THE NEWS

CHESTER, C., TUESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1923.

VOL. NO. 8

NO. 192

Adjoining County News

Mr. J. L. Houston, probate judge, who has been confined to his home for the past several days by influenza, is improving and expects to be in his office again in a few days.

W. S. Wilkerson who has been confined to his home near Hickory Grove for the past several weeks with a bad cold, accompanied by a troublesome cough, is getting better and hopes to be able to get out again in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Matthews of Rock Hill have announced the engagement and the approaching marriage of their daughter Miss Annie Brooks to Mr. Alvin Brock Harper of Knoxville, Tenn. The marriage is to take place in the early spring. The bride-to-be is now a junior at Winthrop college.

The home of O. J. Gravin located in the southeastern corner of Bullock's Creek township was destroyed by fire Tuesday afternoon at about 7 o'clock. The fire broke out in the kitchen, and when it was discovered was already beyond control. A high wind helped the work of speedy destruction and all the contents of the building were lost. This home was one of the oldest landmarks of the county around having stood for seventy years. The combination gas engine and electrically driven pump for pumping the water into the chimney, the motor and gasoline engine for driving the pumps are of 190 horsepower each and the drive can be changed from one to the other in a few seconds.

Judge Henry is a good lawyer. In addition to his long and intimate experience on the criminal side of the courts, he has acquired a reputation to the civil side, and for more than thirty years has been the trusted adviser of a large clientele. His distinguished career has gained him the respect that he is not well up in civil law is a mistake. But the matter of the late Henry as a lawyer lies in his integrity of character. He is human of course, and can be deceived, but mistakes because of his honesty. No man has ever doubted his honesty. His care on the civil side of the courts has made up his mind as to what is right; there is no power under heaven that can intimidate him. He has made up his mind as to what is right; there is no power under heaven that can intimidate him. He has made up his mind as to what is right; there is no power under heaven that can intimidate him.

SPARTANBURG MAN THWARTS LYNCHING

Rushes Negro to Jail in Automobile
—Residents of North Carolina Thwarted Lynching in Put Assailant to Death.

Spartanburg, Jan. 28.—Elmer C. Wall, citizen of Chester, S. C., a town near the North Carolina line, 20 miles north of Spartanburg, arrested a white man who was being lynched in this section this afternoon by a mob of about 100 men. Wall, a white man, was driving a car from an armed party and landing his car in the Spartanburg county jail, subject to the care of the authorities of Spartanburg county, North Carolina. The negro, long a citizen of this section, seriously cut Robert Hall, a white man of the neighborhood, in a fight Friday. Hall's condition became critical yesterday and feeling ran high against the negro, who had not been arrested by the North Carolina authorities, in which state the fight occurred, resulting in a gathering of more than a hundred men who took Robert Hall in their hands and were threatening to shoot him. Wall arrived on the scene. Wall succeeded in placing the negro in his car and before he could be lynched he was on his way with him to Spartanburg. He was followed, but at Chester the crowd was turned back. Physicians attending Mr. Hall said he had little chance to recover, since his wounds were serious and were complicated by pneumonia. He has a wife and ten children.

Of Interest To Farmers

Several methods
"We can not hope to control the weevil on a large acreage per se," says Mr. Long, who reports that the only safe farming now lies in enriching the land, making the farm self-supporting by growing food and feed crops, raising livestock enough at least for home and farm supply, and limiting the cotton acreage so that proper attention may be given it in the matter of sufficient preparation and fertilization of the land, early planting of varieties best adapted to soil weevil conditions, rapid cultivation, and other weevil control measures.

Good seed is too important in connection with growing cotton well, says Mr. Long.

The greatest fact that presents itself to the Department of Agriculture in the poisoning of cotton for weevil control is that the cotton farmer will get too much dependence upon calcium arsenate and neglect the more important work of good soil preparation and the early destruction of corn stalks following the early plucking out of his crop. However, much of value poisoning may prove to be the average cotton grower, it can not produce more cotton than the land with good farming will make. Any neglect of these most necessary means of producing a maximum crop reduces the chances of success in poisoning and the profits to be derived from it are small. Cotton arsenate does not make cotton. It can only save a crop otherwise produced, from damage or destruction by the boll weevil.

"Almost all of our soils are deficient in organic matter and will produce maximum yields, economically only after this much needed organic matter has been added," according to the Thirty-Fifth Annual Report of the South Carolina Experiment Station, now ready for distribution.

"Legumes have been found to be the best source of organic matter because they add nitrogen to the soil. Our experiments show that the velvet bean is our most important cotton crop cover crop. It is a legume and adds nitrogen to the soil. It is also a good source of organic matter and will produce maximum yields, economically only after this much needed organic matter has been added," according to the Thirty-Fifth Annual Report of the South Carolina Experiment Station, now ready for distribution.

HEALTH A BIG ASSET

By Bruce Belden, M. D.
You start life with a certain amount of original capital as regards the constitution. This capital you must safeguard throughout life by maintaining or acquiring a large reserve of vigor.

Taking proper care of yourself means exercising, getting a generous supply of fresh air, not eating between meals, and not abusing such things as nicotine, coffee, tea, alcohol, etc.

People who contract such diseases as tuberculosis are simply those who for one or another reason have depleted their reserve energy, and their health is ruined. It is their original capital persistently.

We can stand that sort of thing once in a while, perhaps under enforced conditions, but we cannot continue it without paying some dire penalty.

Having a good reserve of vitality is like having an assured income to live on. But when one spends this income too rapidly and draws upon his principal he is sure to find himself in poverty stricken if he keeps the pace up and takes no steps to replace his depleted capital. In the same way, you can spend your reserve vitality and then draw steadily upon your original capital.

It is taken for granted that you will eat good food and seek the right sort of recreation. The other measures recommended supplement these. We may regard sleep as a form of recreation.

When you think you need stimulants and tonics you are in need of rest. You may get enough sleep, but your fatigue may be due to incessant activity while awake. Lying down for awhile will rest your faculties and nervous apparatus greatly. At any rate take a rest now and then during the day.

It is a man's duty, and worry means dangerous friction.

CALLED TO DOOR AND SHOT IN HIS TRACKS

Married Man Mysteriously Murdered by Unknown Persons Who Leave no Trace.

Durham, N. C., Jan. 28.—Closely following the tragedy occurring at Knapp's Reeds, in Granville county, this Saturday afternoon, in which J. B. Hursy, of Durham, shot and killed his sweetheart, Miss Blanche Bullock, young Granville county school teacher, Charlie Thompson of Granville county man, living at Creedmore, was called from his home Saturday night about 9 o'clock and shot to death by a party or persons, the identity of whom is not yet ascertained by Granville authorities.

When found the body was lying in the front yard of the home. Thompson was a married man, and is survived by his widow and three children. They were away from home when the shooting occurred.

The fact that there apparently were no eye witnesses to the murder makes the affair one of mystery. No clue has yet been found by a search, but strenuous efforts are being made to trace the murderer. The position of the body and how Thompson was dressed gave rise to the opinion that he was summoned from the house and shot just as he left the porch.

WHAT GERMANY MIGHT DO IN DESPERATION?

May Join Hands With Russia in Attempt to Evict France.

By Edwin J. Clapp.
New York—The Ruhr, Belgium, Dortmund and Essen are far-away names and places, as are the Sarre, Silesia and Lorraine. The best way to visualize the situation and possibilities of French occupation of the Ruhr is to translate the present German position in terms of the U. S. and to consider a foreign country proceeding with us as France is proceeding with Germany.

The Versailles treaty took Lorraine and Silesia from Germany. That is as if we were deprived of our Lake Superior ore deposits. The treaty likewise gave the Sarre coal basin to France for 15 years. That is like the loss of our West Virginia coal fields.

An Allied commission awarded to Poland a large part of the coal deposits of Silesia, to which would correspond our loss of half the producing capacity of our mid-Western States.

Germany still had the Ruhr districts and the basin of Flanders, Belgium and Westphalia, roughly corresponding to the coal and steel districts of the states of Pennsylvania and Ohio. Germany had the shrink her coal output and her coal consumption down to the reduced Ruhr consumption, the whole little English coal she could afford to buy. She had to supplement a deficit of Lorraine iron ore by importation from Sweden.

Now France, ostensibly because she is dissatisfied with the German deficit of 10 per cent in coal delivery under the reparations schedule, occupies the Ruhr. It is as if our invalid mines and began diverting the major part of their output to Canada.

The flight of the Rhineland-Westphalia and the syndicate in Hamburg would correspond to the removal of Ohio coal operators, along with their staffs and relations from the American and German climate belt.

Imagine that, in addition, the strike and coal miners in the occupied district yesterday declared a general strike and that their operations were largely suspended by the employees of the Pennsylvania, the Baltimore and Ohio and the Baltimore and Pennsylvania and Ohio. The situation in which we would then be corresponds to the situation in which we would be.

Now coal is more than King; it is the universal employer. It must be substituted for steam or electricity, if factory wheels are to turn. Buildings and houses in the American and German climate belt are largely supplied by the employees of the Pennsylvania, the Baltimore and Ohio and the Baltimore and Pennsylvania and Ohio. The situation in which we would then be corresponds to the situation in which we would be.

BACKWARD

Backward, turn backward,
For this and for that;
Don't put a bow
On the back of my hat.

Backward, turn backward,
For those and for these;
But don't put a stiff bosom
On the back of my vest.

Backward, turn backward,
As fashions advance;
But leave off suspenders
For I've got up my pants.

Backward, turn backward,
Tho' it pains and it hurts,
And I'm not a doctor,
Of eye-tearing shifts.

Of Interest To Farmers

It is a customary practice among many farmers to wait until late spring before purchasing cotton seed for planting purposes. This year, however, further south are purchasing large quantities of the best seed in the market. This means that the farmers of South Carolina will have to plant their crop from inferior seed because of the fact that our best cotton seed producers are selling their seed to farmers of other states.

Good seed is too important in connection with growing cotton well, says Mr. Long.

The greatest fact that presents itself to the Department of Agriculture in the poisoning of cotton for weevil control is that the cotton farmer will get too much dependence upon calcium arsenate and neglect the more important work of good soil preparation and the early destruction of corn stalks following the early plucking out of his crop. However, much of value poisoning may prove to be the average cotton grower, it can not produce more cotton than the land with good farming will make. Fraternity Initiation Too Exciting
Death Follows State After Ceremony at State University.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Jan. 28.—Glenn Kerah, aged 16, son of M. G. Kerah, city clerk of Tuscaloosa, died today from psychic effects of excitement following an initiation at the Sigma Nu fraternity house upon the campus of the University of Alabama here, according to a verdict of a coroner's jury today.

The young man, who with 16 others was initiated into the fraternity, and a few minutes after the ceremony ended he suddenly died, according to the authorities.

A number of witnesses were called before the coroner's jury, several of whom had taken the oath of initiation previous to Kerah and their evidence showed that there was nothing done that could have caused death of such bodily injuries.

The medical examination made of Kerah's body showed no signs of violence, the physicians testified. The doctors stated that death was probably due to a weak heart and to psychic effects from the excitement of the ceremony.

Dr. George Denny, president of the University, issued a statement in which he expressed profound regret over the death of the young man and stated that the initiation was carried on in the usual manner as in all colleges here. He said an investigation showed that there was no physical injury inflicted nor any physical, electrical or otherwise, use in the ceremony.

The young man, who with 16 others was initiated into the fraternity, and a few minutes after the ceremony ended he suddenly died, according to the authorities.

A number of witnesses were called before the coroner's jury, several of whom had taken the oath of initiation previous to Kerah and their evidence showed that there was nothing done that could have caused death of such bodily injuries.

The medical examination made of Kerah's body showed no signs of violence, the physicians testified. The doctors stated that death was probably due to a weak heart and to psychic effects from the excitement of the ceremony.

Dr. George Denny, president of the University, issued a statement in which he expressed profound regret over the death of the young man and stated that the initiation was carried on in the usual manner as in all colleges here. He said an investigation showed that there was no physical injury inflicted nor any physical, electrical or otherwise, use in the ceremony.

"When does Easter come this year?" questioned one on the street this morning. The old reliable salesman, and old almanac, said some large calendars, "give the first Sunday in April, the first day of the month, as Easter Sunday." The council of Nice, in 325 fixed the date of Easter Sunday to be always the first Sunday after the full moon which happens upon or next after the 21st of March, and if the full moon happens on Sunday, Easter day is the Sunday after. As the first moon this year after the 21st of March happens on Sunday, April 1st, then it would seem that Easter Sunday will be April 21st. Who can furnish the information as to the correct date?
