THE LANTERN,
PUBLISHED TUESDAY AND FRIDAYS.
A. T. PUGHMAN, Editor and Proprietor.
Printed at the Postoffice at Chester, Pa., at second-class matter.

TUESDAY, DEC. 4, 1906.

One of those rare and uncommon phenomena has just occurred in Chester, Pa. A public official, the clerk of the court, has resigned. The resignation was accepted by the court.

Mr. W. E. Bradley, of the Abbeville Press and Banner, was in town yesterday and we were much pleased to have him call on the Editor of the office. The failure of railroad schedules interfered very much with his plans.

The Seacoast Air Line now furnishes its accommodation to people living near the smaller stations in this section unless they pull themselves out and board the train at hours when citizens would be generally asleep. Only the night trains, 41 and 3 stop at those stations, according to our information.

Now that the people are becoming so much more interested in the accommodation, when special had been made to the railroad commission. It was long ago that the schedule was so changed that the accommodation was largely taken away, yet little complaint was made. Now that the people are becoming so much more interested in the accommodation, when special had been made to the railroad commission. New York papers are commenting upon the fact that when Mr. Hughes enters upon his term as governor, it will mark his first experience in public life. There is no doubt that he should be apprehensive of results in 32, far as this is concerned. Mr. Haywood, South Carolina governor, who is just rounding out his second year, having been elected in a political office whatsoever. And without going too far, his record now shows that he has not been a politician in the sense of necessity a staunch block in the way of a wise and efficient administration of the duties of government of the state.

In many cases, perhaps a majority, the value of experience is lost in the web woven about the official, by friends, politicians and those who repeat efforts in securing office. The one-time candidate incurs the minimum of obligations. Of course, the one-time candidate is not so much interested in the discharge of their duties as those who have a permanent connection with the making or active enforcement of laws.

Some people of the state are protesting against special terms of court to try criminal cases on the ground that a conviction in a special term of court would simply mean that the convict would be sent to the penitentiary. They say that the process of re-arranging the courts would be a waste of time and money, and that there would be fewer demands for special terms of court. They are not so very far from the truth in their assertions. The law is so arranged that the process of re-arranging the courts would be a waste of time and money, and that there would be fewer demands for special terms of court. They are not so very far from the truth in their assertions.

It seems to us that we can see quite plainly "the process of re-arranging the courts" would be a waste of time and money, and that there would be fewer demands for special terms of court. They are not so very far from the truth in their assertions.

There are three considerations, one coupled with a fourth, which are of great importance in the deliberation of persons to whom the law has been applied, and who are not to be considered as members of the mob.

By Dr. A. B. Cooke of Wofford College, Tuesday evening, Dec. 14th, Dr. A. B. Cooke, of Wofford college, will deliver an illustrated lecture on the life and times of Columbus. Last Both of Them.

John Inglis, the crop expert of Minneapolis, had been describing to a reporter some of his forecasting methods, says the New York Tribune.

"You see," he smiled, "nothing these forecasts don't seem so remarkable when you once know how to set about making them. The result, no doubt, is wonderful enough; yet the method of obtaining it is simple.

"Simple methods give always the best results. You know the story of the parlor maid and the two young men?"

"Well, a certain clever parlor maid hurried to her young mistress one evening and said breathlessly:

"Oh, Miss Fanny, both of them young genta you are engaged to has called and they're in the parlor together and somehow they've found out you've been false to each, and it looks to me as if there's going to be some terrible trouble."

"What sha-I do? What sha-I do?" Miss Fanny moaned as her powder puff dropped from her nervous fingers.

"I'll fix it," said the clever maid after a moment of deep thought. "I'll go and say you're trying your eyes out, because your pa has lost all his money. Then you can keep the one what stays."

"Good, good!" Miss Fanny cried.

"The maid withdrew. Some minutes passed. Then she returned with an awed face.

"Both genta is gone," she said.

R-C Gold and Amethyst.

W. J. ARTHUR, of High Point, N. C., is wearing a ring of purely North Carolina product. The setting is of a beautiful specimen of North Carolina amethyst, which he found and picked up on the Sauratown mountains. The gold is from a nugget picked up at 104 miles in Randolph county.—Exchange.

Come, now, Mr. Fox," one of them called up, "tell us when you are going to pay that bill. Just set a date, and we will leave you in peace."

"All right," was the reply. "How will the day of judgment suit you?"

"Not at all," said the creditor.

"We'll all be too busy on that day."

"Well," said Mr. Fox, rather than put you to any inconvenience, we'll make it the day after.

A number of North Carolinians will have been arrested on the charge of violating the alien contract law in importing immigrants, under contract. It is hoped that the matter will be settled out of court.

Commuter, but Faraway.

A. Gallagher, district passenger agent of the Missouri Pacific railroad, walks on ropes seven or eight feet in and was compelled to stop at Montgomery, Ala. He went to a hotel and sent for a physician.

The medical man said:

"You have a case of pneumonia and must have a cure."

"All right," said Gallagher. "Do you have a good cure you can send to look after me?"

The doctor said he did and would have the cure at the hotel within an hour. In about an hour a colored woman who measured about nine feet in girth put in an appearance, and Gallagher asked her if she had ever cured sick people.

"Yes, indeed," she replied. "I've had considerable experience with sick persons. I nursed Master John, and he died; then I nursed Mistress Lucy, and she died; then I nursed Mistress Lucy's sister. The doctor didn't think she was as very poorly, but she done died."

"Have you had any other experience in nursing?" asked Gallagher.

"Yes, indeed. Only last week I left Colonel Carter's house, where I nursed the colonel for five days."

"Well, did the colonel get well?" asked Gallagher.

"No. The colonel he died, too, but Dr. Jones, who 'banded him, run a big ladder into the chimney and caught him up. The doctor had seen out his the night before and was a little nervous. The ladder went of itself and he fell about on the colonel's heart out. Then the doctor and all he couldn't save him."

"To be a good nurse," said Gallagher, "you've engaged." On some thing.

"Yes," said Miss Fanny, looking up at Gallagher with a look of a least girl.

"You see," she said, "I'm engaged to a young man."

OPERA HOUSE.

Simple Simon.

The Birmingham Art-Herald of Nov. 25th, writes: "Simple Simon" was the greatest success of the Chester Opera House, Friday, Dec. 1st.

"From the funny page of Sunday supplements to the stage is not such a long way after all. Although Simple Simon had to please both old and young, it was a success in every respect. He did it. Around his head and mistletoe was the best of the best. The music was excellent, every note of it was perfect. The best of times in some of the songs were fine, particularly in the college song.

The company includes several good soloists, and the singing of Franklyn Burton was far above the standard. It was his singing and the bright costumes, and the good dancing, and the clever work of William C. Wells, a Simple Simon, and Jerry D. Sullivan, who were the stars of the show. The opera extravaganza is entertaining and so popular. Simple Simon has the best of it. He has never been in the same place that he has in the opera house. He has never been in the same place that he has in the opera house. He has never been in the same place that he has in the opera house.

Horses always point one ear forward when they sleep. Exactly why it is done no human being can tell, but the probability is that the practice is a relic of the time when they were wild and obliged to be on their guard even when asleep. Outside on the other hand, are absolutely indifferent as to the position of their ears when sleeping; but so subtle watch position they are in both are always posted.

KLUTZ'S CHESTER'S LARGEST STORE

Klutz' Toy Opening Dec. 11th

It will be the broadest and most elaborate display of Toys and Holiday Goods Chester has ever witnessed. It will be a gala day indeed. We will send up an air ship, a number of balloons, and Santa Claus will, in person, mingle amidst the little ones. It will be an enjoyable occasion for the children, so bring them along.

Klutz will offer a magnificent prize to the most popular school teacher in Chester County. The school children, under sixteen years, will decide it. Each child can vote once, and the vote must be cast in Klutz' Toy Department. The contest ends December 24, 1908.

Just received, an exquisite lot of Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Hats. We purchased them at a big reduction and have marked them accordingly.

Klutz' Ladies' Cloaks, Jackets and Raincoats are the talk of Chester. The assortment is the most extensive and the prices are certainly very moderate.

Klutz has marked about 200 suits extra low for the Holiday opening. Many men should greatly profit by this reduction.

Many of Klutz' friends will be pleased to learn our regular Fall Display of Drummer Samples have arrived. In it there are Ladies' Stockings, Underwear; Belts, Collars, Corsets, Sweaters, Gloves, etc.; Children's Gloves, Stockings, Hoods, etc. Men's Shirts, Socks, Suspenders, Neckwear, Gloves, and scores of other articles which we haven't the space to mention. You know drummer samples run a shade better than the goods which they represent. Being samples we buy them at reduced prices, and you know we sell them at bottom prices.
