Violet Marriages in France.

Basinages in France. It is only 13 months since a law was passed in France considerable simpli-'ying the formalities of marriage. The law authorised men and women over 30 to marry without the consent of their parents' and after the age of of their parents' and gifter the age of 31 to marry without their consent on condition of being able to prove that they had been notified of the intended marriage. Moreover, if the parents can not be found, it is sufficient now for their absence to be attested by the result pairs and four vitcesses. The result pairs and ranged intended of marriages, over 8,000 in the first rest.

of marifages, over skiws in two new year. M. Jacques Berlillon of the city of Paris statistics bureau proves that this increase is due to the new act. In the three years 1905 cf. the mar-riages were respectively in the start ix months of each year 155,312, 154,800 and 154,225. in the second-bul of each them years the figures ever laid for my Httle daughter pleasure was for a luncheon planner just one hour before it happened.
