UNCOMMON SENSE.

It is necessary for some people to judge others. These people are placed on the bench and in jury boxes. They are paid to discharge the duty of judgment, and discharge it they do, though the task is often disagreeable.

The rest of us make judgments because it is the habit of every one to make judgments. We like or we do not like people sometimes because of their personalities, often because of their actions.

We are very ready to condemn them if they do not obey the code that we have adopted as our own rule of conduct.

Sometimes we condemn them because we do not like the shape of their noses or the color of their hair or the way they get their meals.

Make judgments we must—but we can suspend sentence if we like, and we shall be much happier and get along with our friends and neighbors if we do.

The man on the bench before he makes his judgments, the jury in the box before it brings in a verdict, have all possible evidence at hand. The whole machinery of the state is available to secure this evidence.

We make our individual judgments with very little evidence—usually with the evidence against the person whom we judge—seldom taking the trouble to look over the evidence in his favor.

This being the case, we can very well afford to hold our verdict, or our sentence, in reservation.

What we think of a man may not alter his whole life, but if our opinion is wrong it will certainly do him no good. It will be practically impossible to keep from communicating it to others, and this character is undetermined and careers brought to ruin.

Suspended sentence merely gives those whom we do not approve a chance to show that we have wrongly estimated them. The most of them will do in the long run.

Of course, if a man is a proved thief or scoundrel it is well enough to let him alone. But it is far better to hold our opinion, and our behavior toward him in reserve until we can get all the facts in his case—for and against.—By John Blake.

LANGUAGES.

By John Blake.

To the educated man everything tells its story. The rocks answer questions about their age and their composition. The trees talk of their value to commerce and their relationship to each other. Animals break the spell of dumbness imposed upon them by nature and announce their place in life procedure called evolution.

Human progress did not really begin till man mastered the art of language. When our forefathers could only speak to each other by signs, or, as was often the case, by blows, it was only the best mind that could accomplish anything.

When language came, a consensus of mind became possible. Experiences and ideas could be communicated. After that all intelligent communes in their same neighborhood could interchange ideas and opinions, so that the intelligent could teach the unintelligent. That was the beginning of education.

You, who live in this day, can learn any language you choose, or as many as you choose.

If it were possible for you to exhaust all the wisdom that is written in your own tongue you could doubtless your opportunities by learning an additional tongue.

In the study of many of the sciences it is necessary for the student to learn French and German in order to avail himself of text-books that have never been adequately translated.

He must also learn that language we spoke of in the first paragraph—the language that created things speak as plainly as if they had tongues.

Wordsworth's "primrose by the rivers brim," which was only a sorry blossom to the peasant, told to the poet a story of beauty and unfolds to the botanist a long history of growth and development.

We are educated or uneducated according as we understand languages, not necessarily foreign tongues, but the speech of the objects which go to make up the world. We can learn to read the message that each of these has, if we choose, as the Indian reads the signs of the trail, hidden to the white man.

When we learn these things we are educated, whether or not we have spent any time in a university or can add the letters of a degree to our names.

ELLIOTT'S MARKET
CHESTER, S. C.

Fertilizing Cotton in 1922.

The question of what kind of fertilizer to use under cotton this year is an important one, and there are widely divergent opinions in regard to the best formula to use. The circumstances under which this year's crop of cotton is to be grown are different from the circumstances under which previous crops have been produced. The two main differences are (1) the boll weevil is expected to curtail the crop, but to an unknown extent; and (2) the soil has not for several years received the proportion or amounts of potash they have been accustomed to receive.

There is no question as to the necessity for doing everything possible to induce early setting of bolls and early maturing of the cotton. The fertilizer that should be used is that which will induce early fruiting but will not induce the development of large, leafy stalks that continue to grow late in the season. A crop of this kind will be what the boll weevil wants for the exercise of his power of destruction and the rapid multiplication of his kind.

One fact that nature produces a large stalk, the per cent of phosphoric acid should not be less than 10, and the nitrogen should not be above 2 or 3 per cent, but quick in its action, like nitrate of soda. The phosphoric acid should be from acid phosphate.

On this land and land that is deficient in nitrate, 3 to 4 per cent of nitrogen should be used, some of which may come from cottonseed meal, fish scrap, tankage, or other more slowly available sources, though in my opinion it is cheaper and safer to use nitrate of soda or some equally effective and quickly soluble source of nitrogen. I am led to this belief by the fact that nitrate of soda does not leach so quickly as many suppose; and for the reason that when cottonseed meal is selling for $15 a ton and nitrate of soda for $48 per ton, $7 will buy only 25 pounds of nitrogen in cottonseed meal but will buy 45 pounds of nitrogen in nitrate of soda. At the above prices per ton, a pound of nitrogen in nitrate of soda will cost 16 cents while a pound of nitrogen in cottonseed meal will cost around 28 cents per pound. A pound of nitrogen in nitrate of soda is so much cheaper than a pound of nitrogen in cottonseed meal, even when due consideration is given the small quantities of phosphoric acid and potash carried by cottonseed meal, that I strongly believe that nitrate of soda will be the most profitable source of nitrogen under boll weevil conditions, and when its marked speed in hastening early fruiting, when balanced with its phosphoric acid and potash, is considered, its advantages are further stressed.

I believe it unwise to use fertilizer containing no potash under cotton. That satisfactory crops of cotton have been made with little or no potash during the past few years does not necessarily prove that this element of plant food may be left out. Had potash been used, the crops might have been better than they were. Furthermore, for many years fertilizers containing a high per cent of potash have been profitably used under cotton and various other crops, and it is probable that there has been an excess used. This would cause an accumulation of potash in the soil that would supply the needs of cotton for a while, but it is a very doubtful policy to discontinue its use further, especially since the price of this element is now down to the pre-war basis. On the better cotton lands—and cotton should be planted only on the better land—I believe a fertilizer analyzing about 10-3-2 will give good results. This may be made by mixing 1,300 pounds of 16 per cent acid phosphate, 450 pounds of nitrate of soda, and 250 pounds of kainit. Cotton thrives best when fed a balanced ration of high solubility, and nitrate of soda may be depended upon for the nitrogen at lowest cost and highest efficiency, about 2 per cent or more potash should be used.

For the less productive lands, a fertilizer containing 10 per cent phosphoric acid, 4 of ammonia, and 4 per cent of potash will give good results.

VALUABLE JEWELS FOUND IN WATER

Bill Fold Retained Near Spartanburg After Being Lost Nearly Year Ago.

Spartanburg, March 2.—After being in Lawson's fork of Peoche river for about a year, practically $1,000 worth of jewels were yesterday returned to Chester Ward of the firm of Zimmerman & Ward. The jewels were found by the miller at White's mill in a bill fold on the banks of the river just below the dam at White's mill. The bill fold had evidently been submerged in water since it was placed or dropped where the miller found it, or else had been carried from higher up by Motor truck transportation has cut into the business of Britta's railways so severely that several lines contemplate running trucks themselves.

Insects of the United States destroy $1,100,000,000 worth of farm produce a year, according to reliable reports.

The current Muddy and water soaked the bill fold was found half submerged, partly covered with trash. Upon being opened, it was found to contain jewels answering the description of those lost by the Ward family. Mr. Ward readily identified the jewels. Just before the last music festival the jewels disappeared from the Ward home on Converse Heights. A negro woman, who had been employed to take care of the home while the family were away, was accused of the theft and was arrested and lodged in jail, where she was kept for some time. She denied any knowledge of the theft.

About that time the Converse Heights section of the city was terrorized by burglaries every night or two, and it was thought that the gang of thieves operating then had gotten away with them.

THE FARM CONFERENCE.

As we all know, the farmer has suffered a great deal from the rapid fall in the prices of farm products and has suffered all the more because the decline in the price of the things he has to buy has been marked. But the farmer is by no means friendless. He has friends in Congress who are preparing and enacting legislation that is expected to help him; and he has friends in other public and semipublic organizations who are less interested in establishing the fundamental industry of agriculture on a sounder and firmer basis.

The farm conference at Washington, called by President Harding and including nearly 200 representatives of agricultural and allied occupations, gave intelligent consideration to a score of proposals for, representing the business of farming. The trouble in the past has always been that each farmer went his own way, conducting his affairs by rule of thumb, more or less ignorant of what other farmers were doing, and unfurnished or inadequately informed of the precise conditions in other industries or in other parts of the world—things that must always sensibly affect the market for his crops.

The conference favored an organization for studying and reporting on crop and business conditions over the world, and for making a careful survey of domestic conditions in advance of the planting season, so that farmers can have the benefit of informed advice by private consultation demanded that they will have to meet.

Crop insurance by co-operative or mutual organizations or by private companies was also suggested and found warm supporters. The conference also approved Mr. Ford's plan for turning the Muscle Shoals plant into a fertilizer factory and would like to have the government The idea of "nationalization" or min- accept his offer. The idea of "nationalization" or min- accept his offer. The idea of "nationalization" or min- accept his offer.

The conference was united in be- lieving that transportation charges were too high and that some way should be found to reduce the cost of a ton of carriage by railway. It is the general opinion also that to form co-operative associations for man- aging and for purchasing supplies would be sure to improve the farm- ers' financial condition. Our farmers can learn much from the highly suc- cessful co-operative undertakings that European farmers are conduct- ing; and even here at home in the experience of Western Utah growers there is some excellent matter for grain and potato growers to consider. Our American soil and the sturdy character of our American farmer are an ample foundation for a highly profitable agriculture. All that we need is better information; im- proved business methods and a more general spirit of co-operation. That, in brief, is what the conference has made clear.

COME ALONG FOLKS

Of course, no one would ever expect to see a Dollar Day at a gasoline filling station, but nevertheless the Victory Service Station is interested in Dollar Days. We are interested in everything which is for the benefit of Chester and Chester county people and are always glad to lend our support to these things.

We extend to every visitor to Chester on Dollar Days a cordial invitation to visit our establishment on Hudson street, between Wherry's Garage and the Ford Service Station, and secure their supply of gaso- line, oil and anything in this line you might need. We carry a complete line of batteries for all makes of cars and would like for you to come around and talk this matter over with us.

If your tires need air or your radiator needs water, why come around and see us. We give you this service absolutely free.

We have recently installed a new wash rack and will be pleased to wash and oil your automobile for you.

Colds & Headache

"For years we have used Black-Draught in our family, and I have never found any medicine that could take its place," writes Mr. H. A. Stacy, of Bradyville, Tenn. Mr. Stacy, who is a Rutherford County farmer, recommends Black-Draught as a medicine that should be kept in every household for use in the prompt treatment of many little ills to prevent them from developing into serious troubles.

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

"It touches the liver and does the work," Mr. Stacy declared. "It is one of the best medicines I ever saw for a cold and headache. I don't know what we would do in our family if it wasn't for Black-Draught. It has saved us many dollars. I don't see how any family can hardly go with- out it. Now it is a reliable and splendid medicine to keep in the house. I recommend Black-Draught highly and see never without it." At all drugists.

JURY VERDICT GIVEN TO MARY PICKFORD

Moving Picture Actress Dies. New York, March 2.—Mary Pickford does not have to pay Mrs. Cora C. Wilkenning any part of the $108,000 which Mrs. Wilkenning claims was due her as commission for getting the film star a raise of $10,000 a week. This was the verdict of a federal jury, returned last night and unsealed today before Federal Judge Mack.

Neither Mary nor her husband Douglas Fairbanks, were in court when the verdict was taken. Her counsel rushed to the telephone to acquaint her with the news at her hotel.

Counsel for Mrs. Wilkenning filed notice of an appeal.

EXERCISE.

You see a great deal in the magazines about exercise these days. They even have photograph records telling you how to exercise, explaining how you are to lay flat on your back on the ceiling of your room and work your ears in a circular motion from left to right and then back again from right to left. This exercise, if persisted in for 100 years, will remove all the surplus fat from your toes and enable you to wear half size smaller shoes than you ought to wear.

Some people take exercise to get thin and other people take exercise to get fat. Then some people have that idea that exercise will make them strong. There are lots of foolish notions about taking exercise.

Just take this little about exercise making you strong. There never was a more foolish notion than this. If exercise would make you strong, I know any number of ladies who would have been standing in their legs that they could bite a railroad spike in two without ever knowing that there was anything between their teeth!

Some told me a few years ago that if you would run a few miles every day you would reduce your weight so much that you would have to walk by a place three or four times to make a shadow. It won't work. I ran all over this country in my automobiles, sometimes rambling as much as 100 miles in a day, and I never lost a pound.

I have exercised my eyes a great deal during the era of short skirts, but they are not better than my eyes a few years ago.

So there must be a good deal of bunk about this exercise stuff.

Yours,
Bill

KEEP UP YOUR RESERVES.

By John Blake.

Reserves win battles and bring victories. The knowledge that they are there and ready to be called on offets heartens military leaders to effort that would otherwise be impossible.

As with mental and physical reserves are men who usually get the prizes in life that are worth having. It has lately been said by somebody that the men who have been particularly healthy and enduring people. This does not necessarily follow; but it is certain that unless men and women are better capable of performing the great labor necessary to bring their genius to light.

Few men or employ all the skill that they are at great pains to acquire. Yet the knowledge that they have it is enough to enable them to use it.

Physical and mental reserves are equally important. You are no stronger than the machine which bears you about and whose brain does your thinking for you.

If you impair your physical machine, if you overstrain it or do not constantly keep it in condition, it may at any time break down, and snap will go the intangible thing inside it, which is you.

The man who just as likely to waste his physical reserves as the sedentary man often does, in fact, as the records of many former champions will show.

It is not athletic in the generally understood sense, not strenuous competition for prizes that builds up physical reserves, but constant and regular exercise.

Build up your body, and make sure of your physical reserves. Then attend to your mental reserves. Know no more than you need to know for the purposes of the actual job in hand about many subjects.

Get useful information, and learn to retain it. And above all, accustom yourself to sustained periods of effort, for only by these can great things be accomplished.

As well go into a battle in a war if you never as to enter the battle of life without them. You will be an able and fearless general, but without reserves it can win no victories. And the reserves that are strong, steady, physical, and a mind well stocked with important and usable information.

Miss Elizabeth McLure, of Winthrop College, spent the week-end at home.

Mrs. Julia Campbell and Miss Bess Killian will leave tomorrow for Saluda, N. C.

Mrs. Jas. Laid and children are visiting friends in Spartanburg, S. C.

Mrs. A. M. Alken and Miss M. Sherer have returned home from a visit to Newbern, N. C.

Miss Margie Locke, of Spartanburg spent the week-end at home accompanied by Miss Fletcher and Covington.

Mrs. Roxie Gibson has gone to Richmond, Va. to visit relatives.

The Gypsy Smith tent which will be used for the Baptist revival services in Chester will be placed on the lot in the rear of the parsonage next month. This was decided at a meeting of the Board of Deacons Sunday night.

Mr. A. D. Gilchrist, of Rock Hill, has been employed by Mr. H. L. Schloberg to draw up plans for the remodeling of the building recently bought by Mr. Schloberg, on the corner of Gasden and Wylie streets.

Work is progressing nicely on the bungalow being erected on a foot lot on Mr. A. O. Olliphant.

Mrs. James Kilgore, of Great Falls, who is a patient at one of the Chester hospitals and who recently underwent an operation, is reported as getting along as well as could be expected.

Mr. John Cornwell, who was recently operated on at the Chester Sanatorium for appendicitis, was able to return to his home on Hinton street Sunday.

On last Friday evening Dr. Chas. A. Eaton, president of the American Educational Association and former pastor of the Baptist church in Cleveland, Ohio, addressed a number of members of the Chester Chamber of Commerce at Hardin's hall. Owing to the dampness of rain the crowd was not as large as was anticipated. Those who attended report a great speech by Dr. Eaton, whose subject was "America's Greatest Need."

Mr. Alex. Kentman, a Chester boy who is now making his home in Columbia, has been spending a few days in the city and with relatives on Chester Route 2.

The Columbia State of this morning says: "George Markover, of Mt. Airy, has been dismissed from the Baptist hospital."

Chloria Collier, Columbia, will send out thirty-one graduates this commencement time, which will be the largest graduating class in the history of the college. Plans are being perfected for the annual commencement exercises which will commence May 27th. Miss Elsie Walker, of Chester, is among the graduates.

At a joint meeting of the Chester H-Y clubs Sunday afternoon four new members were taken into the senior club. They were William Chapman, James Patton, Nell Williams, and William White.

A "lover" received by relatives from Miss Sarah Carter, who with Dr. and Mrs. Marvin, the latter being her sister, stated that they spent Sunday in Miami, Fla. Carter and company are making a tour of several states in a provided motor car and report having a very enjoyable time.

A large crowd of Chester people, friends of Dr. James W. Babcock, history of the Columbia last Friday morning, attended the funeral at Old Purity Sunday afternoon. The services were held in Columbia Saturday afternoon and Sunday a short service was conducted at the grave-site by Rev. A. R. Morgan, of Chester. The pall-bearers were: Ex-governor D. C. Heyward, M. F. Gittman, D. W. Robinson, and August Kohn, of Columbia; A. C. Haskell, of Augusta and S. E. McFadden, J. L. Davidson and B. M. Spratt, of Chester.

W. Banks Dove, Secretary of state, has received one of the battle flags of the old First Regiment South Carolina Volunteers, McGowan's Brigade, from Col. James Armstrong, of Charleston, with the request that it be placed alongside the blue flag now in possession of the South Carolina relic room.

Dr. R. G. Lee, pastor of the First Baptist church left yesterday to attend a big Bible Conference being held in Atlanta, Ga. Mrs. Lee and little daughter, who spend the week in Greenville.

Associate Justice J. Hardin Marion, of Chester, will be the anniversary orator at the commencement exercises at Erskine college on June 6th.

B. M. Walsh & Co. will be glad to show their attractive line of millinery Thursday and Friday—will give one dollar off on all hats.

Considerable excitement was created in "The Valley" Saturday afternoon, when a negro woman driving a Ford lost control of the car and ran into a telephone pole. Fortunately very little damage was done to the hat and the car.

The News wishes to make a special request of its readers that they pay strict attention to the advertisements appearing in this issue with reference to sales by the Chester merchants on post Thursday and Friday. The merchants are offering the buying public special bargains, many of the items being listed at prices unheard of for the past few years.

Something new happens in the grocery line every once and awhile it seems. A few years ago the Piggy Wiggy stores put in their appearance. You picked your own goods, placed them in your basket and paid the man as you left the store. During the past two years many cash and carry grocery stores have been established over the country and now we have in several cities grocery stores on wheels. An automobile truck is fitted up, with a place for everything, and market the goods on a schedule. The store is brought to the home of the housekeeper and she goes out to the front and buys her groceries. Next week these grocers will be telling you what to eat.

Mr. J. Lyles Glenn, Jr., representative from Chester county, and who has been mentioned as a candidate for governor of South Carolina, was urged by many friends in Chester Saturday to make the race. Mr. Glenn has not yet committed himself.

The Columbia Chapter of Winthrop Daughters, Mrs. Robt. A. Cooper, president, has graciously invited an invitation to our Daughters of Winthrop in attendance upon the State Teachers' Association in Columbia to be present at a Winthrop Tea at the Governor's Mansion from 6 to 8 o'clock, Friday evening, March 17th. It is hoped there will be a large number of Winthrop Daughters who will accept this cordial invitation.

Fifty years ago articles were written and speeches were made about diversified farming. It is being preached today and will probably be preached many years from now. We have all heard about how hard the wheat farmer of the West and the cotton farmer of the South have been hit during the last few months. But what we started out to say was we all know that he has been forced that a few days ago we read an article written by a man who had toured the West investigating conditions as they are and he says that where ever he goes he finds the man who has farmed the one-crop system and he is the man who is always made to pay the heaviest.

Emphatic endorsement of a proposed bill by Senator Gross, of Dorchester, to make women pay poll tax, similar to that now given in Greenville last Thursday night by Mrs. J. R. Williams, president of the South Carolina League of Women Voters. It is stated that the proposed bill would raise $200,000. Mrs. Williams stated that the League of Women Voters had long been in favor of a poll tax for women, but had never made an effort to have such legislation enacted. The News is of the opinion that by far the majority of the tax would be paid by the husbands of the State. Such being the case we are against the bill. Why not let the husbands of the state pay a tax sufficient to offset the women's poll tax bill next time we know there will be a tax on every new baby in the State.

Mr. John A. Hafner, who is now with the educational department of the Southern Presbyterian church, addressed a large crowd at "Purity" Presbyterian church Sunday night on the need of the denomination in the collection drive which was appreciated by those present.

A citizen who is familiar with the matter says that many of the younger negroes are leaving Chester for northern points.

Mr. Hafner made an excellent address which was appreciated by those present.

A citizen of Landford township, in Chester recently stated that considerable improvement was being made on the roads in that section by repaving them. People in that section of the county are very enthusiastic over the $25,000 which is going to be spent in their township on the roads. This money comes from the $125,000 bond issue about a fifth of which goes to Landford township.

School superintendents of Chester, Clover, Fort Mill, Winthrop Training school, Rock Hill, Lancaster and Kershaw schools, representing the Catawba Athletic association, met in Rock Hill Saturday to formulate rules and a playing schedule for the 1922 baseball season. The York, Great Falls and Winnsboro were not represented. It was announced that each school in the association, Winnsboro excepted, will establish a team in the field.

It was decided that each school was to play one game with each of the other eight schools. No return games will be played. The spring season starts March 24 and will end on May 2. The superintendents were in session about three hours and the meeting was most harmonious and beneficial.

B. M. Walsh & Co. will be glad to show their attractive line of millinery Thursday and Friday—will give one dollar off on all hats.

On last Friday Mrs. Lulu Boyd Sheppard, of Salt Lake City, Utah, addressed the Civic club in the Charlotte with reference to the Mormon organization she declared that the Mormon organization is a fanatical group aiming at the very foundation of the United States government. Every Mormon, she declared, has taken the oath of allegiance to the United States and has sworn to avenge the blood of the founder of the organization, against the United States. She declared that the Mormons are visiting the homes of real Americans, taking magazine subscriptions and that those who subscribe to the magazines are helping to pay people through college in the Mormon faith. Mrs. Sheppard recently visited the President of the United States for ten minute interview. He talked to her more than an hour. She is a North Carolina Mrs. Sheppard might add to her speech that hundreds of business firms in the country are sending their printing to Utah and in this way are helping to build up an organization whose object is to tear down our government.

Rev. John R. Hay, of Brevard, Fla., has declined the call recently extended to him by the Urial and Lovryville Presbyterian churches.

Mr. Frank Simpson, of Ogden, is a patient in one of the Chester hospitals.

The Chester friends of Mrs. C. B. Turner, of Fort Law, who was ill for several weeks, are glad to know that she is improving after an illness of about two weeks.

The regular meeting of the Young Woman's Club which was to be held Thursday evening, March 9th, has been postponed. Notice will be given later as to date when this meeting will be held.

The Spring ceremonial of Hezekiah Temple will be held in Rock Hill on May 18th, the officials of the temple having decided at a meeting in Greenwood Friday. It is expected that 1,500 Shriners will attend the ceremonial. The fact that the meeting will be held in Rock Hill will be very convenient for Chester Shriners and practically every member of the organization in Chester will doubtless attend the meeting.

A citizen of Landford township, in Chester recently stated that considerable improvement was being made on the roads in that section by repaving them. People in that section of the county are very enthusiastic over the $25,000 which is going to be spent in their township on the roads. This money comes from the $125,000 bond issue about a fifth of which goes to Landford township.

The Tom Hardin estate lands, on the edge of Chester county, on the road from Rock Hill to Fort Law, will be sold at auction Saturday March 11th, at eleven o'clock, in front of the National Union Bank in Rock Hill. The tract contains about 245 acres and is about one mile from Rowells.

Since a number of Chester people have become interested in the curing of a sweet potato disease in Chester, it will doubtless be of local interest to know that recently become members of the Georgia Sweet Potato Growers' Association. Money is now being made by the farmers throughout the south in growing sweet potatoes and it is apparent that the most benefit is secured by those who become connected with the marketing associations. There is a great demand for sweet potatoes and the various associations are advertising the potato in the markets throughout the country. In fact a demand is now being created in England for the Southern sweet potato.

B. M. Walsh & Co. will be glad to show you their attractive line of millinery Thursday and Friday—will give one dollar off on all hats.

Rev. J. S. Harris, who came from Mason City, Neb., to be pastor of Beaver Creek, Blackstock, Cool Branch and Woodward Baptist churches, began his work Sunday, preaching at Beaver Creek in the morning and at Cool Branch in the afternoon.
