Farmers in the vicinity of Sharon sold approximately 300 bales of cotton on that market last week, at a price ranging from 12 to 14 cents a pound. There are still a good many bales of cotton in the hands of the farmers of Bulloch's Creek and Broad River townships, and much of it will probably be sold shortly at the price bids around 10 cents.

WANTS TO STOP IMMIGRATION.

Commander of American Legion Speaks Before Educators. Dr. Englehardt Favors Higher Salaries for School Superintendents.

Cleveland, Feb. 26.—Delegates to the department of superintendence, National Education Association annual convention, held several meetings today in which speakers advocated putting a stop to immigration; favored President Harding's reorganization bill which would create a new department in the government to be known as the department of education and welfare and started a fight for higher salaries for school superintendents.

The suggestion that immigration be stopped came from Alvin M. Orwley, national commander of the American legion, who at the same time offered his organization to the educators as an instrument to be used in the building of patriotism.

John J. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education, assigned by President Harding to reorganize the administration of the department of education, was the first to speak in favor of a plan of reorganization that would place a secretary of education and welfare in the president's cabinet. The fight for higher salaries for school superintendents was opened in an executive session of the department of superintendence, by Dr. N. L. Englehardt, of the Teachers' College, Columbia university, New York city. Fighting for higher salaries for superintendents, he declared that other professions received much higher salaries and did not do much study and skill. He pointed out that living costs have risen 100 per cent since 1913 but that school superintendents' salaries have risen an average of only 41 per cent.

The first resolution adopted concerning the subject was that Congress pass a bill making the school system of Washington, D. C., a model one, expressed the association's approval of this plan and argued upon Congress to pass the teachers' salary bill, which will raise the salaries of Washington school teachers.

Henry Turner Bailey, dean of the Cleveland school of art, speaking at a luncheon meeting, pleaded for the retention of such "fads" as art and music in the curriculum that future generations be something more than mere efficient workmen.

Tonight's program was devoted to "general problems in education and citizenship."

I pity no man because he has to work. If he is worth his salt he will work. I envy the man who has a work worth doing and does it well.

CLEMSON TO HEAD FIGHT ON WEEVIL.

S. C. College to Experiment With X-Rays in Effort to Kill Off Boll Weevil.

Atlanta, Feb. 24.—Clemson college, South Carolina, will be the center of the first series of experiments to seek more effective ways of destroying the boll weevil which has been a part of the national campaign for boll weevil control. Dr. Miller Reese Hutchison of New York, managing director of the campaign, announced here today.

Under the direction of the college and the South Carolina agricultural extension forces a survey will be made of the possibility of using X-rays to sterilize the eggs of the weevil, thereby diminishing the enormous rate of reproduction of the insect, amounting to 12,000,000 from one pair in one season.

The X-ray method of sterilizing the weevil was advanced by Dr. Hutchison during the recent conference on the weevil problem at Clemson college. Dr. Hutchison said, "X-rays will be made of the possibility of using X-rays to sterilize the eggs of the weevil, thereby diminishing the enormous rate of reproduction of the insect, amounting to 12,000,000 from one pair in one season."

Asheville, Feb. 27.—C. S. Hamby, finding himself the husband of two women, today instituted suit for a divorcing court for a divorce from wife number one. According to his complaint several years ago he and wife number one separated, she going to Atlanta. Later he heard she had died, he claims, and in January, 1922, he married another, and shortly thereafter learned wife number one was living and that she had been given the circulation of a report of her death with the purpose of deceiving him regarding her whereabouts. In support of his claim for divorce from wife number one, he alleged statutory offenses.

CHILD LABOR BILLS.

Measure Before the Legislature to Prohibit Employment of Children in Certain Occupations.

Columbia, Feb. 26.—Newspapers and messengers would be exempted from the provisions of the Bryson bill to prohibit child labor in this state if an amendment offered by the house judiciary committee, which has submitted a majority favorable and a minority unfavorable report on the measure, children under fourteen, the minimum age set by the bill, would be permitted to work during vacation from school except in cotton, wool and fiber mills by another committee amendment.

In general, the bill would prohibit the employment of minors, under fourteen years of age, at any gainful occupation, except as exempted in the proposed amendments, and in connection with boys' and girls' camps and "canning club" work, recognized by the state department of agriculture. The amendments would exempt from the provisions of the Bryson measure, except when it is necessary for them to make up for lost time, and under no circumstances would they be permitted to work after 8 o'clock at night by the bill.

POLICE RAID DE LUKE CLUB.

Defendants, Charles Fletchman Names. When Arrested in Washington.

Washington, Feb. 28.—By giving fake names to the police, seventy-one men caught in a raid on the "Boar's Nest," the capitol's most exclusive gambling club, have landed upon a scandal which might have involved senators, congressmen, government officials and prominent members of the diplomatic set.

Just before the raid, a $25,000 poker game was going on. It is said several senators were in a $25,000 jack-pot a few days ago. The club is in a sumptuously furnished apartment building opposite the Metropolitan club, where Secretary of State Hughes and other cabinet members lunch daily. It is a stone's throw from the White house and the department of justice.

Police rushed into the Boar's Nest early this morning after obtaining a search warrant. The police cars packed in front. Five patrol wagons loaded men, some in green duds, were in the neighborhood. There were much joking over the fictitious names. A headhunter gambler—a well-known Italian from the president's household—the police his name was Kelly. None of the names and addresses given could be found in the city directory.

Police arrested 71 men, including Sager, knocked at the door of the club. There was no answer. He pointed to the club and said, "We're coming in," he shouted. "If you stop inside the dog's will shoot," a voice replied. The police forced the door.

"All right, boys, you've got us," one of the players said as the police stepped on the threshold, an auto-bomb was exploded. The police were equipped with money and clip cutters and a couple's razor. Six sets of dice were found. All money found had been pocketed during the confusion in the afternoon. Six more players were found on the third floor. Others had apparently escaped by climbing out of the window or sliding down the rain spouts. Several were found hidden in closets or under the beds. No women or liquor were discovered.

John P. O'Leary, manager of the club, forfeited $100 collateral in the case. He was arrested. All other arrested were released without bail.

SLAYER IS CHILLED IN OTHER CHILD CASES.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 28.—In an effort to link up Willie P. Morgan, confessed slayer and abductor of 6-year-old Lillian Gilmore, with unsolved crimes against children, in other cities, Baltimore and New York, detectives Wednesday will grill the prisoner at the Detective Bureau at City Hall, where he is held pending action of the coroner's jury.

Monday night made it almost impossible for prisoners in adjoining cells by volleys of curses against P. Morgan, who had obtained his confession to the crime of having brutally attacked the child and then thrown her body into the icy waters of Newbury Creek after beating her to death.

Four fatalities examined Morgan in his cell at City Hall Tuesday. Although no report was made, it was made known from official sources that his findings will stop effectually any attempt at defense along the line of an insanity plea.

Divers are recovering 116 pounds worth of copper lost by the government in 1919 when a tug on which it was loaded, was crushed in collision with the steamship Buford, between Governor's Island and Cipes Island, New York harbor. The copper was found recently through a new device, a sounding device that the government had searched for the two years. It has in 90 feet of water.

WHEELER SAYS LIQUOR INTERESTS PUT UP UNDERWOOD AS A TRAP.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon league, addressing a group of club at a luncheon here, declared the liquor interests, he said, had elected a "wet" Congress, were planning to write a national platform for the democratic national platform.

"As your first choice on such a platform," he said, "they have suggested the former. The majority of the senate, Senator Oscar W. Underwood, now even has 100 per cent wet record in the senate."

FRIDAY, MARCH 2

Governor McLeod has asked the legislature to pass a bill which will permit the people of South Carolina to vote on whether or not the State will spend ten million dollars for educational institutions. When the election is held the ten million dollar proposition will go down like the Titanic.

The people of South Carolina do not think the General Assembly competent of wisely spending fifty to ten million for educational institutions or anything else.

Every day in every way the General Assembly gets worse and worse.

From now until the first of July there will be a lot of speakers ranging around all over the Cotton Belt telling farmers how to raise cotton under boll weevil conditions. We do not doubt but that this will do a great amount of good but the man who plants cotton had better not get it into his cranium that he "can do what the 'keeper" says to and not use his own brain.

Many things can be accomplished by the use of the tongue but the tongue won't defeat the boll weevil—it takes WORK and a whole lot of it. You can plant cotton, scatter poison from one end of the farm to the other and you won't get enough cotton to pay for the planting seed if you do not WORK.

A man's head was put on his shoulders to use. We have never believed it was put there for looks. If it had been men would have been a darned sight better looking than they are. Use your head.

There are people in every town who think that when they "order" for merchandise that it is better and cheaper than that which they can secure from the local merchants. They never once consider the fact that the local merchant is a taxpayer and helps to keep the various departments of the government, including the schools, going. The local merchant gives employment to local people and helps to keep the town moving.

And, there are merchants who think that when they order their printed matter "from off" they are saving money. They too, fail to realize that the local printer is a part of the town and that he has a payroll which leads from the printer shop to the merchant's money drawer and that the local printer gives the local printer's office merchandise to sell.

It is human for us to see the results of others without realizing that we have many of our own.

Almost everybody in this country knows all about the fine quality of Kalamazoo celery—but how many know that the finest celery grown in the world is raised in the valley of the Salt Lake of Utah? Not very many.

Why is this true? Simply because of advertising, nothing more. In spite of everything that has been said to Utahs, they simply will not spend the money to properly advertise their products, and hence they are not known to the world at large.

Also, some of the finest California fruit is also grown in Utah, and put up in cans and sold with California labels.

Some Chester merchants are like the Utahs—they won't spend their money for advertising but try to do business under some other label. On other days, many Chester merchants advertising their wares to the people. Others won't spend a cent for advertising but sit back and wait on the progressive merchants and they try to sell Utah fruit under a California label.

Community Players Of Chester. Judging from the comments, grossly broadcast, highly commending the production of "Mr. Pim Passes By" one would feel that the time is ripe for the promotion of a Community Players Organization for Chester. The cast, headed by Mrs. Wallace and Dr. Babastrias was ably supported by Mrs. Carson, Mrs. Hardin and Miss McCoy in the greater roles while Mr. Babastrias as character actor has demonstrated a talent above the ordinary, while Letitia Myers as the leading lady gave great promise of a future matinee idol. With an organization such as suggested above, Chester can develop her rich abundance of dramatic talent and give the public an opportunity to see the best of the current dramatic productions the most dominating of the theater of the person being. "The Best Is Always The Purest."

The stage setting under the direction of Mr. Hollman made a beautiful picture appropriate to the play in every detail. The gowns loaned by Mrs. Will Leckie were beautiful and added much to the effect of the play. So everything in connection with the production was highly above the ordinary and all who took part are to be highly commended, therefore, it will be unfortunate indeed if Chester does not foster her artistic talent and lovers of good literature for she is already in line to compete with the community Players Club of much larger cities, organizations which are now at work in all progressive cities and which are being promoted by many actively intellectual communities loving the talent and facilities at command.

Excursions in Thought.

The tragedy involved in being content.

In a wonderful story of his entitled "Happiness," Mammaison, the greatest of French short story writers, tells of a man of the finest birth and the most accomplished attainments who became content with the most untoward conditions of life thru the love of an humble-souled.

The young lady was of the highest rank, well educated, and quite wealthy. Her father was a high official in the service of France. While in the barracks with her father, she became infatuated with a common soldier of most humble station. They eloped and were never heard of for many years until a mutual acquaintance accidentally came upon the home of the couple in a lonely world part of Corsica far away in the Mediterranean Sea. The couple had grown old. The formerly dashing soldier had become unkempt and ragged. He had become totally deaf; she, too, had suffered from the ravages of time. In their little thatched cottage, without servants furnishing of daily peasant life, they lived in quiet content. As this chance acquaintance, during the night, heard their breathing and snoring while they slept on their rude straw pallet on the floor, he contrasted the life of the bright, winsome lass during her youth with her present life. He thought of what she had given up and he thought also must be miserable as she was living.

The following morning after a little questioning, he found that the couple were perfectly happy. The woman had never regretted giving up her wealth, her brilliant future, her splendid matrimonial opportunities for a humble man of her choice. She had become so contented with her rude cheerless life far from the world as well as to learn that she did not even wish to return to see her people. How wonderfully did Mammaison depict the power of the human soul to become content with the most absurd conditions of life!

Contentment involves adaptation to environment is the law of life. That organism which does not adapt itself dies. Mammaison showed how that young woman in the course of time had become adapted to a new environment and how this adaptation had brought about a deadening state of contentment.

The law of adaptation is a double-edged law. One can become adapted to well as well as to learn to look placidly upon sin in a consequence of the law of adaptation. Hating the forces of evil and fighting with the human organism. An act of adaptation. Dequining in his "Confessions of an Optimist" shows how the law of adaptation can contentedly bear any enemy within one's bosom. Every drug habit is a habit of virtue of the adaptability of the human organism. Aetic, monks, nuns, and all those who lead the austere life, are historical examples of the "law of adaptation" for becoming content with the most unseemly conditions. And therein lies the tragedy; we can become contented with the quality which prunes our life of its finest fruit.

Let us take a common instance. A young girl begins to keep company with a fellow-whose habits are not the best. She very likely has a will of her own. Indistinctly she defends the under-dog. She has come to like the fellow thru association. As Alexander Pope once put it, their association has come to "ply, endure, and to embrace." Marriage may take place in the form of an eloquent "I do" subsequent a adaptation of the fine high strung, ambitious girl to the weak vicious ways of the "wild young fellow."

Life is full of just such tragedies. Thru the seduction of content, men and women lose their high ambitions. Content neutralizes the fine ambitions and they become pleased with a placid vegetable existence. A habit has been taken and the content has also slain his hundreds of thousands. Verily contentment is a habit which will like all virtues its excess makes it often a vice to be avoided!

Only half the number of babies today die after the first month, compared with infant mortality, 16 or 20 years ago. During the first month four per cent of all infants die, and as they die in years past. Life insurance statistics show that it is easier to survive a year at the age of 15 than for a new-born infant to reach the age of one month.

SUNDAY SPEAKS

TO S. C. SENATORS
Evangelist Addresses Joint Session of Legislature at Columbia. Condemns His Attacks on "L-W-W" and the "Red Flag of Anarchy" in the West.

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 28.—Law will punish violations of the law but law will not remedy the violations. Only the religion of Jesus Christ will do that. It was Billy Sunday speaking, and he was addressing the law-making body of South Carolina, the two branches of the general assembly, sitting in special session at 10 o'clock this morning to hear the preacher, whom they had especially invited to address them.

"I am going to try to help you," he said. "This is a very bad time. He dealt broadside blows at the devil and the forces of evil. He reiterated several of the attacks on 'L. W. W.' and the 'red flag of anarchy.'"

Mr. Sunday spoke only 15 minutes, but as one legislator said, "he packed more into that 15 minutes than the average speaker puts into three hours."

At the conclusion of his address he was loudly cheered, and a ringing vote was taken, expressing thanks to the speaker for his presence.

On the platform beside the evangelist and the speaker of the house and the president of the senate sat Mrs. Sunday, and she, too, was cheered.

The preacher's address was full of quotations. He paid a hearty tribute to Lee Jackson, Job Stues and other warriors of the south, and sang the praises of Dixie.

After his address, Sunday, headed by "Gene" Hutchison, reading clerk, sang several selections. To the resolution of thanks for Mr. Sunday's talk, Sen. Alan Johnston offered an amendment, to the effect that the legislature try to live by the rules he laid down. This was unanimously adopted.

COUNTY EXPENDITURES

Since the budget system was adopted in South Carolina, says The State, "any one can tell how the state's income is expended, to the last cent. This is a very good reason for the budget system."

Orangeburg county is supposed to be under a similar budget system. In setting it up, as the officials say, little attention was paid to the limitations of the budget law. "The State board of directors in more than 50 counties. Why a deficit?" asks the newspaper, continuing: "Who spent the money and by what authority—more money than was raised by the levy and more than any officer or board was empowered to spend?"

In Orangeburg county in the past two years, approximately one million and a quarter dollars have been expended. Bond issues have provided $435,000. Federal aid, we understand, has amounted to less than $200,000. Other sources of revenue have not amounted, in two years, to $225,000. Where did the money come from?

The answer to that question explaining why this county is now staggering under a large debt for money spent in excess of any available income. There are people who will find it hard to understand why the present Highway Commission had to go into heavy debt in two years when, in addition to the ordinary income of the county, they had the privilege of expending almost all of the bond issue money, and the federal aid. Why was it necessary to go into debt?

No wonder it is hard to get the facts.

The truth of the matter is that an expert investigation into the financial condition of the county is necessary, not only to find out how much the county owes, but to discover "by what authority" the county has been plunged into debt. It is necessary so that the people of the county may discover some way to prevent such a thing happening again.—Orangeburg Sun.

NEGRO WAYLAYS GIRL NEAR IVA
New Held in Jail Under Serious Charges of "Kidnaping Woman" Being Posing as Highway After Threat to Shoot.
Anderson, March 1—Sam Sparks, negro man, 22 years old, was brought to the Chester Jail and charged with attempted criminal assault on a 13 year old white girl near Iva this afternoon.

The girl had accompanied her mother to the station and was on her way back home when the alleged attempt was made. As she and her mother were on their way to town they met a wagon with several negroes in it. Sparks is alleged to have forced the wagon and waited on the roadside as the young girl was walking back to her home. The girl says that Sparks looked from behind some bushes as she came to the edge of the woods and made an improper proposal to her. She also says Sparks threatened to shoot her if she made an outcry.

Jose Lofita, a white man who was working nearby, came up to aid in the arrest of the negro and took him to jail no trouble is anticipated.
No excitement has followed the arrest of the negro and while him in jail no trouble is anticipated.

LIFFORD IS RELEASED ON $2,000 BOND
Investigation Into the Death of Mamie Carigan Delayed By Trouble in Getting Chemical Analysis Made in Raleigh.
"Mack Lifford, who has been held since last Saturday pending the outcome of the coroner's jury inquest into the death of Mamie Carigan, was released by Sheriff Rhyno Wednesday night on an order from Solicitor Carpenter, following the posting of a $2,000 bond for Lifford's appearance at the next term of Superior court, or when summoned. The bondsmen are Ed Rhyno, of Dallas, C. G. Lifford, father of Mack Lifford, and S. D. Gray, of Gastonia.

In connection with the autopsy ordered by the solicitor in this case and the sending of the stomach of the dead girl to Raleigh for chemical analysis, an unusual situation has developed. The stomach and its contents, also a sample of the whiskey which is alleged to have been the cause of the girl's death, were sent to the State Laboratory of Hygiene for analysis. Sheriff Rhyno received a letter from this laboratory stating that, inasmuch as they were working under the Department of Agriculture, they were not authorized to make such an analysis, their work being limited to matters pertaining to foodstuffs, supposed to be adulterated. The sheriff reported these facts to Solicitor Carpenter, who is attending court in Charlotte this week and it is supposed that the solicitor has taken the matter up with the proper authorities in Raleigh. Meanwhile the further investigation of the case by the coroner's jury is delayed.

The above article is from "The Gastonia Gazette" of Wednesday afternoon. Mack Lifford is a son of Mr. Claude G. Lifford, formerly of Chester. It is stated that Mamie Carigan, whose name is mentioned above, died as the result of taking a few drinks of whiskey. Lifford was arrested in connection with the matter.

THE CIVIC DINNER.
Dr. W. H. Mills, of Clemson College, in an address Wednesday at the Civic Dinner of the Agricultural Bureau, of the Chester Chamber of Commerce, advocated the revision of the tax system in South Carolina and asserted that under present conditions it would be economically unwise to vote any bond issue leading into the millions for State-wide development of roads, etc.

He advocated a land settlement policy in this state such as has been carried on with great success in some of the western states and in Denmark. He stated that what South Carolina needs is more people engaged in agricultural production along scientific lines. He fully discussed extensive farming and related the progress he made along this line in other states and the possibilities in South Carolina, where the climatic conditions are most favorable and we have fertile soil that can be adapted to more practical use than in the northern states and Canada. His address largely dealt with colonization for South Carolina, where there are millions of acres of land available for intensive farming. He stressed the importance of drainage in Chester county where it's success is most promising, and referred particularly to the Chester creamery which has paid out $40,000 to the farmers since it was organized less than a year ago.

Dr. Mills stated that the General Assembly will be asked to appoint a committee to study land settlement and intensive farming in this state to make recommendations and report on a definite policy at the session of the Legislature a year hence.
Dr. Mills is a strong speaker and he was heard with a great deal of interest.

The dinner was attended by representatives Chester county farmers and a number of local business men.
Mr. R. B. Caldwell, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Agricultural Bureau, was the spokesman and presided over the meeting. Among the speakers who discussed road problems were J. C. Reid and C. C. McAlley. Mr. Reid's address dealt largely with the "co-operative interests of the town and country and advised closed city unity of purpose.
It was a most successful and interesting meeting. The dinner was served by the Women's Council of the Chester Chamber of Commerce.

Do You Think of These Unwritten Items on Your Electric Light Bill?

Beauty and atmosphere from lighted lamps are a potent influence in drawing the family together, and even the young people pay tribute to it. Daughter Alice frankly said the other day that one reason why the meetings of her young friends took place so often at her home was that "they thought the lamps were so pretty." Well—if that's all one needs to keep the children at home, the cost is all out of proportion. Certainly the home was transformed with electric light as surely as though a painter's hand had touched each part of it. Perhaps, after all, rather than buying the new living room furniture this spring, it would be more economical and just as satisfying to buy two or three new lamps instead.

WANTS NO MORE FOREIGN LABOR

High Point Manufacturers Find Surplus of Workers. Suggests That Leafers, Bootleggers, Gamblers, Rabbit Hunters and Fishermen Go to Work.

Washington, Feb. 28.—J. Wren, prominent manufacturer of High Point, has written Senator Overman some illuminating views on the labor situation. Among other things he has cast serious reflections on rabbit hunters.

Mr. Wren referred to a circular on the immigration question. He wants no foreigners and it will be supplied with workmen. His letter reads:

"We are enclosing circular that seems to be broadcasted through the country on the labor subject. History says that 95 per cent of all men are failures. During the month of January we had 353 to apply at our plant—High Point Furniture company—for work.

"Looking over the class of men that applied, we find that about five per cent of them are what might be termed first class workers. 45 per cent might be classed as fairly satisfactory, 25 per cent poor, 15 per cent 'cannon fodder.' This makes a total of 70 per cent.

"The latter class referred to, appear to be leafers, 'bootleggers, gamblers, rabbit hunters and fishermen. This is a class of men that we must try to teach how to work.

"With this surplus of trained and untrained American labor, we cannot see why we need any more imported labor.

"We had to turn away the above number of men (853) as we had all the labor we needed."

(Senator Overman replied that he had always been opposed to foreigners coming into this country, and had always stood for restricted immigration and would continue to do everything in his power to this end.

BURIED GOLD COINS FOUND AT SANFORD

Sanford, N. C., Feb. 28.—Buried treasure in the form of gold coins to an amount approximately $2,000 was discovered on a newly made street here yesterday by children on their way from school. The children, thinking the twenty dollar coins were large pennies scooped up handfuls and rushed home, informing their companions as they went. Two traveling men are said to have arrived on the scene and appropriated the greater portion of the treasure.

The money was contained in a glass jar, which had been broken, and its contents washed to the surface by the recent heavy rains. The new street crosses the site formerly occupied by a buggy shed, and nearby the scene of a one-time negro cafe and bar room. There is no clue as to how the treasure came to be buried, or who did it.

CAT AND DOG HAIR BLAMED.

Doctor Suffered 22 Years Before Finding Cause of His Asthma.

Dr. Gratton Tyler Brown, a physician of Washington, D. C., who has been suffering from asthma for 22 years, finally learning that it was due to dog and cat hair. The discovery of the cause of his asthma led to a cure by avoidance of those animals and the proper inhalation against it. During his long period of suffering he had his tonsils and adenoids removed, and tried all kinds of asthma powders and medicated cigarettes, but the remedy proved and his breathing was frequently so difficult that he was obliged to spend the night sitting up in a chair.

"My first real relief was obtained by a visit to Atlantic City," says Dr. Brown. "At the time I was having a severe attack, but my asthma left me immediately on arriving in Atlantic City, and I was completely free during the entire time I was there. When I returned home my asthma came back almost immediately. This experience has been repeated innumerable times since then. My asthma invariably left me when I went to Atlantic City, and I remained free while there, with the exception of a few isolated attacks; but when I returned home my asthma just as surely came back again.

"My physician explained this on the assumption that the climate of Washington was unfavorable for my trouble. This assumption was later proved to be erroneous. In 1913, we moved to a new residence in the same neighborhood, and I was entirely free from asthma for a period of two years, though exposed to identical climatic conditions. In 1915 my asthma returned and was as bad as ever.

"I took up the study of medicine, but was discouraged by my professors, who told me there was no cure for asthma. Examination of my heart, blood and urine gave negative results. My blood pressure was normal. Chronic examination of my chest was negative. I took potassium iodide, Hara's antianthrax prescription, benzylbenzate and other preparations internally, but with no results other than a gastric-intestinal disturbance.

"I tried calamine, deep breathing, long walks, cold baths, sleeping outdoors, vegetarian diet, and fasting, but my asthma persisted in spite of all.

"In an effort to obtain some relief from my suffering I resorted to osteopathy, then mesotherapy, chiropractic and finally Christian Science, but they all proved dismal failures.

"In 1919, while an intern in the Atlantic City Hospital, I heard and read something about protein sensitization as applied to asthma. I obtained some sensitive food proteins, with which I tested myself, but they all gave negative results.

"When I returned to Washington additional skin tests were made, and I gave a marked reaction to dog-hair protein. I then went to Philadelphia and was thoroughly tested out by Dr. Sterling, who found me sensitive to dog-hair, cat-hair and horse-dander. To all others I gave negative response. Since I have made innumerable tests on myself, with always the same results, thus convincing me of the absolute specificity of the tests.

"The explanation of my case is simple. At our former residence we always had a number of cats, which were the cause of my asthma at that time. My two years of freedom in Washington, D. C., in 1913, 1914, 1915 were due to the fact that we got rid of our cats when we moved. In 1915 some one gave us a dog, which started my asthma again as badly as ever. Going to Atlantic City meant getting away from cats and dogs.

"The few isolated attacks occurring in that city could be traced directly to intimate exposures to cats or dogs.

"We got rid of our dog, and I treated myself with gradually increasing injections of dog-hair protein. Since then I have been entirely free from asthma.

"After being a martyr to asthma for twenty-two years, I am now well."
