NEGROES ADMITS CRIME OF ARSON

Other Negroes Involved in Confession. Daughters of John M. McDowell Burned to Death in DeKalb County.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 21.—Dimple McDaniel, a young negro girl, made a complete confession, according to the Atlanta police, to setting fire to the home of John M. McDowell...

The negro was arrested last night by police officers who officials said that the blaze was the work of a firebug.

Now the question is, What did become of the pile of rubber bands you had? Just that one item.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 23.

The News has been having something to say for the past few weeks about an increase in the cotton acreage this year. The idea is to make our readers realize that it will not be wise to plant a large acreage in cotton this year, letting other crops, with the exception of the cotton, be raised.

It is a fact that the cotton plant has been prepared for cotton planting than in any previous year," says the editor. "and breaking of the soil will continue for several weeks in the lower Rio Grande Valley where the winter has been of unusual mildness. Cotton is already being planted, the earliest ever known. There is a big chance that the young plants may get frost bitten."

For several months the newspapers have been filled with statements that certain industries are having a hard time to get sufficient labor to take care of their increasing business. These statements are mere propaganda. There are thousands of men in the United States today who are hunting jobs. Walk the streets of any town or city and you will find men loafing. It may be that some of them are not hunting work, but there are many who desire some means of making a livelihood. This labor shortage talk is for the purpose of getting Congress to open the immigration gates and admit a bunch of foreigners into this country, who are satisfied to work for a mere pittance and whose standard of living is only one step higher than a cur dog. There are men in big business who will stop their very large to add another dollar to their pockets. They want this cheap foreign labor brought in so that they might add more to their ill-gotten gains.

There is a plea in America for the respectable foreigner but none of the foreigners could never be allowed to enter this country, and millions that are here ought to be led up a gang plank and sent back to their own countries.

VALENTINE PARTY GIVEN BY YOUNG WOMAN'S CLUB

One of the most enjoyable parties given by the Young Women's Club of Chester was the Valentine party given at the armory on the evening of February 15th, at seven-thirty o'clock. Every member was invited to bring a friend who was not a member.

The meeting was called to order by Miss Mary Steiner. Following this, Miss Lucile Gough, pianist, Miss Lucy Corbitt and Miss Mary Steiner sang "And The Phone Rings." The first prize was won by Miss Steiner and that it was to be Miss Whigham's Riley might and Miss Steiner's meeting over the phone.

Mr. Braham then gave a brief sketch of his life, following this, a special reading of his child poems. Next came the pantomime, "An Old Sweetheart of Mine," Mrs. Brant reading from the song and Mrs. Mary Stokes playing soft music for harmonium with the pantomime.

The case of characters in the pantomime was as follows: The man—Miss Cora Harding; The woman—Miss Katharine Duggan.

The other boys: Miss Helen Smith, Ella Mae Kirkpatrick, Grace Lynn.

The other girls: Miss Mary Canale, Clara Hillman, Margaret Lee, Mary Williamson and Lena Willford.

The Bride—Miss Jennie McKim. The wife and mother—Miss Mary Shlegel.

After the pantomime the quartet sang "Poor Little Lamb." Following this, the grand march was given which every one took part in. Contests were given out, the prize, a sachet valentine was awarded to five girls, Misses Madge La. 9 Ball, Lola Lomax, Marie Causley, Margaret Coleman and Mary Lindsay. Miss Mary Will received the most prizes.

Refreshments, consisting of delicious pink and white cake cream and pinkheart shaped cakes were then served by the refreshment committee. Seventy-five enjoyed the pleasant evening.

EXCURSIONS IN THOUGHT.

You Never Can Tell What A Day Will Bring Forth. R. N. Allen.

Chance and destiny play their part in human affairs in spite of the arguments of the un-intellectual reasoner. To the contrary, let the following instance be taken in consideration. A Western farmer, years ago, was in the very grips of his shooting. Wishing to butcher a steer, he tied the animal on the slaughtering floor from a distance of about ten yards. As he fired the steer tossed its head, the heavy bullet dashed up, broke part of it his curving horn, and, beam overhead, returned down and to the rear, tore off the back of the farmer's skull, and he fell dead. The steer was hardly stunned.

Just as strange things are happening daily all over the world. A case somewhat similar to the above comes to my mind but it is not quite so remarkable. Some men were shooting. One of them took a notion that he would take a job shot at the clapper of a farm bell which was mounted upon a tall pole near-by. Raising his rifle he took careful aim and fired. The bullet missed the clapper but struck inside of the bell which was of course very curious. The accidental surface furnished an excellent means of reflecting the bullet which returned upon his forehead and struck the shooter in the head and seriously wounded him. (I do not recall that he was killed in this strange manner but my impression is that he was.)

How small a part the human will plays in the course of human life! A matter which astounds those who think clearly about it. It is not a matter of materialistic pessimism or of optimistic optimism whether we realize the human will to a minor playing in matters of human fate. We have very few cases in which there is some great hand of destiny which points out to us the path which we shall travel. Those who claim that there is no such thing as a free will. Devout believers argue that man has a responsible part in the making of his own destiny. They say that choice is in his hand. He has the power to choose. The real truth lies between the two extremes.

What choice is in his hand? Who innocently picked up a stick upon a school ground and accidentally struck upon her foot? She picked up the stick in response to an eager childish wish to emulate her best friend or may be she picked it up to move it from the path lest another stumble. But she foresaw not the consequences of such trivial act. The shot fell upon her foot and blood poison developed. Within a few days she was dead after most horrible suffering.

What choice has a certain woman when I know that when a knife slipped in her hand that she was going to suffer the agony of blood poison and that her life would almost be despaired of because of that simple act?

Darwin claimed that all of evolution has occurred thru the operation of the "survival of the fittest"—and many other factors which I need not name. The fit, however, do not always survive. Chance, luck, fate, destiny, providence—the whole host of unknown factors which lie in wait for human life—enter into the destruction of the sweetest, noblest, best and strongest of human lives. War was defended by the Germans on the ground that only the fittest nation should survive—also something about the fitness of nations. However, war causes the death of the flowering youth of the nations and leaves the more unfit to propagate themselves. War seems to be the "witches' dance" of humanity in which with a terrible madness people fumigate themselves upon the altar of lust. Some of our reasoners believe can help but wonder what others are about anyway. The only charitable decision I reach about the matter is to conclude that the human race has little to do with its own destiny.

Name, wealth, fortune, applause, beauty, love, friendship, happiness—yet all of the things that make life worth while are subject to the freaks of grim fate. Our great compensation for the fact that we are alive is that after all we know what a day bring forth. Hope and faith arise in our hearts and makes this moment life bearable. From the uncertainty of life arises its charm, its romance, and its great beneficent rewards for honest moral endeavor.

Do You Think of These Unwritten Items on Your Electric Light Bill?
Beauty and atmosphere from lighted lamps are a potent influence in drawing the family together, and even the young people pay tribute to it. Daughter Alice Frankland said the other day that one reason why the meetings of her young friends took place so often at her home was that "they thought the lamps were so pretty." Well—if that's all one needs to keep the children at home, the cost is all out of proportion. Certainly the home was transformed with electric light as surely as though a painter's hand had touched each new living room furniture this spring, it would be more economical and just as satisfying to buy two or three new lamps instead.

Ladies, Call and see the new ready-to-wear at Wylie's.

Misses Edna and Sarah Carroll delightfully entertained their friends at home Thursday, both morning and afternoon. The guests were greeted at the door by the hostesses and invited to the Living Room. There were places provided by drawing dainty Tally Cards, a miniature George Washington. The menu was artistically decorated in cut flowers appropriate for the George Washington season. Right tables were prepared for heart dice. After a number of progressions Hearts were put aside for the delightful refreshment consisting of chicken salad and Cranberry Ice. The hostesses were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. J. H. Glenn and Miss Orey Corbill. The guests at the Morning Party included married friends of the hostesses and several others who were invited. Afternoon were teachers of the Chester Public Schools and business women.

Good Bread is the main thing on the table. Poor bread and the balance of the meal is poor. Use Capitol plain flour, or Miss Dixie Self-Rising, and you will reach perfection in the bread line. Sold exclusively by Cash Down Grocery Co.

Heavy Loss By Fire.

A heavy loss by fire was that of Mr. Adam S. Presley—Wednesday morning, when his home and all its outbuildings, with the exception of a crib, were destroyed.

The fire had gained considerably when Mr. Presley's home is located a block six miles from Chester on the Wilksburg road, and was a handsome two-story house, being one of the best homes in that section of the county.

Mr. Presley was in York county at the time of the fire and his nephew, Mr. Lucius Presley, went for him. While returning home Mr. A. S. Presley, who was driving his car, lost control of same and it turned over spinning both the Messrs. Presley under it. When he arrived the car was still in gear and the wheels were in mid-air turning at high rate of speed. The car was taken to the two gentlemen by a local negro. Mr. Lucius Presley received a gash on his cheek and bruised his leg, but not seriously. It is stated that Mr. A. S. Presley was not injured.

Mr. Presley's loss by fire will probably amount to between twelve and fifteen thousand dollars with only $2,500 insurance.

Meeting of The Know-More Club.

The Know-More Club had another delightful meeting on last Tuesday evening when they were entertained by Misses Edna and Sarah Carroll at the home of Miss Cassells on Lancaster Street. The subject for study at this meeting was "Women in Literature" and the following program was greatly enjoyed.

Sketch of the life of Mary H. Johnston by Miss Zelma Douglas.

Synopsis of her book "To Have and to Hold" by Miss Orey Corbill.

Sketch of the life of Mary Robert Rhinehart, by Miss May Grace Douglas.

Review of "The Amazing Introduce" by Miss Mary Johnston.

As the close of the program the hostesses served a tempting salad course with hot tea, and the favors were little red axes, suggestive of the George Washington season.

SOMETHING DOING TONIGHT.

Mr. Pim Passes By and it is Hoped That He Will Continue to Pass By—All the Local Shriners are Gearing in High Gear and Will Wear their Feet—Tickets Going Fast.

It begins to look as if a full house will witness "Mr. Pim Passes By," the local talent play to be given at the Chester Opera House tonight, under the auspices of the local Shrine Club. The cast is an exceptionally good one and, as is well known, the play is most excellent.

The local Shriners are going in strong for this play and they say they are putting on all the frills—when means that a grand old glorious evening awaits those who sit down.

Reserved seats are on sale at The Chester Drug Company and are going fast. Polo Davidson and Shriners Jim Key and Abraham Hellman have been a busy lot in a hat bucket all day getting things in readiness. When asked about the heat at the house tonight they say that they are installing a speedometer and will keep it hanging right around 70 both up hill and down hill.

Shriners Chairman, Rakestraw, who plays a leading role (or-roll) was up all last night practicing his part on top of the Pryor Hospital. The patients bitterly complained of the "roll" however, but to no avail.

Leslie Myers, who plays a stella role, whatever that is, also spent a restless night. From a reliable source it is learned that he has an accumulation of postmaster's mail which has been hanging fire every since he got mixed up with this play.

It is stated that he has advised the postmaster general and the president to defer action of the appointment of a Chester postmaster until he gets over tonight's night.

Boyc Bankhead, who plays the part of Caraway Pim, is somewhat afflicted at The Glenn-Abell Motor Company, because they have refused to let him demonstrate the Lincoln Sedan lately. When it comes to safety Dr. Robt. Abell and Attorney Pleign, proprietors of the above mentioned motor company, believe in it when it comes to the above, hence their refusal to let Boyce drive the Lincoln. They feel that with Mr. Pim Passes By on the mind of Boyce he would drive that Lincoln into a tree. In fact Boyce got his Sunday school lesson and Mr. Pim mixed lolly and the report is that he fainted, pulling the pulpit over on several occasions.

Miss Annie McCoy, who plays the part of Anne, would have been fired long ago if it were not for the Chester Machine and Lumber Company, realized that she would lose all of her Shriners business hence she continues to hold her position, notwithstanding the fact that she has mixed her part of the play with several important letters of the script for Mr. Caraway during the past few weeks.

On Monday, February 26th, we will wash automobile bearing Number C-81 absolutely free of charge. The party owning automobile bearing this number has only to bring it to our place of business and we will clean it for good all-over with-out-charge. Watch our ad every week for this offer. You may be next.

Others taking important part in the play are Mesdames W. R. Wallace, Fitz Hardin and J. R. Carson. The reader will notice that all of the latter mentioned are Mesdames so the New positively refuses to make any comments as to them. All three have living husbands and the writer does not care to be forced to out-ran either of the three, including Fitz Hardin.

Those who attend the play tonight are requested to wear loose clothes—if you wear tight ones you are going to feel something.

Get your tickets while they are hot—if you wait a few more days the program, which will be held on tonight at the Opera House, were printed by The News but we want it distinctly understood that we are not responsible for the jokes appearing therein. Some of them are so good, in fact it was shocking to have to print them and we regret exceedingly that they were not cancelled. However, these things will happen once and a while and will have to make the best of it this time.

AMERICA'S ABBEY TO BE BUILT SOON

$10,000,000 Cathedral Will be Higher Than Washington Monument.

Plans for immediate completion of a great American national cathedral larger than Westminster Abbey and rivaling the celebrated structures of Europe, were announced recently at the annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Washington.

Costing $10,000,000, and with its central tower rising above the Washington monument, the great edifice is planned to take in the hearts of Americans the place which the old abbey occupies in Britain, the final resting place of the celebrated dead and the shrine for Christ in the capital of the nation.

The plans contemplate more than a diocesan cathedral; they embrace a national shrine.

Although the construction of a cathedral on the heights of Mount St. Alban, in the northwest section of Washington, has been going on slowly for some time, it was not until very recently that it was decided to raise the funds to complete the edifice immediately as a national undertaking.

Making an announcement, the Rt. Rev. Alfred T. Harding, Bishop of Washington, pointed out that at the last general convention of the Episcopal Church the houses unanimously adopted a resolution which "commends the erection of a great cathedral at the capital of the nation a great cathedral to witness to the spiritual ideal of America."

Beginning in a comparatively small way, the first Bishop of Washington, the late Henry Yates Satterlee, made it his life's work to acquire and pay for the site, which he grew until now it comprises sixty-four acres.

The cathedral was designed by one of the greatest British architects, the late George F. Bodley, and his American associate, the late Henry Bacon. It has been pronounced one of the most beautiful in the world.

It will be seen that in its great proportions the cathedral will be larger than Westminster Abbey, its whole length, outside measurement will be 500 feet; its width 135 feet. Its great central tower will rise to 280 feet and its twin front towers will be 195 feet tall. The massive central tower, erected on the grand eminence, will have an elevation of 134 feet above the city of Washington, making it the most conspicuous and commanding object in the capital.

GOOD LOOKS AND DIET.

By Brice Holden, M. D.

If the teeth deteriorate absorption of the law bone takes place. The loss of bone causes the face to sink in, with resulting looseness of the skin.

It is therefore, obvious that good looks, in so far as they depend upon the maintenance of good teeth, call for a diet rich in lime, which the teeth require for their development. Eggs, cheese, milk, fruits and vegetables are the foods richest in lime.

Phosphorus is another chemical substance which the teeth require for proper growth, and it may also be obtained from such foods as eggs and cheese.

Potash has been shown to be a very important element in our food. Animals kept upon a diet poor in potash suffer from changes in the nerves and muscles; the skin is also damaged and the animals lost; their fur they also grew off prematurely.

The fur of man normally has a diet rich in potash was restored. The animals, when fed on 50% potash-dietary, became decidedly obese, but when a diet rich in potash was substituted they lost their excessive fat.

The moral of all this is that very stout people, who are also bald, very often owe their condition to a diet poor in potash. They are really suffering from an impairment of nutrition. This kind of baldness may be regarded as an evidence of partial old age—a kind of local senility as it were.

Practically, it has been found that these people reduce in size and regain their hair when put upon a diet rich in such foods as the following: Potatoes, meat, cereals and fruits, particularly plums, apricots, cherries and grapes.

It is, therefore, fair to say that good looks, in so far as they depend upon the maintenance of normal proportions and fine hair call for a diet rich in potash.

GERMANY'S MONEY POWER.

The New York Tribune evidently makes the recent rise in the wheat market an indication that Germany has been trying to compel her inability to pay the £100,000,000 indemnity and that consequently, the French invasion of the Ruhr was justified. But since, the great German industrial agent, is pointed to as the main responsibility for the tremendous depression in the German money market, as well as for the improvement now set in, it can hardly be a coincidence," says the Tribune, "that while Stinnes and his group were able to profit by the decline of the mark it went down and so that they can profit by the rise it goes up. It has long been recognized that the true allegiance of the German Government is to these men rather than to the German Nation, and that the Government's financial policy has worked in their interest. While they could export profitably, they encouraged the decline of the mark. As soon as they had to import they saw a way to profit if they could force the hand of the hardy and the firm. It is, therefore, very much to be regretted that the depreciation was working upon the rest of the German people, so now in the rise they look greedily upon their expected profits and care little for the reaction in Germany.

It cannot be claimed, The Tribune holds, that the rise in the natural manufacture of an economic law and in maintaining that despite the lack of authentic news from Berlin about the methods or intentions of the Government, one thing is certain—the weekly billions of paper marks still are being printed. No may want to pay the bills, but the Government is not to stop the process. Evidently the directors of the Reichsbank are aware of this, as their negotiations have been reported as a protest against the Government's action.

THE REMEDY IS WORK.

As to the shipping bill, Senator Dial said that he is stubbornly opposed to subsidies in any form. Subsidies are wrong in principle, he said, and vicious in results.

THE REMEDY IS WORK.

Hon. Rafe Simmons, of Statesboro, one of the best informed men on agricultural conditions in Georgia, has probably found the remedy for the boll weevil in the cotton patches of the state," says the Savannah Press. It is expressed in one word—work. Our Savannah contemporary says: "Mr. Simmons says the boll weevil can be conquered in Georgia by work. The farmer must work harder than the weevil if he is to win in the battle against him, and everybody knows the weevil is a most industrious little pest. He puts in long hours and he is in action all the time he is supposed to be on the job. Higher fertilization, a good mulch and an active farmer is a combination no boll weevil can withstand," says Mr. Simmons. He doesn't attach much importance to patent weevil killers, poisonous concoctions nor to the theory that cotton cannot be raised under weevil conditions. "The plan by which this diminutive buttenfly 'varmint' can be put out of business is to plant, cotton and work it so that it matures quickly and is in the warehouse or the gin house before the weevil weakens to the fact that he has lost his linen luncheon."

The Savannah paper is right. Mr. Simmons has hit the keynote. Terrell county has never made a complete failure raising cotton since the advent of the weevil. The smallest crop gathered any one year was 16,000 bales. Last year the county grew the best cotton crops in the state. And work did it—through preparation of the soil and rapid, intelligent cultivation. Listening to "experts" and using poison (no doubt, the latter helps some if economically and properly applied) will not grow cotton. It requires a great deal of energy combined with liberal fertilization and much hoeing and plowing.—Dawson, Ga., News.

Electric railways in many sections of the country are turning to the motor bus as an economical means for extending their service and better serving the public. They use the buses for use as feeder lines and experiments have proved successful. A commuter may now step from his door into a waiting motor bus and be taken to the nearest transfer point on the electric line. It is hoped this will reduce the congested, hot, breathing conditions of the cities.

A new form of the belt which supports the head of the wearer clear of the water is a great improvement over the old form of belt. Women of hysterical tendencies and old people sometimes collapse the minute they find themselves in the water. In this case the head falls forward or backward, the mouth is opened, and they drown at once. The new type of belt would prevent their drowning while unconscious.

POSITION OF DIAL DEFINITELY GIVEN

South Carolina Senator Thinks Congress Ought to Go Home.

Washington, Feb. 21.—While certain test votes in the senate were misinterpreted, Senator M. J. Dial of South Carolina is opposed both to the "skimmed" milk bill and the ship subsidy bill. He issued the following tonight:

"So far as filibustering is concerned I think the best thing congress could do would be to complete some matters of importance and adjourn without passing a bill, the filler of milk bill or any other of these abominations.

"I do not know how the senate is going to vote on the filler milk bill but to my mind there is about as little chance for that kind of legislation as there could possibly be. It seems to me that congress has lost its sense of proportion and that we are dabbling in all kinds of affairs to discourage business, to increase official and to put burdens upon the people. It is simply a fight between the milk donors and undertakes to outlaw some legal enterprises."

As to the shipping bill, Senator Dial said that he is stubbornly opposed to subsidies in any form. Subsidies are wrong in principle, he said, and vicious in results.

RUHR SITUATION 'BREAK' SEEN IN 30 DAYS

At of U. S. and England May Bring About Understanding, is Belief.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—The expectation prevails among some of the highest officials of the administration that the next 30 days will see a definite "break" in the tense situation that has enveloped all Europe since France occupied the Ruhr—such a possibility of British and American good offices being called upon to effect a new understanding on the controversial reparations question.

This was revealed here Wednesday with the announcement that plans for Secretary Hoover's departure to attend the fifth Anglo-American Conference at Santiago have virtually been abandoned.

American observers in Germany have reported to the government there is little hope of breaking down utterly Germany's resistance to the French measures. American observers in France have likewise assured the State Department there is little likelihood of France admitting defeat.

Consequently, in the opinion of administration officials it is only a question of time until this situation—already recognized in Washington and London—is also recognized in Paris and Berlin.

The meeting between Premier Poincare and Premier Theunis of Belgium, shortly to take place in Paris, may be productive of "important results," it was said in official quarters.

The Belgian Premier, while supporting the French policy, is nevertheless seriously concerned over the collapse of the entente with Great Britain.
