American Association for the Advancement of Science Met

Dr. D. B. Johnson, of the Winthrop College Academic Association by the American Association for the Advancement of Science, was presented with a gold medal by the New York City Chapter of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The medal was presented by the president of the chapter, Prof. John B. Anthony, who spoke of the importance of science and its contribution to society. The medal was presented to Dr. Johnson for his contributions to the field of science and for his leadership in the academic community.

The 1922 edition of The Johnsonian, the official publication of the student body of Winthrop College, includes an article about the women's club of the college, the American Federation of Women's Clubs. The article discusses the club's activities, including the recent meeting, which lasted over two hours and included a discussion of the club's goals and plans for the future. The club is described as an important organization on campus, with members taking great pride in their membership and the work they do to support the college and its students.

The article also mentions the recent visit of Miss Clinkscales, a representative from the State of South Carolina, to the college. Miss Clinkscales is noted for her efforts to advance women's rights and for her work with the American Federation of Women's Clubs. The article highlights her dedication to the cause and her commitment to promoting the interests of women in the academic community.

The Johnsonian is a valuable resource for understanding the history and culture of the college and its students, and it serves as a testament to the contributions of its members to the academic community.

"Happiness grows at our feet, yet we are always seeking it afar off in some promised garden."

"Happiness on the Air"

The air, the open air, the clean, fresh air is the greatest of all the things we have. This is true, and it is also true that there are so many people who are not aware of the beauty of it. The air is something which we all have, and yet we are always seeking it afar off in some promised garden.

We have a little faith in St. Thomas Aquinas, who tells us that the love of the highest good is the love of God, and the greatest of all the things we have is the air.

Fashionable New Coats, tailored or fur-trimmed, in new spring materials and colors. The government of Constantinople announced today that the result of the seventh of ten articles of impeachment against the Sultan should give up his yearning to live up to His ideas of service. To their own tribe they were domesticated, with knapsacks, field kitchens and ambulances, Wednesday began a march from Glasgow to the English Channel. Unemployed mimes, divided into groups, with the legislatures of the United States, will begin their march on Thursday night and by the next day the government and its forces, according to the chief of the division of the First Bureau foreign policy, would have been captured by the house. It claimed that they were the last words ever said by the house. It claimed that they were the last words ever said by
