULENT POISON. The poison of hydrophobia is so virulent that it seems almost like taking one's life into one's own hands to use a "cure," unless there is sufficient evidence to prove that the cure has effect. There has been so much talk of hydrophobia in the last few months that it appears that this is a good time for the State board of health to make a thorough investigation, and if possible enlist the assistance and cooperation of the United States government. The incident occurred about Fort Mill, but Mr. McFadden's stock to his post and brought the car into a city all right before receiving medical attention. The dog was done to either car—Rock Hill Record.

Three Rock Into Train. Friday night as the special train starting Mr. W. Fennell to the beach-old child of Mayor E. W. Wylie, of Lancaster, who was dangerously ill of diphtheria, had passed Leslie Station a short distance west of the station a great fire through the car window. Flaggman Bob Hope, brother of Mr. W. H. Hope of this city, was sitting near the fire and was cut by the flames. The rock narrowly missed his head. The train was stopped, but no trace of the person could be found. No one else in the car was hurt. The fire was found, unless it was simply to get in lawlessness. The perpetrator of such an act should be apprehended and severely dealt with.—Rock Hill Herald.

New Hotel Management. Mr. S. W. Inman, the new proprietor of the Hotel Royal, is now in charge of that popular hotel, having acquired it from Mr. J. W. Inman, accompanied by his family; also, by Mrs. Samuel Guy, of Lowville. The Yorkville correspondent of the Charleston Observer has the following to say of Mr. Inman and his removal to Lancaster: "Mr. S. W. Inman and family, of this city, have moved to Lancaster, where Mr. Inman expects to engage in the hotel business. For a number of years Mr. Inman has been engaged in farming near Yorkville and was recognized as one of the most successful farmers in the county. Several weeks ago he received a letter from Mr. Inman, who had been in the city. His numerous friends hope that he will prove equally as successful in his new life."

Mr. S. W. Mitchell, the former proprietor of the Hotel Royal, came over from Chester Saturday, where he is now conducting the Nicholson Hotel and moved his family and property to his new home—Lancaster News.

C. B. McFadden's Arm Broken.

C. B. McFadden had the misfortune to break one of the bones in his right arm "Saturday evening" as he was returning from Charleston, where he had taken a party to see the football game between Davidson and A. M. It seems that Mr. McFadden, who is a family man, had stopped for some minor trouble with the machine, and Mr. Walter Dunlap was in his car just in front of them, and as soon as he discovered that Mr. McFadden had stopped he reversed his engine and began to back up to where Mr. McFadden's car stopped. Mr. McFadden in the meantime arranged his trouble and began to proceed.

Mr. Dunlap, not seeing or hearing them on account of the noise of his machine in backing, kept on going backward, and Mr. McFadden, being so close on him that he could not stop, was forced to strike the car of Mr. McFadden's right arm was caught and one bone broken.

The incident occurred about Fort Mill, but Mr. McFadden's stock to his post and brought the car into a city all right before receiving medical attention. The dog was done to either car—Rock Hill Record.

Morse now directs the efforts of his counsel to secure his freedom, he having today been sentenced to serve 15 years in the Federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., for misappropriation of the funds of the National Bank of North America and making false entries in the books of the bank. Alfred H. Curtis, president of the defense, who was jointly tried and convicted with Morse, was given his liberty today on a suspended sentence.

Mr. "B. B." McFadden, who is a student at the Clinton Presbyterian college, arrived in the city Tuesday afternoon from Charleston at the bedside of his mother, Mrs. V. B. McFadden, who continues to be quite sick.

On Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, as the bride's home in Rock Hill, Miss Nancy Witherspoon Thornwell, daughter of Mrs. James H. Thornwell, was married to Mr. James Knox Roach, of Rock Hill, by Rev. E. G. McLean. Only relatives of the two families and several intimate friends were present.

A very quiet wedding occurred at the home of Mrs. J. H. Hall on Park avenue last Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock, when her youngest daughter, Miss Iva Boyd Hall, became the bride of Mr. J. R. Ruch, of this city. The ceremony, which occurred in the parlors of the home, was performed by Rev. T. C. O'Neil, pastor of St. John's M. Sad Death of a Little Child. Richard Evans, the bright little son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wylie, died at his home in Rock Hill, S. C., on Monday morning, after a brief illness of membranous croup. All that medical skill and tender nursing could do has done to save the little one's life. The little one was only one day old when he was born. He was the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Wylie and was about two years of age. Of unusually sweet and lovable disposition and winning ways, he was idolized by the household. The entire community deeply sympathizes with the grief-stricken family.

The district commissioners were conducted at the home yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, by Dr. H. J. Holdridge, pastor of the Baptist church, the Rev. W. A. Early, of the Methodist, and the Rev. AMERICA NEEDS THE GIFT OF NATIONAL TEMPERANCE.

It is the one thing that I think it most truly made next to the religion of Jesus Christ, and which in my judgment would be most conducive to the industrial education and moral uplifting of the nation, I would most hesitatingly give it a strong national temperance law, and compel its enforcement by the proper officers, says Mr. J. G. Green, governor of North Carolina. In a symposium, "If I Were a National Statesman," in the December Beltonator.

I here assert that all the wrongs and injustices of the tariff, and all the robberies, oppression and greed of monopolies, do not compare with the wrongs of the rum, the misery, the crime, the poverty, the madness, the vice, the degradation, the death and damnation produced by strong drink. It destroys home life, breaks the hearts of mothers and wives; takes the clothes off the backs of children and substitutes rage, depraves character, makes mad out of virtuous maidens, stinks and destroys hope, weakens the body, blights the mind and blackens the soul until it turns the earth made for man's happiness and use, into a hell for his ruin and misery.

In the interest, therefore, of business for the protection of the women and children, for the suppression of crime; the amelioration of poverty and the prevention of disease, the preservation of life, the salvation of human souls, and for the sake of more than eighty-six millions of true, brave and noble American men, women and children, I would beg that some earnest citizen, by destroying a fearful curse, and restoring man to the godlike image in which he was created, I would offer this gift to the American people.

How Is Your Digestion. Mrs. Mary Howling of No. 228 1/2 W. 12th Street, Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "I have been suffering from indigestion and stomach trouble since I was a child. I am fully convinced that your stomach and liver troubles Electric Bitters is the best remedy on the market today. Leper Given More Liberty. Washington, Nov. 9.—It was decided by the district commissioners today to break up the strict isolation of John H. Early, the leper, and permit him to live with his family in a small brick house near the Washington workhouse grounds. He will be under the same roof with his family, but it will be arranged so that they can live entirely apart.

It is probable that Dr. J. W. Babcock, the superintendent of the state hospital for the insane, will be elected a member of the faculty of the Medical College of South Carolina, but a definite announcement has not been made as yet, as the faculty has not taken action. His name, however, is being mentioned. "And Early can cease to be dependent on the district and can support himself and wife and child from his pension money, which is $72 a month."

One night as a Canadian doctor who lives in eastern Ontario was driving into a village he saw a chap, a little worse for liquor, amusing a crowd of spectators with the antics of his trick dog. The doctor watched him for some time, and then he said to his man: "How do you manage to train your dog? I can't teach mine to do anything." "Sandy, with the simple look in his eyes, said, 'Well, you see, Doc, you have to know how the dog or you can't learn him nothing.'—Ex.

A Multiplicity of Fathers. Ardyce had been learning to sing "America" at school and was trying to teach it to brother Wayne. One morning his father heard him shouting, "Land where my papa died, land where my papa died." Ardyce interrupted, "Oh, no, Wayne, not that way. It is 'Land where our fathers died.'" Wayne's expression could not be described as a flipped his head sideways, and in a very supple tone gravely said, "Two of 'em?"—The December Beltonator.

President Roosevelt has a commission making a tour of the cities for the purpose of studying country life.

Edward W. Carmack fell a martyr to the cause of temperance, and it is probable that he slew more of its enemies the day of his death than he had slain in all his life before. Liquor is heartily cruel and will scrape at nothing. No doubt this manifestation of its true character will open the eyes of deluded supporters and cause them to wash their hands of the unholty brew.

The Columbia tree calls attention to a feature of the tragedy in Nashville last Monday which deserves attention. This is the fact that while a clash between Carmack and the Cooper men generally represented the officers of the law versus raised a hand to prevent it. This is not an exceptional case. We do not know just what duties are imposed by law upon peace officers or how far they are justified in going to prevent trouble, but we do know that as a rule the law, with full knowledge of an impending tragedy stands off as if unconcerned. The consequence is that peaceable citizens are forced to stain their hands in human blood or else forfeit their own lives. This same weakness of the law or in the administration of the law exists, of course, not only in regard to homicide but in regard to every other simplest case of assault and battery; and even when there is no actual assault, men who will not engage in a personal quarrel are sometimes forced to endure the insults of backyards and bottles. This law usually takes no notice of such cases unless there is actual assault, blows, and the first blow may be a plea that carries death. The law should put a premium upon keeping the peace by protecting the peaceable citizen.

CARMACK OF CHESTER COUNTY.

Interesting Facts About the Ancestors of the Late Senator Carmack in This County.

The United States Senator Edward W. Carmack who was killed in Nashville, Tenn., Monday, was regarded by many as one of the greatest men who have ever graced the United States Senate. It may be generally known, but some of his ancestors lived in Chester county during the Revolutionary war. Capt. William Anderson, who lived on the farm near where L. C. railroad crosses that stream and who was killed at his home by Tories during the Revolution, was a great-grandfather of Senator Carmack. William Anderson and his wife, whose maiden name was Nancy Stevenson, came from Ballymory, County Antrim, Ireland, and settled on Fishing Creek about 1770. They were Reformed Presbyterians, or what were commonly called Covenanters. They belonged to Rev. Wm. Martin's church, who was the only preacher of that denomination in the county at that time.

It will be remembered that Mr. L. C. Carmack, who was recently charged with an account in The Lantern of a sermon preached by Rev. Wm. Martin immediately after the slaughter of Buford's soldiers on the home of his first husband and called on all in that section to fight for their country. The men of the neighborhood met early the next morning and volunteered to defend their homes. They elected William Anderson captain of their company. Some time during the fall season of that year, the first husband and three children. While in his house a band of Tories came suddenly upon him. He ran out of his house, and hid in the woods, and was set and let down the bars, which were used instead of gates. Just as he passed through the bars he was shot dead by the Tories, who were afterwards married Daniel Greene. Daniel Greene died forty years after the death of Capt. Anderson. The day after the washing rain came and washed up the bones of his first husband and they were buried in the grave with her.

The late Mr. Daniel Greene Stinson, a well known farmer, especially a historian, was a nephew of Mrs. Greene. Mr. D. G. Stinson did more to preserve the history of our county than any other man that has ever lived in it.

Senator Carmack has quite a number of distant relatives living now in Chester county, and among them are Rev. C. E. McDonald, Mr. R. B. Anderson, who lives near Richburg and many others.

Funeral of Capt. Sprinkle.
The funeral services for Capt. Wm Sprinkle were at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Benhlem, on East Seventh street in Charlotte, conducted by Revs. H. K. Boyer and Harris Mallinckrodt and was attended by a large number of friends. The pallbearers were Messrs. Thos. Thos. Boyman and E. F. Blackwell, baggage master on his train, J. H. Blanton, M. Doozoo, D. A. Hahn, E. H. Chase and S. McNeill. Of his estate was held Monday's Charlotte Evening News says:

Capt. Sprinkle, for forty-three years a contractor on the Charlotte and one of the best known railway men in the state, died this morning at 9:30 at his home at No. 13 East Seventh street, at the age of 74 years. Capt. Sprinkle had been in bad health for some time, and his death was not unexpected.

Capt. Sprinkle is survived by two sons, Mr. A. Walker Sprinkle, of Bridgeport, Conn.; Mr. Holton Sprinkle of this city, and one daughter, Mrs. C. Benhlem, who lives in this city and two brothers, Messrs. John and Tom Sprinkle, and two sisters, Mrs. George Caldwell, of Sugar Creek, and Mrs. Louise Abbott, of Atlanta.

Capt. Sprinkle was married to Miss Mary Holton of this city, who preceded him to the grave about eight years ago. Miss Holton is the daughter of Mrs. Rachel Holton, and is survived by two sisters, Misses Rachel and Hattie Holton, of this city.

Capt. Sprinkle was probably the oldest conductor running out of Charlotte. Several times the Southern Railway officials have offered to retire him on a liberal pension, but he refused it, saying he could not accept any money that he did not work for and asked to be allowed to run his train as long as he could. They saw him his preference of runs and he chose the short run between here and Columbia, S. C.

No other tribute could be paid to the character of this fine old man than to state the simple fact that the Southern, when it put traveling conditions on our route, refused to allow one on Capt. Sprinkle's train. Their cruelty and confidence in him was absolute. Yet he again asked the company not to break the rule in his case. He did not wish to be given any different privileges from those enjoyed by others of his fellow-travelers. He said the author would like to work on his run and begged that he go on his train as on all the rest. So the company complied with his request.

Capt. Sprinkle served through the war, being the greater part of his time in the commissary department.

Carmack's Slayer.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 11.—A State warrant, charging him with the murder of former United States Senator E. W. Carmack, was served on Robt. Cooper at a hospital today. Cooper is now in charge of three deputy sheriffs. He will be removed to the county jail as soon as his condition permits. It has developed, according to the physician, that he is attending to the fact that two shots were fired at the young man, one penetrating his shoulder, the other going through his coat sleeve.

The shooting in this city over the terrible tragedy Monday afternoon, in which E. W. Carmack, former United States senator from Tennessee, was shot and killed by Robt. Cooper, a young attorney of Nashville, son of Col. Duncan B. Cooper, a close political ally of the late Senator, and Mr. W. Patterson, has to a certain extent abated, yet the tragedy is still the sole topic of conversation in political circles both in this city and throughout the State. Col. Cooper, who was with his son when the latter shot Mr. Carmack, has been remanded to jail without bond, charged with murder. Young Cooper remains under guard at a local hospital, where his wounded arm is being treated. His preliminary trial on the charge of murder will be held as soon as it is able to leave the hospital.

COOPER'S STATEMENT.
Both the Cooper and Senator Carmack were old friends, and throughout the State. Cooper's statement is that the affair was merely a street duel in which both sides met on the corner of Broadway and the Cooper claim that they had tried to avoid a meeting with Carmack. It is said, and they were on their way to the State Capitol in response to a telegram from Gov. Patterson when the tragedy occurred and that Senator Carmack had been warned of his approaching trouble.

Friends of Senator Carmack strenuously claim that the killing was the result of a conspiracy, pure and simple; that he was warned; that when Senator Carmack left the Tennessee office for his boarding house the fact was telephoned from a house near the Tennessee office and the Coopers claim that the senator was on his way and to the start.

It now develops, according to friends of Mr. Carmack, that there was a third party with the Coopers just before the shooting, a former county official who is a close personal friend of both the Coopers and Patterson. Friends of Senator Carmack indicate that there will be sensational developments within the next day or so regarding the affair.

It is also claimed by some of the most prominent in Tennessee, Col. Cooper and his son, Robt., will have the best legal talent when the case comes up next December next, when argument on the writ of error that has been granted may come up. One loophole is left open to Morse's defense. Charles W. Morse, the financier, who has been sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment at hard labor, at the closing of the United States circuit court, appeals today, and it now seems certain that the former multi-millionaire must remain in the Tombs prison at least until the next term.

Morse Is Denied Bail.
New York, Nov. 10.—Bail was denied Charles W. Morse, the financier, who has been sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment at hard labor, at the closing of the United States circuit court, appeals today, and it now seems certain that the former multi-millionaire must remain in the Tombs prison at least until the next term.

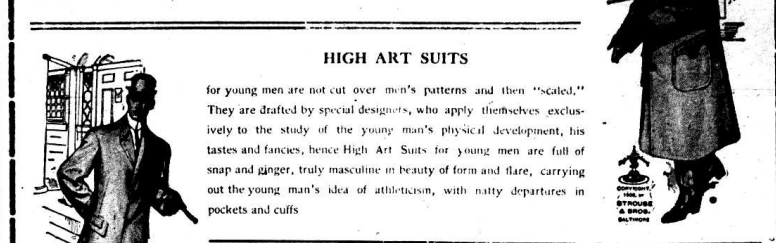

The Carmack Tragedy.
We do not know what Senator Carmack of Tennessee wrote to his newspaper about his political opponent, Col. Cooper, but whatever it may have been it was fully justified by the facts. Col. Cooper stood aloof and looked on while his son shot and killed Senator Carmack. That was a terrible crime. The Coopers, father and son, stand by the punishment to the full limit of the law. The law needs to be avenged now in Tennessee with a stern hand, for the spirit of lawlessness seems to be spreading throughout that state. The illiterate people around Leefoot lake are not the only lawless people in Tennessee by any means.—Anderson Mail.

World's Production of Cotton.
Washington, Nov. 11.—The world's production of cotton for mill consumption during the year ending August 31, 1908, exceeded by 2,360,000 bales the production of the previous year. According to the census bureau report on the supply and the distribution of cotton. It is a significant fact that the supply of cotton in this country in the world's supply of cotton is measured practically by the variations in the annual production in the United States.

If the consumption of cotton in 1909 is declared, must contribute at least 100,000 bales to prevent further decrease in stocks.

The Young Man's Business!
We Want It Because We Are Equipped For It!

It is not an easy task to sell to young men in this community. They are well informed as to style, critical as to fit, and demand the best. But we are "it" on young men's clothing when it comes to styles, patterns, value and assortment!

HIGH ART SUITS
for young men are not cut over men's patterns and then "scaled." They are drafted by special designers, who apply themselves exclusively to the study of the young man's physical development, his tastes and fancies, hence High Art Suits for young men are full of snap and ginger, truly masculine in beauty of form and flare, carrying out the young man's idea of athleticism, with natty departures in pockets and cuffs.

Not a few styles to select from here, but an assortment most complete in fabrics, patterns and styles, with a wide range of prices from $5.00 to $25.00.

Doings of Memphis Conference.
Memphis, Nov. 11.—In his address to the representatives of the Southern Cotton Association, which is in convention here yesterday, President Harvie Jordan of the association urged 10 cents as the minimum price for which the present crop should be marketed, and declared that by concert of action the price could be forced to this figure before the close of November. He advocated the formation of a chain of warehouses whose receipts would be accepted as collateral for short-term loans. He denounced night trading and urged the adoption of resolutions condemning all forms of lawlessness.

Mr. Jordan said that raw cotton is the only great staple commodity in the world today which is selling below the cost of production, notwithstanding the fact that it represents one of the world's greatest necessities.

Seven Southern states were represented at the opening session of the conference of growers, merchants and others whose interests are allied with the growth and marketing of cotton.

Harvie Jordan Predicts Higher Prices.
Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 8.—Harvie Jordan, president of the Southern Cotton Growers' association, speaking tonight of the outlook for marketing the present cotton crop, said:

"The national election is past and millions of dollars of orders for manufactured goods have been placed in the past few weeks. Raw cotton will be the impetus given to other lines of industry. While the ginners' report indicate a larger amount of cotton going to date than at any previous period in the history of the census bureau, the ginners for November and the succeeding months of the year will indicate a heavy and continuous fall-off. The total yield of this year will, in my opinion, fall short of the two big crop years of 1901 and 1907."

Mr. Jordan emphasized his belief that the price of cotton will rise steadily.

Case for Rejection.
The cleanup out of the run mills in Union, Clarendon, Chester and Laurens counties by a large majority in the elections which have been recently held in these counties is a cause for rejoicing on many accounts.

In the first place it means that one of the most potent sources for detaching the citizens of these counties has been removed. It is a great gain in the assurance of better morals as a course better citizens. It gives assurance too that the majority of the people of these counties, and a large majority recognize the right of the liquor traffic is to a people—green wool.

Rock Sam Delivers Hall.

...ere are in the United States, 65,000 rock offices. Of this number Pennsylvania bears more than any other state, with 5,000 to her credit, while Rhode Island trails the last with 125. It is estimated that fully one-half of the post offices in the nation were named for distinguished Americans.

George Washington was honored more than any other statesman and president, having a post office named for him in every state save five. Lincoln ranks second, with 6,000 offices, and coming down the line the list is as follows:

Adams, 26; Jefferson 27; Jackson 29; Garfield, 26; Grant 21; Cleveland 20; Ben Franklin, dist postmaster-general, 33; Clay, 13; Webster, 23; Harrison, 14; Wesley, 11.

Roosevelt and McKinley recently are popular names, or per cent of offices, and at present there are 21 named in honor of the late, martyred president while "Teddy" comes in for 18.

The postal directory shows, also, five Democrats, and six Republicans. In the Union, seven states have a "Storrie" while fourteen come in for "Sunset."

There are "Devil's Lake," "Devil's Hell," "Hell's Gate" while fourteen have a "Paradise."

Two post offices in America were named for Cain; while Abel was honored only in one instance.

There are five "Bachelors" and two "Maidens."

In the states of Arkansas, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Texas and West Virginia, there are offices called "Snow" while in Georgia and Kentucky there is an office known as "Ice."

There are three "Missouri" is not a "dry" state, she has a "Prohibition," and the states of New Hampshire, Virginia, New York and Arkansas go for the office extreme with a "Bye" apiece.

Among the new offices recently established are: Taft, Ga.; Happy Land, Kentucky; Mt. Lovell, N. Y.; Gum, Wis.; Habitat, Ga.; Good, Tex.; Silver, Mich.; Alligator, N. C.; Alpha, Ia. and Omega, Ga.—Augusta Herald.

After the soil is removed the road grader can be properly used for carrying up the earth into the roadway, and the entire roadway is formed of solid material, which in its future settlement is completed uniformly and will be less likely to develop soft spots, as would be the case if soil is thrown into it indiscriminately. On a level or nearly level prairie the road should be built up a foot or two above the original surface to provide suitable drainage from the center of the roadway to the ditches, and the crown of the road should be sufficient to allow the water from rainfalls to be quickly carried off. A good road is properly maintained and kept in good condition. A very important feature of proper maintenance is keeping the surface free of continual ruts or dragging. Whenever ruts are allowed to remain they will hold water from every rain storm that comes, will soften the roadbed and result in chucks holes, injurious alike to the team, the wagon and the driver.

The process of dragging, smoothing and planing the road with one of the numerous styles of drag, now so happily coming into use in many localities is so simple and inexpensive that there is no excuse for not having any road to become rough and rutty through neglect.

Remedy For Bad Roads.

The remedy for bad roads, it seems to me, lies wholly with the man who owns the property along the road, and it is up to the position of overseer who does not understand how to make good roads out of poor roads. A farmer, such a man in your neighborhood, hire one from outside. This is ninety-nine hundred out of a hundred, the sound thing to do, for the chances are that there is no man in the neighborhood who has had practical experience enough to make it safe to trust the work to him, says Eben E. Rexford in the Outdoor Magazine for June. If you may have good sense, good judgment and all that is in short, there may be the making of a good road. It is not the kind of a good road you need in a man who is a good road builder, a man who has got the trade already learned. In other words, you can't expect to want to come home late in the evening if the man who has developed his ability in that direction is available.

Oil Roads in Illinois.

A most interesting experiment is being conducted in central Illinois near Springfield. The state highway commission is making a test of oil on country roads. While oil roads are no novelty in many parts of the United States, they are not known on the heavy black soil of central Illinois, where the soil is so hard and sticky with an asphalt oil to a depth of six inches. What the results will be no one can predict, but one thing is certain—of the good roads problem. In many parts of the Sooner State stone roads are out of the question, and the material hard at hand the great prairie states cannot expect to have stone roads, as do some of the eastern states. Good roads must be secured by drainage, special care and possibly by the use of oil. The experiment will be watched with a great deal of interest.

Road Building Plan.

"Don't you people ever work the roads in this section?" asks an Iowa merchant as he gives me a report of his "work" out of a rut with a fence rail.

"Machine 'em? Well, I should say we do," answered Uncle Charlie Reever from the top roll of the fence. "Why, we work these roads on the same plan. None of that money system for us fellows. Every farm is assessed so many days of work on the highway, an' after 'em farm work is all done 'an, we ain't outlin' each ter do 'em all, but we make a list of 'em, with plows, horse, pigs, a cow, an' an' 'nec for work 'em, I tell you. We find some shabby spot to rest, set a trap, drink some beer, and the men may play a game or two of seven up 'an, we call it a day."

T. H. Bellingham, former congressman of Tacoma, Wash., has a plan for a Tacoma-Seattle highway which he is taking up with the Good Roads and other associations of the West. The new issue of postage stamps will be put on sale November 16th. The denominations are 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 10, 12, 15 and 20 cents and 1. The postage department says that the 2 and 8 cent stamps will be discontinued after the present supply is exhausted. On the one cent stamp is the head of Benjamin Franklin in profile from Hoodon's boat. All the other denominations are in profile from Hoodon's boat. The border designs of all the denominations are identical, the head being an eclipse on and with laurel leaves on either side. Above the head are the words "U. S. Postage," below the denomination. The size of the stamps is now on sale—Columbia Record.

"What's the matter with it?" asked Aker. "It's a Tarf button."

"And I say it isn't," protested Handcock. "I've been a simple Tarf button since I was a kid."

"I'm on me," Alder coughed. "What 'bout 'Bartender' N. Y. World."
