MORAL: IF YOU TREASURE HUMANITY

Guest Editor by Mary Ellen Jackson, President of the Winmark.

As the 1947-1948 school year comes to an end, it is reassuring to know that the Student Government association stands to look after the College and its students. We want you to work, and play with feelings of joy and gratitude for the work of those who have come before us. We experience feelings of joy when we witness the continued growth and expectation that we have set for ourselves and for the College.

Revise A Dead Tradition

Although they are called "Senior Steps" by all the residents of the campus, the front steps of the Administration building have been a tradition of the Winthrop College. As it turns out that these steps are in capable hands next semester. The Winthrop College will continue to keep the steps and the traditions which have made them a part of the college life.

SPORTS

The Models Have It

The Coronet film called "Softball" is a technical masterpiece. Proper techniques as played by Winthrop girls was completed last week, and Miss Yuca Mitchell, head of the physical club.

The film will be released next week and will be rented by colleges and high schools throughout the United States. Two cameras were used in making the movie, and each technique was photographed twice to insure good shots. The film has yet to be developed, and a narration made before a release.

The scenes were designed as the classic American girl. The team was composed of the four students selected as the girls who most nearly meet the classic proportions. The picture this week is a comparison of measurements taken in the health classes.

Winthrop's Queens Still In The Clouds From Gala Week

"We are all a lil bit crownin' to life" exclaimed Jean Crouch, senior from Elko, who was crowned "Miss South Carolina" in the 1957 Charleston Athletic Festival. "The people were lovely in their own right," they really tried to live life in".

In selecting one of the high points of the evening, "Miss South Carolina" began with the opening parade down King Street on Tuesday in which the 25 queens were locked on their own until they appeared. Jean wore a drop-shouldered white dress with long sleeves pointed at the wrist, and a bustle in the back. The necklace was embroidered with emerald green earrings catching her gaze, while a pair of seed pearl earrings. Her hair was done in a soft red curls that顺着 the waist, and her original treatment of infantile paralysis, desired personal happiness. Alexander Knox is a dour general. Miss Sadie Goggins was "Miss Sallie Pierce." Miss Sara Cr. "Callie, and Miss Nolle Flinn is the adviser."
