The Whittlers.
I am informed by competent authorities that whittling is rapidly becoming a lost art. I myself have observed that the benches of our public parks and the seats in railway stations (I speak now of our rural sections) were, even when several weeks have elapsed after their installation, an aspect of newness that comes as a poignant regret, jealous as I am of our older institutions.

Let me conclude wrongly I committed the competent janitor (I believe the little upon, him in the absence of official designation) at the Irontown (Indiana) station, where I had a recent hour to wait, and was informed that such was the pleasing fact; that whereas a waiting-room bench had a shorter life in the older days than a two-hundred-hundred-year-old present benches in the men's waiting-room over which he had jurisdiction had lasted well into eighteen months.

A local dealer in plows and harrows, ticketed to Richmond, spoke up. "I've noticed the same in front of my store," he said. "I used to see a box out in front of the store for the boys to set-on, and the next day there'd be nothin' left of Mr. Bos' septin' a lot of whittlin' littered like around the sidewalk. But now a box will last just about all summer. No, whittlin' ain't what it were."

"What," I asked in the true spirit of philosophy, "is the reason?" and received an explanation that I may self-hearty credit, but that I pass on for what it is worth:
"They're too cussed lay today to what their 'jackknives.'—Cartoons Magazine."

WILL IMPROVE STREETS
Orangeburg Plans Extensive Permanent Work.
Orangeburg, March 7—Orangeburg is making preparations for laying a great deal of permanent street improvements. Some months ago a bond issue carrying $750,000 was overwhelmingly passed. The plan decided upon was to issue bonds as money is needed. On last night $800,000 worth of bond were sold to an Atlanta firm. This amount will be expended $100,000 for streets, $45,000, water extensions; $45,000, light extensions; $10,000, sewer extensions. Orangeburg has the abutting tax law, and for each $100,000 spent by the city on the streets an equal amount will have to be spent by the abutting property owners.

Orangeburg will be a well paved street when the work is completed. About 23 miles of street stone curbing has been bought, which means good sidewalks all over the city. There will be a modern class light white way for over a mile extending from Southern depot to Atlantic Coast line depot passing through the principal business street.

RAILROAD MEN PLAN HIGH COST FIGHT

Richmond, Va., March 7.—Announcement was made tonight that men employed in the Southern railroad shops at Danville have organized a stock company with $10,000 capital and will open a cooperative store to fight the high cost of living.

CAPTAIN JACKSON DIES

Received Diploma Fifty Years After Graduation Date.
Lafayette, Ga., March 7.—Captain James Martin Jackson, Confederate soldier, who had the distinction of receiving his diploma from the University of Georgia fifty years after his class should have graduated, died today at his home here.

When the Civil War began young Jackson was a student at the Georgia institution and along with other young men left to join the Confederate army. Just fifty years later, by special act of the legislature, diplomas which these students should have received on graduation were conferred upon the survivors of the class.

The Lucky Pop-In Norman-Brown's "C" window guessing contest was S. S. Spencer, Chester, S. C., Route 4. His guess was $7,872.50, and the retail value of all suits in window was $8,847.50. Master Spice is entitled to any short pants suit in the store. We will be pleased to serve him any time. The Rodman-Brown Co.

NO LIST AT PRESENT
Germany to Delay Forwarding of Accusations.

Berlin, March 7.—Germany does not intend to send the embassy at present the list of allied citizens accused by Germany of misdeeds against her forces during the war, it was stated by Foreign Minister Mueller today during the debate in the national assembly on the third reading of the bill to govern the German trial of persons accused of war crimes by the enemy.

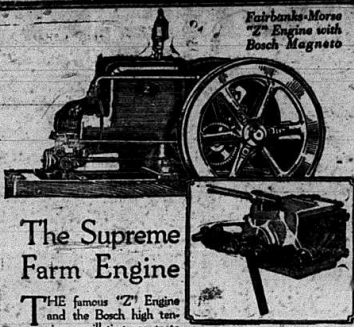

The foreign minister declared he doubted whether the allies would punish any of their citizens on the strength of German evidence and he was rather inclined to believe the German movement would only serve to unite the allied coalition more firmly.

TURKEY MAKES DENIAL
Claims Armenians Are Not Being Attacked.

Constantinople, March 6.—Since news of the Marash massacre became public there have been daily rumors of a movement against the Armenians elsewhere, to the great alarm of the Armenian population. The Turkish foreign office today issued a communication saying: "Late rumors have been printed in the Armenian press in Constantinople. It is officially declared that the region of Marash between the Turks and Armenians which were caused by acts of violence, no movement has been made against the Armenians in any part of Anatolia. These reports have been spread for the purpose of prejudicing European public opinion and the peace conference against Turkey at a time when its destiny is being discussed."

HENRY S. GRAVES QUILTS U. S. FORESTRY SERVICE

Washington, March 8.—Henry S. Graves, head of the federal forestry service since Clifford Pinchot, has resigned to return to private life. Mr. Graves headed the Yale forestry school before entering government service and was at the head of the lumber operations conducted by the American expeditionary forces in France.

The Most Popular Tractors, Plows and Tillage Implements

YOU know these trade names. Your father knew them before you, and your grandfather was familiar with two of them—McCormick and P. & O. They knew in their time and you know today, through long usage and satisfactory service, that there are no better farm machines and implements made than those bearing these trade names, which are guarantees of high quality and operating efficiency.

McCormick built the first practical reaper; Deering sold the first twine binder and introduced binder twine. Wm. Parlin, and the founders of the Chattanooga line were among the earliest plow pioneers. The lines started by these famous manufacturers have been constantly growing since their small beginnings and every new machine and implement that has been added has built into it the accumulated years of manufacturing experience and farm knowledge acquired by the original founders and their successors.

And now, these time-honored, service-renowned lines have all merged into one—the International Harvester—the cream of the farm machine world.

We Sell the International Line

What does this mean to you as a farmer? It means, first of all, that you can buy any farm machine or implement you may need, right here in this town, without taking chances on experiments or implements that might be "orphaned" one or two years after you buy them because of the manufacturer going out of business. You can always get repairs for any machine or implement in the International line because the Harvester Company will never go out of business. You are assured of reliable machines because every machine in the Harvester line is tried out and tested under actual farm conditions, before being offered for sale to the farmer. The Experimental Department of the Harvester Company is the most thorough and active institution of its kind.

It means, second, that you can get repairs and repair service on all of these machines through one concern—us. You don't have to go to the bother and inconvenience of trying to get repairs and service from half a dozen or more different companies. You won't be taking chances on expensive delays waiting for repairs during the busy seasons because we are going to carry a big stock of repairs on hand and any repairs that we might not have we can get for you in a hurry by a phone call to the International Harvester branch office.

Take this advertisement up in your machine shed so that whenever you need repairs for any of your International machines you will know where to go. Also, you will know where to go when you are in the market for new machines or implements of real quality and the highest operating efficiency.

CHASTLY KILLING STIRS UP UNION

Bud Tucker Faces Charge of Slaying His Brother-in-Law, King Prince, on the Street.

Union, March 6.—Bud Tucker is in jail, charged by a corner's jury with the murder here last night of his brother-in-law, King Prince, in one of the most horrible killings Union county has ever recorded. The weapon used was a hawk-bill knife, and Prince's head was almost severed from his body in one terrific blow.

The killing occurred last night at about 8:15 o'clock on Main street. The immediate cause is not given but the most probable cause is a quarrel between the two men for some time. Tucker, after the tragedy, surrendered to the sheriff and was placed in jail.

Tucker is married and is 40 years old. He has several children. Prince was married Tucker's sister, was 35 years old, and leaves a large family. The inquest over the remains were held today at noon, and a verdict reached charging Tucker with the murder.

Deputy Sheriff McKean arrested Willis Jones this afternoon at the home of his father, Gabe Jones, and he was committed to jail pending the result of the inquest.

Young Jones made no statement concerning his assault on Scott, and Mr. McKean states that he could obtain no circumstantial account of the trouble, as the teacher and school children were all excited and not in condition to give a clear statement. He was informed, however, that the assault occurred in the school house during the noon recess. The skull was crushed and the brain lacerated very severely. All the parties are white.

FOUND DEAD IN SNOW

Former Sumter Boy Succumb in Maryland.

Sumter, March 7.—The news has been received in this city that the death of Mr. Washington, son of Neil O'Donnell Digler, 17 year old son of William R. Delgar, formerly a prominent merchant of Sumter, but for the past ten years a resident of Mr. Washington.

He was missing from his home the night of February 25, and for four days a thorough search was made for him. He was finally found by two of his friends lying by a hedge 100 yards from his home and covered with snow. There was a bullet wound through his head and an automatic pistol lying a few feet from him. It is believed that he stumbled over the hole in the ice and fell, discharging the pistol which killed him instantly.

LITTLE GIRL PLAYS DIFFICULT PIECES

June Roscoe, Ten Years Old, Shows Remarkable Talent—Studying at Anderson College.

Anderson, March 7.—Anderson is proud of having a child prodigy in music in the ten year old June Roscoe. She plays the most difficult music from the old masters with great ease and expression, the only difficulty being that her hand is so small that she can scarcely make the octave and chords. June has been under the tutorage of Miss Demark of Anderson college for almost two years. Recently Mr. and Mrs. Rowley went to Greenville, to make their home. June was brokenhearted at giving up her teacher and the musical center which had been planned for her, and the college was equally anxious to keep such a prodigy so. Anderson college accepted June and they will hear her musical education. She is under the direct charge of Miss Demark, and is a great favorite with the students. She says that she isn't a bit homesick, and is delighted that she can stay with her mother and that she gets through. She is also taking an English course.

HIGH LIGHTS ON HIGH COSTS

Wise Words From New Secretary of Agriculture.

Clemson College, March 5.—The high cost of living in the South is a matter of agriculture, but no more than to many other lines of activity. Unless employers must give an opportunity to become producers upon the farm or in the factory. I am tempted to believe that the solution of the problem lies more in the hands of those interested in distribution and non-productive enterprises than in the hands of the farmers of the country. It is not a satisfactory condition for the farmer to receive reduced prices for his pork, wheat, hides, lumber, and sheep are raised. The farmer asks that the laborers in the mines, the factory, and the mills, who are also real producers of wealth, be able to pay as one of them.

Life Means Action.

The fact that life means continuous action from the cradle to the grave affords us much food for thought. We sometimes forget that we are going either forward or backward in time; that we do not stand still in our tracks and watch the world roll by as if we were either winners or losers in a lottery. There is no such thing as inaction in the business of life; there are too many forces about us clamoring for our attention and defying us if we are to look into the book of our own lives, and turning it page by page examine carefully the record, we would find that, compared with this time last year, for example, we have either pressed onward or fallen back.

We can all read our records for ourselves. If we have sufficient courage to be fair and impartial, and are not afraid of what we may find written there, it is a healthy practice to turn the milestones of life to our own good account and make them the occasions upon which to take an inventory of our progress. Aside from the acts of Providence, such as illness, accident or certain unforeseen conditions which sometimes prevail, we are most often in much the same situation as we were this time last year as far as our material fortunes are concerned. By a stronger grip on the points of our lives, or weaker than we were? Are we more efficient or not at such points? Are we nearer our goal? Are we better men and women or not as good? Have we made as good use of our opportunities as we might? These are only a few of the questions we might well ask ourselves in order to discover just how much we have progressed during the past twelve months of our life. It may be that among them we may find one that will open our eyes to our real condition, better than any other method of inquiry.

With the coming of the year we are all more or less resigned to the fact that we are not here, but even so until we are worn out by the infirmities of old age, or the inroads of disease, we can at least retain our normal strength of character and live up to the highest conception of the best ideals that have controlled our lives. It is when we are weakened in physical strength that we are likely to become weak and discouraged and willing to surrender our life. To keep strong mentally and physically is the right of every human being, and upon each one of us rests the obligation of attaining this right. As far as our efficiency goes we can determine within a reasonable time, whether we have lost any of that efficiency, our workmanship and right living that should characterize every normal person, or if indeed, we are efficient in this direction. We know what we have accomplished and the manner in which we labored. Are we doing our best to achieve good results? Do we have any other method of inquiry behind the record we made for ourselves a year or so ago? Are we of sufficient energy to meet the high goal which we set for us when we began anew the slow tedious effort to attain it? We have had many opportunities, scattered throughout our lives, perhaps more than our usual share during the year just ended. What have we done about them? Are we very sure that we made proper use of them and followed them out carefully and painstakingly to the end? Sometimes we get disappointed and regret that we have not had the patience to watch them come to bloom. We want results at once and if they do not come forthright away, we take up other lines of endeavor only to find that those we have abandoned were rich in results that were well worth the effort.

We shall never see any progress unless we keep constantly in mind the fact that we must be up and doing, that we must be accomplishing things all the time, and that we must be doing something by way of turning our best efforts to account unceasingly. We must work with the tools which the Creator has placed in our hands, keeping them sharp and ready for hard use, and never permitting them to become rusty and idle. It may be a hard road for some of us to travel, hard and weary and exciting, but the reward is worth the effort. We will do well, we survey the record we have written into the book of our lives, we work with the trouble and hardships we may be called upon to endure.
