German Dance in Johnson Hall

Every Saturday at 9:00 P.M.

The German Club is to be thanked for having presented an attractive program of dance in the college gymnasium last Saturday evening. The attendance was unusually large.

The program opened with a German dance in which were included numbers by the roving band. The orchestra played with spirit, and the dance, accordingly, proved enjoyable.

The chorus was the next feature of the evening. The students sang several songs by heart, with pronounced success. Among the numbers were 'A Rake's Progress,' 'In the Garden of the Hesperides,' and 'Poor Robber Tramp.'

Following this was a program of songs and recitations. Among the songs were 'The Lark,' 'The Nightingale,' and 'The Nightingale's Song.' The recitations were delivered in excellent German.

The last feature of the evening was a German dance. The students again showed their enthusiasm for German culture by dancing a number of social dances.

The program was a success, and the German Club is to be congratulated for its efforts to promote the study of German.

THE JOHNSONIAN

Rambling With the Featurists

This week's feature is a visit to the Johnson Medical School. The medical students were most cooperative and agreeable, and we were able to obtain many interesting facts about their work.

The medical students are divided into two classes, with separate instructors for each class. The first class meets in the morning, and the second in the afternoon. The classes are large, and the students are divided into groups of five or six.

The curriculum is divided into four years. The first year is devoted to the study of anatomy, physiology, and general medicine. The second year is devoted to the study of pathology, pharmacology, and therapeutics. The third year is devoted to the study of surgery, and the fourth year is devoted to the study of pediatrics.

The students are required to take a variety of examinations during the four years of their course. These examinations are designed to test their knowledge of the subject matter, and to ensure that they have a thorough understanding of the material.

The medical students are also required to complete a number of clinical rotations during their four years of study. These rotations are designed to provide them with practical experience in the field of medicine, and to prepare them for a career in medicine.

The medical students are also required to complete a number of research projects during their four years of study. These projects are designed to provide them with an opportunity to develop their research skills, and to contribute to the field of medicine.

The medical school is located in a beautiful setting, and the students are able to enjoy the natural beauty of the area during their free time.

The medical students are also able to participate in a variety of extracurricular activities, such as sports, clubs, and social events. These activities are designed to provide them with an opportunity to socialize, to relax, and to have fun.

In conclusion, the medical students at the Johnson Medical School are well-prepared for a career in medicine, and are well-equipped to make a valuable contribution to the field of medicine.

Keep up With the World

John Bennett Moore, one of the leaders of the recent campaign against the United States in international law, has been appointed by the State Department to represent the United States at the International Court of Arbitration in the Hague. The Moore case has been one of the principal causes of the present international situation, and it is hoped that the appointment of Mr. Moore will help to bring about a peaceful settlement of the dispute.
