TUESDAY NOVEMBER 21.

The matter of fire insurance is one of vital interest to the public. To get along without fire insurance is almost an impossibility, especially in the poor man and the man in moderate circumstances.

There are hundreds of houses in Chester county that would never have been built had it not been for fire insurance companies. One certainly cannot expect to negotiate a loan in order to erect a building unless he can secure the lender a gainful loss.

STATE TAXES.

A statement of the value of all property in South Carolina for taxation purposes shows Chester county to be $7,977,262.

There are forty-five counties in the State and Chester county stands thirteenth in list. Those having more taxable property are Aiken, Anderson, Charleston, Florence, Greenville, Greenwood, Laurens, Orangeburg, Richland, Spartanburg, Sumter and York.

It is a well known fact that lands in Chester county are assessed entirely too high when compared with lands in some other counties in the State.

HIS ARMY MULE.

Uncle Mose Parker, with an old mule and coach, had for a good many years transported passengers between the ferry and the depot. His trip usually required about twelve minutes, but often, when the boat was late, had to be made in less time.

passenger. Giving a strong pull the gentleman commanded "Charge," whereupon, to the utter surprise of the old darkey, the animal broke forth into a fast trot and finally into a good run. Upon reaching the station the gentleman commanded "Halt," whereas the mule stopped short alongside the platform and the passenger alighted in plenty of time.

A few days later Uncle Mose had occasion to make another quick run to the depot and assured his man that he could make the train. "You jump in an' Ah'll kit you dar in plenty time, sah,"

As soon as the passenger was seated Mose took up the lines and with a good hard jerk commanded "Charge. Obeying as before, the mule broke into a run toward the depot. Upon reaching his destination the old driver made several attempts to slow down, but the mule, heedless of the usual "Whoa," continued past in the mad flight.

DREAMLAND TODAY.

When Ann Pennington was created a sensation on the stage in the "Follies" the little star decided that she had enough spare time to devote to motion picture work. Her first venture was the "Follies" in which she scored a decided success. So happy was the outcome of this first venture that Miss Pennington is ready and anxious to be starred again on the screen.

When the Famous Players in "Dreamland" that they had secured the Rainbow Princess for her second play, the diminutive star was delighted. It was such a pretty role, she thought. But when Director J. Searle Dawley began outlining the story to her, Miss Pennington's eyes gradually opened until she saw the danger of a popping wheel. This is a rough outline of what Dawley told her:

"You have a few scenes in the second act to go up in a balloon and make a parachute descent with her; you fall on the judge's lawn when the parachute goes wrong; you are several size-shoes in the circus and dance your big Huller in one scene; you catch your former employer robbing the judge's house and the latter has you in as a grand-daughter. But you are an impostor, put in the house by the circus men as a tool through which to get the judge's money."

At this point Miss Pennington ceased and wondered whether she would have time to do all that, after all. But she assured that all arrangements had been completed, even to the renting of an entire circus and the hiring of a big top upon which to erect the tents and the side-shows. So the diminutive dancer steeled herself for the ordeal, which has come through with flying colors.

She was naturally right in her hunch when the Hula dance was caught. This is the dance which has captivated the "Follies" audiences this season. When the Famous Players staged the scene, the entire Hawaiian orchestra which accompanied Miss Pennington in the "Follies" stage was secured to accompany her in order to give the dancer the best obtainable music.

These numerous exciting and picturesque scenes in which Miss Pennington appears are linked together by a story which is a delightful combination of comedy and drama. Hope, a girl engaged to Miss Pennington, a little staff who has been befriended by "Pop" Blodgett, the owner of a circus, and forced to perform many dangerous feats in recompense for his "sinchness" to her. An accident to her balloon when she is making a dangerous ascent brings her down upon the estate of Judge Thangferd. Blodgett, learning where Hope is, goes to the judge and convinces him that the girl is really his grand-daughter. Of course Blodgett hopes to establish his girl in the judge's home in order to be able to rob the old gentleman later.

The outcome of this plot, the shock to the judge when he learns that the girl of whom he has become very fond is an impostor, and the romance which develops between little Hope and Warren, the real heir to the judge's estate, are all very interestingly told.

In support of Miss Pennington there appear William Courtleigh, Jr., Edwin Sturges, Charles Sutton, Hazard Lee, Clifford Gray, and Augusta Anderson.

"The Rainbow Princess" will be the main attraction at Dreamland Theatre today.

ANDERSON SEES SOLDIERS MARCH

Decision to be Reached Today as to Sending Some Companies Away.

Anderson, Nov. 19.—A crowd of more than 2,000 persons gathered on Cater athletic field this afternoon to witness the parade of the military corps. All five companies participated.

Maj. Robertson and all commissioned officers of the corps were entertained by General Manager Ligon of the Gluck and Equinox mills at dinner today. A number of business men of Anderson were also among the guests. A smoker banquet for the men of the companies is being planned for one night during the first part of the week.

Nothing definite has been decided as to sending three companies to their homes. Maj. Robertson was in touch with Gov. Manning today over the telephone and the governor stated that he would reach a decision early tomorrow. In his conversation with the governor Maj. Robertson expressed it as his opinion that it would be necessary to retain some soldiers at the Equinox and Gluck mills until the legislature convenes.

The people of Anderson who are in close touch with conditions concur in this opinion, and it is understood that Gov. Manning intends to keep some soldiers here until all chance of trouble is over.

Maj. Robertson instituted an investigation of the burning of a negro's cottage in the Gluck mill village last night. Nothing has come to the surface to cause any one to be held accountable. The investigation may be continued.

At the conclusion of the dinner given the officers today Maj. Robertson spoke of the spirit of cooperation that he and his men had found here.

Instead of having to pay high prices for food for the men, the quartermaster has been able to furnish the men plenty of food at less cost than in many of the regular army posts. The major also commended the fact that so far as he had furnished money for paying off the soldiers at a low rate of interest. He has looked after every detail of making the men comfortable and that all the men are appreciative of what he has done for them.

A decided increase in the number of operatives at work at both mills is expected tomorrow morning. Many rules show cause why residents of the two villages should not be ejected will be returnable before Magistrates Cox and Geiger tomorrow.

SALE OF LIVE STOCK.

Market Has Been Established at Darlington.

Darlington, Nov. 19.—Efforts recently put forth by the Chamber of Commerce and parties interested in the raising of live stock in this county have resulted in the establishment in Darlington of a market for live stock, and the first sale will be held here on November 23 at the Atlantic Coast Line freight yard. The railroad, it is understood, has consented to put in stock yards for the sale of hogs and cattle, and several packing houses through the country have arranged to have a buyer on this market at these sales. There are a number of hogs raised yearly in this county, and but for the fact that market conditions have been so uncertain a great many more would have been raised. If the present plans carry Darlington county farmers will be prepared somewhat against the coming of the boll weevil, as this county is wonderfully well adapted to the growing of live stock, and it is also to almost any crop. The sales will be held at intervals throughout the winter.

"In compliance with your verbal request as to whether or not a common carrier can deliver whiskey after sundown will say that I can find no law prohibiting the delivery by a common carrier of a consign-ment of whiskey between the hours of sundown and sunrise, or at such other time as may be convenient when it is transported in accordance with the provisions of the gallon a month law.

"It is true that the constitution of this State provides among other things that the general assembly shall grant no license for the sale of alcoholic beverages between the hours of sundown and sunrise.

"Section 522 of the criminal code provides a penalty for having or transporting liquor in the night time. Section 824 provides a penalty in a common carrier, transports liquor unlawfully.

"Other than this, and under the present laws of this State, I know of no provision of the general assembly has seen fit to enact restricting the delivery of liquors by a common carrier, other than one gallon to any one container, during each calendar month. Whether it be during the night or day the legislature has not so said."

HOW are people to know unless you tell them? The Semi-Weekly News goes into the homes of people that you would like to do business with.

IN OUR great-great-grandfathers' time many New England families had a cask of rum in the cellar.

It was freely offered to guests (except children) and freely partaken of, even as coffee is today.

This old-time custom gradually passed out of existence, for our forefathers recognized it was harmful.

Another old-time custom—coffee drinking—is slowly passing in the same fashion and for the same reason.

The abandonment of coffee drinking is made easy nowadays by the use of Instant Postum, the pure cereal beverage with the coffee-like taste.

Unlike coffee, this purely American table drink contains no "caffine" or other harmful substance.

Postum is now used daily in tens of thousands of the best of American homes where reason rules and health is valued.

Phillips Case to U. S. Court.

Greenville Pleasants A suit seeking damages of $20,000 against the Southern railway and the firm of Holler & Hailey of Rock Hill, for the death of Mrs. Bell Phillips of York county, has been filed in the Federal court, and will probably be tried in Greenville at an early term of the Federal court. The suit was brought originally in the county common pleas of York county. The action is brought by Daniel C. McKee, administrator for the estate of Mrs. Bell Phillips. The defendants, L. L. Holler and C. H. Hailey, operate automobiles for public service at Rock Hill and between Rock Hill and town in the county. It is alleged that on June 15, 1916, Mrs. Phillips, accompanied by two minor children, were passengers in an automobile operated by the defendant, Holler & Hailey, and that while crossing the tracks of the Southern railway, the automobile was struck by a train and Mrs. Phillips received injuries that she died a few hours after. Negligence on the part of the railway and the automobile operating firm is alleged.

AIDS GERMAN OFFICER WHO BLEW HIM UP

Canadian Captain a Victim of Treachery of Fox Who Wounded He Handaged.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—Canadian aid here has learned to treat with good nature and treat the greatest captives from the ranks of their former adversaries, but the Truston office has gained a reputation for unbecomingly treachery, according to an official communique issued by the Canadian War Records Office. In a sentence in detail the taking of the Regina trench by Dominion troops at midnight of Nov. 10, after forty-eight hours' artillery bombardment, the names of the treachery are all too numerous. The statement says: "The following was one of a specimen of the breed we are out to suppress."

"One of our Captains in a fall in the fighting found a Prussian officer lying desperately wounded, bleeding freely. He knelt down under heavy fire and gave his enemy first aid, bandaging his wounds so that he could be moved. Then he turned away to get the stretcher bearing the wounded man. He was then shot. The Prussian officer was found by the Prussian evidently thought his ally would pass unobserved in the confusion of fighting, but a German officer who was nearby saw the whole affair and he paid the penalty."

"It is not strange, therefore, if the German officer, when captured, does not always find quite so amiable a reception as he greets his rank and file. The story of gaining the Regina trench is described as a very smart and complete one, well rounded off with no ragged edges to give trouble for the mind, and seeming to use a decided word of praise. Moreover, it was gained and held at relatively small cost. The number of unaccounted for upon the trench was only five or six. The statement says that the Prussian officer, when he was taken prisoner, was a very noble and a subtle assassin of supreme quality. They call "Fritz." The communique that with the declaration that "in the trench behind such an attitude dwells the certainty of triumph."

TO BE INTRODUCED.
Anti-Saloon League Preparing to Fight for Stricter Liquor Law in State.

Raleigh, N. C. Nov. 19.—The Executive committee of the North Carolina Anti-Saloon League, having responded Rev. R. L. Davis to the reappointment of the law for another year, is marshaling its forces for its biennial raid on the legislature for advanced measures in the tightening of the prohibition law of the State.

Some weeks ago the committee promulgated its platform of demands that will be made upon the 1917 Assembly. This includes reducing the quantities of intoxicants that can be in the possession of any citizen to one-half gallon of whiskey, three gallons of malt or beer, and five gallons of wine.

There will be an effort to prohibit the circulation of any newspapers that advertise liquor and to provide for the confiscation of any vehicles used in illicitly handling liquor, whether the driver or vendor own the machine or not. There is to be a feature designed to cut out the keeping of liquor at club apartments for members.

The final touches are being put on the legislative bill that the committee will undertake to put through the Legislature and the indications are that this measure will be one of the most notable features of the 1917 Legislature.

BEGINS EFFORT TO RECONCILE 8-HOUR LAW
Washington, Nov. 18.—President Wilson began today his task of trying to settle the triangular dispute between the railroad, labor and the United States government.

The president made his initial move in endeavoring to prevent a strike by receiving about four hundred delegates of the American Federation of Labor at the White House this afternoon. On Monday he will have a conference with Representative Adamson of Georgia, who was so active in the passage of the "eight-hour" law which bears his name.

It is thought in Washington that the railway executives will either seek an audience with the president or will be invited by him to call Adamson's conference with the president on Monday will mean a congressional lieutenant will discuss the carrying out of the remainder of the president's railroad legislation program.

The national council of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States decided at its annual meeting today to submit to all the members of the chamber throughout the country a referendum of the railroad situation.

The purpose of the referendum will be to ascertain the opinion of the business interests of the country respecting legislation designed to correct interference of transportation services, pending the settlement of disputes between employers and employees of transportation lines, and to make certain about the transportation facilities of the country may be added, improved and extended to meet and keep pace with the needs of commerce and the entire public.

THE HIGH AND THE LOW OF IT.
Many a nigger in this State is on the "chance" for gambling, and the amount of 15 cents on a crap game, and many a white citizen went out to the church of which he is a member last Sunday and swore to the meeting a new hat he was on an election hat, and long time of him was a brother church member who lost on the bet. There will not be on the next 40 years as much gambling for crap shooting niggers in this State as there was gambling on the recent election by white gentlemen, who have their names on church books.

Lesson IX.—Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 26, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Rom. xii. 1-6. Memory Verses, 6:8—Golden Text, Rom. xii. 1.—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. W. Stearns.

This is our last study in the epistle for some time to come, but the believer who desires to grow in grace and walk with the Lord will study them carefully. This is not a lesson of two weeks ago we gave some attention to the whole of this epistle, but a little refreshment will be helpful, with some additional thoughts. The epistle, as a rule, are for believers or saints or saved sinners to build them up and fit them for service, that they may be devoted in them and other things to bring to help complete the church and bring the time of the kingdom. The text of this epistle is very plain, very fully and clearly that all, with sinners and evildoers, are to be saved in unity before God and that salvation is wholly of grace, apart from works. Let us turn to the text, and let us see what it has to say to us. Chapter IX, v. 21, may well be called a "golden text" in this epistle. If a tallow candle is placed in a gun, and be shot at a door, it would go through without sustaining any injury; and a musket ball fired into the water, will rebound and be flattened as if fired against a hard surface. BANKER OF YORK DIES IN ACCIDENT

Cashier of Loan and Savings Bank Found Breathing Last at Steering Wheel.

Rock Hill, Nov. 19.—James Poag McMurray, cashier of the Loan and Savings Bank of York, was almost instantly killed tonight shortly before 9 o'clock as a result of a collision. The rear end of his automobile struck a horse and Mr. McMurray was found a few minutes later sitting with his hands on the steering wheel, breathing his last.

Mr. McMurray with his brother, Joe McMurray of Rock Hill, had spent the day with their father at Fort Mill and he was en route to his home in York.

The accident occurred just beyond Winthrop college, where the road takes a sharp turn, the automobile control the death and the condition of things in Europe. Since 1913, it is a thing of what he can do. He is a cleverer, a liar, a destroyer, a miser, and all who are not in Christ and on his side are on the side of the devil. How can a white man be willing to be condemned to such a world? The word that is translated "transformation" is used only four times and twice in the account of our Lord's transformation (Matt. xvii and Mark. ix). The other place besides here is 11 Cor. iii, 18, where the translation is "life changed." Our lesson verse says that the change must be inward, the renewing of our mind. It begins when we receive the Lord Jesus and thus become new creatures in Christ, then as we continue beholding Him we are changed by the Spirit day by day, moving into and more fully into good and acceptable and perfect the will of God.

That follows in our lesson chapter the varied manifestation of the fruit of the Spirit, which He will work in us if we are yielded to Him. Verse 216 tells of a holy infill and a lowly mind, not thinking anything of ourselves. There is a place and a ministry for every member of the body, as the Spirit may decide, and no room for envy or jealousy (verses 48). In the service of God there are no more differences with joy and patience and prayer and love, a readiness to forgive and to esteem some people more than ourselves (verses 9:15). Verse 18 hints that it may not be possible to live peacefully with some people, and such circumstances will need special grace and wisdom and guidance, which God will not fail to give.
