Why not make every crop on the farm a money crop?

Farmers who are making the most out of their farms make the most money on every crop. They don't grow much more to plant, cultivate and harvest big-berry quality crops from every field than they do to get only one crop. The use of high-grade fertilizer materials like Standard's can help toComic book from the 1920s, featuring an advertisement for Standard gasoline. The text emphasizes the superiority of Standard gasoline over other brands. The ad highlights the product's reliability and the satisfaction it brings to customers. The comic format makes the advertisement engaging and memorable for the audience.
