Spring 4-27-2007

Cato Corporation to Donate Gift for Education Scholarships

Winthrop University

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/winthropnews2007

Recommended Citation

https://digitalcommons.winthrop.edu/winthropnews2007/7

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Winthrop News and Events Archive at Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. It has been accepted for inclusion in Winthrop News 2007 by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Winthrop University. For more information, please contact barmed@winthrop.edu.
Cato Corporation to Donate Gift for Education Scholarships

ROCK HILL, S.C. - The Cato Corporation has pledged $250,000 to Winthrop University to provide scholarships for students majoring in early childhood education, particularly those showing financial need.

Officials said the Charlotte, N.C.-based company is proud to provide a gift to Winthrop’s students as future teachers. A teacher’s influence is often critical to students’ motivation and achievement, said John P. Derham Cato, chairman, president and chief executive officer of Cato Corporation.

“Many students can still recall the teachers who made a significant difference in their lives years after school,” said Cato.

His family has had a lengthy association with Winthrop as alumni and as donors because of their belief in the power of education.

“The Cato family has long supported education and believe it is one of the most significant opportunities to contribute to the long-term welfare of our communities,” Cato said. “The education of our youth is the future of our communities’ quality of life. The Cato Corporation is proud to continue this philosophy.”

University administrators are pleased to offer more scholarships for education majors.

“Winthrop has a long and rich history of preparing early childhood teachers,” said Patricia Graham, dean of the Richard W. Riley College of Education. “I am delighted with the generosity of the Cato Foundation and their commitment to supporting future teachers in their education at Winthrop.”