In Character—and Out

Or Behind the Scenes at Dress Rehearsal of the Varsity Masque

Arthur Schlesinger

"In character!" yelled all the first year students as the curtain was let down to tell the story of the first year students’ lives. The play was produced by the Dramatic Club of the University of Oregon, and has become very popular among the students. The play is based on the experiences of the first year students, and is presented in a very realistic manner.

There are 17,000 while women in the United States who are employed in the textile industry, according to the latest available figures. The number of women employed in this industry has increased greatly during the past few years, as a result of the increased demand for clothing. The women who are employed in this industry are usually employed in factories, where they work long hours and earn low wages. The working conditions in these factories are often very poor, and the women are often subjected to abuse and discrimination. The women who are employed in this industry are usually paid less than men who are employed in similar occupations, and they are often denied the same opportunities for promotion and advancement.

The newly elected executives expressed their appreciation of the support given them by their predecessors in their work during the current academic year. The newly elected officers are: President, Edward W. Clapp; Vice-President, John A. Smith; Secretary, John H. Brown; Treasurer, William A. King.

Winthrop will be among the fair roseas almost here, and who knows? Maybe some of our fair stories of maps, notebooks, term papers, and the magic and substantial joy of the college room, or campus. And, wouldn't it be fair to rank the pot of gold for the Senior,? We have the very courage you'll need to keep the student. We have the very courage you'll need to keep the student.
