South Carolina Scholastic Press Ass'n
October 24, 1946

(Oct 24, 1946)

The South Carolina Scholastic Press association, now in its 11th year, has already added nearly 50 schools to its membership lists this year, according to Bill Cassells of Columbia high school, president.

By convention time in April last year, some 70 schools were members of this organization of school papers in the state.

Two workshops for staffs have just been completed as part of the activities of the association for this year, at Greenville and and at West Columbia. The convention this year will be at Columbia, according to Reid H. Montgomery of Winthrop college, director.

Papers in the organization will compete for eight trophies awarded the ones judged best in that many divisions.
