PLANTING ALFALFA.

Valuable Facts About Its Raising and Culture. To the Editor of the News and Courier: The frequency of inquiries for information in regard to the cultivation of the valuable forage plant, alfalfa, (medicago sativa), has prompted the preparation of the following articles on the subject.

This plant was first known and grown by the Romans, but they knew the fact that it was a soil improver. It is an important member of the large family of plants known to botanists as legumes, which alone possess the power, through the agency of bacteria, which colonize in nodules on their roots, of extracting and storing nitrogen from the air in the soil.

It is not possible for the southern farmer to accumulate from the limited number of stock kept a sufficient quantity of manure to fertilize large areas. A more or less regular application of the stable manure, with moderate use of litter, an average of 1 1/2 tons of manure, while by planting legumes like alfalfa is equivalent to the ability to plant and cultivate them. The result of the experiment given below demonstrates the fact that leguminous crops like alfalfa, which fix nitrogen in the soil, require no nitrogenous fertilizer.

Soil experiments with what following legumes and other forage crops. Plots contain 1-16 of an acre.

Table with 4 columns: Plot No., Alfalfa per acre, Beans per acre, and other crops. Rows include Plot No. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

SOUTH'S LARGEST GAIN.

Has Been in Controlling and Driving out Whiskey Traffic. For a decade a remarkable change has been going on in the south. The manifestations have been local but the results bear the appearance of a great movement. After the war the south had almost as many drinking places as it had stores. Today more than one-half of the counties below Mason and Dixon's line prohibit the sale of liquor. For instance, almost 60 per cent of Texas, nearly 80 per cent of Georgia, 90 per cent of Mississippi and all of Tennessee except eight cities have voted out the saloon, while even in Kentucky 31 counties are under prohibition rule.

There is nothing of particular political importance in these facts, but there is in them a vast deal of social and personal significance. In literature and in the imagination of the south the myth of the 'old plantation life' has been a powerful one. It has been a source of pride and a source of shame. It has been a source of pride because it has been a source of strength. It has been a source of shame because it has been a source of weakness.

Life Letter.

Life Letter. My dear Sir: In writing to you I am glad to find that you are moving along very smoothly in this section. Farmers in and around here have a lot of grain and places are beginning to show up from quite a distance. Cotton picking is about over.

There was a meeting of the A. B. church of Edgemont last Saturday evening. The pastor, Rev. R. M. Stevenson, without hesitation I must say his preaching was highly enjoyed. Mr. Walker is very much improved, we are glad to say.

PAY OF MANAGERS.

A More Strict Interpretation of the Law Gives Less Pay and Helps the Appropriation Out. Some dissatisfaction has been caused among the managers of the recent state and federal elections in many of the counties of the state because the comptroller general has decided that a strict interpretation and application of the law requires the pay for commissioners and managers shall be made instead of the liberal construction which has heretofore been allowed.

The effect of this change will be that there will be a reduction in pay for those managers who are not actually employed in receiving and delivering the boxes from the commissioners on the day preceding and the day following the election and tobing the expenses of elections down to a uniform basis throughout the state.

The comptroller general takes the position that a total of only six days pay should be allowed for the three managers of each precinct and one day for their clerks three days to the clerk of the board of managers and the boxes from the commissioners on the day preceding the election and delivers them back on the day following the election.

Another instance showing the irregularity that seems to prevail was that of the manager of the 1st precinct of Charleston county requiring them to be present for the three full days. The facts were presented to the attorney general, and advised that the claims be paid, which was done.

How We Catch a Cold. A cold is sometimes contracted while remaining inactive for a while in bed, but more often it is caught by failing to sleep under dry conditions. But most colds are contracted by the use of cold air at night. Deep sleep causes sluggish circulation, and the system is susceptible to change of temperature.

Disastrous Wrecks.

Carelessness is responsible for many of our railway wrecks. It is making human wrecks of men from throat and lung troubles. Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Cures. It is the most reliable medicine for the cure of consumption, coughs and cures.

TUESDAY, NOV. 29, 1904.

Everywhere is a brief report of the meeting of the Joint Conference of the Presbytery and Synod of the South Carolina Conference, held at the residence of Mr. R. M. Cross presided and the meeting is said to have been most harmonious. "Let us unite and be built up" was the unanimous sentiment.

Mr. Spurgeon used the illustration below in an argument against their going. Apply it where you think it fits. Here it is: "I will give you an instance of how this works out. When I go to Monaco on the grounds of the gambling belt here are the houses of the city. They are a better safeguard while here than an armed garrison, and will leave a blessing when they depart. Moral forces will all be at high tide while they remain, without a corresponding low tide when they are gone. Three or four times welcome are our helpful guests."

Mr. Hand's Lecture.
The fourth lecture of the series arranged for the benefit of the normal classes at the South Carolina college was delivered in the chapel yesterday at noon. The lecturer was the Rev. Hand of the Chester Graduate school, selected as his subject "The Coming Teacher."
Mr. Hand prefaced his remarks by stating that the greatest thing in the world is the human soul, and that that soul needed training. Now the question is who should do the training. If those first statements be so, then the only answer to the latter is that to who should do the training is that it should be left to the hands of the strongest. The speaker continued his remarks by giving some of the essentials of the coming teacher, stating that among these are scholarship, that the teacher must be a student and a student of everything that interests him. By no means must he shut himself up in his den, because no man can understand men unless he associates with them. It makes no difference in what kind of a school he may teach, the same will be true. "If school means life, and if going to school is a preparation for life, how can a man prepare others for life when he does not see life as it is?" The teacher, further, must be a Christian and a Christian gentleman. He must be a man of boundless energy, for there should be no slackening as a lazy teacher, and he must have ability to do things. Refinement of character and purity of life should be his, and his life should be so lived as to be unimpaired by questionable deeds or words. He is the coming teacher who bears such ideals in mind.

Bill Nye's Cow.
"One of Bill Nye's old stories has been going the rounds of late," said a man who admired the late humorist, "and to be in my judgment one of the cleverest bits of wit circulated in our times. It is a story which reads like this: 'Owing to ill-health, I will sell at my residence, in township 19, range 18, according to the government survey, one special treasury cow, aged eleven years, and given up as unaccountable and gives milk poisonous.' 'Do a man who does not find faults in any former would be a true boss. She is a very much attached to her present home with a very chain, but she will be sold to anyone who will agree to treat her kindly. She is one-fourth shorthorn and three fourths Jersey. I will also throw in a double-barrel shotgun, which goes with her. In May she usually gives you for a week or two and returns with a tall red calf with wobbly legs. Her name is Bess. I would rather sell her to you than to any other man. On a knee knock at my house. ### The Remonnet Will Be Built.

A committee of five from Walker-Gaston camp, Messrs. Cross, (Siddwell), Hall, Knox and Culp, met the committee of five from Chester Chapter of the Rev. E. P. Fitch, Methodist church, Carthill and Gage, at the Camp Hill home on Saturday and reconsidered the monument question.

After an amicable discussion it was resolved to build the monument at once. The contract will be given out as soon as specifications etc. can be obtained.

The committee hope that every man, woman and child in Chester county, will give some amount, large or small, to the fund. Let us all work together and meet the monument on the 11th of April, 1905, the anniversary of the departure of the 81st Regiment for the war.

THE WATERS & SPRATT CO.

will have their big sale probably into December, as it is being so liberally patronized by the wide public, who appreciate the great values being offered them.

Delightful Hostess.

Miss J. M. H. Wood, always a delightful hostess, proved herself exceptionally so on Thanksgiving evening when she entertained in honor of her gifted, highly cultured and charming guest, Mrs. Duncan Clinch Rosborough, of Columbia. It was an informal neighborhood affair, but thoroughly enjoyable music added greatly to the pleasure of the evening. Only thirty-two refreshments were served, followed by fruits, the rare, sweet Tangareen oranges being especially enjoyed. These present were Mrs. Rosborough's own, Mrs. Will White, Mrs. John Hood, Mrs. Quinlan Hood, Mrs. D. C. Robertson, Miss May Ford and little Miss Adeline, who in a sweet voice sang several kateley comedies.

Mr. M. H. Wachtel is in St. Louis buying two car loads of mules and horses, which are expected to arrive the latter part of next week. Mr. E. A. C. will make it lively around their stables when the first stock of the season arrive.

Mrs. Maggie Lee Erwin, of Steel Creek, has been in the city several days, and is at the hospital for an operation. Her mother, Mrs. Lee Erwin, arrived Sabbath. While here she saw the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sledge.

Col. J. W. Reed is kept pretty busy in Chester, supplying the grocers with supplies for their customers, but he took two days off, and he and his wife worked the town along the C. & N. W. railway. He is at Thanksgiving dinner in Hickory, and he says it was a good one.

Miss Jessie Outer, Ada Carroll and Anna Darby spent from Saturday evening until yesterday evening at home from Windsor college. Miss Darby was accompanied by Mrs. Mary Williams, Ethel Skirgie and George Graham. Miss Annie Boddy Miller was with Miss Darby and Miss Helen Krite spent the time with Mrs. J. N. Strangely.

BLANKETS sold for $6.00 will be closed out at $4.00. Hatter Bros.

Ministers' Conference.

The Baptist ministers' conference has had night and was called to order by Rev. J. J. Bristow, secretary. Rev. E. O. S. Curtis, of Dillon, was unanimously elected moderator, and Mr. Bristow was re-elected secretary.

The preliminary services were conducted by Rev. John Bass Shelton, pastor of the Chester Church, Rev. L. C. Higgins, who was pastor of the church for 25 years, led in an earnest prayer.

The address of President E. Y. Mullins, of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, at Louisville, Ky., was one of his clearest lectures, and was a masterful effort in his line. The address of the Rev. E. P. Fitch, of Chattanooga, was an intensely earnest appeal for consecration and soul-saving, rejecting cold, stereotyped formalism and returning to apostolic zeal and methods. The former address was the learned lecture of the teacher with suggestion for a week's thought; the latter was the inspiring, moving appeal of the consecrated evangelist, without the semblance of "monkeying," as he terms the flippant, non-provoking antics of some evangelists.

Why So Easy?

Why is it that in one hour of ten tedious cases in this State it is made easy for the defendant to obtain bail? This is a subject which we think should receive the attention of earnest legislators; it should, of course, be considered by lawyers and judges who are to stipulate with the commercial demand for a more strict observance of law. It seems to us that unless the lawyer was "probably" in the right, the difficulty of his getting bail before trial should be great. If the probability is against him, he should be kept in jail. Men are granted bail, and ridiculous small sums, which are the evidence of their poverty. In North Carolina on Saturday bail for the man who killed another in an automobile was fixed at $2000. However, never per the defendant and however low in the social scale his victim, no man's property should be allowed bail in a practically nominal sum unless the justification of the defendant is so clear as to make the trial a mere formality. The State.

Men Who Staid Poor.

Boys listen to that good many stories about great men who began poor and ended rich. It is worth while to hear about some great men who began poor and died and end rich. Everybody's Magazine has been doing a great service to American history by reminding us of some such, past and present. There was Agassiz, who refused to lecture at five hundred dollars a night because he was too busy to make money. Charles Sumner declined to accept at $50,000 a year because, he said, as senator all his time belonged to Massachusetts. Spurgeon refused to come to America to deliver fifty lectures at one thousand dollars a night, saying he could do better; he could stay in London and try to save fifty souls. Emerson steadfastly refused to increase his income beyond two hundred dollars, because he wanted his time to think. Others were Webster, Clay, Lincoln, George William Curtis, Thackeray, Beecher, and Dr. Holmes—Orangeburg News.

WE THANK our good friends for the kindness shown us during the sickness of our son Willie. Jos. Morrow and family.

BIG CHRYSANTHEMUMS.

How to Raise Them—The Woman Who Succeeds with Them Must Be a Keeper at Home.

"So many inquiries have been made of the members of the West End News Club as to how they grow their fine chrysanthemums, that they desire to answer them all at once through the columns of the Journal."

From the middle of April to the first of May is the only time to set out chrysanthemums. We intend to plant about May 1st.

Give some reliable florist your list of assortment of early blooming varieties. He will sell them at 50 cents per dozen.

Prepare your beds well. To ordinary garden soil add a little rotted manure or peat moss.

After they are set, water frequently, and do not forget to loosen the soil about them.

When the plants are 18 inches high, thin them to roots. Later on give a separate supply to each of them.

Just before the Annetts begin to start your forcing. A spadeful of fresh horse manure turned under with a spading fork between each plant.

Chrysanthemums require attention almost daily. And the woman that spends the summer away from home.

The Judicial Powers.

We have no sympathy with what is apparently the latter day notion in South Carolina that a judge on the bench is a kind of wooden mace, without authority, without power, to give an expression and only permitted to be the medium through which legal judgments are transmitted to the jury—the unattentive jury.

The prompt action of Judge Ernest Carr in taking precautions for the protection of a negro in Greenwood is to be commended.

The protection of a prisoner before he is indicted or brought before a court may be considered as without the province of the Judiciary, but as courts are constituted for the exception of justice under the laws and the law is the supreme authority of the state, what greater moral obligation has an officer representing the people than to endeavor to maintain the supremacy of the law?

WHEN YOU CATCH COLD

Do not take chances on it wearing away or experiment with some unknown preparation which will only half cure it at best, and leave the bronchial tubes and lungs weakened and susceptible to attack from the germs of Consumption.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR not only stops the cough but heals and strengthens the lungs and prevents serious results from a cold.

W. R. Davis, Visalia, California, writes: "There is no doubt but what FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR cured my lung and the doctor told me I had consumption. I commenced taking FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR and found relief from the first and three bottles cured me completely."
