BIRTHPLACE OF ANDY JACKSON

Hammer Ready to Debate Questions
Representative W. C. Hammer, of the seventh North Carolina district, will take to the bat for a home run against Representative Stevenson, of South Carolina, on the question of Andrew Jackson's birthplace, he will have a decided advantage in the house.

All that he will have to do is to go to the "Biographical" Congressional Directory, which carries the home-made statistics of United States presidents and congressmen. The rule here is that if you are in doubt, go to the source. The pedigree of a member of Congress goes to the Congressional Directory. The kind words said in there are understood to come from the subject himself. Therefore it is accurate. Two brief histories of Congress, or directories of its members, have been compiled and issued as a year-long digest. The last one, revised and corrected to the sixty-second Congress, was printed in 1911.

Here is what it says of Old Hickory: "Andrew Jackson, a representative and a senator from Tennessee; born at the Georgia Mountains, near the town of Waverly, in Rowan county, N. C., March 15, 1767, moved with his mother to the Waxhaw settlement in South Carolina in 1781; attended the old field school, the academy of Dr. Humphries, and Queens college, Charlotte, N. C., for a short period.

Congress was now repudiated. He will be the story of Andrew Jackson's birth from his own pen. Having discovered this additional evidence, the great "Hickory" will not be content to keep quiet. He is looking for an opportunity to wallop the South Carolinian. It looks now as if it might be a week or two longer before his promised debate comes off, but the war heat is ready, and will meet his adversary any hour of the day or night. With these and the Congressional Directory at his back he is not afraid of old runaway North Carolinian.

KEEP UP YOUR RESERVES.

By John Baker. Reserves win battles and bring victories. The knowledge that they are there and ready to be called on often hastens military leaders to effect that which otherwise be impossible. Men with mental and physical reserves are men who usually get the prizes in life that others never get. It has lately been said by somebody that most geniuses have been particularly healthy and enduring people. This does not necessarily mean that it is certain that unless men and women are healthy and enduring they are never capable of performing the great labor necessary to bring their genius to the world. A few men or women over all the knowledge or employ all the skill that they are at pains to acquire. They are the ones who have it in their grasp to do something important in life. Physical and mental reserves are equally important. You must have more than the machine which hears you about and whose brain does your thinking for you.

If you impair your physical machine, if you overstrain it, it will not "contain" keep it in condition, it may at any time break down, and snap up the intangible thing which makes it think it is an athlete. It is just as likely to waste his physical reserves as the soldier who runs off his feet, or the runner who races to a momentary finish. It is not athletic in the generally understood sense, not strenuous competition for prizes that builds up physical reserves, but constant and methodical exercise. Build up your body, and make sure of your physical reserves. This means, to your mind, that you know more than you need to know for the purposes of the actual job in hand about many subjects. Get useful information and learn to retain it. And, above all, accustom yourself to sustained periods of effort, for only by this can you "great" things to accomplish.

You will probably think it is a waste of your energy to enter the battle of life without them. You will say to an able and far-seeing general that without reserves it can win no victories. And the answer is: "No, unless you are a strong, sturdy physique, and a mind well stocked with important and usable information. What the general needs is more."

COTTON CROP TO BE CUT DOWN BY BANKERS' ORDER

Atlanta, Feb. 23.—Assurance that there will be plenty of money for financing farmers who abandon the one-crop system this year is contained in a statement by George M. B. Wallborn, of the Sixth Federal Reserve Bank, in which he denies reports from New York that reserve banks and member institutions in the South are insisting upon liquidation of crop cotton held by growers and merchants to pay present indebtedness before more credit is extended. Mr. Wallborn declared that as far as his institution is concerned the policy of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta is, he said, "to assist growers through the member banks and will do all in its power to assure a gradual and orderly marketing of cotton over a reasonable period of time. It has never been the policy of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta to force liquidation of cotton or other commodities. That matter, which should be left to member banks and their customers for their judgment and discretion."

Voicing the belief that the cotton acreage would not be large this year, at least not in excess of that of last year, Mr. Wallborn said: "It is my belief, I think, by exceedingly careful marketing loans to tenants to plant cotton, as heretofore most of the cotton has been produced by the tenant farmer, who had to leave the acreage should be had down to such an extent as to permit intensive preparation and cultivation, which, with a moderate amount of fertilizer, will meet greater yield per acre."

The cotton crop this year should not exceed 10,000,000 bales, in the opinion of Mr. Wallborn, who declared that a crop of 10,000,000 bales, added to the carry-over that will be on hand August 1, will be ample to supply the demand, with the next crop gathered and will eliminate to a large degree low prices, to the heavy carry-over. He stressed the importance of diversified crops to hasten the return of normal conditions and prosperity in the South and said: "The supply of money for agricultural use this year, will be ample, and I am sure the banks will do those who have abandoned the one-crop system and less jaw-bone exercise. Conditions have been analyzed, dissected, torn to pieces long enough by the non-bank philosophers. It is time for the workers to step into the breach and start something constructive."

Financial panics are nothing new to this country or the other countries of the world. Panics come in more or less regulated cycles. Any student of the country's history can tell you that panics have been occurring with regular frequency since the Government was established. The invention is a self-lighting pipe which is intended to be attached to each cigarette and cigar, eliminating entirely the use of matches for cigarettes and cigars equipped with this attachment.

RUMBLINGS.

The hand that took the credit now seems to be hitting the typewriter. No many people nowadays can handle a hammer or a saw, but there are a lot who can pound and jarr instruments very skillfully.

Tramps and hoboes are all in the South now, as if they stayed up North they might do so to work shoveling snow.

Question is what the anti-shop-keeper howler will say when in the near future the women don't wear any skirts at all.

There is a feeling among the children, that the movies should be reform, so that it will be safe for their parents to see them. Your trouble complained of by many girls may not be due so much to high heels, as to the heavy feet of the men they dance with.

The United States army is adopting 106,500 crumple-ups for soldiers. Some men would find them useful in unsteering their whiskers. Many men are physically unable to play any kind of ball with terrific accuracy. The use of crumple-ups is going a good deal too far, writes all folks putting on coats of tar and feathers.

Go through the list of those who have made a success and you will find men that overcame the obstacles--the impossibilities, so called.

Few of them had the up-road paved for them in advance; instead they grew by using their judgment and doing things for themselves.

Sixteen Year Old Girl Shoots Man on Trial at Waco.

Waco, Tex., Feb. 24.—Marlene Maloney, 16 year old girl, who today shot and killed G. S. Crosslin, state detainer and former minister, in a court room here tonight was in a charitable home after her release on bond of $4,000, furnished by local residents. The shooting occurred during the trial of Crosslin on charges of attacking the girl.

Miss Matthews fired three shots at Crosslin as she left the witness stand after the man had been formally arraigned. He died instantly. "He disagreed me, ruined my health and deprived me of an education but he will never ruin another girl," she told officers after the shooting. She posed smilingly for photographers.

The girl's attorney announced tonight that she would waive the examining trial.

Crosslin was being tried a second time on the charge, his conviction and sentence to nine years in prison some time ago having been reversed and remanded by the Texas high courts.

BONUS PROBLEM NOT YET SOLVED

Referred Back to Special Subcommittee. Twenty-two Republican Opponents of Plan Frame Petition Against This Kind of Levy.

Washington, Feb. 20.—The question of financing the soldiers' bonus was referred back today to the special tax subcommittee by the majority members of the house, ways and means committee and it was announced that the subcommittee would attack the problem again tomorrow.

The trend of thought in cloak rooms and corridors was that some sort of a manufacturers' or wholesalers' tax plan would be drafted in accord with President Harding's suggestion that the financing be done by a sales tax.

In an effort to block the sales tax within a committee 22 Republican opponents of this kind of levy met and framed petitions which were freely circulated and signed before the house adjourned for the present. The petitioners included Dickinson of Iowa, who called the meeting, said it was the hope to obtain sufficient signatures to convince the majority committee members that it would be impossible to put a sales tax provision through the house.

The petition declares in favor of judicial compensation but in opposition to the financing of it by a sales or manufacturers' tax, and sets forth that its signers "will oppose any rule for the adjusted compensation unless it does not permit a separate vote on any sales or manufacturers' tax provision therein."

While the ways and means committee was discussing the bonus question it was made known at the White House that President Harding had received many communications opposing enactment of the bonus legislation at the present. At the same time the American Legion's legislative committee made public a telegram from Hanford MacNider, the legion's national commander, opposing any further delay in the bonus legislation.

It was said that the communication read Mr. Harding in opposition to immediate enactment of the bonus at this time, but it was added that many of those opposing the present plan are actually in favor of a similar plan. Much of the informal business discussed at the capitol today centered around the question of whether the present estimates were valid. It was stated that the committee would call for a vote on the ways and means committee. Representative Garner of Texas, the ranking Democrat on the committee, said the eight minority members would vote solidly against such a tax. On this basis five Republican votes would defeat the proposal and it was understood that present estimates were "not four of the 17 Republicans would be against with two others probably doubtful."

Representative Dickinson reintroduced a bill which would block the sales tax in committee if it would call a determined stand in the Senate conference which is to be called to consider the bill.

If the committee fails to report out a sales tax it seemed to be the opinion of general opinion that the bonus would get a bill without the specific provision for financing the adjusted compensation.

AUTOISTS TAKE IN A STRING OF CARS.

Two Men Race With Dorman Rowell's Freight Cars Near Jonesville.

Spartanburg, Feb. 24.—Last night as W. Y. Martin, state industrial secretary, and George Simmons, hotel boys' ward secretary of the Y. M. C. A., were going to Jonesville to attend a High and Son banquet, they found when they passed Pinedale that about ten or 12 big cars had gotten loose from a freight train and were speeding toward Jonesville. The train runs beside the railroad track, and the men in the cars were chased and at the grade just out of Jonesville caught up with the runaway cars. Mr. Simmons jumped out of his automobile and climbed up on one of the cars and put on brakes, bringing the train of cars to a standstill. Soon the engine came up and took the runaway back to Pinedale. It was close to the time for the passenger train and Messrs. Martin and Simmons knew that it would be safe to follow the train. The men in the cars were taken to the conductor's car and the conductor was profuse in his expressions of gratitude for stopping the runaways.

EXCURSIONS IN THOUGHT.

Concerning the Possibility of Telepathic Communications At a Distance.

R. N. Allen, Teacher of Manual Training.

Some people are very skeptical concerning the possibility of what is called mind reading or telepathic communication at a distance. Recent facts with respect to this matter have convinced some hard headed freethinkers and materialists that telepathy is indeed a possibility. Those who are aware of the proceedings of the psychological research societies of America and Europe no longer doubt the possibility of communication at great distances absolutely without any material means whatsoever.

A few cases have come to the attention of the writer. In one instance, there was a mother who had son in one of the colleges located in South Carolina. It chanced that this son was taken with typhoid pneumonia and his condition was being questioned. The father happened to be in the hospital and to be learned later, the mother in some perceptible way thru her subconscious or unconscious mind sensed the danger of the disease. She was overwhelmed with feeling of his approaching death. She is in some inexpressible way knew of the death of her son before the doctor had announced it. She had been at the bedside of her son at the time she was at the apprehensive family.

The following illustration of the possibility of telepathic communication was told to a senior class in ethics at Furman University by the president, Dr. R. M. Tolson. At a great camp-meeting was being held in a certain locality. The preaching had been going on for some time and the exhorter was warming up to his subject. Suddenly there came out a scream and a woman got up and made for the door saying: "My boy! my boy! something has happened to my boy! She could not tell what had happened to her boy. She refused to believe that the incident occurred on going home and home she went. Upon arriving there she and those with her found that her little boy was indeed a dead child. At the time she was at preaching had fallen out and severely hurt himself. Doctor Tolson said that the only way to explain this incident was thru the existence of some "unknown power of one mind to communicate with another under the stress of certain circumstances."

In his famous book "The Unknown" the French astronomer Paul Thomas estimates were "not four of the 17 Republicans would be against with two others probably doubtful." Representative Dickinson reintroduced a bill which would block the sales tax in committee if it would call a determined stand in the Senate conference which is to be called to consider the bill.

If the committee fails to report out a sales tax it seemed to be the opinion of general opinion that the bonus would get a bill without the specific provision for financing the adjusted compensation.

The gasoline bill passed by the General Assembly of South Carolina providing a tax of two cents on each gallon of gasoline sold in South Carolina, has been signed by Governor Robert A. Cooper and will become law tomorrow, March first. One half of the tax will go into the general state fund and the other half will be divided between the various counties of the state as per the taxable valuation of the respective counties. While The News has not got the taxable values of the various counties before it we should think that Chester county will receive at least $7,500 per year from the gasoline revenues collected in the state. It is estimated that the tax will amount to approximately $750,000, and one half of this, $375,000, will be divided between the counties.

Little Robert L. Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Elliott, was painfully but not seriously injured last Friday evening when he was struck and knocked down by an automobile driven by Mr. Joe Anderson. The accident occurred on Columbia street, in front of the residence of Mr. Elliott.

Dr. R. L. Douglas and family who have been occupying the O. T. Johnsons house on Smith street, are moving into Judge A. W. Wise's house on Church street.

At a meeting of the Workers Conference of Purity Presbyterian church, held last Thursday evening, Mr. R. E. Sims was made chairman of a committee on transportation for the Sunday school and church services. He is to mobilize all automobiles that will be willing to be used to transport people who are unable to walk to Sunday school or church.

Chester friends of Dr. W. W. Fennell, of Rock Hill, who has been sick for some time, will be glad to know that he is now able to be up and on the street.

Several young white men, it is reported, made an unsuccessful attempt to hold up and rob Tom Diakis, a Greek who conducts a cafe near the Seaboard passenger station, Sunday night. It is stated that the men went into the place and asked for cold drinks and while Diakis was getting the drinks they pulled the light switch and demanded his money. Diakis, so it is stated, fired his pistol and left the premises hurriedly. It is stated that he kept his pace until he ran into another Greek cafe near the postoffice where he informed them of his experience.

Mr. Tom Brice, of Wofford College, spent the week-end in Chester with his mother, Mrs. Beanie Brice.

Col. A. L. Gaston has been appointed Congregational Manager of the Progressive Program of Purity Presbyterian church.

Mr. Everett Russell, of the International Harvester Company, addressed a number of Chester business men and farmers at the Court House Saturday morning, with reference to the dairy cow. Mr. Russell complimented the people of this section in erecting a creamery. His talk was greatly enjoyed by those present.

The Bulletin of Purity Presbyterian Church of Chester has the following in its notes and notices: "The Synod of South Carolina, in compliance with the General Assembly, is observing next Sunday, March the 6th, as 'Pay Up Sunday.' The Church year closes March the 31st, and it would be a fine thing before the new subscriptions are made, to secure the payment of all old pledges. If every Presbyterian would do his dead level best, if necessary strain a point, we could round out our year without any deficit, and enter the new Church year the 1st of April without any crippling handicaps. Arrange this week to see that you will have a clean sheet on the Treasurer's book next Sunday."

Theo Mackorell, Joe Herndon and J. B. They expect to go to Florida where they will remain a while and then start to the wheat fields in the north-west and from thence into Canada. It is their intention to camp by the roadside, at night and they expect to make the trip with comparatively little expense.—Yorkville Enquirer.

Robbers broke into the ticket office of the Southern passenger station Sunday night and after securing the key to the safe, which was hidden, they unlocked the safe and stole something over $500. It is stated that a considerable amount of cash was left in the safe.

One of the opinion that the chief was familiar with the office which accounts for his being able to secure the hidden key. Special railway deputies have been here and are investigating the matter.

Mr. J. Lyles Glenn, member of the House of Representatives from Chester county, has supplied The News with a copy of the Chester county supply bill which will appear in our next issue, and is something of our readers. The county levy for this year will be 14 1/4 mills as compared with 14 mills for last year. It had not been for last indicated by the Board of Directors the levy this year would have been between 11 and 12 mills. In addition to the county levy being raised, Chester county people will pay about $15,000 in gasoline tax, one-half of which will come back to the county, the other half going to the state. The News feels safe in saying this when the total taxes are added at the end of the present year Chester county people, along with the people of other counties, will have paid more taxes than any previous year in the history of the state. And ten years from now we will not be paying less taxes notwithstanding the promises made by various candidates for various offices.

We don't want Mr. Baruch to tell our farmer readers anything. We can tell them anything in one issue to keep them busy for many years, if they would do it, but they aren't going to do it so we are not going to tell them anything. If they don't know how to run their business why it is not our business to tell them. CUTS OWN THROAT AND SHOOTS WIFE

Automobile Dealer Attempts Suicide After Firing Three Shots. Miami, Feb. 26.—Edgar C. Frady, president and treasurer of a Chicago automobile sales company, shot his wife, probably fatally, and cut his own throat at a hotel here today, according to police. Both are in a hospital in a critical condition. Frady fired three bullets into his wife's body, the first entering her chest and penetrating the lung. Another entered her back and the third her hip. Frady's throat was slashed from ear to ear, the tongue being severed. Using a safety razor blade first, he failed to accomplish self destruction and seized a knife. The proprietor of the hotel, hearing the shots, rushed to Frady's suite. He found Mrs. Frady partly conscious on the bed. "He has killed me," she cried and pointed to the bath room. There Frady was found on the floor. Because of the condition of the two it was impossible to learn the cause of Frady's act, other than that the two had quarreled at length during the last two days. At the hospital tonight it was stated that it was doubtful if either would recover.

Why We Must Cut Cotton Acreage

Our correspondent on page 11, is undoubtedly right in both his prophecies. First, we must have a cotton crop of not over 8,000,000 bales in order to insure prosperity. Second, we cannot depend upon the boll weevil to cut production; cotton crops have averaged 12,000,000 bales since the boll weevil became widespread against 10,000,000 before. Where there is a combination of highly unfavorable seasons with lack of skill and experience in fighting the weevil (as happened in South Carolina last year) it is very disastrous. But in states where farmers have learned how to deal with the weevil, it is regarded as cutting the yield not over 15 per cent. Consequently, we hear that the cotton growers of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Mississippi, where they have had long experience with the weevil, are almost sure to make a heavy increase in cotton acreage this year. The important point for us to remember is that the weevil makes cotton growing more expensive—but that the farmer does go ahead and make cotton just the same. He makes it greater expense, but nevertheless he makes it. Consequently it will be nothing less than tragic for cotton farmers to plant a bigger acreage this year and then expect the Lord to save them from their folly by means of flood, drought, or insect. Nearly everywhere some foolish people are saying, "We had a short crop last year and the world is only half-fed, and it needs a normal-sized cotton crop this year." The answer to this is that the world buys not with needs but with cash. And it lacks cash. If the cotton growers of the South want to secure their own families to provide clothing for the world as a matter of charity, it will be all right for them to go ahead and plant a big crop. But not otherwise. Every local county and state farmers' organization in the South—whether Cotton Association, Farmers Union, Farm Bureau, or cooperative marketing association—ought to have a meeting and interest itself immediately in this matter of regulated production. Eight million bales mean prosperity. Twelve million bales mean continued poverty.—Progressive Farmer.

PLAN TO PROBE SCHOOL SYSTEM

Resolution Calls For Thorough Investigation. Will Be Given Consideration Today—Backed by Citizens' Association. A thorough probe into the entire public school system of the state is proposed in a concurrent resolution introduced in the house yesterday morning by Representative Irdesell Hilliard of Georgetown. The resolution provides for the appointment of three members of the house and three members of the senate as an investigatory committee to make the investigation and study of the school system and to report its findings with recommendations to the next general assembly. The committee would be empowered to summon and require the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, papers and records necessary for its inquiry. The proposed investigation is backed by the South Carolina Citizens' Educational Association and by the South Carolina Federation of Labor, both of which organizations have passed resolutions asking that such a study be made. Opposition to the resolution is expected to be raised, however, upon the grounds of economy and also because of the fact that another general election will intervene before the committee could make its report. Immediate consideration of resolution was objected to yesterday morning and it will therefore not come up until today. The resolution follows in full: "Be it resolved by the house of representatives, the senate concurring: Section 1. That a committee to consist of three members of the house of representatives and three members from the senate be appointed to investigate and study the entire system of public schools in the state of South Carolina, and report their findings with their recommendations to the general assembly not later than the third day of the session of 1923. "Sec. 2. That full power and authority be hereby given said committee to summon and require the attendance of witnesses, the production of books, papers and records, and to examine same wherever and whenever it may so desire, and to employ the services of a clerk and stenographer if they deem same necessary.

per mile for each mile traveled by him to perform his duties hereunder, not to exceed, however, more than 50 days for the year.

"Sec. 4. That the per diem, mileage and expenses of said committee, and the total expenses for each investigation are hereby limited not to exceed $5,000."

fund of the general assembly upon the order of the clerks of both houses issued upon the certificate of the chairman of the said committee, and that the total expenses for each investigation are hereby limited not to exceed $5,000."

ITS NOT WHAT IT COSTS TO GET IN THE NEWS—BUT WHAT IT COSTS YOU TO STAY OUT.

What Does It Cost to Stop Advertising?

You remember James Pyle's Pearline. It had been advertised regularly from 1873 to 1907.

Then the trustees of the estate saw a brilliant chance to save money. They cut out advertising.

Sales dropped like a clap hammer—profits went where soapbuds and bubbles go. In 1914 Pearline, like Jess Willard, tried to come back. But it was too late. The business was sold at a price which is said to have covered barely the value of the machinery and inventory.

Moral: A business will grow as long as it advertises.

A salesforce will thrive as long as it TRIES.

You can't make progress against the current unless you keep rowing. But the harder you row, the faster you go.

How much will The News' readers spend in your store?

Doesn't the answer to that question depend upon you?

Advertise—means to sell. Not to advertise usually means to fail.
