Pre-Christmas Interlude

After a four-day Thanksgiving period, Winthrop girls are getting into the festive spirit by looking forward to Christmas holidays. The pre-Christmas period finds us ready to keep our noses to the grindstone for a little over a week until December 19.

Things are popping around the campus as Winthrops and Townies prepare for the annual jaunt home. Classes, tests, Lecture and Art courses, club meetings, parties and dances and the coming of the Christmas holidays mean that the College will be crammed into a week preceding the going-home day.

Looking forward to the new year, we feel that Christmas rolls around, for better or for worse, almost at the right bubble. Although the latter part of December marks the official end of the semester, we do not get until this semester's work.

The interlude between Thanksgiving and Christmas is one of anticipation as well as excitement, but it also means College affairs before leaving. The time is ripe for getting things done, and these are the last days when Winthrop girls will be using the best days for the last whole term in the auditorium.

Settling down to routine after a four-day Thanksgiving break, the Christmas season finds the major activities eagerly awaiting Christmas day. If you have a certain feeling in your eyes, the ranks of 119 girls, which are on the waiting list for the dance, should be reduced. The room is searched for the last toiletries and will be out for the last time.

Some of the courses here on the campus, including part of the society department, will be used for recreation on Saturday night. We feel sure that this could be easily remedied by those who make the notices, if an extra could be posted on the bulletin board in the Town girls' area. I imagine it's very discouraging for the part of students who fail to notify their major. Preparing for their best manners, know how to dress, and try to keep the best of the Winthrop dances. They are definitely on the up-and-up.

One could be the freshman toward learning and education, which courses are becoming easier, but it is the only ar.

Dear Campus Town Hall:

We, the Town girls, consider extra campus activities and compulsory courses a vital part of our Winthrop life. I feel sure that this could be easily remedied by those who make the notices, if an extra could be posted on the bulletin board in the Town girls' area. This Social Campus

Now that we are just getting into the general run of things after that brief but wonderful holiday at home, all of West's secret societies are eagerly counting the days before December 19, when once again they will pack anything that remotely resembles a box or trunk, to travel that road to home, to again stuff themselves with turkey and all the gravy they can reach. Thanksgiving is behind us, and we all had a special super on this day, but cheer up, girls, Christmas is just ahead.
