FRIDAY, MARCH 2:

Unless Chester county does some permanent road improvement, the Federal Government will not give the county any of the road money recently appropriated by Congress. This appropriation is amount to five years and for Chester county to get the greatest benefit it is necessary to get in on the ground floor.

The money spent in building roads in Chester will practically all be spent in the bounds of the county. The only money to amount to anything going out of the county will be for bridges and some little material—Chester county people will do the work and will get the money.

Before voting on the county bond issue you know how many miles will be built in your township and you also know just how many dollars will be spent in your township.

The mileage of roads to be built, if the bond issue carries, is about equally divided between the Western side and the Eastern side of the county. There is about eleven miles more in the Eastern section than in the Western section.

We would suggest that the Chester Telephone Company either issue a new telephone directory or notify their subscribers that they will no longer be required to pay by number. It is very humiliating to call number as shown by the directory and when the party answers the phone, you find it is the wrong party, who as a rule takes pleasure in "snapping you up" because you have called him in error.

THE COUNTY BOND ISSUE.

As to how the bond issue for Chester county is going to be decided is a matter of speculation at the present time but a survey of public opinion now leads to believe the strongest opposition to the bond issue is in the rural section of the county.

We have no desire to influence the voters of the county with misleading statements and if we did not believe the bond issue would be for the benefit of the county we would not hesitate to say so. Before the election every voter in the county will have the opportunity to be familiar with every detail connected with the building of permanent roads. There are statements being made against the bond issue that are without foundation. We do not believe people would go around willfully making false statements but many people are talking that know not whereof they speak, and we think, in a matter of such great importance, people should guard their statements. It is nothing but right that they should.

From a financial standpoint we firmly believe the floating of bonds will be of more benefit to the people living in the rural districts than to the people in the towns. The bond tax books show that approximately 75 per cent of the taxes collected are paid by corporations and people living in the railroads and limits of the towns in Chester county. This leaves 25 per cent to be paid by the people in the rural districts. If the bond issue carried $100,000, besides the federal funds, will be spent in the county. Bridges and material to be purchased out of the county will cost approximately $100,000. This leaves $350,000 to be spent among the people in the county and practically every cent of it will go to the rural people. The building of 200 miles of road will take possibly three or more years and will call for hundreds of teams and laborers, and the teams will have to be furnished by the farmers of the county who will get pay for every day they are used. If it takes two years to complete the work in Chester county, a man with one team should, working one-half the time, be able to get almost $1,500 for his work.

Yes, we are frank to say that if the bond issue carries the farmers of Chester county will have the opportunity of making thousands of dollars in the use of their teams.

WYLLIE'S

WYLLIE'S

Col. John P. Bragg, of New York, his presentation at the Opera House in March. The members of the Library Committee of Chester are enthusiastic about the prospect of presenting Miss D. Hope Leonard's beautiful spectacular operatic extravaganza, "Alice in Wonderland," in the audience of Association during March 1917. Almost every man, woman and child in the land is familiar with Lewis Carroll's popular fairy tale of "Alice in Wonderland." It is the paragon of recent years, however, that the book has been dramatized and set to music, but the success has been remarkable. The peculiar and odd characters, which Alice saw in her wonderful dream will be enacted on the stage, interspersed with bright songs, specialties, marches, dances, etc.

"TOOK OVER-DOSE OF POISON."
Yesterday morning Mr. I. H. Norris took an overdose of strychnine tablets, apparently with the intent to end his life. Mr. Norris was in an attorney's office discussing a notice of suit brought against him by a York County man. During the conference, in the office, Mr. Norris asked for a drink of water and was directed where to get it. After returning to the office for a few minutes he asked for the second drink. Shortly after returning the second time he complained of being sick and in a few minutes had a convulsion. Physicians were immediately summoned who discovered that he was suffering from a dose of poison. It took several hours to revive Mr. Norris and yesterday afternoon he was taken to the Chester Sanatorium for further treatment. It is stated that he is now out of danger.

"NO BILL" RETURNED.
Abbeville, Feb. 27.—"No bill" was found by the grand jury on the bills of indictments charging five prominent white men with lynching. A. D. P. Gilmore, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Spartanburg, left Monday night for Richmond, with his eight-year-old son, Mervin, whom he is taking to the Elizabeth Hospital in that city for an operation. Dr. J. Stewart Haysley, who has operated on Monroe, will, before, will perform the operation this week. The little fellow's trouble is understood to be internal and was caused by injuries received while the family were residing in Chester.

The Basket-Ball game of "The Blues" vs "The Stars" played at the Commercial Club court ended in a victory for "the Hardis Blues" of 14 Stars" was: Forwards - Murphy (Capt.) and Bagby; Center - Collins; Guards - Carter and Marshall. For "The Stars": Forwards - Hardin (Capt.) and Key; Center - Hemphill; Guards - Gibson and Williams. Officials: Gossell and Kluttz. The game was interesting throughout and was closely contested. The next game between these two teams will be next Monday P. M.

Last night at the Commercial Club the Chester High School Teams Basket-Ball team lost to the Club team by the score of 30 to 26. The winner was in doubt until the last minute of play.

We have on hand a large stock which we are offering at especially low prices in order to make room for new goods. Many articles listed here are cheaper than the present wholesale price. The same goods later on will cost you .50 cent more than our present price. This is a money saving sale. We have marked our prices at the bottom as we must have the room. We have already received several big shipments of Spring and Summer goods which we also offer at remarkably low prices during this sale. We have enumerated only a few of the many articles we have to close out.

TRUSTING.

"I would rather feel that my friends knew they could trust me than be the possessor of millions," said a woman the other day, speaking to a friend who had gone to her for advice. Unfortunately, she was one of us who do not entirely agree with her; unfortunately, too, there are others who, while we might say that we do, would not realize, were we saying; but, luckily, there are a few of us who would agree and who would mean that we said. The reason for this disagreement is to be found in the fact that we do not all appreciate the value of other men's faith in us, nor do we far-reaching in its effects such a faith in us as for the most part content with believing in ourselves, arguing, perhaps, that as long as we keep that faith in us or not. Self-faith, however, as a sturdy and flourishing plant as it may seem to be, is in danger of withering and decaying if left to itself. It must be tended and cared for to make it come to its best growth, and the things we do to make it so worthy of the trust of others. We depend entirely upon our faith in others to make other places their faith in us also we shall be disappointed, because while a certain degree of faith is essential to our well-being, too much of it is likely to make us self-centered and self-important.

If we have the spur of other people's faith in us to help us on we do not only do our best to deserve that faith, but at the same time keep our own self-faith white and pure. It is the consciousness that others trust that there are those who believe in us and who look to us for counsel, and who will be guided in large measure by what we say and do, that gives us the confidence, as it were, to put ourselves to trouble and inconvenience in order not to disappoint them. It is not always easy to keep faith with those who trust us, how ever honest our intentions may be. The world sets many snares for the unwary, and sometimes when we least expect it we find ourselves trapped because of some neglect or failure upon our part. We must be watchful in many ways if we are to retain the confidence and retain it those whose confidence we wish to have, and while it may seem a little thing to do, yet the varying condition of our lives, with their ups and falls, their temptations, their pitfalls, make the feat sometimes a difficult one. It is only by setting a watch upon our hearts, our minds, our eyes, our lips, our ears, that we can hope to win the full measure of the faith and trust of others—that confidence which, because it is given freely and unconditionally, is all the more to be desired. How do riches and honors and worldly preferment compare with the simple faith of those with whom we are brought in constant association? The former are hotheouse flowers, reared in luxurious environments, saturated with the world's wayward and whimsical whims, their temptations, their pitfalls, make the feat sometimes a difficult one. It is only by setting a watch upon our hearts, our minds, our eyes, our lips, our ears, that we can hope to win the full measure of the faith and trust of others—that confidence which, because it is given freely and unconditionally, is all the more to be desired.

"We have the joy of having a friend in whom we can trust, one in whom we may repose those sacred confidences that accompany the heart's nearest to the breaking point. Without such a friend, where else could we find opportunity to ease the pain which a secret grief sometimes causes? It is good to know, then, that there is one who is ready to help us bear our burdens, whose golden heart beats in sympathy with our needs, whether they be of joy or sorrow, of happiness or pain, whose arms are ready to embrace us, whose number such a friend among our intimates know the blessings which our trust in him brings to us, and how the value of his counsel, his helpful ministrations. With this knowledge in our hearts is it too great a task for us to accomplish that we should ourselves wonder at the trust and the faith of others? A blessing doubly shared is a blessing doubly enjoyed, and all the much position and glory of the world are not take the place of the true and self-sacrificing loyalty of one friend to another.

"LOOK SUCCESSFUL."
"Look successful" advises one who knows the value of his counsel, his helpful ministrations. There are few qualities of human nature that are more abused than that of self-restraint. We are sometimes given to exaggeration, because we lack the power to make ourselves understood in a quiet, forceful way and because we believe that by resorting to over-emphasis we make our meaning clearer to those who misunderstand. In a quiet, forceful way and because we believe that by resorting to over-emphasis we make our meaning clearer to those who misunderstand. In a quiet, forceful way and because we believe that by resorting to over-emphasis we make our meaning clearer to those who misunderstand.

who incline to an exaggerated style of living, but there are many others who are content to live quiet, easy-going lives with no thought of posing in the limelight. However, that may be, when it comes to our individual feelings we find it quite easy to exhibit a least an over-emphasis of proportion; to make much of the smaller personal vanities of life and to set great store by many insignificant details which really do not count for very much. The power of self-restraint is a power for good that we do not, as a rule, look upon in this way. If we exercised it at all times we would find that many of our problems would become mere trifles; many of our hard duties, easy accomplishments. It is because we lack a certain degree of self-restraint that we are so often led into the influence of our lack of restraint that we raise many obstacles for ourselves in life, because if we had exercised that simple restraint both of speech and manner, of which we should all be capable we should probably have aroused no spirit of antagonism in others. We know how it is with others, how sometimes their untreated words in mind that we, too, because of our weak human nature, can easily work like karna, to those about us.

When we talk a great deal about what we are going to do and then we get any one to listen to us we keep on talking until we find our comfort threatened by our lack of restraint, and our conception of life is completely upset and in sore need of adjustment. It is only by consistent and continuous effort that we are able to crush down the impulses to think and talk unrestrainedly when sober reflection and common sense would dictate the wiser course. A writer ever became great in his profession until he cultivated the art of restraint to the point where he was able to express his ideas in simple vigorous language without resort to over-emphasis. The same rule holds good in all other lines of endeavor, because it is those that are able to express his ideas in simple vigorous language without resort to over-emphasis. The same rule holds good in all other lines of endeavor, because it is those that are able to express his ideas in simple vigorous language without resort to over-emphasis.

MASS MEETING MONDAY.
A mass meeting of the citizens of Chester County will be held Monday, March 6, 1917 at 11 o'clock a.m. in the City Hall, Chester, S. C. for the purpose of explaining and discussing every question pertaining to the proposed County Bond issue of $150,000. This meeting will give every voter of the county an opportunity of expressing every fact pertaining to the curing, cost, construction, etc., of the proposed roads, so that he can vote intelligently and will not have to depend upon the opinion of another person in deciding how to cast his ballot.

FOR A CITIZEN ARMY.

Two great principles are embodied in the bill providing for universal military training which was favorably reported to the Senate by the Committee on Military Affairs. It establishes the obligation of the American citizen to serve the Republic for national defense and prepares him in youth for that honorable service. In its application to all who are physically qualified, whether rich or poor, except those who have relatives dependent upon their earnings, it is a model of democratic equality. There is to be no escape by use of money or appeal to favor.

The period of training prescribed by the bill is six months and is to begin in the nineteenth year. After that the soldier or sailor goes into their service, from which, until he completes his twenty-eighth year, he may be called at any time by the President only for purposes of military training that at least 400,000 young men will receive this training each year. It is figured that after nine years the Nation will have a potential army of approximately 3,000,000 able-bodied men with some knowledge of arms and able to take care of themselves in camp, trench and field or on ship-board.

Of course this measure does not meet the views of the extreme militarists who want a permanent army of one year and a return to the colors for shorter periods for some years—thereafter, as in the case in Continental Europe, a militia force, even when indorsed by the General Staff has met with little favor, because it creates and is intended to create a standing army, a permanent tendency—the training over several years, interrupts unnecessarily the educational, industrial and business advancement of young Americans. The Senate bill contemplates only a citizen army, an army responsible and an army trained, but not an army withdrawn and set apart from civil life.

Fully impressed as it always has been with the force of the objections to permanent military training, the World regards this measure, as generally adapted to present-day requirements. It is plain enough that aggressive wars, make dependence upon hastily organized volunteers, armies especially fully equipped, a nation may be in money or however well supplied with guns and other equipment, if its men called to arms are ignorant and undisciplined it never has a chance.

Such a citizen army as is here in view meets every reasonable criticism of those who are militarists. It trains our youth for a great and noble purpose, which is avowed and limited. It emphasizes the most impressive thing that the Republic owes to its duty that they owe to the Republic. It guarantees them against service in wars of aggression contrary to the loftiest ideals of that Republic. It even assures such as are sensitive on that point that they will not be used in strikes or other labor disturbances. Quite as important as all this, their necessary training being over,

WOULD NOT STOOP TO PICK UP THE MONEY

"I Had Absolutely Lost All Interest in Everything," Says Mrs. Wooten.

SHE FEARED THE WORST.

It Strong, Happy Woman Now But Once Her Folks Seemed to Have Lost Hope of Her Recovery.

I had gotten in such bad health that I did not take any interest in anything before I took Tanlac, and I often told my folks that if I should see money on the floor I would not stoop to pick it up," said Mrs. T. M. Wooten, of 155 Morgan Ave., Greenville, as she began to tell how Tanlac had changed her condition from that of almost an invalid to a healthy, strong, happy woman. Mrs. Wooten's statement follows:

"I suffered from a complete physical breakdown and the after effects of a bad cold and influenza. I was very weak—so weak that I was in bed at least half of every day, and I did not try to do any of my household work for a rather long time. My appetite had left me and it seemed that I didn't want anything to eat and I couldn't find much to tempt my appetite. I could not sit up long at a time and I had absolutely lost all interest in everything.

"I had been in very bad health for two or more years and I sure was a sick person. I had begun to wonder if I ever would get well, or even a little stronger, and I could tell by the way my folks talked that they had about had hope of me ever getting well again.

"Then somebody told me to try Tanlac, and I began taking it. I took it about half a dozen bottles, and lost twenty pounds in weight. I sure was skin and bones when I began taking Tanlac, but I am heavy enough now to feel like a new person.

"Tanlac did me a great deal more good than all the other medicines I took put together, and I certainly did take a lot of medicine before I took Tanlac. The Tanlac gave me a good appetite almost from the start and soon I began to improve right along in health and strength, and now I am able to do my household and my sewing and I am strong and happy.

"Give Tanlac all the credit for getting me out of bed and on my feet again, and no one can fully understand how much Tanlac did for me unless they had seen me before I took it. I had only had to take six bottles to get my strength back and I certainly can give Tanlac the highest praise, because it changed me from an almost bed-ridden invalid to a strong, happy and hearty woman."

"SET IN OUR WAYS."

It is very homely phrase, to be sure, but it expresses a certain condition which sometimes we do manage to achieve sooner or later. Indeed we take it for granted that as the years accumulate over our heads we must of necessity become "set in our ways," and in consequence unable to adapt ourselves to those changes that come into all of our lives as time passes. Hereafter, the best part of life seemed just ahead of us, and the goal to which we aspired seemed within our best efforts from day to day. That was one reason, probably, why we did not mind the changes that made us shift our position in the ranks, sometimes to our advantage, sometimes to our disadvantage. We looked upon it all as a gradual process of adjustment to what life had in store for us, and we did not mind the inconvenience and the sacrifice which may have attended such adjustments. We were open to conviction, in a way, and watched for the opportunity to improve both our moral and physical condition. But after a while we began to weary of the constant adaptations to new rules of living which we were called upon to make, to the gradual displacement of our individual opinions and our individual efforts in favor of the newer and more progressive opinions and efforts of those that came just behind us and who were unconsciously, perhaps, crowding us a bit too much for comfort.

It is in such circumstances that we begin to show a certain resentment, as it were, to develop open hostility; to determine to hold on to our opinions and to continue our efforts in the face of the oncoming wave of opposition. In other words, we become "set in our ways," and sincerely follow the standard of service that we have raised for our guidance regardless of whether it could be improved or not. It is nonsense for anyone to contend that he is too old to change. Any open-minded, impartial man, regardless of his years, is glad to learn even the new lessons that are visited upon him by the passing years. Life is an experience that never ends for anyone until death cuts it short, and such a wonderful experience, and for such a wonderful experience, conditions that applied at one period of life do not necessarily apply with the same force at another.

It is for us to discover when we can make them of most use to us and when they are of no value. In other words, we must be able to change. It is for us to discover when we can make them of most use to us and when they are of no value. In other words, we must be able to change.

OKLAHOMA WOMAN TAKES OWN LIFE

Commits Suicide While Visiting Friends in Anderson.

Anderson, Feb. 28.—Mrs. Robert F. Irby, wife of a well known cotton man of Oklahoma City, who has offices in several large cities in the cotton belt, committed suicide here this morning by shooting herself with a pistol. The bullet entered her right temple and passed through her head. Mr. and Mrs. Irby arrived here Friday to see their friends, Capt. and Mrs. T. J. Ramer. Mr. Irby was called back to New York on Sunday and because of Mrs. Irby's extreme nervous condition she was prevailed upon to remain here and visit the Ramers.

The tragedy occurred at the Ramer home before any of the household had got up for breakfast. Mrs.

THEY ARE HERE

Our veteran buyer, Mr. John Frazer, arrived Wednesday with a car load of the very best Mules ever seen in this section of the country.

If you went to the market yourself and carried a buyer of years of experience to assist you in making a selection of Mules especially suited for your farm, you couldn't be suited any better than we can suit you with this car of mules.

We have handled mules for a great number of years and know just the kind of mule this section needs and wants, and we have that kind. Big, heavy-built mules, averaging 1200 pounds, free from blemishes, well broke and ready for work. You must see them to appreciate their real worth.

If you think that you are well fixed for the coming season, call at our stables and look over the lot we now have. You will change your mind and see your need of real mules.

Better call early. Mules like these will not stay at our stables very long at the prices we will ask for them.

CHESTER BOYS WEAR MIGHTY LOUD SHIRTS.

Chester Boys Follow New York Styles and Wear Loud Shirts.

The shirts the young men of Chester are wearing are becoming more dazzling and "loud" every day and the dictates of fashion will soon have the youths of the city looking like Solomon in all the glory of his purple robe. It keeps on as it is. The gorgeous wall paper designs in some houses and in stage scenery cannot hold a light to the shirts the boys of Chester are wearing.

Not all of them have started wearing these loud shirts but fashion dictates that they should. Starting with checks and stripes that dazzled the eye and astonished folks of rather mild dispositions, the clothing stores have been getting stronger and stronger on the color display and the shirts are just as loud as the evening dresses of the young ladies or their hose.

Flaming turkey red, navy blue, orange yellow, beetle pink are some of the colors not to mention the loud background worn by some and set off by flowers of flaming array.

And Chester youth are right in line with the city fellows and not only are the clothiers showing them but the boys are wearing them.

CASHIER ARRESTED FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

Lancaster, S. C., Feb. 27.—E. Curtis Mackey, until last Friday cashier of the First National Bank of Lancaster, has been arrested by the United States commissioner on complaint of the national bank examiner. It is charged that the cashier has embezzled a large sum from the bank. Charles D. Jones, president of the bank, has announced that the directors of the institution have voluntarily signed a statement indemnifying any depositor from loss by the defalcation. In addition, the bank examiner says that the stability of the institution is not affected. The examination by the national officials began on February 15 and continued until they accused Mr. Mackey of the crime and the examiners say that he confessed his guilt. Mr. Mackey began working for the bank when it was founded in 1905, and was then a youth in knee-trowsers. By his sobriety and close attention to business he has steadily advanced until one month ago he was made cashier of the institution.

THE HOME NEWSPAPER A PAYING INVESTMENT

Only a few days ago we saw a man lose about $400 which indirectly was caused by the fact that he does not subscribe to a county newspaper.

February 20th, was the last day for returning personal property to the County Auditor. Those who fail to make their returns on or before that date are forced by law to pay a penalty of fifty per cent. The man we speak of failed to make his returns at the proper time and the penalty was added which will cost him about $400. If this man had been a subscriber to a county newspaper he would have been aware of the fact that if he failed to make his returns by a certain time he would be penalized.

A subscription to a county newspaper is one of the best investments a man can make. It pays a larger dividend than the Standard Oil Company, and that's some dividend.

NOTICE.

I desire to call the attention of those who have not paid their taxes to the fact that the time expires on March 15th, for payment of poll and property tax, and, too, the time for paying commutation road tax expires on March 31st, and failure to pay the said commutation tax becomes a misdemeanor.

POWER PLANT IS CONTRACTED FOR

Immense Development is Planned by Southern Power Co. on Water.

Plans for the erection of a big dam to cost several millions and to generate 100,000 horsepower on the Wateree river seven miles above Camden have been made by the Southern Power Company and the contract was signed yesterday by President J. B. Duke of the company. The Hardaway Contracting Company, of Columbus, Ga., having the contract.

The new plant, it is said, will be the largest of two and half times of all the plants now operated by the Southern Power Company. The dam will be about 2,500 feet long and will impound water to drive five units of hydro-electrical power, each capable of developing 20,000 horsepower.

The site of the plant is near the confluence of the Catawba and Wateree Creeks, the two streams becoming the Wateree river after their junction. The new plant will be the seventh on the great line of others starting at the extreme western point on the Catawba, being Independence, Lookout Shoals, Catawba, Rocky Creek, Fishing Creek, and Great Falls.

A railway track will be built from Lancaster toward Camden to aid in carrying materials and equipment for the proposed plant.—Charlotte News.

A FINE SINGING ATTRACTION

Joe Coburn has always guaranteed quality rather than quantity in his big minstrel company each year giving an entire new production every season and fulfilling all promises. This season they arrive, Friday, March 2 at the Opera House and are said to have the best company in the history of the attraction. Mr. E. G. Giddie Clifford a splendid robust baritone, formerly of the Redpath Opera, is among the new soloists and said to be the best baritone in minstrelsy. Two new tenors, Mr. Percy Disher and Earl C. Rowland are also splendid soloists and members of the Quartette. It's a great singing show. The popular Lucas their famous bass is also with the company this year.

CHANDLER SIX $1395

There Is No Other Six Like This For Anything Like This Price

THE Chandler offers intrinsic value greater than other cars for which you are asked to pay much more. Greater value in materials, design, equipment, and, above all else, in the dependable and enduring service of its marvelous motor.

You may say it is easy to make such a claim for the Chandler. It is. And IT IS EASY TO PROVE SUCH A CLAIM FOR THE CHANDLER.

Year-old Chandlers command as high or higher price in the used car market than year-old cars of other makes selling, when new, for two or three hundred dollars more.

Could any further evidence be asked, to prove Chandler leadership in value? It wouldn't seem so, but let's make thorough inquiry.

What other make of car, at anything like the Chandler price, offers you a motor which has been developed, refined and perfected throughout four years of conscientious manufacture and not subjected to radical changes or experimental devices? None.

What other make of car, at anything like the Chandler price, offers you such a proven mechanism as the whole Chandler chassis? None.

What other make of car, at anything like the Chandler price, offers you all those features characteristic of the highest priced, high-grade cars—Bosch high tension magneto; solid cast aluminum motor base, extending from frame to frame; big silent chains instead of noisy gears for driving the motor shafts; full floating and silent spiral bevel gear rear axle and light running annular ball bearings in transmission, differential and rear wheels? None.

What other make of car at anything like the Chandler price offers you more beautiful and comfortable bodies than the Chandler? None.

Chandler policy has always kept the Chandler price low. Relatively it is lower today, when so many prices have been inflated, than ever before.

SPARTANBURG WILL ENJOY GREAT WEEK

Many Conventions Come With Music Festival in May—To Be Best Yet.

Spartanburg, Feb. 28.—The date of the Spartanburg music festival this year is May 16, 17, 18. At the same time as the music festival there will be held the State firemen's tournament, the Shriners' convention, and the meeting of the State Medical association. The festival, it is thought will be the best yet held at Spartanburg, for the completion of the new Cleveland hotel and the continuing of the bag hotels that have been here already, will make it possible to accommodate all those coming to the festival this year. Also the many improvements in the train service and by the city makes the coming of the festival specially attractive.
