NO. 9

Adjoining County News.

Shirley Mack, a Clover, N.C., mill operator lying in a jail since Wednesday, awaiting the result of a forty-pound blow he struck Walter Farrer, an other negro, on the head with a four-pound hammer on Wednesday afternoon. The incident happened on the roof of the Hampshire mill at Clover. As Mack was in the act of taking a seat Farrer pulled the seat from under, and when Mack got up he crushed Farrer on the head. Farrer went down and out and he was still out when Constable Johnson brought Mack to jail. Farrer, however, was walking about this morning. Mack Smith, of Clover, was in Yorkville yesterday. He said that it used to be that he could sit at the depot and see everything that was going on in town; but these days if an every day thing, while riding about town, to run upon fire-fished houses that he had never seen. "Clover is growing some," I told you," he declared. "Rev. Mr. Westhaver and L. D. Lowdie, of Bullock's Creek, were in Yorkville today in the interest of the Charleston System incorporated in the state highway system. They were concerned principally as to how to proceed to that end, and the understanding is that they will have a delegation from the state highway commission in the interest of the Catawba Bridge road. Ches Wood had an arm dislocated and a leg broken. It was especially badly smashed as the result of a rear-end collision at Filbert last Sunday afternoon. A young negro named Sadler, charged with responsibility for the accident, was fined $25 for reckless driving; he agreed to pay Wood's doctor bill and $12 a day for the time Wood is disabled, and the car he was driving was held to indemnify Whisonant for damages sustained by his own car. It appears that Whisonant's car was standing on the side of the road near Land's store. Wood was standing on the ground talking to him. When Sadler came around the bend at a high rate of speed Wood jumped on the running board of Whisonant's car to get out of the way. Sadler's car struck Whisonant's car and carried it along for some distance. Wood was hurt in the smash. Sadler was taken before Magistrate Love at Clover, where the whole thing was adjudicated as above outlined. There were thirteen negroes in the car that Sadler was driving. The car belonged in Gastonia. "Except for an enormous misunderstanding that interfered with a carefully laid plan a bunch of five distillers would have been nicely rounded up on the Preston Goforth place about two miles from the battleground last Tuesday; but as it was the distillers got away and the officers got nothing but the distillery outfit, a lot of muck and a little liquor. The fact of the distillery being in operation had been reported to Magistrate Love at Clover and also to Constable Johnson. The people who gave the information did not know the exact location. They knew about where the liquor was being made and they knew the parties who were making it, but whether or not they were to make still another run, or had about run out, they were not sure and the balance was up to the officers. On the strength of the information received Constable Johnson hatched a plan under which, disguised as negroes he and Carson Hedrick, could sweep the neighborhood, and if they found anything to warrant them they would call Sheriff Quinn, and Magistrate Love to come at once with sufficient men to take a roundup. It was especially desired not only to capture the illicit distillery outfit; but all those connected with it as well. Putting in the afternoon before seeing the country, Johnson and Hedrick found the still, and in their disguise as negroes next day they had no trouble in getting near the place. They wandered on in kinder accidentally like, and instead of getting right up to it, went to the top of a hill from which they could look down on the place where five men were waiting. The distiller paid no attention to the negroes and the negroes stood and watched until they thought they had learned about all they wanted to know. Let's go down der," after a while suggested Hedrick. "I ain't goin' where den white folks is," replied Johnson, and then they sauntered leisurely away. As soon as Johnson and Hedrick were able to reach a telephone, they got word to Sheriff Quinn, and he with Deputy Sheriff Quinn and Magistrate Love immediately started for the scene. Also he tried to reach Magistrate Love but was unable to do so, he having gone out of Clover to where nobody seemed to know. The herd and his party joined Johnson and Hedrick at the spot that had been agreed upon all right and there it was arranged that five of them would surround the bunch of hooded makers and take them in the act; but when they closed in they only found Magistrate Love and two or three men he had brought with him. It turned out that in spite of advance precautions the whole plan had gone awry. While Johnson and Hedrick were sitting on the hill watching the distillers, Magistrate Love got a cautious message to "Come on, they are making now." The magistrate thought the message was from Johnson; but it was really from the party who had given the original information. So naturally they set out to destroy the outfit, though while looking for Johnson and Hedrick came into the view of the distillers, who quietly vanished out of the neighborhood. When the party that had been summoned by Johnson and Hedrick arrived, they found that Magistrate Love's party had already reached the scene and flushed the quarry. There was nothing left to do, therefore, but to set and destroy the outfit, though it is stated that some warrants will be issued for men who were operating the outfit.—Yorkville Equifer.

I pity no man because he has to work. If he is worth his salt he will work. I envy the man who has a work worth doing and does it well.

AN ANDERSON FARMER LOST PART OF SCALP IN CONTACT WITH 'SAW'

Anderson, S. C., March 10.—Sixty-five articles upon the head of H. H. Holly, (farmer of Anderson county), were necessary in replacing a large portion of his scalp which he severed as the result of an accident which occurred Thursday afternoon when Mr. Holly was struck by a flying fragment of a circular saw, flushed to a local hospital he was treated and despite the apparent seriousness of his injuries, the man returned to his home shortly after being treated. Mr. Holly was engaged in sawing wood when the saw he was using either because of the velocity of the engine, or by reason of the fact that the saw came in contact with some solid object, was broken into fragments. Mr. Holly suffered the loss of a portion of three fingers of his left hand. One piece of the broken saw struck him behind the left ear with such force as to tear away a large portion of flesh and hair, which however, was not completely severed from the head. His condition is not regarded as serious. AGED WHITE MAN PLACED IN JAIL

Charge of Attacking an Elvers Year Old Girl Brought in Greenwood. Greenwood, March 8.—W. T. Saxon, 65 year old white man, in the county jail here, charged with making a criminal attack on an 11 year old white girl in his shop in a local mill village yesterday afternoon. Saxon was arrested this morning and a warrant had been sworn out by relatives of the child. He stoutly denied the charges. There is little excitement and officers do not anticipate any trouble. According to the child's statement to her parents, she went to Saxon's workshop yesterday afternoon and was attacked while there. She claimed that she had been similarly attacked before but had been prevented from telling by Saxon's threats. Chief of Police M. B. Chandler said today that a report of a medical examination yesterday afternoon indicated that no mark of violence were found. Saxon was believed to have been fatally wounded on February 23, 1922, in an automobile accident, and was believed to have been recovered. While on what he believed was his deathbed, he dictated a statement, implicating John Burnett as the man who had shot him. Saxon, later denied that Burnett shot him. Burnett confessed to the holding of two school boys and was convicted of holding and shooting Saxon. He is now serving an eight-year sentence in the state penitentiary.

YOUTH IN DILLON STABS ANOTHER

Clash Between Two Mill Workers Ends in Tragedy—Instant Death Comes. Dillon, March 10.—George Coners, aged 17 years, was stabbed in the head this morning at the Barton cotton mill by Sandy Smith, Jr., aged 15 years. The Coners boy fell to the ground and died without speaking. It was developed at the inquest that the Coners boy struck the Smith boy one or more times before Smith stabbed him. The two boys, both of whom workers in the mill, had been having fights from time to time, it was said.

PRISONER'S DEATH ENDS MURDER CASE

Chief Hawkins Dies in Jail He Thought Slew Man Whom He Thought Had Talked to Officers Former Killings. Greenville, March 9.—Clifton L. Hawkins, young white man of this county, convicted some months ago of the murder of William Morgan, died in the county jail this morning at 6:50 o'clock, following an acute attack of meningitis. The death of Hawkins, after he had been charged with the murder of Morgan and a negro woman named Josie Craig in this county in 1920, convicted in the same trial and twice placed in the death chair at the penitentiary, removed from the jurisdiction of the courts here, is the most noted case in the criminal annals of the county. Funeral services will be held Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at Lighttower in upper Greenville county and the body will be interred there, within a few miles of the scene of his two alleged murders. Hawkins had been in fair health until a few days ago. Only last Thursday he talked to newspaper men and he declared that he would eventually come clear of charges and be a free man again. However, he died before his death, a malady which Dr. T. R. Wilson, who held the autopsy, diagnoses as meningitis, made rapid headway and he is dead in his cage early this morning. Hawkins, with some friends, was traveling along a road in the upper portion of the county on July 4, 1920, a hack load of negroes approached and Hawkins is said to have fired a few shots into the bus. Some time later, Hawkins approached William Morgan near his home in the upper portion of the county. It is said to have accused Morgan of "talking" to officers about who shot the negroes. Words followed and Morgan was shot dead by Hawkins who then turned the gun on himself and inflicted a bad wound in the upper arm. He finally recovered after struggling between life and death for some days. He was tried and convicted for the murder of Morgan and sentenced to life. Appeal was taken and a new hearing was granted after a battle in the court of more than a year. It was brought back from the death house of the penitentiary to the county jail to await his new hearing. Solicitor D. W. Shook said last week that Hawkins might be taken at the term of sessions' court opening here Monday.

RAIN-MAKING BY USE OF THIS AIRPLANE IS DECLARED SUCCESS

Washington, March 10.—Rain making by use of the airplane has been demonstrated to be practicable in general, according to the report of the General Army air station, Brigadier Oliver William Mitchell, of the army service, said in an address here last night. The experiment, he said, were being continued by scientists with the use of army equipment. Mitchell said that the experiment was conducted at the General Mitchell Air Station, where the experiments consisted of sending up an airplane loaded with five canisters which had been charged with positive electricity. When the wind was shot into the clouds, a precipitation was induced, he said.

TUESDAY, MARCH 13.

It looks as if every other man you meet this week is a head hunter. There is no need to wonder what is wrong. This is the last week of filing income tax reports and it is common knowledge that every man, "discovered" by the tax man, gets a little "cussing" and that they have to sit down to make "cut" that tax report.

You know the government hired a bunch of lawyers, university professors, etc., to make out the blanks and what one could not think of to put in the report, the other did, consequently the blank represents somewhat of a mathematical proportion. In fact when the tax department gets your income tax report and peruses it they know more about your business than you do yourself. We fail to see any sense of a man having to make out an income tax report when he is not liable to the tax. The government could save tons of paper and millions of hours of precious time if they would pass a law fixing it so that one who was not liable to the tax he would not be required to make a return. A man being required to make out a long tax report when he is not liable for tax makes us think of sending a man a statement of his account when he does not owe a cent. It is just about as much sense to one as the other.

If you, Mr. Reader, could see the blank The News has in front of its income you would think the plant was a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company or the Ford Motor Company, until you hit the last line where the net income is shown and then you would think it was the annual report of a "hot" business.

But, we suppose all this red tape, etc., etc., must be gone through with in order that a few sap-headed, goggle eyed, catfish mouth government clerks might draw their handsome and lucrative salaries while the farmers and farmers scrap like h— trying to keep our stomachs from carving in against our backbones.

Young Woman Suicides.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Elmore, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Elmore, of Greenville, and a student at Greenville Woman's College, was found mysteriously shot to death in a bedroom of her home early "yesterday" afternoon. The young woman's body was in a partially upright position on a bed. A blood stained revolver, containing one empty shell, was lying nearby. A single shot had taken effect in the girl's head. The girl had been in excellent health, it was the only explanation of a possible suicide could be given.

SOCIAL MEETING.

Armenia School Improvement Association has Pleasant Social Meeting.

Special to The News. The Armenia School Improvement Association held its monthly meeting on last Friday at the School building which was beautifully decorated in green and white.

After all the business had been disposed with a social hour was enjoyed, with Mrs. S. B. Koser as guest of honor.

An interesting Saint Patrick's Day event was participated in, the prize being won by Mrs. R. C. Baley. A delightful salad course with shamrock favors was served by a lady of High School girls.

Mrs. A. N. Grant gave a summary of the work of the Association in the following original verse, which pays a tribute to Mrs. Koser to whom she presented a silver vase as a gift from the association.

Ladies, gentlemen, members and friends, We are here today, in response to an invitation.

Sent out by the School Improvement Association. We've had monthly meetings for quite a long while To which some of our members have walked a good mile.

But today we've put aside all things that annoy And want with you a social hour to enjoy.

The aim of our meetings has been to make better Our school and surroundings, to remove every fetter That would hinder our program as an up-to-date school. We put oil on the floints, to the windows put shades, Not only in one room, but in all the grades.

A nice drinking fountain we put in the hall, Attractive posters and pictures were put on the walls.

Our needs for improvement have been many, I know, But great things all from little things grow.

We painted the outside of the building last year And now on the landscape it stands out quite clear.

We want to come up to the great expectation Laid down by the heads of the State Association.

All meetings are held in the room of Miss Ray Where we have a nice stage upon which to play.

When we give entertainments to help defray Expenses incurred and our just bills to pay.

We have not made all these improvements ourselves, For just look at the books on our library shelves.

From whence did they come? Not bought from our purse.

Most of them were a gift from our county nurse. In our school and community she seemed interested. And quite a good bit of her time she invested.

In teaching us women for the sick child to care, And the value of food and also fresh air.

For more than a year in the county, she worked, And never a call or a duty she shirked.

Up and down the big roads in her car she would go, To walk on the sick and to nurse them, just so.

Her face grew familiar to all of us here— And then to our hearts came a sickening fear.

Now what was the cause of all our unrest? Why it seemed some one her heart had possessed.

Oh, shy, cunning Cupid! Your darts are so keen That our Dr. Koser has gained him a queen.

I know we shall miss her, but that will be nil! If the great vacant place in his heart she can fill.

Mrs. Koser, We want to be friendly and show you we care So we have purchased this nice silverware.

It will help you adorn your bridal bowers. And will at some time hold a beautiful flower. We hope our gift will give you pleasure.

But our regard for you it can not measure. 'Tis not the weight of jewel or plate, Or the fettle of silk or fur,

'Tis the spirit in which the gift is rich, As the gifts of the wise ones were. And we are not told whose gift was gold.

Or whose was the gift of myth. PRESBYTERIANS RESPOND TO APPEAL OF COLLEGE

Clinton, March 10.—While the necessary amount has not been pledged, members of the Presbyterian denomination throughout the state are responding to the appeal to make possible the new dormitory at the Presbyterian College of South Carolina, President D. M. Douglas declared today on his return from a trip over the state.

The sum of $50,000 must be raised by June 1 if we are to receive the $25,000 offered by Captain A. B. Smyth of Greenville," Dr. Douglas said. "Friends of the college throughout the state who realize the urgent need of a new dormitory here are expected to rally to the support of the college before that time. Captain Smyth has offered the sum of $25,000 provided the remainder of the denomination gives the remaining $50,000, June 1 the time when the offer expires."

Plans for the dormitory have been drawn and Dr. Douglas, who has devoted his time for more than a dozen years to the upbuilding of the institution, believes that Presbyterians and other friends of the college throughout the state will not let this offer of Captain Smyth go by without a response. That the dormitory is urgently needed is shown by the fact that the 183 students here are crowded into two dormitories which were intended to accommodate less than that number. Applications already received indicate that the enrollment for next year will be larger, provided suitable quarters can be provided until a dormitory is erected.

In the meantime, efforts to make real the proposed gymnasium are still under way. This building for which plans have been drawn, would cost $100,000 and probably would be the largest gymnasium in the state. It would be a fitting as well as almost necessary part of the equipment of a college which during the last few years has risen to a high place in the athletic circles of the state and southeast.

Kansas saves $200,000 a year by printing its own school textbooks.

CALCIUM ARSENATE

We have just received a carload of Calcium Arsenate, this Arsenate was manufactured by Riches-Piver & Co., of New York, who made the first Calcium Arsenate the Government used in their experiment station in Louisiana; Therefore it is the best.

For the next 30 days we will sell this arsenate at 18 cents in order to make room.

We are reliably informed that Calcium Arsenate is very scarce, and we think it would be very wise to secure your Calcium Arsenate now. We were fortunate in getting this early, otherwise we could not begin to sell this Arsenate at this price.

Cotton is too high to take chances in not poisoning and you cannot make it without the use of Calcium Arsenate, and when you buy it, you want to be sure you get the best.

We direct the attention of our readers to the advertisements of the merchants. Read them and know where to go for your bargains, which will be offered on these two days. The fact that Chester is to have Dollie Days has also been advertised in York and Fairfield counties and no doubt there will be a large crowd of people here for the occasion. Chester merchants have had previous similar occasions and the shoppers have been well pleased with the offers made by the various merchants.

The News has discussed the creation of the experimental station at Florence, with several Chester County farmers and has yet to find a single one who favors the proposition, which called for an expenditure of $25,000 by the General Assembly. All of the farmers interviewed are of the opinion that the station will not be worth two cents to them.

It is stated that Mr. T. L. Eberhardt has bought the new "Wyle" street, in front of the Presbyterian church, and is thinking of erecting an apartment house.

J. E. Ross, of Great Falls, who has been in the Chester county jail for some time charged with attempted criminal assault, was released Saturday on a bond of $500.

It will be recalled that a few years ago the Lancaster and Chester county delegations had a bitter fight before the legislature providing for the erection or operation of a ferry between Chester and Lancaster counties, near Fort Lawn. For some reason on the Chester subsidies took no interest in the matter whatever and nothing was done for several months. Finally Lancaster county went to work and constructed the ferry of its own account and is now monthly getting a nice sum from the operation of the ferry. During one month last summer the receipts of the ferry were $200. For some reason is another instance of where Chester county went to sleep and in the loss.

Some people are of the impression that because county and state laws have been extended until the first of April without additional penalty that the city taxes are being held until in the same manner. This is wrong. The time for the payment of city taxes expires next Thursday, March 15th, and all who have not paid their taxes by that time will be served with execution.

Mr. William P. Sledge who has been away from Chester for about ten years, during that time having been located in Honolulu, is expected to arrive in Chester in the next few days for an extended visit to his sisters, Mrs. T. R. Woods and Misses Mary and Maud Sledge.

There will be a meeting of the Chester county members of the South Carolina Cotton Growers Co-operative Association at the Court House in Chester, Thursday morning at eleven o'clock. Dr. J. B. Johnson, of Rock Hill, directed the attention from this district, will be the principal speaker at the meeting and has a vital message for the farmers of Chester county. Notices have been sent out to the members and all are urged to attend. A campaign will be on in Chester county beginning the 20th of this month and will continue for four days at which time the campaign will be signed up. The contract now run for a period of four years and those who now have over half year's cotton on hand may become members without turning over their old cotton if they so desire. The campaign for new members will cover the entire county.

A CORRECTION.

During the rush of getting up the various advertisements in this issue two errors were overlooked in the advertisement of The S. P. U. Co. Department Store. Men's $5.00 shirts are advertised for $1.00, whereas it should be Men's $1.00 shirts for $1.00. With every pair of Oxford's bought during the sale will be given a pair of silk, any color. The red, red, collar, when it should read color. To reading the ad kindly bear these two corrections in mind.

WILL BE HERE FRIDAY.

MOUTH OF VOLCANO

RESIDENTS IN THE VICINITY OF CALIFORNIA'S ONLY ACTIVE VOLCANO, WATCHED THE CRATER FOR SIGNS OF A RESURRECTION OF YESTERDAY'S PRIGIONS.

Although the day was clear, not a wisp of smoke or steam was seen and least hazy part set down yesterday's eruption as merely one of the nearly 200 witnessed since 1914 when Lassen peak began spouting steam and mud. Yesterday's outpourings were less violent than most of the eruptions. The only significant eruption had been emitted from a new fissure east of the main crater. Whether the volcano has broken in a new place or whether wind played a part in the direction taken by the smoke and steam remains to be determined.

Death of Mr. E. P. Calhoun.

Many friends in Chester and Chester county were grieved last Saturday to learn of the death of Mr. Edwin Preston Calhoun which occurred in a hospital in Atlanta, Ga., where he recently went in the interest of his health. Mr. Calhoun had been ill for some time and recently was at his bedside last Friday morning and advised his many friends that there was no hope for his recovery, nevertheless the announcement of his death came as a distinct shock to Chester people.

Mr. Calhoun was a native of Willington, Abbeville county, and was fifty-one years of age. He was a graduate of York College. Soon after graduation he became connected with Swift & Company and had been continuously with that company for twenty-three years and had been a resident of Chester for a number of years as manager of the local plant of the above named company.

Mr. Calhoun was an active member of Purity Presbyterian church and took an active interest in church affairs. A few years ago he served as city alderman and was at all times deeply interested in civic affairs.

Mr. Calhoun is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sadie Smith Rice Calhoun; two brothers, Mr. Rice Estess and Mr. Rice Estess; and five sisters, Messrs. John Calhoun, of Atlanta, and Patrick Calhoun, of Macon; and Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Silver and Misses Cary and Ida Calhoun, of Clemson College; and Mrs. Gilbert.

The funeral services were conducted at Clemson College Sunday by Dr. Flannery Shepperson, assisted by Rev. A. R. Moore. The interment was made in Old Pendleton burying ground.

60 PASSENGERS ON A SUBWAY TRAIN GASSIED BY ETHER

Escaped From Car Carried by Man Taking it Home "For a Cold"

New York, March 10.—Sixty passengers on a Seventh avenue subway train were overcome early today by ether escaping from a can carried by Richard Chanoro, young South American, who told police he was taking it home for a cold.

When the train pulled in at 96th street station, practically every passenger in one car was swooning; some women were hysterical. Two passengers were removed to a hospital.

The train was jammed with late after-theater crowds, but the fumes confined to one car. When the two passengers who were the most seriously overcome, were carried from the car, police were summoned to preserve order.

Chanoro entered the train at 72nd street. Soon afterwards the pungent odor of the ether permeated the car and men and women became ill. Some of those standing dropped to the floor unconscious. A patrolman and a detective who were passengers and partly overcome, saw Chanoro holding a tin can and traced the fumes to it. When he attempted to walk away, they pounced upon him.

The can weighed a quarter of a pound and was labeled "ether." Chanoro also had a bottle of ether in his pocket. In broken English he told the police he had a bad cold and was taking ether for it. He said he came to this country seven months ago.

SCIENTIST SAYS CAN SEE WITH HIS EARS

Possible to Taste Music, Feel Swell, and Hear Subst. He Declares.

Chicago, Ill., March 11.—The first day of an era in which future man will "taste his phonograph," "feel the street smell of flowers," and "hear the roar of a sunset damped Saturday night with the completion of scientific experiments," here, by Professor Robert H. Gault, Northwestern University.

The scientist announced his tests had proved it possible to hear with the finger tips. It proved further, he said, that substitution of one of the five senses for another was accomplished easily.

"Two normal young men have undergone the test of hearing," said Professor Gault, "by means of apparatus we have set up in our laboratory. They may communicate with each from points three rooms removed, through a speaking tube."

"The receiver has his hand in a sound proof box in the mouth of the tube. To eliminate any chance of his hearing the slightest sound through the tube with his ears, a motor and a metronome are made to go throughout the tests. They may place together whole sentences, using only the nerves of the hand, resting on a diaphragm. It is the same principle involved in hearing, by placing one's finger on a speaker's throat."

"We have progressed, too, with experiments in color perception, by the sense of smell. We blindfolded a girl so no light reached her eyes. At first she 'smelled' only solid colors, but in time could distinguish the patterns of a plaid tie without touching it. The theory is that each coloring pigment gives off a different odor."

SLOW THINKERS LOSE

Perhaps persons who drive automobiles have noticed that some people, when in danger of being run over, jump more quickly than others.

At one end of the line is the pedestrian who, caught in the tight corner of traffic, has perfect control of himself, also the power of instantaneous decision. Such a person knows exactly what to do, in a given circumstance.

The other extreme is the person who, suddenly trapped in a maze of traffic, loses his head and tries to jump out of it. The slightest idea which way to turn to avoid an accident, the speed with which one is able to make up his mind in any emergency is what the scientist term reaction time.

"Those who have the time and the interest—and who has not—may test their reaction time for themselves, and others, just how many seconds it takes to telegraph danger, or the need of quick action, of the brain, then decide the matter, and start the body on the way to carry out the orders without faltering."

A federal government bulletin says that "reaction time is the interval of time that elapses between the instant a sign or signal is seen and the necessary action started: A driver starts to pass another vehicle when suddenly a third vehicle appears which may block his path. The driver must decide whether to pass the vehicle or drop back. If this reaction time is slow, he may not realize the danger until too late to avert an accident. The reaction time of some people is very slow and undoubtedly is the cause of many accidents. Does the public safety require that such people be denied driver licenses? The Bureau of Public Roads is not yet ready to advocate such a policy, but considers that it should be investigated as a possible safety measure."

A very able suggestion, "Put into effect, it would eliminate at least four of our auto drivers—and the same percent of pedestrians."

What determines any one's "reaction time"? What makes one person quick to reach decision and act in emergency, while another is slower? The answer leads us back to the body's endocrine glands, interest in which has lately been eclipsed by King Tut, Cows and the Chaplin-Nag incident.

The adrenal glands, attached to the kidneys, are the regulators of "reaction time." They rally reserve energy in emergency and telegraph through blood and nerves the command to halt activity in all parts of the body except the parts needed to extricate the body from the emergency. Blood is rushed to speed up the muscles needed "in a pinch."

Quick wits are the best in emergency, and emergencies are all about us today. The accidents would be greatly curtailed, if both drivers and pedestrians would follow the advice of the German tenderfoot and a leetle look out, vonce-and we might as well make up our minds to this necessity, since the automobile is here to stay until something faster and better succeeds it.

STUDY DOES IT.
By H. Addington Bruce.
Thirty years ago two boys began work in humble capacities in a department store. One of the two still is employed in a minor position. The other is head of a store larger than that which first gave him employment.

How account for the former's failure to rise as compared with the latter's astonishing progress? On the score of a difference in labor ability, inherited gifts?

Perhaps. Yes to attribute it to heredity is surely mere guessing, in view of the fact that no one can say with certainty just what any individual inherits.

Besides which there is the significant circumstance that in the contrasting attitude of the two boys toward their work there conceivably is adequate explanation of the differing courses of their business careers.

Common sense tells us that no boy, however gifted by heredity, can get very far if he declines to make any use of his gifts. On the other hand, we equally have the assurance of common sense that any boy, unless helplessly handicapped by heredity, should achieve much through effort systematically applied—as it did in the case of the second of the two boys in question effort was most systematically applied—as it did in the case of the first boy.

The first looked upon his work as do so many boys entering business—as a mere means to livelihood. His great desire was to do his work efficiently enough to be kept on the payroll. Beyond that he had no interest in the tasks assigned him.

No so with the second boy.

From the start he made it clear that he was more intent on working to good purpose than on the money he would brought him. Overtime had no terror for him. In fact, evening after evening while his less enthusiastic colleague was at play, he was thinking out problems connected with his work.

He studied the goods he had to handle, he studied selling methods and buying principles, he studied the customers that came into the store where he was employed. Day by day and he was so truly a student as any ardent pupil in a school or university.

His study gave him a vast fund of facts, it gave him original ideas—so it gave him—as study faithfully prosecuted always gives—acquired aptitude for the work he had undertaken to do. Thus, little by little, he progressed, because he had taken pains to fit himself to progress.

As with him, so with all contentedly successful men in the world of business. Possibly heredity has had, as so many believe, much to do with making them successful. But as to this, I would repeat, we have no positive knowledge.

We do know positively, though, that one and all they have been students in their special fields of endeavor.

They read and they thought, they listened and they used their eyes, with reference to whatever work they had in hand. And the conclusion is unavoidable that whatever they did or did not inherit, they progressed through willingness to work and eagerness to learn.

Study did it for them. Study, really earnest study, wisely directed study, always does it.
