FLOOD AT CHATTANOOG.
AT STAGE OF 40

Many More Manufacturing
Forced to Close Down—Families Removed.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 17.—While the flood at Chattanooga was subsiding, the families of the night Weather Observer, who declared he did not expect the water to go beyond 42 feet. Relief work has been busy all day aiding the families in the move on to the various public buildings.

Many more manufacturing concerns have been forced to close. The railroads entering the city are gradually overcoming the obstructions caused by flood waters and no longer being resumed with the exception of the one between the city and the flooded areas. Hundreds of families rushed to save their goods and move to the city, where they are being housed in city auditorium and other buildings by refugees. Army field hospitals have been placed at the various buildings already at the disposal of the city.

Many families have already been removed from the danger zone and work is being continued tonight.

JAIL FOR LIARS.

One of our comedians made a slip of the tongue in his act last night, hit not many years ago with a comedy in which he told nothing the results were apparent. The results were a great deal better than I had expected. It made them break out in a cold sweat. It convinced them that they had been wrong and now along comes North Dakota with a minister and direct action. I think this ancient human failing of being afraid of the unknown is the reason why the Non-Partisan League is so successful. It is the only organization that has the power to put the law into effect. It is the only law. It provided that any state that lies about the League is to be put in a bad way. There is a "Smelling Committee" to catch up slips!

According to the weather bureau at Chicago:

"As said today at headquarters of the city council, if resumption of service is impossible until the council ratifies an agreement entered into by Mayor Schreiber, the Toledo Railways and Light company, and the car operators would grant a maximum wage increase of 60 cents an hour, and would waive the car fare for six months, from six cents to seven cents per hour of the day in addition to allow two cents for a transfer, all points on which council might agree and which resulted in strike. The car men held a meeting today and decided to demand the new wage rate for the summer season."

The idle cars are still being repaired.

TUESDAY, APRIL 6.

With the course of a few weeks the Democratic Club will decide whether or not the Board of Directors, consisting of three members, who are to govern Chester county under the new form of government, created by the last General Assembly, shall be elected in the primary or shall be appointed by the governor, upon the recommendation of the Chester county delegation.

Under the new form of county government the Board of Directors will take charge of the county's affairs on the first of January, 1921. About the first duty to be performed by the Board of Directors will be the selection of a Road Supervisor and an Office Clerk. The act passed by the General Assembly so arranged the selection of the Board of Directors above mentioned that the Board of Directors should have no trouble in securing competent men to fill these two offices. Their salary will be in accordance with their ability and can be enough to secure men who will give the county excellent service.

There has been considerable talk about whether the Board of Directors should be selected by the people, in the primary election, or whether they should be appointed. After giving the matter thought The News has arrived at the opinion that the Board of Directors should be recommended by the delegation, who are chosen by the people of the county, and appointed by the governor. The News believes the people will be able to secure a more competent Board of Directors by having them appointed, than by requiring them to enter a primary election. There is another point which the people should give serious thought to about placing these offices in the primary. We are all acquainted with the fact that the Eastern section of Chester county polls a much larger vote than the Western section. Now suppose there were five men in the race for the office of Board of Director and three of them were from the Eastern section; the chances are that the three from the Eastern section would land all three places and the Western section would have no representation. It can be readily seen that this state of affairs would be far from satisfactory because if the three men placed in office from the Eastern section cared to they could throw all of the funds of the county toward that section while other sections would go wanting.

If the county delegation selects the Board of Directors in all probability they would endeavor to secure three good men from various sections of the county, each of whom would be in position to give his community that which it was entitled to.

WOULD EXCLUDE JAPANESE

Cleveland, Ohio, April 5.—Japan's birth rate in California is so high and their standards of living so low that any immigration policy other than exclusion will result in the ultimate destruction of the American population in the West, if not in the United States, V. S. McClatchy, publisher of the Sacramento Bee, asserted today in a luncheon address before the City Club.

"The Japanese have neither the ability, the desire nor the power under their government to become citizens of this country," Mr. McClatchy said.

"They are unassimilable. They do not care for citizenship. Their government expects Japanese in this country to remain loyal to the country of their fathers, and they are loyal to Japan."

The chief objection to the Japanese is not race, but their economic advantages, make it hopeless for the white race to compete with them, Mr. McClatchy explained.

BIG GAME TOMORROW.

Teams Will Arrive Early Tomorrow Morning—Traveling Delegation Prominent Players in the Bench.

Traveling Delegation, the eighty players of the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers will arrive in Chester tomorrow morning over the Southern Railway, for their exhibition game at the Fair Grounds tomorrow afternoon. They will occupy three Pullman sleepers, which have been placed at their disposal until they reach New York.

In the party are Miller Huggins and Uncle Wilbert Robinson, two of the greatest managers in baseball today. Huggins is small and fiery; Robie, robust and merry. Despite the difference in their methods, both get results. Among the players are athletes who have achieved fame and fortune in their chosen profession. "Babe" Ruth, who cost the New York American League club $130,000, probably the highest price ever paid for chattel, is of course their chief attraction. He made 29 home runs last season.

A prominent player with Manager Huggins, is Mays the pitcher, who nearly disrupted the American League last season because of the League over his eligibility. The Dodgers are credited with having seven of the biggest and best players in the two major leagues. They are in the two major leagues. They are in the two major leagues. They are in the two major leagues.

STEPS TO PREVENT UPRIISING AMONG IRISH ARE TAKEN

Dublin, April 5.—The British military authorities throughout Ireland today prepared to crush ruthlessly any attempt at an Easter uprising. Dublin resembled an armed camp today, and soldiers with full marching equipment were everywhere. They jostled with the townspeople in the streets, but a spirit of good nature is prevailing, both soldiers and townspeople appearing on good terms.

Leaders of the Sinn Fein movement scoffed at the idea of a rebellion and intimated that the rumor had been started merely as a part of a plan to embarrass the British authorities.

Million Packets Of Flower Seed Free

We believe in flowers around the house of the South. Flowers brighten up the home surroundings and give pleasure and satisfaction to those who have them.

BOLL WEEVIL MAKE GAIN IN SOUTHEAST

Rapid Advance Noted in South Carolina. Approximately 34,500 Square Miles Captured by Pest During 1919.

Washington, April 5.—Boll weevil infestation gained in the cotton belt except Arkansas and Texas last year, and is now approaching the limits of cotton production on the northern edge of the belt the Department of Agriculture reports.

Approximately 34,500 square miles became infested during the year, the most important development being the very rapid development northward along the eastern portion of the line of infestation in Tennessee, Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina. West of the Mississippi river there was comparatively little change from the previous year's line of infestation. A slight recession occurred entirely across Arkansas. The weevil loss ground in Arkansas to the extent of 5,100 square miles and in Texas over about 250 miles. About 115,000 square miles remain uninfested.

The weevil was found to occur in the mountains of Arizona on a wild cotton plant, but has not yet attacked the cultivated cotton in that State. It was found in Gddy County, New Mexico, in 1918, but evidently failed to become established under the adverse conditions prevailing in that district and no specimens were found there during 1919.

ACUTE PAPER SITUATION

Atlanta, April 3.—In an effort to meet what is termed an "acute situation," the Georgia Press Association, in session here, adopted a resolution, pending the daily newspapers of the larger cities of the State to release to the weekly papers 2 per cent of the print paper they have contracted for during 1920. The paper would be released at the mills.

Royal Daniels, editor of the Quintman Free Press, was appointed to visit the Georgia papers, and if the publishers consent to the request he will go to the mills and ask that the arrangement be complied with. The plan is being financed by an assessment against the members of the association.

Take a Real Ride in the Cleveland, and You'll Know What a Car It Is

The Cleveland Six, the sensation of the year among light sixes, is selling itself to thousands who use discrimination in picking out the car they want.

To attempt to describe the qualities of the Cleveland Six is no easy task. You must ride in it to know it. Take a real ride and you begin to understand that here is a better light six, very much better. It has an enclosed over-head valve motor, of exclusive Cleveland design and manufacture and tested in road work for three years before being offered the public, that gives performance unsurpassed.

Monarch Tractor Cuts Farm Costs

Commissioner of Agriculture, J. J. Brown, of Georgia, driving a "Newslip" 30-18 Monarch Tractor—purchased for the State of Georgia—plowing 10 inches deep in hard clay soil—pulling 4 disc plows.

MANY SOUTH CAROLINA FARMERS HAVE found by experience that it is sound business for them to put a tractor to work on their farms, so as to properly cultivate their lands this year. They find that the labor saving and work producing qualities of the Monarch tractor will offset the scarcity of farm labor and the high cost of feeding and caring for stock.

THE MONARCH TRACTOR IS IDEALLY ADAPTABLE to the soil of Chester county—whether in the hard clay of the northern section, the smoother surface of the central, or the scrubby palmetto lands of the lower portions of the State. With its powerful creep and short turning ability, the Monarch surprisingly meets every demand, on hills, ditches and in hard or rough soil.

TRACTION—THE ACT OF DRAWING OR PULLING—was definite aim for which the Monarch was designed and built. Its endless track gives supreme traction—more pulling power than a dozen drive wheels can give.

MONARCH TRACKS ARE MADE OF WEAR-RESISTING Manganese steel, and the weight is so evenly distributed over these broad surfaced tracks that it does not pack the ground, inch for inch, any more than the average man's foot does.

We have these tractors pulling road machines in Chester county.

There can be no question but that failure to build the Highway from Chester to Lowryville would be a calamity to so speak. However, there are people in other sections who will be benefited and some of them are wishing that the Lowryville road will not be built. They believe that if the Chester-Lowryville road is not built that they will stand a good chance of having some work done in other sections.

A marriage which surprised a large circle of friends was that of Miss Lavinia Crenshaw, of New City, and Mr. Ralph Mose, of Cherryville, N. C., which was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Gaines, of Allen street, last Thursday evening.

Those who had come to the conclusion that King Winter had passed changed their minds yesterday afternoon when a cold wave struck this section. During the past few days the West has been in the grip of snow storms, which had traffic, etc., tied up. The gale has been moving East for several days and reached here yesterday afternoon. This morning there was a considerable amount of ice. Asheville reported more yesterday afternoon, which melted as soon as it struck the ground.

Collias Cuts the price Wednesday on coats and suit suits and dresses. Hurry up, only Wednesday before we close to see the big league game at 2:30. J. T. Collins' Dept. Store.

Apparently Chester people are satisfied with the census report of 5,857 population as given by the department in Washington, Sunday. Chester's corporate limits only extend one mile from the Court House each direction, and it is estimated that there is something like 3,000 people living in what is known as Chester's suburbs. While The News has no official information on the subject we feel safe in saying that Chester will rank second in population of the towns in the Fifth Congressional District-Rock Hill will be first, with a population of less than 8,500 according to The News' estimate. Rock Hill gets the benefit of a number of cotton mills, which are located within the corporate limits of that town. Chester's gain for the past ten years was 803 or 16.9 per cent.

Buy A Sport coat to wear at the big league game. Special prices before 2:30. Open the game is over. J. T. Collins' Dept. Store.

All Chester boys are interested in the baseball game which will be played in Chester tomorrow afternoon. They are not only interested in the game but they are interested in the history of the players. The Rodman-Brown Company has a nice little booklet which gives the history of a number of well-known baseball players and every teacher in Chester county may secure these booklets for the school boys by calling at the clothing department.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR POPULAR BRIDGE-ELECT

Miss Nell Cogler, whose marriage to J. C. Rogers has been announced for April 27th, was the honoree at a "Miscellaneous Shower" given by Mrs. A. C. Cogler at her home on Wednesday afternoon. The living room was decorated in yellow, lined roses and anemones fern, the dining room in a profusion of crimson roses and in the parlor the color motif was carried out in pink, where bowls of pink roses and ferns completed the decorations.

The guests were made by the hostess and Miss Cogler, and after a social while and a refreshing ice, were invited into the parlor, where Mrs. Cogler explained there would be found a "wishing wheel" perhaps similar in some ways to those to which our grandmothers went when bride-to-be, and which were used to determine some "heart's desire" which was "sure to come true"; and to this well wished Miss Cogler, the present day bride-to-be, was fairly like in appearance, with its dainty decorations in pink and white, and one could imagine that a wish whispered into the well would bring forth results of the enchanted. Miss Cogler had made, but many wishes "came true," as she drew from the "subterranean depths" of this well lovely gifts from the friends present, and for these Miss Cogler expressed hearty thanks and appreciation. The guests were allowed to peep into the well, when there seemed no more wishes for the bride-elect to make and the little "fairy" who had placed the gifts in the bucket as it was sent down from time to time by Miss Cogler, was found to be little Miss Evelyn Cogler, daughter of Dr. A. C. Cogler, age 6 years.

Before the good wishes were expressed by the friends upon departure, a delicious salad course was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. F. I. Robertson and Mrs. B. B. Cogler. The Southern Argus-Brookville Fla.

Ladies, for everything up-to-date in ready-to-wear, come to Rodman-Brown Co.

POST I ELECTS OFFICERS.

Delegates Also Elected to Greenwood Convention—Committee For 1920.

At a meeting of Post I. T. P. A. held Saturday night, April 3rd, at the Chamber of Commerce, the following new officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, J. R. Carson; Vice President, S. THE COTTON PICKER.

It is no use puzzling over why the cotton picking machine prospectuses come along in the Spring. They simply do it. First on hand for the season is the Thurman Company's design, which is of the suction variety, and an improvement over the crude affair that was tried out in Charlotte eight years ago in a cotton patch between the Fran Johnson and D. P. Hatcher lands, on the Stateville road. The pioneer machine was drawn by two mules and was supplied with a couple of lines of hose through which cotton was sucked from the open bolls to a receptacle on the machine. It picked cotton all right, but the processes were slow, including transit of machine and unloading of the filled receptacle. The new affair is run by motor power, has six suction tubes—three on each side—and the cotton tank is emptied in a moment through the blowing-out process. The six nozzle-holders for the Thurman machine do the work of 36 hand-pickers, if we understand the printed literature correctly. Mr. John S. Thurman, inventor of this machine, is the same who first conceived the system of cotton picking by suction, the new machine indicating that he has made good his promise at the experimental work in Charlotte, that by any where the machine could be improved so as to make it a fast, practical and economical picker, and if the price had been indicated by the experimental work in Charlotte, that by any where the machine could be improved so as to make it a fast, practical and economical picker, and if the price had been indicated by the experimental work in Charlotte, that by any where the machine could be improved so as to make it a fast, practical and economical picker.

Mr. Theodore H. Price was still joined to his cotton-picking old when last heard from, and there is a good possibility that Price will be in the Autumn fields with a machine that has been materially improved over early patterns. Some day the inventor will hit upon the right thing, just as surely as they have provided a machine that makes flying about as safe as railroad travel. The "Observer" is still staking its faith on the ultimate cotton-picking machine—Charlotte Observer.

The Temple of Solomon.

In the Holy Land, between the beautiful Tyrolen Valley and the Valley of Jehoshaphat, rises a level spur of plateau. On this commanding height are the ruins of the great Temple of Solomon. This spot is one of extraordinary interest to the whole Christian world, for the famous edifice was erected by the ancient craftsmen of who King Solomon and the two Kings Hiram were the first grand masters.

We are all somewhat familiar with the story of the building of the temple. David was forbidden to erect the structure to be dedicated to the Lord because he had shed so much blood in his wars. So he had to prepare the way for his successors. Then came the wise and mighty Solomon, who planned to erect such a monument to his God as had never before been dreamed of. For this purpose he entered into an agreement with King Hiram whereby the latter furnished cedars—the famous cedars of Lebanon—and skilled workmen to cut them. David had already prepared iron for the nails and joinings; brass in abundance without weight. He had also prepared many heavy stones, and gotten together for this purpose a hundred thousand talents of gold and a thousand thousand talents of silver. So the young King Solomon had no lack of resources or material.

Of the original structure we are told that it was indeed magnificent. It was enclosed by a massive wall. The length of the temple was three score cubits, the breadth twenty and the height thirty. The stone was dressed before its arrival so that the construction of the building was as quiet as possible. The cedar floor was covered with boards of fir. The whole interior, including the cedar wainscot, was covered with gold. No stone was visible in the interior, and the cedar was carved with knobs and open flowers. There was an inner court for the priests and an inner and outer temple, the holy and most holy places. Within the outer were two cherubim, ten cubits in height, with wings measuring ten cubits from tip to tip, all overlaid with gold. Golden vessels and ornaments of all kinds were in abundance. The roof of the various parts of the structure was supported partly by cedar pillars, partly by stone columns.

The surface of the plateau where presented a level spot of sufficient area for the temple, so a large plateau was built up with piers arched over and filled in with stone. This structure still remains with a long, sloping passage to the temple, up which it is supposed that the animals were brought from below for the sacrifice.

Of the rest of the temple the remains are in ruin. The great stones of the foundation wall lie just where the builders placed them, and still bear the craft-marks or directions for placing them. The gates on the south, west and east are still to be seen. The south gate has all the marks of Jewish architecture, but has been Romanized by four white marble columns which stand in the center of which is a column six feet in diameter and twenty-one feet high, with a capital finely sculptured in stone, the entire column being from a single block of limestone. (The eastern gate, called by the Greeks the Golden Gate, is the kept walled up through a superstition on the part of the Mohammedans that the Christians will enter Jerusalem and drive them out. The great wall of the enclosure still remains, as do a flight of steps in front of the Golden Gate, although the latter are buried in rubbish.)

took the name of Springs in Delaware and Bergen's history of King's county confirms this. In the Carolinas, the Springstons were known only by the name of Springs, but the other John, and his sons, John and Richard signed themselves Springsteen to deeds and conveyances until after the Revolution. The name has entirely disappeared in the last two generations.

Derick (or Frederick) was a member of the militia company of Capt. Nathaniel Hazard in Queens county, Long Island, according to statements of his grandson, John Springs (my grandfather). His son John was born in New York, A. D. 1710, and died in 1771. It was about this time that Derick Springsteen moved with his family to Kent county, Delaware, and in 1771, when John grew to manhood and married a Gansaway from Maryland.

Spring Formerly Springsteen.

Following is from the "One Minute Page" of the Charlotte Observer: "Noticing that one of Col. Leroy Springs' mills in South Carolina is called 'The Springsteen,' remarked a mill man of travel, 'asked the significance, recognizing the Spring park, but not the 'best.' I learned from Col. Springs that the name Springs was formerly Springsteen. The Springsteens were from the province of Goelingen, Holland. About 1623, about 30 families, all made their homes on Manhattan Island, later others joined them, and in 1652, we find a list of names which will be recognized as combining much of the present wealthy prominence of New York. Among these names we find those of De Groot, Van Blaker, Vincent, Mollecam, Van Letten, Schermers, Van Alstyne, Van Allen, Vanderbil, Oudekork and others and intermarried with many of these we find the Springsteens. Casper Springsteen died in Holland in 1680. His wife, Gertrude, was an emigrant to America in 1682, with her three sons and one daughter. The sons were Johannes, Metebach and Casper, the daughter, was named Barbara.

Casper Springsteen, son of Casper (who died in Holland) and Gertrude, emigrated to America where the ancestors of the Springs family of North and South Carolina. Casper Springsteen married Catherine Leblie. Their son Casper Joseph Springsteen, married Marj Storm, daughter of Derick Storm, November 1, 1843, in New York. Record in Bergen's history of King's county, New York, page 270.

Derick (or Frederick) Springsteen, son of Jasper Joster Springsteen and Maria Storm, married Gertrude Jasper Joster Springsteen, resided in Brooklyn, then in Newtown, L. I. He died May 17, 1729. His will was proved in 1729. Prior to this time his son Derick (or Frederick) has moved to Kent county, Delaware. His wife's name was Gertrude. The son of Derick and Gertrude was Johannes (or John), who married Sophia Gansaway, John was born of Long Island, in Newtown, about the year 1717.

Sophia Gansaway, wife of John John Spring, was a daughter of Col. Nicholas Gansaway and Hester Beeson, of South River, Maryland, 1650. She was a daughter of Henry Gansaway. The Kent county Springsteens.

Teeth.

For something more than a generation Americans have had the reputation of being far in advance of all other peoples in the matter of caring for the teeth. But now it seems our virtues have carried us too far entirely. We have come to lay so much stress upon the teeth as promoters of health or provokers of disease that a prominent dental authority has found it necessary to sound a loud warning hoping to call us to our senses.

Dr. V. B. Fuqua, president of the Chicago Dental Society, delivered himself of this 'blast' at a recent meeting of the Illinois State Dental Society.

There's a wave of tooth-pulling in this country. We must put a stop to it. It's on account of the X-ray, the X-ray is adjustable. You can read anything into it. People get an X-ray taken and rush down and have their teeth pulled. We are fast becoming a nation of dental cripples. Too many teeth are being pulled.

If this is true it would appear to indicate almost a 'reversion to type.' For the art of the dentist comprised little but tooth-pulling, even in this country, fifty years ago. There were, of course, practitioners of the higher dental intricacies in those days, but not many; and most people believed absolutely in the message set forth in the familiar rebuke: 'A king tooth R bad to eat.' So the tenants were usually inconspicuously disposed. But for the past forty years at least the science of dentistry has been making wide and wonderful strides here, and less marked but no less important progress in some European countries. American pioneers, or dental missionaries, were responsible for that, notably Dr. Evans, who made a fortune in Paris, and some lesser lights who practiced in Germany. Continental Europeans have been quicker to take up the care of the teeth than residents in the British Isles, for instance; but America continued to hold a position far in advance.

Of late there has been growing here a theory that because absences are sometimes formed at the roots of ulcerated teeth, setting up a poison which is disseminated through the blood, it is best to have all such suspected teeth pulled out promptly. It is against this practice that Dr. Fuqua now sounds his warning. 'It is sometimes necessary,' says he, 'to pull teeth leaves a mouth somewhat crippled.'

Even badly diseased teeth may be saved, and their usefulness continued and improved by skillful treatment. It is a fact, too—a fact that will not be refuted by radical orthodoxy—that at least one of the human vices is beneficial to the teeth: Men who smoke much have fewer dental troubles than their more virtuous fellows.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

I hereby announce to the voters of the Fifth Congressional district of South Carolina that I am a candidate for re-nomination for Congress in said district, subject to the action of the Democratic primary election; and I take this occasion to thank the voters for their support in the past and to assure them if elected to serve them in the future to the best of my ability as I have endeavored to do in the past.
